ACADEMIC COSTUME

The pageantry and color at commencement exercises reveal a record of academic achievement of the various individuals taking part in the exercises. The following brief description is given so that the audience may more readily interpret such achievement.

In 1895, the Intercollegiate Commission, a group of leading American educators, met at Columbia University to draft a code which would serve to regulate the design of gowns and hoods indicating the various degrees as well as the colors to indicate the various faculties. This code has been adopted by most of the colleges and universities in America and its use has made identification of scholastic honors an immediate activity.

Three types of gowns are indicated by the code. Those worn by the bachelors have long, pointed sleeves. Those worn by masters have long, closed sleeves with the arc of a circle near the bottom. Doctor's gowns are faced with velvet. The sleeves are full, round and open with three bars of velvet on each sleeve. The velvet facing of bars on the sleeves may be black or the same color as the binding of the hood.

Hoods are made of material identical with the gown and are lined in the official academic color of the institution conferring the degree. If the institution has more than one color, the chevron is used to introduce the second color. Colored velvet or velveteen binds the hoods and indicates the department or faculty to which the degree pertains.

Historical associations of color have been continued to signify the various faculties. Arts and letters can be recognized by the white, taken from the traditional white fur trimming of the Oxford and Cambridge Bachelor of Arts hoods. Red, long traditional of the church, indicates theology. The royal purple of the King's court signifies law. The green of medicinal herbs immediately identifies a medical degree. Philosophy is signified by the color of wisdom and truth, blue. Because through research untold wealth has been released to the world, science is identified by golden yellow. Oxford pink indicates music, and russet brown, the color of dress worn by ancient English foresters, indicates forestry.

The color of the velvet of the hood is distinctive of the subject to which the degree pertains. For example, the trimming for the degree of Master of Science in Agriculture should be maize, representing agriculture, rather than golden yellow, representing science.

At Michigan State University, it is customary to identify the candidates graduating from the different departments of study by tassels of the official department color as established by the Intercollegiate Code.

MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY

Michigan State University, one of the leading land-grant universities and the first agricultural college in America, strives for excellence in affording liberal and practical education for its students in a broad range of human endeavor.

MSU also serves people of the state, nation and world through its numerous research, extension and international programs.

Now in its 123rd year, Michigan State University has grown from three buildings and six faculty members to one of the largest universities in the nation. It has more than 3,000 faculty/staff engaged in teaching, research and public service, 386 campus buildings, and more than 5,100 acres of land of which 2,010 acres are in existing or planned campus development.

Today, more than 44,000 students attend the University at East Lansing. About 85 percent are from Michigan; the remainder includes more than 1,200 foreign students from 85 countries.

Founded in 1855 to educate youth for the major occupation of that day — farming — MSU has broadened its offerings to meet the educational needs of today. The University now has a Graduate School and 17 colleges — Agriculture and Natural Resources, Arts and Letters, Business, Communication Arts and Sciences, Education, Engineering, Human Ecology, Human Medicine, James Madison, Justin S. Morrill, Lyman J. Briggs, Natural Science, Osteopathic Medicine, Social Science, University College, Urban Development, and Veterinary Medicine. Some 200 programs of instruction are available to undergraduates; 76 departments offer graduate studies.

MSU has embarked on a $17 million privately-funded capital program to provide greater academic excellence in four key areas. The objectives of the Program are:

- To build and equip a new major performing arts center;

- To complete the first construction phase of a new museum building;

- To strengthen the present Library and to establish a "Library of Tomorrow" on campus; and

- To endow a number of faculty chairs in pivotal academic disciplines.

The campaign is under the direction of the Office of University Development.

MSU is unique nationally in that the Colleges of Human Medicine, Osteopathic Medicine, and Veterinary Medicine are located on the single campus.

The Honors College, which enables superior undergraduate students to waive normal graduation requirements and undertake individual programs, attracts many of the nation's finest young scholars. Michigan State University also is a prominent sponsor of the National Merit Scholarship Program, comprised of an unusually select group of scholars.

One of the many innovations in higher education made by Michigan State University is its system of academic-residence halls. Incorporation of classrooms and faculty offices with living, dining and recreational facilities has given these giant dormitories a stimulating academic environment. Each of these nine halls is the center of curricular and noncurricular activities, creating a "college within a college" atmosphere.

The concept of the "small college within the larger university" was introduced at MSU by the establishment of the Justin S. Morrill College, and was expanded by the establishment and opening of the James Madison College and the Lyman J. Briggs College. James Madison offers a curriculum for the study of public policy problems within the framework of the social sciences and related disciplines. Lyman Briggs makes available a liberal curriculum for students especially interested in science and mathematics.

In the land-grant tradition it pioneered, Michigan State University is concerned with research and service as well as teaching. All colleges and the Agricultural Experiment Station are engaged in a wide range of research. Approximately 3,000 individual projects are in process. The University's research tools include the Control Data 6500 computer, a cyclotron of the sector-focused type capable of accelerating protons to 50 MeV (60,000 miles per second), and the MSU Observatory which houses a 24-inch reflecting telescope, a computer and related equipment. Facilities are acquired and continually adapted to strengthen the research capabilities of the University.

Through an agreement with the Energy Research Development Administration, MSU has become a national center for basic research on plants and their reactions to radiation; involved is a $2 million building, a staff of approximately 90 persons and an annual budget of approximately $1 million.

Benefits of the University are brought to every county in Michigan by the Cooperative Extension Service and the Continuing Education Service. Their programs, on and off campus, provide a wide range of technical information and formal course work for hundreds of thousands of Michigan citizens. The Kellogg Center for Continuing Education, one of the finest conference centers in the nation, annually hosts nearly 50,000 adults who come to the campus for some 600 conferences and other educational meetings.

In broadening the scope of educational opportunity, the University is responding to the growing needs of non-traditional students who, for a variety of reasons, have interrupted or delayed their college studies. MSU's Lifelong Education Programs and Continuing Education Service augment credit and non-credit programs for work toward degrees, to update current skills, to meet new government or professional requirements, to change career patterns, or to make leisure time more productive.

Michigan State University's land-grant concept of service is international. Supported by grants from the federal government and private foundations, Michigan State University maintains research and educational assistance projects on a world-wide basis. International projects have given many faculty members overseas experience, adding a new dimension to their teaching.

With more than a century of educational achievement behind it, Michigan State University continues to apply its academic and physical resources to the problems of today and the challenges of the future.

HONORARY DEGREES

SARAH CALDWELL

You have contributed your genius, your energy, and your resourcefulness to the creation of distinguished opera in the United States of America. After study at the University of Arkansas and as a student of violin and viola at the New England Conservatory of Music, you were a member of the faculty of Tanglewood and of Boston University, where you developed an opera workshop into a department of musical theatre. Lacking a purpose-built auditorium, you have, as Director of the Opera Company of Boston, presented brilliant opera productions in what had been a vaudeville and motion picture theatre. You have premiered works by Mahler, Berlioz, Schoenberg, and Rameau, and you have merged your talent with that of such performers as Joan Sutherland and Beverly Sills. You have been acclaimed for your conducting at the New York Philharmonic and at the Metropolitan Opera as well as for your conducting in Boston and across the nation. Noted for your painstaking research into musical and historical detail — and for your long rehearsals — your commitment has been to a standard no lower than perfection. For your outstanding individual achievement in the field of music, and for your service to the development of opera in America, Michigan State University is pleased to grant you the degree of Doctor of Fine Arts.

JAMES HENRY QUELLO

Your public-spirited achievement in radio broadcasting and in charitable and governmental roles has brought distinction to your name and has contributed to both racial understanding and the quality of urban life. Your career in broadcasting began on this campus in 1935 when, already editor of the State News, you turned to broadcast journalism as the first newscaster for WKAR. After long service as an officer during World War II you entered radio work in Detroit, first for WXYZ, and then for WJR, which you would serve in positions of ever-increasing influence. It was during your tenure at WJR that it genuinely earned its title as the “good will station” with its pioneering minority hiring and programming policies of the 1940’s and the 1950’s. You served both the Detroit Housing and Urban Renewal Commission and the Michigan Veterans Trust Fund for over twenty years; you accepted gubernatorial and mayoral appointments to commissions dealing with major social concerns; and you assisted charitable campaigns of many kinds. In 1974 you were confirmed as a member of the Federal Communications Commission. Holder of a Michigan State University Bachelor of Arts degree, you have been honored with the Outstanding Alumnus Award of the College of Communication Arts and Sciences. In recognition of your service to the communications industry, and to the people of this state and this nation, Michigan State University is pleased to grant you the degree of Doctor of Humanities.

LEMOYNE SNYDER

Your distinguished career in legal medicine and your assistance to victims of injustice through the Court of Last Resort have served this nation in the solution of crime and in the provision of justice to all. Born on this campus, the son of Michigan State University President Jonathan L. Snyder, you graduated from this University in 1919 before attending both the University of Michigan Medical School and the Harvard Medical School. Although in practice as a surgeon, you studied law under highly respected judges, were admitted to the Michigan Bar, and studied legal medicine at the University of Vienna. Founder of the Department of Police Administration at this University, founder of the Michigan Crime Laboratory, lecturer in legal medicine at Harvard, Yale, Michigan State, and at universities across the nation, you joined Erle Stanley Gardner in establishing the Court of Last Resort, which went on to remarkable successes in freeing unjustly imprisoned Americans. Your service to education, through the authorship of a standard text on homicide investigation and through guidance of developing schools of criminal justice, and your service to the development of sophisticated criminal investigation have brought you wide recognition, including Centennial Awards. For your many contributions to the cause of justice, Michigan State University is pleased to award you the degree of Doctor of Laws.
