BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Michigan State University operates under the jurisdiction of a constitutional body known as the Board of Trustees. The eight elected members serve eight-year terms. Two are elected biennially from the state at large.

The President of the University is appointed by the Board and is by constitutional provision the presiding member of the body.

The Board likewise appoints a Secretary and a Treasurer.

The Board has general supervision of the University and the control and direction of all expenditures of University funds.

ACADEMIC COSTUME

The pageantry and color at commencement exercises reveal a record of academic achievement of the various individuals taking part in the exercises. The following brief description is given so that the audience may more readily interpret such achievement.

In 1895, the Intercollegiate Commission, a group of leading American educators, met at Columbia University to draft a code which would serve to regulate the design of gowns and hoods indicating the various degrees as well as the colors to indicate the various faculties. This code has been adopted by most of the colleges and universities in America and its use has made identification of scholastic honors an immediate activity.

Three types of gowns are indicated by the code. Those worn by the bachelors have long, pointed sleeves. Those worn by masters have long, closed sleeves with the arc of a circle near the bottom. Doctor's gowns are faced with velvet. The sleeves are full, round and open with three bars of velvet on each sleeve. The velvet facing of bars on the sleeves may be black or the same color as the binding of the hood.

Hoods are made of material identical with the gown and are lined in the official academic color of the institution conferring the degree. If the institution has more than one color, the chevron is used to introduce the second color. Colored velvet or velveteen binds the hoods and indicates the department or faculty to which the degree pertains.

Historical associations of color have been continued to signify the various faculties. Arts and letters can be recognized by the white, taken from the traditional white fur trimming of the Oxford and Cambridge Bachelor of Arts hoods. Red, long traditional of the church, indicates theology. The royal purple of the King's court signifies law. The green of medicinal herbs immediately identifies a medical degree. Philosophy is signified by the color of wisdom and truth, blue. Because through research untold wealth has been released to the world, science is identified by golden yellow. Oxford pink indicates music, and russet brown, the color of dress worn by ancient English foresters, indicates forestry.

The color of the velvet of the hood is distinctive of the subject to which the degree pertains. For example, the trimming for the degree of Master of Science in Agriculture should be maize, representing agriculture, rather than golden yellow, representing science.

At Michigan State University, it is customary to identify the candidates graduating from the different departments of study by tassels of the official department color as established by the Intercollegiate Code.

MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY

Michigan State University, one of the leading land-grant universities and the first agricultural college in America, strives for excellence in affording liberal and practical education for its students in a broad range of human endeavor.

MSU also serves people of the state, nation and world through its numerous research, extension and international programs.

Now in its 124th year, Michigan State University has grown from three buildings and six faculty members to one of the largest universities in the nation. It has more than 3,000 faculty/staff engaged in teaching, research and public service, 383 campus buildings, and more than 5,100 acres of land of which 2,010 acres are in existing or planned campus development.

Today, more than 43,000 students attend the University at East Lansing. About 85 percent are from Michigan; the remainder includes more than 1,200 foreign students from 93 countries.

Founded in 1855 to educate youth for the major occupation of that day — farming — MSU has broadened its offerings to meet the educational needs of today. The University now has a Graduate School and 17 colleges — Agriculture and Natural Resources, Arts and Letters, Business, Communication Arts and Sciences, Education, Engineering, Human Ecology, Human Medicine, James Madison, Justin S. Morrill, Lyman J. Briggs, Natural Science, Osteopathic Medicine, Social Science, University College, Urban Development, and Veterinary Medicine. Students may choose degree majors in 254 bachelor, 156 master, 125 doctoral, and 3 graduate-professional programs; some 48 nondegree programs also are offered.

MSU has embarked on a $17 million privately-funded capital program to provide greater academic excellence in four key areas. The objectives of the program are:

- To build and equip a new major performing arts center;

- To complete the first construction phase of a new museum building;

- To strengthen the present Library and to establish a "Library of Tomorrow" on campus; and

- To endow a number of faculty chairs in pivotal academic disciplines.

The campaign is under the direction of the Office of University Development.

MSU is unique nationally in that the Colleges of Human Medicine, Osteopathic Medicine, and Veterinary Medicine are located on the single campus.

The Honors College, which enables superior undergraduate students to waive normal graduation requirements and undertake individual programs, attracts many of the nation's finest young scholars. Michigan State University also is a prominent sponsor of the National Merit Scholarship Program, which includes an unusually select group of scholars.

One of the many innovations in higher education made by Michigan State University is its system of academic-residence halls. Incorporation of classrooms and faculty offices with living, dining and recreational facilities has given these large dormitories a stimulating academic environment. Each hall is the center of curricular and noncurricular activities, creating a "college within a college" atmosphere.

The concept of the "small college within the larger university" was introduced at MSU by the establishment of the Justin S. Morrill College, and was expanded by the establishment and opening of the James Madison College and the Lyman J. Briggs College. James Madison offers a curriculum for the study of public policy problems within the framework of the social sciences and related disciplines. Lyman Briggs makes available a liberal curriculum for students especially interested in science and mathematics.

In the land-grant tradition it pioneered, Michigan State University is concerned with research and service as well as teaching. All colleges and the Agricultural Experiment Station are engaged in a wide range of research. Approximately 3,000 individual projects are in process. The University's research tools include: the Control Data 6500 computer; a cyclotron laboratory now containing a sector-focused type cyclotron, and, in the near future, a superconducting cyclotron; and the MSU Observatory which houses a 24-inch reflecting telescope, a computer and related equipment. Facilities are acquired and continually adapted to strengthen the research capabilities of the University.

MSU, conjoined with the U.S. Department of Energy (ERDA) in the Plant Research Laboratory, is a national center for modern experimental plant biology. The Pesticide Research Center presents a model program of multidisciplinary research and teaching of pest management technologies.

Benefits of the University are brought to every county in Michigan by the Cooperative Extension Service and the Continuing Education Service. Their programs, on and off campus, provide a wide range of technical information and formal course work for hundreds of thousands of Michigan citizens. The Kellogg Center for Continuing Education, one of the finest conference centers in the nation, annually hosts nearly 50,000 adults who come to the campus for some 600 conferences and other educational meetings.

In broadening the scope of educational opportunity, the University is responding to the growing needs of non-traditional students who, for a variety of reasons, have interrupted or delayed their college studies. MSU's Lifelong Education Programs and Continuing Education Service augment credit and non-credit programs for work toward degrees, to update current skills, to meet new government or professional requirements, to change career patterns, or to make leisure time more productive.

Michigan State University's land-grant concept of service is international. Supported by grants from the federal government and private foundations, Michigan State University maintains research and educational assistance projects on a world-wide basis. International projects have given many faculty members overseas experience, adding a new dimension to their teaching.

With more than a century of educational achievement behind it, Michigan State University continues to apply its academic and physical resources to the problems of today and the challenges of the future.

HONORARY DEGREES

RICHARD CHATHAM ATKINSON

The respect and confidence placed in you by the scientific community have resulted most appropriately in your appointment as Director of the National Science Foundation, a role in which you have displayed not only a profound comprehension of the nation's needs in scientific research but also a rare ability to articulate those needs. Yourself a researcher and writer of international reputation, you have unselfishly put aside much of your work as an experimental psychologist in order to serve the nation in an area of major concern. After receiving your Bachelor of Philosophy degree from Chicago at the age of nineteen and earning a Doctor of Philosophy degree at Indiana, you soon earned the rank of Professor and Chairman in the Department of Psychology at Stanford University. A former Guggenheim fellow, elected to a wide range of professional and honorary societies in recognition of your work, you are the author of standard texts and pathfinding studies in your field. In recognition of your achievement as a scientist, as an educator, and as an official spokesperson for American research, Michigan State University is pleased to award you the degree of Doctor of Science.

PAUL AUSBORN MILLER

We salute you today both as a nationally recognized leader in the field of higher education and as an old friend and distinguished alumnus. After service in the United States Army Air Force you earned Master of Arts and Doctor of Philosophy degrees here at Michigan State University and then rose through the ranks to the positions of Professor and Provost. From Michigan State you moved to the University of West Virginia as President. Subsequently, you contributed your experience in education to the nation as a whole in the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare before returning to university life as Distinguished Professor of Education and Director of University Planning at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte and as Professor of Adult Education at the North Carolina State University at Raleigh. In 1969 you accepted the post in which you have since served with such remarkable effectiveness and became President of the Rochester Institute of Technology. A highly respected author and researcher, an outstanding administrator, and a member of the Michigan State University community who is both well-remembered and widely-admired, you richly deserve the recognition we offer you today. Michigan State University is therefore pleased to award you the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters.

THE CANDIDATES FOR DEGREES

1978 CLASS ROSTER

This includes the names of candidates for degrees as of the close of the 1978 Fall term, as well as the names of the recipients of the Doctoral, Master's and Baccalaureate degrees at the close of the 1978 Summer term.

Candidates are listed by the Graduate School and by colleges. The colleges are arranged in alphabetical order.

ALMA MATERTraynor

M.S.U., we love thy shadows
When twilight silence falls,
Flushing deep and softly paling
O'er ivy-covered halls.
Beneath the pines we'll gather
To give our faith so true,
Sing our love for Alma Mater
And thy praises, M.S.U.
