ACADEMIC COSTUME

In 1895, the Intercollegiate Commission, a group of leading American educators, introduced an academic costume code which by design of gowns and hoods would indicate the various degrees, and which by colors would identify the various faculties.

Three types of gowns are indicted by the code. Those worn by the bachelors have long, pointed sleeves. Those worn by masters have long, closed sleeves with the arc of a circle near the bottom. Doctor's gowns are faced with velvet. The sleeves are full, round, and open with three bars of velvet on each sleeve. The velvet facing of the bars on the sleeves may be black or the same color as the binding of the hood.

Hoods are made of material identical with the gown and are lined in the official academic color of the institution conferring the degree (e.g., green and white for MSU; burnt orange and white for the University of Texas; blue and gold for UCLA). If the institution has more than one color, the chevron is used to introduce the second color. Colored velvet or velveteen binds the hoods and indicates the department or faculty to which the degree pertains.

The color of the velvet of the hood is distinctive of the subject to which the degree pertains. For example, the trimming for the degree of Master of Science in Agriculture should be maize, representing agriculture, rather than golden yellow, representing science. Generally, the code for the velvet of the hood is the same as listed below for tassels.

At Michigan State University, it is customary to identify the candidates graduating from the different departments of study by tassels of the official department color as established by the Intercollegiate Code.

MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY

Michigan State University, a leading land-grant university and the first agricultural college in America, strives for excellence in providing students a broad curricula of liberal and practical education. MSU also serves people of the state, nation and world through its numerous research, extension, and international programs.

Now in its 135th year, Michigan State University has grown from three buildings and six faculty members to one of the largest universities in the nation. It has more than 3,000 faculty/staff engaged in teaching, research, and public service; more than 400 campus buildings; and more than 5,200 acres of land, of which some 2,100 acres are in existing or planned campus development. More than 42,000 students now attend the university at East Lansing, of which some 85 percent are from Michigan.

Michigan State University is committed to diversity and multiculturalism in its student body, in its faculty, in its staff, and in its curriculum and outreach programs. Our student body hails from every county in the State of Michigan, every state in the nation, and 107 foreign nations. Minority students comprise 12.1 percent of the campus population, and includes the largest number of African American students among all Big Ten schools.

Founded in 1855 to educate youth for the major occupation of that day—farming—MSU has broadened its offerings to meet the educational needs of today. The university now has a Graduate School and 14 colleges—Agriculture and Natural Resources, Arts and Letters, Business, Communication Arts and Sciences, Education, Engineering, Human Ecology, Human Medicine, James Madison, Natural Science, Nursing, Osteopathic Medicine, Social Science, and Veterinary Medicine.

At the center of all major universities is a cluster of disciplines that constitute the liberal arts and sciences. At MSU, this center consists of three colleges—Arts and Letters, Natural Science, and Social Science. Providing outstanding undergraduate and graduate degree programs with majors in traditional disciplines, these colleges also have special programs that enable students to obtain a broad multidisciplinary education. In addition, in collaboration with the College of Education, the three colleges prepare students to become teachers in the secondary schools of Michigan and the nation. These colleges touch the lives of all undergraduate students at MSU by providing the general education that constitutes approximately one-quarter of the undergraduate program. The Honors College, which enables superior undergraduate students to waive normal graduation requirements and undertake individual programs, attracts many of the nation's finest young scholars. MSU is proud of its record in producing Rhodes Scholars, a total of thirteen (ten since 1971-72); the university also has provided six Marshall Scholarship winners; and 11 Churchill Scholarships. These British scholarships are two of the most distinguished and prestigious academic awards that an American student can receive. Michigan State University also is a prominent sponsor of National Merit Scholars.

MSU adds to the store of knowledge with a wide array of outstanding research activities that are supported by a multimillion dollar sponsor-funding program. Some major facilities include the Pesticide Research Laboratory, operated with the U.S. Department of energy as a national plant biology center; and the MSU/W. K. Kellogg Biological Station, which has been designated as a National Research Preserve. In collaboration with both the National Science Foundation and the U.S. Department of energy, the National Superconducting Cyclotron Laboratory at MSU is examining the nuclei of the heaviest of elements.

Benefits of the university are brought to the public by the Agricultural Experiment Station, University Outreach, and the Cooperative Extension Service. Their programs provide technical information and formal course work for many Michigan citizens, The Kellogg Center for Continuing Education, one of the finest conference centers in the nation, annually hosts nearly 30,000 adults who come to the campus for some 600 conferences and other educational meetings.

The university's land-grant concept of service is international. Supported by grants from the federal government and private foundations, MSU maintains research and educational assistance projects on a worldwide basis. International projects have given many faculty members overseas experience, adding a new dimension to their teaching.

Michigan State University is a member of the Association of American Universities, National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges, American Council on Education, American Council of Learned Societies, International Association of Universities, Association of Graduate Schools, Council of Graduate Schools, and the Committee on Institutional Cooperation.

HONORARY DEGREE

DOROTHY DELAY

Today we honor one of the foremost violin teachers in the world. You embody a relatively new American tradition in which students from the conservatories of Europe and beyond come to you, an American-born and American-trained pedagogue, whom they consider "the violin center of the world."

You have taught hundreds of students who have gone on to be some of the world's most famous artists, both as soloists and as members of the world's leading symphony orchestras. Itzhak Perlman, arguably today's most famous concert solo violin performer, whom you taught since he was 13 years old, lauds your teaching. Mr. Perlman has said of you: "She could write out a computer report with 17 different categories about what went right and what went wrong and how to fix it, after just ten minutes of listening." In a personal letter supporting the honor you are receiving today he says, "Her devotion to her students, on a musical as well as personal level, is quite phenomenal. Her understanding of the violin as an instrument is so profound that it is positively baffling."

Your work at the Juilliard School in New York City is legendary, as is your teaching in the summers at Aspen, Colorado. Hundreds of students seek your advice and counsel. Your humanistic approach in a field that is characterized by fierce competition has endeared your student "family" to you. Discipline and devotion are the two words that express what your teaching has meant to your students.

Your students include violinists of the New York and American String Quartets, violinists of the Washington String Quartet which is in residence at the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C., and violinists in the Cleveland and Tokyo String Quartets. Your students with firmly established solo careers include Mark Kaplan, Shlomo Mintz, Mark Peskanov, and, of course, Itzhak Perlman. Hundreds of your students perform in the world's leading orchestras and teach in the world's universities and conservatories.

It has been said that Dorothy DeLay is more than a teacher, she is a personal escort for her students. The famous violinist and teacher Yehudi Menuhin has expressed great admiration "for her concern with each student, her understanding of the student's temperament and personality, and her thoroughness in matters of technique and musicianship."

Since your birth in Kansas, and undergraduate years at Michigan State University, you have gone on to a distinguished career as the world's most famous violin pedagogue. In so doing, you have brought happiness and joy to hundreds of students and, through them, to millions of people in the world.

In recognition of this distinguished career, Michigan State University is proud to award you the honorary degree of Doctor of Fine Arts.

ALMA MATER*Traynor*

M.S.U., we love thy shadows
When twilight silence falls,
Flushing deep and softly paling
O'er ivy-covered halls.
Beneath the pines we'll gather
To give our faith so true,
Sing our love for Alma Mater
And thy praises, M.S.U.
(The Band and Audience)
