ACADEMIC COSTUME

The pageantry and color at commencement exercises reveal a record of academic achievement of the various individuals taking part in the exercises. The following brief description is given so that the audience may more readily interpret such achievement.

In 1895, the Intercollegiate Commission, a group of leading American educators, met at Columbia University to draft a code which would serve to regulate the design of gowns and hoods indicating the various degrees as well as the colors to indicate the various faculties. This code has been adopted by most of the colleges and universities in America and its use has made identification of scholastic honors an immediate activity.

Three types of gowns are indicated by the code. Those worn by the bachelors have long, pointed sleeves. Those worn by masters have long, closed sleeves with the arc of a circle near the bottom. Doctor's gowns are faced with velvet. The sleeves are full, round and open with three bars of velvet on each sleeve. The velvet facing of bars on the sleeves may be black or the same color as the binding of the hood.

Hoods are made of material identical with the gown and are lined in the official academic color of the institution conferring the degree. If the institution has more than one color, the chevron is used to introduce the second color. Colored velvet or velveteen binds the hoods and indicates the department or faculty to which the degree pertains.

Historical associations of color have been continued to signify the various faculties. Arts and letters can be recognized by the white, taken from the traditional white fur trimming of the Oxford and Cambridge Bachelor of Arts hoods. Red, long traditional of the church, indicates theology. The royal purple of the King's court signifies law. The green of medicinal herbs immediately identifies a medical degree. Philosophy is signified by the color of wisdom and truth, blue. Because through research untold wealth has been released to the world, science is identified by golden yellow. Oxford pink indicates music, and russet brown, the color of dress worn by ancient English foresters, indicates forestry.

The color of the velvet of the hood is distinctive of the subject to which the degree pertains. For example, the trimming for the degree of Master of Science in Agriculture should be maize, representing agriculture, rather than golden yellow, representing science.

At Michigan State University, it is customary to identify the bachelors graduating from the different departments of study by tassels of the official department color as established by the Intercollegiate Code.

MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY

Michigan State University, one of the leading land-grant universities and the first agricultural college in America, strives for excellence in affording liberal and practical education for its students in a broad range of human endeavor.

MSU also serves people of the state, nation and world through its numerous research, extension and international programs.

Now in its 121st year, Michigan State University has grown from three buildings and six faculty members to one of the largest universities in the nation. It has more than 3,000 faculty engaged in teaching, research and public service, 409 campus buildings, and more than 5,100 acres of land of which 2,010 acres are in existing or planned campus development.

Founded in 1855 to educate youth for the major occupation of that day — farming — MSU has broadened its offerings to meet the educational needs of today. The University now has a Graduate School and 17 colleges — Agriculture and Natural Resources, Arts and Letters, Business, Communication Arts, Education, Engineering, Human Ecology, Human Medicine, James Madison, Justin S. Morrill, Lyman J. Briggs, Natural Science, Osteopathic Medicine, Social Science, University College, Urban Development, and Veterinary Medicine. Some 165 programs of instruction are available to undergraduates; 76 departments offer graduate studies.

MSU is unique nationally in that the Colleges of Human Medicine, Osteopathic Medicine, and Veterinary Medicine are located on the single campus.

The Honors College, which enables superior undergraduate students to waive normal graduation requirements and undertake individual programs, attracts many of the nation's finest young scholars. Michigan State University also is a prominent sponsor of the National Merit Scholarship Program, comprised of an unusually select group of scholars.

One of the many innovations in higher education made by Michigan State University is its system of academic-residence halls. Incorporation of classrooms and faculty offices with living, dining and recreational facilities has given these giant dormitories a stimulating academic environment. Each of these nine halls is the center of curricular and noncurricular activities, creating a "college within a college" atmosphere.

The "small college within the larger university" concept was introduced at MSU by the establishment of the Justin S. Morrill College, which offers a limited enrollment liberal education program with an international emphasis. The concept was expanded by the establishment and opening of the James Madison College and the Lyman J. Briggs College. James Madison offers a curriculum for the study of public policy problems within the framework of the social sciences and related disciplines. Lyman Briggs makes available a liberal curriculum for students especially interested in science and mathematics.

Today, more than 43,000 students attend the University at East Lansing. About 85 percent are from Michigan; the remainder includes nearly 1,200 foreign students from 80 countries.

In the land-grant tradition it pioneered, Michigan State University is concerned with research and service as well as teaching. All colleges and the Agricultural Experiment Station are engaged in a wide range of research. Approximately 3,000 individual projects are in process. The University's research tools include the Control Data 6500 computer, a cyclotron of the sector-focused type capable of accelerating protons to 50 MeV (60,000 miles per second), and the MSU Observatory which houses a 24-inch reflecting telescope, a computer and related equipment. Modern facilities include the following buildings: chemistry, biochemistry, psychology research, veterinary medicine, plant science research, natural resources, food science, pesticide research, and life sciences.

Through an agreement with the Atomic Energy Commission, MSU has become a national center for basic research on plants and their reactions to radiation; involved is a $2 million building, a staff of approximately 90 persons and an annual budget of approximately $1 million.

Benefits of the University are brought to every county in Michigan by the Cooperative Extension Service and the Continuing Education Service. Their programs, on and off campus, provide a wide range of technical information and formal course work for hundreds of thousands of Michigan citizens. The Kellogg Center for Continuing Education, one of the finest conference centers in the nation, annually hosts nearly 50,000 adults who come to the campus for some 600 conferences and other educational meetings.

In broadening the scope of educational opportunity, MSU is building on its long experience in continuing education to develop a Lifelong Education Program which will offer University resources to persons who are educationally or economically excluded from the traditional campus programs; to those who seek new skills or wish to update present skills; and to those who wish through education to make their leisure time more productive. The Program also will enable the University to cooperate with local communities in assessing, developing, and expanding their continuing education projects.

Michigan State University's land-grant concept of service is international. Supported by grants from the federal government and private foundations, Michigan State University maintains research and educational assistance projects on a world-wide basis. International projects have given many faculty members overseas experience, adding a new dimension to their teaching.

With more than a century of educational achievement behind it, Michigan State University continues to apply its academic and physical resources to the problems of today and the challenges of the future.

HONORARY DEGREES

WILBUR J. COHEN

Your distinguished career as an educator and public servant has taken its direction from your exceptional knowledge and keen insight as a social scientist, and your unselfish energies in behalf of your fellow citizens. Through your devotion to the welfare of the common men and women of America, you have contributed notably to our social progress. During your two decades with the Social Security Administration, you assisted in drafting the original Social Security Act and served with great skill and effectiveness as a technical adviser on problems of research and program development. Your excellent services to the national government included membership on many commissions and other groups, such as the President's Task Force on Health and Social Security, and your influential role in bringing about major legislation such as the Medicare Amendment. As Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare you performed the most complex duties with uncommon distinction. Your record as a teacher and Dean of the School of Education at the University of Michigan is marked by the same competence and leadership that have distinguished all your undertakings. Because of the valuable contributions which you have made to the advancement of educational and social life in America, Michigan State University is pleased to grant you the degree of Doctor of Laws.

KATHARINE GRAHAM

Your career as a journalist has been an exemplary one, marked by integrity, courage and the search for truth regardless of its consequences. During your years as a reporter and editor, and now especially as chairman of the board and chief executive officer of the Washington Post Company, and publisher of one of the nation's major newspapers, the Washington Post, you have had a wide and beneficial influence on modern journalism. You have left the imprint of your good judgment, your engaging personality, and your dedication to protection of the form of government which the authors of our Constitution intended. Through your penetrating insight into the meaning of human affairs, you have successfully met the special challenges of an important journal in an important city. Both as a newspaper executive and a responsible citizen you have shown great concern for the freedom of the press and the right of honest inquiry which are essential to the fabric of our democracy. As a businesswoman, you have successfully managed and continued to build a remarkable communications amalgamation of newspapers, a national weekly news-magazine and television and radio stations. In recognition of the important contributions which you have made to the advancement of your profession and to the cultural and social life in America, Michigan State University is pleased to grant you the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters.

HONORARY DEGREES

PHILIP HANDLER

In the course of your outstanding career as a biochemist, educator and administrator, you have received widespread recognition for your notable contributions to knowledge and the welfare of your fellow man. You have served as an articulate and persuasive spokesman for science, demonstrating unusual familiarity with the social and political mechanisms through which science can work for the betterment of man. Your success has been widely commended by your colleagues in private and public life, who have entrusted you with leadership in professional organizations and scientific enterprises, culminating in your present position as president of the National Academy of Sciences. During your many years in the laboratories and classrooms of Duke University, you have been a dedicated teacher, bringing wisdom and insight into the lives of your students. You have also served with distinction as a consultant and advisor to many federal agencies, including the National Science Foundation, the Atomic Energy Commission and the President's Science Advisory Committee. Because of your exceptional leadership in the advancement of science and your humanity in laboring so diligently for the welfare of society, Michigan State University is pleased to grant you the degree of Doctor of Science.

GUSTAVO DE SA E SILVA

In the years since your graduation from Michigan State University in the field of Business Administration, you have followed a remarkable career in education in your native Brazil. Since 1953, when the cooperative efforts of the American and Brazilian governments, the Vargas Foundation and this university established a School of Business Administration in São Paulo, Brazil, you have worked diligently to make it one of the best institutions of its kind in Latin America. Its fine reputation affirms not only your own success, but that of Michigan State's program in international education in cooperation with our Brazilian colleagues. After you became director of the Business School, and without the advantage of further American assistance, you gave imaginative and effective leadership to a unique graduate program to train professional staff in institutions in Brazil and other countries. Your accomplishments have been made despite major problems of social change in Latin America, especially in higher education. Because of your important part in the success of your alma mater's international dimension and your continuing devotion to the land grant philosophy of education in your own country, Michigan State University is pleased to grant you the degree of Doctor of Laws.

DISTINGUISHED ALUMNI AWARDS

GEORGE RYOICHI ARIYOSHI

Class of 1949. Statesman. Lawyer. Politician. Governor of Hawaii. The first American of Japanese ancestry to become chief executive of one of the United States, he has never lost an election in his twenty-one-year political career. In 1954, at age twenty-eight, he became the youngest member of the Islands' Legislature. Since then he has been the cutting edge of Hawaii's modern "political revolution." He won nine consecutive elections, including races for the State Senate, as delegate to the Constitutional Convention, and from 1970-74, as Lieutenant Governor to Governor John A. Burns. When Governor Burns became ill, Mr. Ariyoshi served the last fifteen months of the term as acting governor. Last year he was elected to the governor's office in his own right. During World War II he served as intelligence interpreter in U.S.-occupied Japan, the native home of his parents. After his undergraduate career at Michigan State he obtained a law degree from the University of Michigan.

WARREN W. BRANDT

Class of 1944. Scholar. Academic leader. Administrator. President of Southern Illinois University at Carbondale. He received his Ph.D. in analytical chemistry in 1949 from the University of Illinois. He was a Guggenheim Fellow at Oxford University, England, in 1958. He began his distinguished academic career as a chemistry instructor at Purdue University in 1949, rising to department chairman by 1959. From 1961 to 1963 he was at Kansas State University, serving his last two years as associate dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. From 1963 to 1969 he became dean of the graduate school, then vice president of academic affairs, and then executive vice president of Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University. In 1969 Dr. Brandt became the first president of Virginia Commonwealth University, the largest state-supported institution of that state. He was named president of Southern Illinois University in 1974.

THE CANDIDATES FOR DEGREES

1975 CLASS ROSTER

This includes the names of candidates for degrees from June through August, 1975.

June candidates are listed by the Graduate School and by major within each college. The colleges are arranged in alphabetical order.

August candidates appear at the conclusion of the listings for the Graduate School and each college.

In the 1975 fall term Commencement Program, August degree recipients will appear by major, degree, and college. Earned honors will be designated for undergraduates. Dissertation titles and major professors will appear for doctoral graduates.
