ACADEMIC COSTUME

In 1895, the Intercollegiate Commission, a group of leading American educators, introduced an academic costume code which by design of gowns and hoods would indicate the various degrees, and which by colors would identify the various faculties. Three types of gowns are indicated by the code. Those worn by the bachelors have long, pointed sleeves. Those worn by masters have long, closed sleeves with the arc of a circle near the bottom. Doctor's gowns are faced with velvet. The sleeves are full, round and open with three bars of velvet on each sleeve. The velvet facing of bars on the sleeves may be black or the same color as the binding of the hood. Hoods are made of material identical with the gown and are lined in the official academic color of the institution conferring the degree. If the institution has more than one color, the chevron is used to introduce the second color. Colored velvet or velveteen binds the hoods and indicates the department or faculty to which the degree pertains.

The color of the velvet of the hood is distinctive of the subject to which the degree pertains. For example, the trimming for the degree of Master of Science in Agriculture should be maize, representing agriculture, rather than golden yellow, representing science.

At Michigan State University, it is customary to identify the candidates graduating from the different departments of study by tassels of the official department color as established by the Intercollegiate Code.

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE AND NATURAL RESOURCES Maize Forestry, Packaging Russet	COLLEGE OF COMMUNICATION ARTS AND SCIENCES Royal Blue Journalism Crimson Speech Silver Gray	JAMES MADISON COLLEGE Citron

MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY

Michigan State University, a leading land-grant university and the first agricultural college in America, strives for excellence in providing students a broad curricula of liberal and practical education. MSU also serves people of the state, nation and world through its numerous research, extension and international programs.

Now in its 131th year, Michigan State University has grown from three buildings and six faculty members to one of the largest universities in the nation. It has more than 3,000 faculty/staff engaged in teaching, research and public service, 432 campus buildings, and more than 5,200 acres of land, of which some 2,100 acres are in existing or planned campus development. More than 40,000 students now attend the University at East Lansing, of which about 86 percent are from Michigan.

Founded in 1855 to educate youth for the major occupation of that day — farming — MSU has broadened its offerings to meet the educational needs of today. The University now has a Graduate School and 14 colleges — Agriculture and Natural Resources, Arts and Letters, Business, Communication Arts and Sciences, Education, Engineering, Human Ecology, Human Medicine, James Madison, Natural Science, Nursing, Osteopathic Medicine, Social Science, and Veterinary Medicine.

At the center of all major universities is a cluster of disciplines which comprise the liberal arts and sciences. At MSU, this center consists of three colleges — Arts and Letters, Natural Science, and Social Science. Providing outstanding undergraduate and graduate degree programs with majors in traditional disciplines, these colleges also have special programs which enable students to obtain a broad, multidisciplinary education. In addition, in collaboration with the College of Education, the three colleges prepare students to become teachers in the secondary schools of Michigan and the nation. These colleges touch the lives of all undergraduate students at MSU by providing the general education that constitutes approximately one-quarter of the undergraduate program. The Honors College, which enables superior undergraduate students to waive normal graduation requirements and undertake individual programs, attracts many of the nation's finest young scholars. MSU holds the distinction of producing more Rhodes Scholars — a total of thirteen, with ten in the last thirteen years — than any public university in the U.S.; the University also has provided six Marshall Scholarship winners in the last ten years. These British scholarships are two of the most distinguished and prestigious academic awards that an American student can receive. Michigan State University has enrolled more National Merit Scholars in the past 16 years than any other public, four-year university in the nation.

MSU adds to the store of knowledge with a wide array of outstanding research activities which are supported by a multimillion dollar sponsor-funding program. Some major facilities include the Pesticide Research Center, which presents a model program of multidisciplinary research and teaching; the Plant Research Laboratory, operated with the U.S. Department of Energy as a national plant biology center; and the MSU/W. K. Kellogg Biological Station, which has been designated as a National Research Preserve. In collaboration with both the National Science Foundation and the U.S. Department of Energy, the National Superconducting Cyclotron Laboratory at MSU will examine the nuclei of the heaviest of elements.

Benefits of the University are brought to the public by the Agricultural Experiment Station, Lifelong Education Programs, and the Cooperative Extension Service. Their programs provide technical information and formal course work for many Michigan citizens. The Kellogg Center for Continuing Education, one of the finest conference centers in the nation, annually hosts nearly 60,000 adults who come to the campus for some 600 conferences and other educational meetings.

The University's land-grant concept of service is international. Supported by grants from the federal government and private foundations, MSU maintains research and educational assistance projects on a worldwide basis. International projects have given many faculty members overseas experience, adding a new dimension to their teaching.

Michigan State University is a member of the Association of American Universities, National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges, American Council on Education, American Council of Learned Societies, International Association of Universities, Association of Graduate Schools, Council of Graduate Schools, and the Committee on Institutional Cooperation.

HONORARY DEGREE

RICHARD H. AUSTIN

During a career that is a model for distinguished public service, you have influenced people, business, government, and civic affairs in Michigan for more than forty years. As a young man forced by family circumstances to relinquish a track scholarship at Wayne State University, you worked by day in a shoe shop, selling and repairing shoes; by night, you studied accounting at the Detroit Institute of Technology. Your hard work and commitment to success were rewarded in 1941 when you became the first Black Certified Public Accountant in the history of this State. In subsequent years as senior partner of Austin, Washington, and Davenport, you led organizational efforts for numerous philanthropic and civic organizations in Detroit, prompting many citizens to urge you to consider a second career in public service.

In 1961, you were elected a delegate to the Michigan Constitutional Convention, and five years later were elected Wayne County Auditor. Since 1971, you have served with great distinction and national recognition as Michigan's Secretary of State. In addition, you have served many commissions, study groups, councils, and volunteer organizations. A life member of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, you have served as Chair of the Randolph W. Wallace Kidney Research Foundation, Inc., vice president of the United Foundation, and member of the Board of Directors of Detroit Metropolitan Industrial Development Corporation, Environmental Research Institute of Michigan, Harper-Grace Hospitals, Greater Detroit Area Hospital Council, and Detroit Council for Political Education. Your awards include the Outstanding Alumnus Award of the Detroit Institute of Technology, Liberty Bell Award, Builder of Detroit Award, Silver Antelope Award of the Boy Scouts of America, and numerous awards for promotion of traffic safety. Last year you were named Distinguished Professional of the Year by the Michigan Association of Professionals and received the Champion of Safety Award from the Michigan Safety Conference.

Your record as Secretary of State is replete with innovations and accomplishments including policies and procedures that have significantly enhanced driver improvement programs, voter registration efforts, early identification and referral treatment for alcohol and drug abusers, and young driver programs.

As Chair of the Michigan State Safety Commission, you have been a consistent and articulate advocate for a thorough, accountable, and far-reaching traffic safety program in Michigan. You have led the effort for many years to enact safety belt legislation in Michigan, and you have been a catalyst for reforms in child restraint, helmet, and drunk driving legislation.

Because you received the highest number of votes of any State official in the Election of 1982, an election in which you were re-elected Secretary of State for the third time, you have been called Michigan's most popular elected official.

For your extensive contributions to the accounting profession, for your tireless service and commitment to philanthropic organizations, for your innovative reforms as Secretary of State, for your leadership in making Michigan a safe State, and for your example as a model of good citizenship, Michigan State University is proud to award you the degree of Honorary Doctor of Laws.
