ACADEMIC COSTUME

In 1895, the Intercollegiate Commission, a group of leading American educators, introduced an academic costume code which by design of gowns and hoods would indicate the various degrees, and which by colors would identify the various faculties.

Three types of gowns are indicated by the code. Those worn by the bachelors have long, pointed sleeves. Those worn by masters have long, closed sleeves with the arc of a circle near the bottom. Doctor's gowns are faced with velvet. The sleeves are full, round, and open with three bars of velvet on each sleeve. The velvet facing of the bars on the sleeves may be black or the same color as the binding of the hood.

Hoods are made of material identical with the gown and are lined in the official academic color of the institution conferring the degree (e.g., green and white for MSU; burnt orange and white for the University of Texas; blue and gold for UCLA). If the institution has more than one color, the chevron is used to introduce the second color. Colored velvet or velveteen binds the hoods and indicates the department or faculty to which the degree pertains.

The color of the velvet of the hood is distinctive of the subject to which the degree pertains. For example, the trimming for the degree of Master of Science in Agriculture should be maize, representing agriculture, rather than golden yellow, representing science. Generally, the code for the velvet of the hood is the same as listed below for tassels.

At Michigan State University, it is customary to identify the candidates graduating from the different departments of study by tassels of the official department color as established by the Intercollegiate Code.

MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY

Michigan State University, a leading land-grant university and the first agricultural college in America, strives for excellence in providing students a broad curricula of liberal and practical education. MSU also serves people of the state, nation and world through its numerous research, extension, and international programs.

Now in its 135th year, Michigan State University has grown from three buildings and six faculty members to one of the largest universities in the nation. It has more than 3,000 faculty/staff engaged in teaching, research, and public service; more than 400 campus buildings; and more than 5,200 acres of land, of which some 2,100 acres are in existing or planned campus development. More than 42,000 students now attend the university at East Lansing, of which some 85 percent are from Michigan.

Michigan State University is committed to diversity and multiculturalism in its student body, in its faculty, in its staff, and in its curriculum and outreach programs. Our student body hails from every county in the State of Michigan, every state in the nation, and 108 foreign nations. Minority students comprise 11.2 percent of the campus population, and includes the largest number of African American undergraduate students among all Big Ten schools.

Founded in 1855 to educate youth for the major occupation of that day —farming— MSU has broadened its offerings to meet the educational needs of today. The university now has a Graduate School and 14 colleges —Agriculture and Natural Resources, Arts and Letters, Business, Communication Arts and Sciences, Education, Engineering, Human Ecology, Human Medicine, James Madison, Natural Science, Nursing, Osteopathic Medicine, Social Science, and Veterinary Medicine.

At the center of all major universities is a cluster of disciplines that constitute the liberal arts and sciences. At MSU, this center consists of three colleges —Arts and Letters, Natural Science, and Social Science. Providing outstanding undergraduate and graduate degree programs with majors in traditional disciplines, these colleges also have special programs that enable students to obtain a broad multidisciplinary education. In addition, in collaboration with the College of Education, the three colleges prepare students to become teachers in the secondary schools of Michigan and the nation. These colleges touch the lives of all undergraduate students at MSU by providing the general education that constitutes approximately one-quarter of the undergraduate program. The Honors College, which enables superior undergraduate students to waive normal graduation requirements and undertake individual programs, attracts many of the nation's finest young scholars. MSU is proud of its record in producing Rhodes Scholars, a total of thirteen (ten in the last seventeen years); the university also has provided six Marshall Scholarship winners. These British scholarships are two of the most distinguished and prestigious academic awards that an American student can receive. Michigan State University also is a prominent sponsor of National Merit Scholars.

MSU adds to the store of knowledge with a wide array of outstanding research activities that are supported by a multimillion dollar sponsor-funding program. Some major facilities include the Pesticide Research Laboratory, operated with the U.S. Department of Energy as a national plant biology center; and the MSU/W. K. Kellogg Biological Station, which has been designated as a National Research Preserve. In collaboration with both the National Science Foundation and the U.S. Department of Energy, the National Superconducting Cyclotron Laboratory at MSU is examining the nuclei of the heaviest of elements.

Benefits of the university are brought to the public by the Agricultural Experiment Station, Lifelong Education, and the Cooperative Extension Service. Their programs provide technical information and formal course work for many Michigan citizens. The Kellogg Center for Continuing Education, one of the finest conference centers in the nation, annually hosts nearly 300,000 adults who come to the campus for some 600 conferences and other educational meetings.

The university's land-grant concept of service is international. Supported by grants from the federal government and private foundations, MSU maintains research and educational assistance projects on a worldwide basis. International projects have given many faculty members overseas experience, adding a new dimension to their teaching.

Michigan State University is a member of the Association of American Universities, National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges, American Council on Education, American Council of Learned Societies, International Association of Universities, Association of Graduate Schools, Council of Graduate Schools, and the Committee on Institutional Cooperation.

HONORARY DEGREE

JOHN M. ENGLER

John M. Engler, since you were first elected to the Michigan House of Representatives while a 22-year-old student at Michigan State University, you have established a remarkable career in public service. Your brilliance as a political strategist was dramatically illustrated by your election as Michigan's 46th governor, the first governor in 50 years from an agricultural background. You have the distinction of being the first person to move directly from the legislature to the governor's office since 1876.

You received a bachelor of science degree in agricultural economics from Michigan State University and a law degree from Thomas M. Cooley Law School.

You used a campaign plan you wrote as a college term paper to upset a popular incumbent when you won your first public office. Since then, you have never lost an election, having defeated four incumbents. After serving four terms in the State House of Representatives, you won a seat in the Michigan Senate and in 1984 your peers selected you to be the majority leader.

You grew up in a family of seven children on a farm in Beal City. Although your roots reach deep into Michigan soil, your influence extends far beyond the state of Michigan.

The White House recognized your abilities by naming you Chairman of the Commission on Presidential Scholars and Co-Chair of the Presidential Personnel Advisory Committee. Your leadership and understanding of trade policy issues affecting state and local governments earned for you a U.S. presidential appointment and re-appointment to the United States Trade Representative's Intergovernmental Policy Advisory Committee. You also have served on the Intergovernmental Advisory Council on Education.

For your 20 years of public service, you have earned many awards and honors from such diverse organizations as the Michigan Agricultural Conference, the Association of Judges, the Police Officers Association, and the Michigan Association of Professions. The National Federation of Independent Businesses awarded you their Guardian of Free Enterprise Award.

You are a member of the board of directors of the Michigan Special Olympics. Your demonstrated concern with the education of our youth has earned you the award for distinguished service from the Association of Independent Colleges and Universities of Michigan and appointment by President George Bush as chairman of the Commission on Presidential Scholars.

In recognition of your distinguished career in public service, your devotion to government and the people of Michigan, and especially your long-term advocacy of education as an investment in the future and your support of higher education as Michigan's gateway to the 21st century, your alma mater, Michigan State University, is pleased to award you the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

1991 DISTINGUISHED ALUMNI AWARD

RALPH J. BERTOLACINI

Ralph J. Bertolacini earned a Masters Degree in chemistry from Michigan State University in June of 1951. Following graduation he joined the Amoco Oil Company and rapidly advanced as research scientist and manager. He has published more than 80 research articles, holds a number of patents related to the refining of petroleum and processing of hydrocarbons, and has been at the vanguard of catalyst development for environmental pollution control. His work has helped to improve our nation's energy independence over the past two decades, to lessen our nation's balance of payments problems, and to enhance environmental pollution control. In recognition of his accomplishments, Mr. Bertolacini was given the 1986 Award of Merit from the American Society for Testing and Materials and the coveted Eugene J. Houdry Award from the Catalysis Society of North America in 1987.

Since leaving MSU in 1951, Mr. Bertolacini has returned to campus almost every year to recruit graduating seniors and graduate students. As part of each visit, he spends time with the faculty in the Chemistry Department as well as in the Department of Chemical Engineering. He also helped secure regular donations from the Amoco Oil Company for those departments. An untold number of students and faculty have benefited from his loyalty to his alma mater.

M.S.U., We love thy shadows

When twilight silence falls,

Flushing deep and softly paling

O'er ivy-covered halls.

Beneath the pines we'll gather

To give our faith so true,

Sing our love for Alma Mater

And thy praises, M.S.U.

(The Orchestra and Audience)

RECESSIONAL

The MSU Wind Symphony

We would like to express our appreciation to the many student and staff volunteers for their assistance at the commencement exercises. The audience is requested to remain seated while those in the processional are entering and leaving the arena.
