ACADEMIC COSTUME

In 1895, the Intercollegiate Commission, a group of leading American educators, introduced an academic costume code which by design of gowns and hoods would indicate the various degrees, and which by colors would identify the various faculties. Three types of gowns are indicated by the code. Those worn by the bachelors have long, pointed sleeves. Those worn by masters have long, closed sleeves with the arc of a circle near the bottom. Doctor's gowns are faced with velvet. The sleeves are full, round and open with three bars of velvet on each sleeve. The velvet facing of bars on the sleeves may be black or the same color as the binding of the hood. Hoods are made of material identical with the gown and are lined in the official academic color of the institution conferring the degree. If the institution has more than one color, the chevron is used to introduce the second color. Colored velvet or velveteen binds the hoods and indicates the department or faculty to which the degree pertains.

The color of the velvet of the hood is distinctive of the subject to which the degree pertains. For example, the trimming for the degree of Master of Science in Agriculture should be maize, representing agriculture, rather than golden yellow, representing science.

At Michigan State University, it is customary to identify the candidates graduating from the different departments of study by tassels of the official department color as established by the Intercollegiate Code.

MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY

Michigan State University, a leading land-grant university and the first agricultural college in America, strives for excellence in providing students a broad curricula of liberal and practical education. MSU also serves people of the state, nation and world through its numerous research, extension and international programs.

Now in its 128th year, Michigan State University has grown from three buildings and six faculty members to one of the largest universities in the nation. It has more than 3,000 faculty/staff engaged in teaching, research and public service, 412 campus buildings, and more than 5,300 acres of land of which some 2,100 acres are in existing or planned campus development. More than 40,000 students now attend the University at East Lansing, of which about 85 percent are from Michigan.

Founded in 1855 to educate youth for the major occupation of that day — farming — MSU has broadened its offerings to meet the educational needs of today. The University now has a Graduate School and 14 colleges — Agriculture and Natural Resources, Arts and Letters, Business, Communication Arts and Sciences, Education, Engineering, Human Ecology, Human Medicine, James Madison, Natural Science, Nursing, Osteopathic Medicine, Social Science, and Veterinary Medicine.

At the center of all major universities is a cluster of disciplines which comprise the liberal arts and sciences. At MSU, this center consists of three colleges — Arts and Letters, Natural Science, and Social Science. Providing outstanding undergraduate and graduate degree programs with majors in traditional disciplines, these colleges also have special programs which enable students to obtain a broad, multi-disciplinary education. In addition, in collaboration with the College of Education, the three colleges prepare students to become teachers in the secondary schools of Michigan and the nation. These colleges touch the lives of all undergraduate students at MSU by providing the general education that constitutes approximately one-quarter of the undergraduate program. The Honors College, which enables superior undergraduate students to waive normal graduation requirements and undertake individual programs, attracts many of the nation's finest young scholars. Michigan State University also is first among public institutions sponsoring National Merit Scholars.

MSU adds to the store of knowledge with a wide array of outstanding research activities which are supported by a multimillion dollar sponsor-funding program. Some major facilities include the Pesticide Research Center, which presents a model program of multidisciplinary research and teaching; the Plant Research Laboratory, operated with the U.S. Department of Energy as a national plant biology center; and the MSU W. K. Kellogg Biological Station which has been designated as a National Research preserve. In collaboration with both the National Science Foundation and the U.S. Department of Energy, the National Superconducting Cyclotron Laboratory at MSU will examine the nuclei of the heaviest of elements.

Benefits of the University are brought to the public by the Agricultural Experiment Station, Lifelong Education Programs, and the Cooperative Extension Service. Their programs provide technical information and formal course work for many Michigan citizens. The Kellogg Center for Continuing Education, one of the finest conference centers in the nation, annually hosts nearly 60,000 adults who come to the campus for some 600 conferences and other educational meetings.

The University's land-grant concept of service is international. Supported by grants from the federal government and private foundations, MSU maintains research and educational assistance projects on a worldwide basis. International projects have given many faculty members overseas experience, adding a new dimension to their teaching.

With more than a century of educational achievement behind it, Michigan State University continues to apply its academic and physical resources to the problems of today and to the challenges of the future.

HONORARY DEGREES

WILLIAM G. MILLIKEN

It is a tribute to your integrity and leadership that, through difficult times, when some of the hardest decisions in the history of the office of Governor of Michigan have been called for, you have continued to command the broad respect of the people of Michigan, who have made you the longest-serving Governor in Michigan history. Your career has revealed that intelligence, honesty, and courage can still insure that public affairs are conducted for the benefit of all the people. A veteran of fifty air combat missions in World War II and holder of the Purple Heart, you, after your graduation from Yale, first exercised your leadership abilities in the business world but soon turned to public service with terms as both State Senator and Lieutenant Governor. While you have been Governor of Michigan since January 1969, your guidance has brought significant innovation in areas so diverse as environmental protection, education, support of the arts, and economic recovery. You have been honored by the American Judicature Society for consistently appointing highly qualified judges to the bench; by Sigma Delta Chi for supporting the public's right to know; by the National Wildlife Federation for an outstanding environmental record; and by your fellow Governors, whom you served as Chairperson of the National Governors' Association and who voted you the most influential Governor in the nation. Even though you have announced an intention to retire as Governor, you have continued to point the way forward to a revitalized Michigan. We shall continue to need your vision and guidance. Now, however, at this point of transition in your distinguished career, and in recognition of your principled devotion to the people and the laws of Michigan and your service to government, education, and the arts, Michigan State University is pleased to award you the degree of Doctor of Laws.

HELEN WALLBANK MILLIKEN

Your leadership in the state and national effort to secure equal rights for women, your sustained work in behalf of the arts and environment in Michigan, and your quiet and unofficial but highly effective involvement in the legislative process, have made you, by virtue of your accomplishments, First Citizen of Michigan. A graduate of Smith College, and a student in Michigan State University's own School of Landscape Architecture, your active concern with horticulture and environment found significant expression in your role in the shaping of Michigan's Environmental Protection Act. Your deep devotion and commitment to the visual and environmental arts has been particularly evident in your work for the Artrain, a brilliantly conceived program to make the arts accessible to all through special exhibits. As co-chairperson of ERAmerica and as delegate to the International Conference on Women, you have been a state and national leader in one of the great historical movements in America. Your membership in the Michigan Committee against Child Abuse and your support of Michigan's landmark domestic violence legislation are evidence of your profound commitment to the protection of the defenseless and underprivileged. For your humanitarian and social concern, for your service to the arts and environment, and in recognition of your courage and leadership, Michigan State University is pleased to award you the degree of Doctor of Humanities.
