ACADEMIC COSTUME

The pageantry and color at commencement exercises reveal a record of academic achievement of the various individuals taking part in the exercises. The following brief description is given so that the audience may more readily interpret such achievement.

In 1895, the Intercollegiate Commission, a group of leading American educators, met at Columbia University to draft a code which would serve to regulate the design of gowns and hoods indicating the various degrees as well as the colors to indicate the various faculties. This code has been adopted by most of the colleges and universities in America and its use has made identification of scholastic honors an immediate activity.

Three types of gowns are indicated by the code. Those worn by the bachelors have long, pointed sleeves. Those worn by masters have long, closed sleeves with the arc of a circle near the bottom. The arm goes through a slit, giving the appearance of short sleeves for the master's gown. Doctor's gowns are faced with velvet. The sleeves are full, round and open with three bars of velvet on each sleeve. The velvet facing of bars on the sleeves may be black or the same color as the binding of the hood.

Hoods are made of material identical with the gown and are lined in the official academic color of the institution conferring the degree. If the institution has more than one color, the chevron is used to introduce the second color. Colored velvet or velveteen binds the hoods and indicates the department or faculty to which the degree pertains.

Historical associations of color have been continued to signify the various faculties. Arts and letters can be recognized by the white, taken from the traditional white fur trimming of the Oxford and Cambridge Bachelor of Arts hoods. Red, long traditional of the church, indicates theology. The royal purple of the King's court signifies law. The green of medicinal herbs immediately identifies a medical degree. Philosophy is signified by the color of wisdom and truth, blue. Because through research untold wealth has been released to the world, science is identified by golden yellow. Oxford pink indicates music, and russet brown, the color of dress worn by ancient English foresters, indicates forestry.

The color of the velvet of the hood is distinctive of the subject to which the degree pertains. For example, the trimming for the degree of Master of Science in Agriculture should be maize, representing agriculture, rather than golden yellow, representing science.

At Michigan State University, it is customary to identify the bachelors graduating from the different departments of study by tassels of the official department color as established by the Intercollegiate Code.

MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY

Michigan State University, one of the leading land-grant universities and the first agricultural college in America, strives for excellence in affording liberal and practical education for its students in a broad range of human endeavor.

MSU also serves people of the state, nation and world through its numerous research, extension and international programs.

Now in its 120th year, Michigan State University has grown from three buildings and six faculty members to one of the largest universities in the nation. It has more than 3,000 faculty engaged in teaching, research and public service, 409 campus buildings, and more than 5,100 acres of land of which 2,010 acres are in existing or planned campus development.

Founded in 1855 to educate youth for the major occupation of that day — farming — MSU has broadened its offerings to meet the educational needs of today. The University now has the School for Advanced Graduate Studies and 17 colleges — Agriculture and Natural Resources, Arts and Letters, Business, Communication Arts, Education, Engineering, Human Ecology, Human Medicine, James Madison, Justin S. Morrill, Lyman J. Briggs, Natural Science, Osteopathic Medicine, Social Science, University College, Urban Development, and Veterinary Medicine. Some 165 programs of instruction are available to undergraduates; 76 departments offer graduate studies.

MSU is unique nationally in that the Colleges of Human Medicine, Osteopathic Medicine, and Veterinary Medicine are located on the single campus.

The Honors College, which enables superior undergraduate students to waive normal graduation requirements and undertake individual programs, attracts many of the nation's finest young scholars. Michigan State University also is a prominent sponsor of the National Merit Scholarship Program, comprised of an unusually select group of scholars.

One of the many innovations in higher education made by Michigan State University is its system of academic-residence halls. Incorporation of classrooms and faculty offices with living, dining and recreational facilities has given these giant dormitories a stimulating academic environment. Each of these nine halls is the center of curricular and noncurricular activities, creating a "college within a college" atmosphere.

The "small college within the larger university" concept was introduced at MSU by the establishment of the Justin S. Morrill College, which offers a limited enrollment liberal education program with an international emphasis. The concept was expanded by the establishment and opening of the James Madison College and the Lyman J. Briggs College. James Madison offers a curriculum for the study of public policy problems within the framework of the social sciences and related disciplines. Lyman Briggs makes available a liberal curriculum for students especially interested in science and mathematics.

More than 40,000 students attend the University in East Lansing, about 85 percent are from Michigan, some 8,000 are at the graduate level, and there is an enrollment of approximately 1,000 foreign students.

In the land-grant tradition it pioneered, Michigan State University is concerned with research and service as well as teaching. All colleges and the Agricultural Experiment Station are engaged in a wide range of research. Approximately 3,000 individual projects are in process. The University's research tools include the Control Data 6500 computer, a cyclotron of the sector-focused type capable of accelerating protons to 50 MeV (60,000 miles per second), and the MSU Observatory which houses a 24-inch reflecting telescope, a computer and related equipment. Modern facilities include the following buildings: chemistry, biochemistry, psychology research, veterinary medicine, plant science research, natural resources, food science, pesticide research, and life sciences.

Through an agreement with the Atomic Energy Commission, MSU has become a national center for basic research on plants and their reactions to radiation; involved is a $2 million building, a staff of approximately 90 persons and an annual budget of approximately $1 million.

Benefits of the University are brought to every county in Michigan by the Cooperative Extension Service and the Continuing Education Service. Their programs, on and off campus, provide a wide range of technical information and formal course work for hundreds of thousands of Michigan citizens. The Kellogg Center for Continuing Education, one of the finest conference centers in the nation, annually hosts nearly 50,000 adults who come to the campus for some 600 conferences and other educational meetings.

In broadening the scope of educational opportunity, MSU is building on its long experience in continuing education to develop a Lifelong Education Program which would offer University resources to persons who are educationally or economically excluded from the traditional campus programs; to those who seek new skills or wish to update present skills; and to those who wish through education to make their leisure time more productive. The Program also would enable the University to cooperate with local communities in assessing, developing, and expanding their continuing education projects.

Michigan State University's land-grant concept of service is international. Supported by grants from the federal government and private foundations, Michigan State University maintains research and educational assistance projects in Asia and the Far East, Africa and the Near East, Central and South America, and Europe. International projects have given many faculty members overseas experience, adding a new dimension to their teaching.

With more than a century of educational achievement behind it, Michigan State University continues to apply its academic and physical resources to the problems of today and the challenges of the future.

HONORARY DEGREES

EDWARD WILLIAM BROOKE

In the progress of your outstanding career as a lawyer and statesman, you have made many contributions to the well-being of the nation and its people. As the Attorney General of Massachusetts and later as U.S. Senator from that state, you have been entrusted with many important responsibilities, and you have fulfilled them with determination and a constant devotion to social progress. You have eloquently affirmed and defended our national integrity and the principles of liberty and human dignity, not only in the deliberations of the U.S. Congress, but in forums and conferences both in this country and abroad. In such endeavors as your service on the Kerner Commission on civil disorder, as an advocate of the open housing provisions of the 1968 Civil Rights Bill, and as a member of the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission, you have revealed yourself as a man of intellectual distinction and unfailing humanity and patriotism. Besides your conscientious service to the nation, you have given freely of your time and energy to civic projects and the advancement of the arts. Because of your dedication to human rights and your sustained faith in the enduring values of our American environment, Michigan State University is pleased to grant you the degree of Doctor of Laws.

BRUCE CATTON

Your illustrious career as a journalist, editor and historian has brought you widespread recognition. Your emergence as a journalist in Cleveland and Boston, and your years as an information officer with the U.S. Department of Commerce, were preceded by a boyhood in Michigan and your attendance at Benzonia Academy near Crystal Lake. Your success in life has honored your native state as well as all those academies dotting America that have brought opportunity to ambitious youth. In your brilliant series of books on the U.S. Civil War, you have combined meticulous scholarship with a style and wisdom which gave us new meanings and deeper insight into the American experience. In 1954 you won the Pulitzer Prize for A Stillness at Appomattox, which drew attention to your distinctive early works and attracted an enthusiastic readership for the many superb volumes that followed. As both journalist and historian you have brought to the editor's chair of American Heritage qualities making it one of the great educational ventures in the humanities. You have been commissioned by the American Association for State and Local History under a grant provided by the National Endowment for the Humanities to write a history of Michigan as part of the nation's bicentennial celebration. Because of your dedication to illuminating the American past and the valuable contributions you have made and are continuing to make to the historian's art, Michigan State University is pleased to grant you the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters.

HONORARY DEGREES

EZRA LEVIN

In the six decades since your graduation from this university, you have followed a distinguished career as a scientist, business leader and philanthropist. Through your initiative and far-sighted view of human health problems, you in 1933 founded the VioBin Corporation, which has had continuous growth and importance in developing ethylene dichloride extraction methods for removing oils from various substances such as wheat germ and fish products. A major result of your successful experimentation is the production of high quality protein food supplements at a cost considerably less than any methods previously known. Another of your noteworthy accomplishments is the development of Viokase, an important enzyme preparation which has saved the lives of many children throughout the world. Your industrial leadership has been accompanied by a compassionate spirit expressed in your generous gifts for the treatment of cystic fibrosis and to other causes. In recognition of the honor which you have brought to yourself and this institution, and your many contributions to our human welfare, Michigan State University is pleased to grant you the degree of Doctor of Laws.

DIXY LEE RAY

During your unusual career as a scientist, educator and government administrator, you have performed a variety of tasks with great distinction. As a marine biologist at the University of Washington, you became a widely recognized authority on marine invertebrates. As director of the Pacific Science Center in Seattle and later as a consultant to the National Science Foundation, you displayed fine qualities of leadership and a keen insight into matters of science policy. Since your appointment as the first woman on the Atomic Energy Commission, and especially since your rise to the chairmanship of that important body, you have become known throughout America as a wise and dedicated administrator whose forceful, creative actions have had a strong impact on the solution of our energy problems. In dealing with atomic and other energy questions, you have kept a sane balance between our need for improving the efficiency of energy production and utilization and our need for preserving and protecting our human environment. Because of your intelligent leadership of our national program of energy research and development, and your continuing commitment as an educator and scientist to the welfare of all your fellow citizens, Michigan State University is pleased to grant you the degree of Doctor of Laws.

DISTINGUISHED ALUMNI AWARDS

ROBERT L. EWIGLEBEN

Class of 1952, M.A., 1956, Ph.D., 1959. President of Ferris State College, Big Rapids, Michigan. Dr. Ewigleben has served as the twelfth president of Ferris State since 1971, and previously held key positions in California and Indiana. At Ferris State College, Dr. Ewigleben has considerably strengthened the institution's public service role by inviting community residents to use college facilities, by providing a series of programs which offer significant service outside the academic framework, and by urging faculty, staff and students to support community endeavors. In 1968, he became president of the largest of California's two-year community colleges, the College of San Mateo, where he was credited with creating a Community Services Division to better coordinate and expand the diverse cultural and specialized programs offered in the community. Prior to that, he had been dean for administrative affairs at Humboldt State College, also in California, where he was cited for his role in the development of that college's public service function, including the creation of a Center for Community Development. Before going West, he was dean and director of the Fort Wayne branch of Purdue University and assistant director of the Purdue University Indianapolis campus. A native of Lansing, Dr. Ewigleben served as superintendent of schools at Crystal, Michigan from 1956 to 1958 and previously taught science and mathematics in the Crosswell and Montrose public schools.

MARGARET ELIZABETH STEELE FOERCH

Class of 1943. Volunteer and Homemaker. Able and tireless in service to her state, local and national community for the past thirty years, Ms. Foerch has been praised by one official in these words: "I don't know when I've encountered a more efficient, effective, reliable and intelligent volunteer in any setting in any part of the United States." A former therapeutic dietitian at Saint Mary's Hospital in Detroit, she has served as president of the Michigan League of Women Voters, 1965-1969, and is a member of the Dearborn Board of Education and the Board of Trustees of Henry Ford Community College. In addition, Ms. Foerch has served as a member of the Michigan Human Resources Council, the Governor's Special Commission on Urban Problems, the Citizens Advisory Commission for the Michigan Board of Education School Finance Study, the Michigan Secretary of State's Nonpartisan Election Study Commission, the Michigan Comprehensive State Health Planning Advisory Council, and was chairperson of the Michigan Advisory Board for Institutional Health Care Provider Price Review. She is a member of the Governor's Commission on Educational Reform and the State Board of Ethics. Ms. Foerch is listed in Who's Who of American Women.

DISTINGUISHED ALUMNI AWARDS

JOHN A. MEYERS

Class of 1951. Vice president of Time, Inc. and publisher of Sports Illustrated. A graduate of the School of Journalism, Mr. Meyers joined Time, Inc. as an advertising salesman for Time magazine in Cleveland in 1955. He was named Manager of the Cleveland sales office in 1960, became Manager of the Chicago office in 1963, and Director of sales for New York in 1964. In February 1968, he was appointed U.S. Sales Director, and in June of that year became Worldwide Advertising Sales Director, responsible for Time's 32 advertising sales offices around the world. He was appointed Associate Publisher and Director of Advertising Sales for Time in June of 1972, and Vice President of Time, Inc. a month later, and in September of that year became publisher of Sports Illustrated. Mr. Meyers began his career in advertising with McCann-Erickson Advertising agency, and prior to joining Time he was a member of the sales staff of Curtis Publishing Company in Chicago. He is also a graduate of the Advanced Business Course (Arden House) at Columbia University. During the Korean War he served on active duty with the Marine Corps as a Second Lieutenant and was awarded the Purple Heart, in addition to several other military honors.

DEAN E. RICHARDSON

Class of 1950. Chairman of the Board of Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit and Manufacturers National Corporation and Chief Executive Officer of both organizations. Mr. Richardson began his banking career in 1953 with Industrial National Bank of Detroit and became associated with Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit in 1955 when the two banks consolidated. He became an officer in 1959, Vice President in 1962, Vice President-Administration in 1964, Senior Vice President in 1966, Executive Vice President in 1967, a Director in 1968, President in November 1969, Chief Executive Officer in March 1973, and Chairman of the Board in October 1973. In addition, Mr. Richardson is a director of R. P. Scherer Corporation; Manufacturers-Detroit International Corporation; Graham Mortgage Corporation; Delta Panamerica, S.A.; ADELA Investment Company, Luxembourg, and Director and Vice Chairman of Atlantic International Bank of London. Heavily involved in community and service organizations, Mr. Richardson is a director of Detroit Renaissance, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, the Detroit Economic Club and the Police Athletic League. He is also Vice President and member of the Executive Committee of the Detroit Area Council of Boy Scouts of America and a member of the Detroit Institute of Arts Founders Society. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan Law School and a past president of the MSU College of Business Alumni Association.
