ACADEMIC COSTUME

In 1895, the Intercollegiate Commission, a group of leading American educators, introduced an academic costume code which by design of gowns and hoods would indicate the various degrees, and which by colors would identify the various faculties.

Three types of gowns are indicated by the code. Those worn by the bachelors have long, pointed sleeves. Those worn by masters have long, closed sleeves with the arc of a circle near the bottom. Doctor's gowns are faced with velvet. The sleeves are full, round, and open with three bars of velvet on each sleeve. The velvet facing of the bars on the sleeves may be black or the same color as the binding of the hood.

Hoods are made of material identical with the gown and are lined in the official academic color of the institution conferring the degree (e.g., green and white for MSU; burnt orange and white for the University of Texas; blue and gold for UCLA). If the institution has more than one color, the chevron is used to introduce the second color. Colored velvet or velveteen binds the hoods and indicates the department or faculty to which the degree pertains.

The color of the velvet of the hood is distinctive of the subject to which the degree pertains. For example, the trimming for the degree of Master of Science in Agriculture should be maize, representing agriculture, rather than golden yellow, representing science. Generally, the code for the velvet of the hood is the same as listed below for tassels.

At Michigan State University, it is customary to identify the candidates graduating from the different departments of study by tassels of the official department color as established by the Intercollegiate Code

MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY

Michigan State University, a leading land-grant university and the first agricultural college in America, strives for excellence in providing students a broad curricula of liberal and practical education. MSU also serves people of the state, nation and world through its numerous research, extension, and international programs.

Now in its 135th year, Michigan State University has grown from three buildings and six faculty members to one of the largest universities in the nation. It has more than 3,000 faculty/staff engaged in teaching, research, and public service; more than 400 campus buildings; and more than 5,200 acres of land, of which some 2,100 acres are in existing or planned campus development. More than 40,000 students now attend the university at East Lansing, of which some 85 percent are from Michigan.

Michigan State University is committed to diversity and multiculturalism in its student body, in its faculty, in its staff, and in its curriculum and outreach programs. Our student body hails from every county in the State of Michigan, every state in the nation, and 110 foreign nations. Minority students comprise 11.7 percent of the campus population, and includes the largest number of African American students among all Big Ten schools.

Founded in 1855 to educate youth for the major occupation of that day—farming—MSU has broadened its offerings to meet the educational needs of today. The university now has a Graduate School and 14 colleges—Agriculture and Natural Resources, Arts and Letters, Business, Communication Arts and Sciences, Education, Engineering, Human Ecology, Human Medicine, James Madison, Natural Science, Nursing, Osteopathic Medicine, Social Science, and Veterinary Medicine.

At the center of all major universities is a cluster of disciplines that constitute the liberal arts and sciences. At MSU, this center consists of three colleges—Arts and Letters, Natural Science, and Social Science. Providing outstanding undergraduate and graduate degree programs with majors in traditional disciplines, these colleges also have special programs that enable students to obtain a broad multidisciplinary education. In addition, in collaboration with the College of Education, the three colleges prepare students to become teachers in the secondary schools of Michigan and the nation. These colleges touch the lives of all undergraduate students at MSU by providing the general education that constitutes approximately one-quarter of the undergraduate program. The Honors College, which enables superior undergraduate students to waive normal graduation requirements and undertake individual programs, attracts many of the nation's finest young scholars. MSU is proud of its record in producing Rhodes Scholars, a total of 14 (11 since 1971-72); the university also has provided 6 Marshall Scholarship winners; and 12 Churchill Scholarships. These British scholarships are two of the most distinguished and prestigious academic awards that an American student can receive. Michigan State University also is a prominent sponsor of National Merit Scholars.

MSU adds to the store of knowledge with a wide array of outstanding research activities that are supported by a multimillion dollar sponsor-funding program. Some major facilities include the Pesticide Research Laboratory, operated with the U.S. Department of energy as a national plant biology center; and the MSU/W. K. Kellogg Biological Station, which has been designated as a National Research Preserve. In collaboration with both the National Science Foundation and the U.S. Department of energy, the National Superconducting Cyclotron Laboratory at MSU is examining the nuclei of the heaviest of elements.

Benefits of the university are brought to the public by the Agricultural Experiment Station, University Outreach, and the Cooperative Extension Service. Their programs provide technical information and formal course work for many Michigan citizens, The Kellogg Center for Continuing Education, one of the finest conference centers in the nation, annually hosts nearly 30,000 adults who come to the campus for some 600 conferences and other educational meetings.

The university's land-grant concept of service is international. Supported by grants from the federal government and private foundations, MSU maintains research and educational assistance projects on a worldwide basis. International projects have given many faculty members overseas experience, adding a new dimension to their teaching.

Michigan State University is a member of the Association of American Universities, National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges, American Council on Education, American Council of Learned Societies, International Association of Universities, Association of Graduate Schools, Council of Graduate Schools, and the Committee on Institutional Cooperation.

HONORARY DEGREE

WILLIAM H. CUNNINGHAM

William H. Cunningham, as a scholar known nationwide for your expertise in business and marketing, you embody the belief that commitment to one's chosen field can bring about excellence. Your knowledge and commitment have thus brought excellence to classrooms and to board rooms, to businesses and to industry nationwide--wherever those whom you have taught and influenced have flourished.

Yours is a career devoted to excellence.

At Michigan State University, you achieved excellence in your studies. You earned a bachelor of arts degree in business administration in 1966, a master of business administration degree in 1967, and your doctoral degree in 1971.

Your career in the University of Texas educational system reinforced your firm commitment to excellence. As dean of the business school at the University of Texas at Austin, you were praised and admired for the sense of cohesiveness and pride that developed under your leadership.

You were honored for your skills as a teacher and for your devotion to students, receiving eight teaching awards, including the University of Texas award for distinguished scholastic contribution in 1982. Your contributions to students and their futures reached well beyond the classroom, as you offered guidance to student organizations and to individuals who benefited from your enthusiasm and compassion.

You shared your expertise and your commitment to excellence with the community as well. Your service on more than forty public and private commissions and boards--from the Economic Advisory Committee of the United State Department of Commerce to the United Negro College Fund Board of Directors, as well as many, many others--ensured that your inspiration has reached far beyond the campus.

When you were named in 1992 to be president of the University of Texas System, it was amidst much honor and praise. You brought to the position vigor that was underscored, not tempered, by your understanding of the many challenges that universities face in providing a high-quality education and thus in influencing this country's future.

At Michigan State University, we continue to honor your career. In 1984, you were named as the outstanding business alumnus of Michigan State University for 1983-84, becoming the first academician to receive the award.

You are a scholar in whom this university takes great pride, and a man to whom our graduates today may look as an example of excellence in action. With great pleasure, therefore, Michigan State University today awards you the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

HONORARY DEGREE

LOUIS SOKOLOFF

Louis Sokoloff, your driven devotion to study, to learn, and to enlarge knowledge regarding the functions of the human brain has contributed to science almost immeasurably.

You have revolutionized the study of, and knowledge of, neurophysiological function. You have provided a foundation of knowledge of the energy metabolism of the brain that is unmatched and that has touched the lives not only of scientists, but also of many others as this knowledge has been put into practice.

You earned your bachelor's degree from the College of University of Pennsylvania in 1943 and your medical degree at the University of Pennsylvania in 1946. You also served an internship at Philadelphia General Hospital from 1946 to 1947. During that time, you were also serving your country, first as a private and then as a 1st Lieutenant and Captain in the U.S. Army.

You became a research fellow at the University of Pennsylvania. In 1953, you began your long, fruitful association with the National Institute of Mental Health. In 1968, you became Chief of the Laboratory of Cerebral Metabolism at the institute, where you undertook research that has made outstanding contributions to the understanding of the processes used when the brain generates the energy needed to function.

Your development of a method for measuring of rates of glucose utilization, which are related to functional activity of the brain, is a landmark in neuroscience. As has much of your research, this method has been transferred from the laboratory into clinical settings, thereby touching people worldwide who may never know of your work, but who nonetheless will benefit from it.

Your work has, in fact, been the basis on which we have built our efforts to image human cognition. For that contribution, we thank you. For your overall contributions to your science, and on behalf of the many people who may benefit from them, Michigan State University with great pride awards to you today the honorary degree of Doctor of Science.

HONORARY DEGREE

RAUL VELASCO

Raul Velasco, you are recognized among Spanish-language audiences as one of the most popular and best known men in North America. Indeed, you are frequently introduced as "the most admired beloved journalist, telecommunicator, and celebrity in the entire Spanish-speaking world."

Your notable success has been achieved primarily through an enduring entertainment television program you first produced, directed, and hosted nearly twenty-five years ago-- Siempre En Domingo. Over the years, you have traveled the world to profile peoples and places on the international scene, ever expanding the program's reach and vision.

You and your work have been widely honored--with awards from your native Mexico; from cities in the United States; from Spain, France, and Holland; and from countries throughout Latin America.

You were born on April 24, 1933, in the small southeast provincial town of Celaya, in the Mexican state of Guanajuato. You attended elementary and secondary schools in the community, helped your family in the daily tasks of operating their small store, and at the age of sixteen began writing sports articles for a small newspaper in your hometown. When you were twenty, you moved to Mexico City to begin a distinguished career as a critic and journalist for several of Mexico City's leading radio, theater, and film magazines.

You later became a radio broadcaster and host of a music variety program with one of Mexico's leading radio networks, and then joined the newspaper El Heraldo de Mexico to start a column on artistic and celebrity news events. From reporter, to critic, to journalist, to radio broadcaster...then on to television in 1968, when you initiated your newest career as producer and host of the Acapulco Film Festival on Television Independiente de Mexico.

Other successful programs followed, thanks to your skill in understanding audiences and their television interests. Your programs include entertainment and instructional aspects structured in interviews of prominent and contemporary celebrities, along with crisp commentaries on social and educational issues of the day.

When the television network was purchased and became "Televisa," one of the largest private television enterprises in Latin America, you were invited to produce, direct and host a new and expanded variety and cultural program. Your mission was to entertain, educate, and inspire viewers of all ages and classes in the rich cultural heritage of Mexico and the Americas, a challenge you met with flair and distinction.

Your program Siempre En Domingo now has a regular weekly audience of more than 150 million viewers and is transmitted to all of Latin America, and to more than 500 affiliates throughout the United States, North Africa, the southern areas of the former Soviet Union, and all of Europe.

Solidarity, entertainment, and cultural enrichment characterize your professional contributions as you continue to inspire and identify with audiences the world over.

Conferring this honorary degree is my honor and that of Michigan State University. I hereby award you the honorary degree of Doctor of Humanities.

HONORARY DEGREE

DOLORES WHARTON

Dolores Wharton, your contributions to the support of the arts are many, and have been often cited as crucial in strengthening the status of the arts whenever, and wherever, you became involved.

Those contributions have been matched only by your devotion to strengthening the role of minorities and women in the corporate world.

Your devotion to, and promotion of, the arts has touched many lives in many regions. Your interest in the arts in Malaysia, where you lived from 1958 to 1964, had great influence there, and led to the publication of a book devoted to contemporary artists of that country.

In 1974, you were appointed by U.S. President Gerald Ford to the National Council on the Arts of the National Endowment for the Arts. You became a trustee of the Museum of Modern Art in 1977, and a director of the Albany Institute of History and Art in 1980.

During your years of service to the Michigan State University community, your contributions within the state of Michigan were widely recognized. You were appointed by the governor to the Michigan Council for the Arts in 1971, and to the Governor's Special Commission for Architecture in 1971. You served on the Michigan Bicentennial Commission, as well as the National Committee for the Bicentennial Era.

In 1982, Michigan State University, in recognition of your efforts, dedicated the Clifton and Dolores Wharton Center for Performing Arts, a center that has since contributed immeasurably to the appreciation of the arts on campus and in the community. In 1987, again in recognition of your contributions to the causes for which you work, the State University of New York named The Clifton and Dolores Wharton Economic Research Center.

Indeed, your founding of the Fund for Corporate Initiatives, Inc., has done much to advance your goal of helping minorities and women achieve success in the business world. The organization has targeted college seniors, and encouraged professional development and upward mobility for younger women and minority executives.

Your service on numerous boards of directors and your trusteeship in many businesses and organizations have helped ensure that all recognize the importance of the goals that you promote so successfully.

Your influence has reached far beyond the board room and the arts centers. On campus, you spoke often to student groups, joined them in their everyday activities, and opened your home and heart to them. You spoke to churches and to civic groups, always hoping to educate and to inspire.

You have been tireless in your work and far-reaching in your influence. You have brought the arts to many, many more people than might have benefited without you help, and brought change to the corporate world. For all your contributions, it is with both honor and pride that Michigan State University today awards you the honorary degree of Doctor of Humanities.

1993 DISTINGUISHED ALUMNI AWARD

HOWARD A. BRODY

Dr. Howard A. Brody is Director of the Michigan State University Center for Ethics and Humanities in the Life Sciences, and is an active researcher and consultant on issues of medical ethics. He is often cited in media articles when a reasoned, compassionate voice is needed to comment on complex issues, and his influence is felt on both a state and national level.

He is also a practicing clinician who sees patients in the MSU Family Practice Clinic, and who consults with physicians and families in the Greater Lansing area. He is often accompanied on his clinical visits by medical students, absorbing his example and philosophy of clear and careful patient interaction. In addition, Dr. Brody annually teaches Medical Humanities, a philosophy course at Michigan State University. In 1984, he was the recipient of the University's Teacher-Scholar Award for demonstrated excellence in his field.

Dr. Brody received three degrees from Michigan State University; a bachelor of science degree in biochemistry (cum laude) in 1971, a doctor of medicine degree in 1976, and a doctor of philosophy degree in 1977. He was an MSU Merit Scholar, a member of the Honors College, and is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

He is the author of four books, the latest of which is The Healer's Power (1992), and numerous book chapters and articles.

Dr. Brody was the recipient of the first College of Human Medicine Outstanding Alumnus Award in October of 1991.

WILLIAM H. CUNNINGHAM

Dr. William H. Cunningham became the seventh Chancellor of The University of Texas System on September 1, 1992. He holds the Lee Hage and Joseph D. Jamail Regents Chair in Higher Education Leadership. He is a Professor of Marketing at the University of Texas at Austin and holds the James L. Bayless Chair for Free Enterprise. Prior to assuming the Chancellorship, he served as President of The University of Texas at Austin, the largest public university in Texas, the second largest university in the United States. At the time of his appointment, he was one of the youngest presidents of a major American university, and the only chief administrative officer of a university to have a background as a professor of marketing and a business dean.

He joined the University of Texas at Austin faculty in January 1971 upon graduation from Michigan State University, where he earned his B.A., M.B.A., and Ph.D. degrees. He was named a distinguished alumnus of Michigan State University's College and Graduate School of Business in 1983.

Dr. Cunningham is a nationally known marketing scholar and former editor of the Journal of Marketing. His research interests include marketing management and research, and strategic market planning.

Dr. Cunningham is an experienced teacher and author. He has won seven teaching awards from The University, and has written eleven books.

Dr. Cunningham is a member of the the Board of Directors of La Quinta Motor Inns, Transamerica Fund Management Company, Jefferson-Pilot Corporation, and Freeport-McMoRan Incorporated.

Dr. Edward Palmer is co-founder of the Children's Television Workshop, and President of World Media Partners, consulting and working on projects in the media. In his current role, he has been retained by the National Extension Homemakers Council for a five year children and television project in the U.S. and abroad. He is consultant to the Johns Hopkins University School of Public Health and Hygiene, UNICEF, Children's Television Workshop, Hughes Aircraft Company, Australian Children's Television Foundation of Melbourne, Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N.J., MacMillan Publishing Company, and advisor to the Central Australian Aboriginal Media Association working on satellite-delivered educational TV.

Dr. Palmer's work in the area of educational technology has had major impact on children both across the nation and around the world. Dr. Palmer helped start the Children's Television Workshop (CTW) in 1968, and served as officer and vice president for research for fifteen years. CTW has changed the lives of children through such television programs as Sesame Street, The Electric Company, and 3-2-1 Contact!

Dr. Palmer is largely credited for passage of the Television Act of 1990. His testimony before Congress led to the law's provision establishing the National Endowment for Children's Educational Television. He continues to be an advocate for improved children's television programming.

He is the recipient of two degrees from Michigan State University: An M.A. in Educational Psychology (1962), and a Ph.D. in Education Measurement and Research Design (1964).

Dr. Palmer is recipient of the 1991 Outstanding Alumni Award presented by the MSU College of Education Alumni Association, the Educational Testing Service Special Award, and the American Psychological Association annual award for Distinguished Contribution for Applications in Psychology. He was named one of "fifteen who made a difference in public television" in 1990 by Currents magazine.

JOHN A. WEIGELT

John Weigelt has earned degrees that allow him to practice veterinary medicine and human medicine. During the time that he was a student at Michigan State University, he was dually enrolled in both programs, receiving a premedical B.S. in 1969 and a D.V.M. in 1970, and received his M.D. degree in 1974 from the Medical College of Wisconsin.

He is Chairman of the Department of Surgery of St. Paul Ramsey Medical Center, St. Paul, Minnesota, and is recognized as one of the three finest trauma surgeons in the United States. He often accompanies the President of the United States when the President travels into high risk countries.

He is a prolific writer in the field of general surgery and trauma, an excellent clinical teacher, a provider of care, and an academic leader. He is a member of the American College of Surgeons Committee on Trauma, one of the most important and leading groups directing care of trauma victims in the United States.

Dr. Weigelt was team coordinator for volunteers to be deployed to Germany during Operation Desert Storm. As a result of his efforts to save the life of a sergeant injured in Operation Desert Storm, and for his long term contributions in trauma management, Presidential candidate H. Ross Perot established a major new international award valued at $100,000 per year, the Weigelt/Wallace Award. This award, offered by the University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center, is to be given to doctors who perform extraordinary feats in saving the lives of patients, and who demonstrate Dr. Weigelt's care and concern for a single human life.

Described as a "brilliant clinical teacher" responsible for establishing protocols for the treatment of patients, Dr. Weigelt also receives raves for his commitment to his community. Before his recent move to Minnesota, he was medical director for Youth for Tomorrow; medical director to Happy Hill Farm, Dallas Area Youth Homes; on call medical consultant to the Dallas Zoo, and made presentations to Dallas area elementary and high schools on drinking, driving, drugs and trauma prevention. He also was baseball coach to 8th grade boys.

M.S.U., We love thy shadows

When twilight silence falls,

Flushing deep and softly paling

O'er ivy-covered halls.

Beneath the pines we'll gather

To give our faith so true,

Sing our love for Alma Mater

And thy praises, M.S.U.

(The MSU Wind Symphony and Audience)

RECESSIONAL

The MSU Wind Symphony

We would like to express our appreciation to the many students and staff for their assistance at the commencement exercises. The audience is requested to remain seated while those in the processional are entering and leaving the arena.
