On the cover is Beaumont Memorial Tower, constructed in 1928, a gift of John W. Beaumont, class of 1882. Restoration of the tower, carillon, and clock was completed in 1996, reviving the bells which had been silent since 1987. Beaumont Tower once again is a functioning symbol of the beauty and strength of Michigan State University.

DIPLOMAS WILL BE MAILED TO DEGREE RECIPIENTS
APPROXIMATELY ONE MONTH AFTER THE END OF THE SEMESTER.

Honors designations are based on the GPA attained through the semester prior to graduation. Honors designations for Summer Candidates therefore will require recalculation.

FOR INFORMATION ABOUT THE SENIOR CLASS GIFT, PLEASE SEE <http://www.givingto.msu.edu/seniorgift/>

MSU is an affirmative-action, equal-opportunity institution.

MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY

Michigan State University, one of the nation’s leading land-grant universities, was founded in 1855 as the first agricultural college with only six faculty members and three buildings to provide youths with an education in farming. Now, 140 years later, MSU continues to strive for excellence in providing a diverse student body with a broad and rich combination of liberal and practical education.

Today, the East Lansing campus looks quite different than it did in 1855. More than 5,200 acres of land encompass more than 400 buildings, and more than 3,000 faculty and staff are engaged in teaching, research and public service. More than 40,000 students — 85 percent from Michigan — attend the University’s main campus.

Our student body represents every county in the state, every state in the nation, and 107 foreign nations. Minority students comprise more than 14 percent of the campus population, and our campus includes the largest number of African American students among all Big Ten schools.

Michigan State University’s commitment to diversity and multiculturalism in its student body, faculty, staff, curriculum and outreach programs is exemplified through world-wide services in numerous research, extension, and international programs.

More than a century after its agricultural beginnings, Michigan State has a Graduate School and 14 colleges: Agriculture and Natural Resources, Arts and Letters, the Broad College of Business, Communication Arts and Sciences, Education, Engineering, Human Ecology, Human Medicine, James Madison, Natural Science, Nursing, Osteopathic Medicine, Social Science and Veterinary Medicine.

Today, three colleges represent the central academic disciplines which most universities refer to as the liberal arts and sciences: Arts and Letters, Natural Science, and Social Science. These colleges also provide outstanding undergraduate and graduate degree programs with majors in traditional disciplines while also providing special programs that enable students to obtain a broad, multidisciplinary education. The College of Education collaborates with the colleges to help prepare students to become teachers in the secondary schools of Michigan as well the nation. Our residence hall system is designed to complement and enhance the learning experiences of our students.

The Honors College, which attracts fine young scholars nationwide, enables students to waive standard graduation requirements and undertake enriched academic programs. MSU has produced 13 Rhodes Scholars, six Marshall Scholarship winners, and 11 Churchill Scholarship recipients. These British scholarships are among the most distinguished and prestigious academic award that an American student can receive.

Multimillion dollar, sponsor-funded programs support a wide array of outstanding research activities at MSU. Major facilities include the Pesticide Research Laboratory, operated with the U.S. Department of Energy as a national plant biology center; and the MSU/W.K. Kellogg Biological Station, which has been designated as a National Research Preserve. In collaboration with both the National Science Foundation and the U.S. Department of Energy, the National Superconducting Cyclotron Laboratory at MSU is able to study the nuclei of the heaviest elements.

The public significantly benefits from the University through University Outreach, MSU Extension Service, and the Agricultural Experiment Station which provides technical information and course work for many Michigan citizens. The Kellogg Center, one of the finest nationwide, annually hosts some 30,000 adults who come to the campus for approximately 600 conferences and other educational meetings.

Service to the international community is equally important. Supported by grants from the federal government and private foundations, MSU sustains educational and research assistance projects internationally. These projects have given many faculty members overseas experience and have added new dimensions to their teaching.

Michigan State University is a member of the Association of American Universities, National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges, American Council on Education, American Council of Learned Societies, International Association of Universities, Association of Graduate Schools, Council of Graduate Schools, and the Committee on Institutional Cooperation.

ACADEMIC COSTUME

In 1895, the Intercollegiate Commission, a group of leading American educators, introduced an academic costume code which by design of gowns and hoods would indicate the various degrees, and which by colors would identify the various faculties.

Three types of gowns are indicted by the code. Those worn by the bachelors have long, pointed sleeves. Those worn by masters have long, closed sleeves with the arc of a circle near the bottom. Doctor's gowns are faced with velvet. The sleeves are full, round, and open with three bars of velvet on each sleeve. The velvet facing of the bars on the sleeves may be black or the same color as the binding of the hood.

Hoods are made of material identical with the gown and are lined in the official academic color of the institution conferring the degree (e.g., green and white for MSU; burnt orange and white for the University of Texas; blue and gold for UCLA). If the institution has more than one color, the chevron is used to introduce the second color. Colored velvet or velveteen binds the hoods and indicates the department of faculty to which the degree pertains.

The color of the velvet of the hood is distinctive of the subject to which the degree pertains. For example, the trimming for the degree of Master of Science in Agriculture should be maize, representing agriculture, rather than golden yellow, representing science. Generally, the code for the velvet of the hood is the same as listed below for tassels.

At Michigan State University, it is customary to identify the candidates graduating from the different departments of study by tassels of the official department color as established by the Intercollegiate Code.

HONORARY DEGREE

WENDY BALDWIN

You are one of the nation's most distinguished and effective research administrators. With vision and tenacity you have refined the National Institutes of Health research enterprise and provided leadership to a large and scientifically diverse national research community.

You are an effective researcher yourself, an authority on adolescent pregnancy who has worked to increase understanding of public health issues. You managed a nationally recognized program on adolescent pregnancy and childbearing at the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development. You have made significant contributions to research on behavior and health and helped negotiate legislation to include women and minorities in clinical research. You have written extensively for public health journals, frequently testified before congressional committees, and been active in professional societies.

Now, as Deputy Director for Extramural Research at NIH, you are developing and implementing standards and policies for an enterprise that makes up more than 80 percent of the NIH budget and involves scientists in over 2,000 universities, research institutions, and small businesses. In this position, you have pioneered important management innovations that include award-winning information systems.

Your leadership and vision have changed NIH's approach to the important and growing area of biomedical engineering. As chair of the Bioengineering Consortium of representatives from the NIH institutes and centers and other federal agencies, you have initiated communication and collaboration that has led to increased research support and training for biomedical engineering. This is a remarkable accomplishment given the diversity in members' missions, funding, and operations.

Your expertise is also recognized internationally. You represent the United States on the Board of Trustees for the International Human Frontier Science Program and on the Committee on Health Research that advises the Director General of the World Health Organization. As an educator, you are on the advisory board of a Pew Charitable Trusts project that is developing a national dialogue on the role of the Ph.D. degree in the 21st century.

For your dedication as a public servant and your commitment to high standards as an administrator and a scientist, I am pleased to award you the honorary degree of Doctor of Science from Michigan State University.

CHUCK CLOSE

You are one of America's leading painters, known for very large portraits that have been exhibited at major museums throughout the world. Over the past two decades, several museums have organized major retrospectives of your work, recognizing you as an internationally influential contemporary artist.

The very large scale of your portraits—up to nine feet high—challenges viewers to consider the physical and psychological factors that alter, compensate, or diminish the things we see. You ask us to question what is real and what is artificial. You have described your work as “impersonal and personal, arm's-length and intimate, minimal and maximal.”

You have depicted the faces of the famous and the non-famous in a variety of techniques and mediums, beginning with explorations of the relation of photography to painting in unrelenting detail. You have continued to experiment with techniques that reveal your imagination and skill. Your art uses sprayed ink dots, round dabs of oil paint, spots of pastel, layers of papier-mâché pieces, and other techniques to extend the ways in which repetitive, grid-organized painting transforms into the image of a face.

You have been asking important questions for many years and providing visually exciting images to use in exploring these questions. One critic described your innovative approach to the human face as a “blitzkrieg of factual recording, but...masterful and sensitive.” It provides a completely new way to experience other human beings.

A spinal blood clot in 1989 left you paralyzed and confined to a wheelchair. Undaunted, you found a way to continue your work using paint brushes attached in mechanical fixtures to the ends of your arms. If anything, your paintings have become stronger and richer, drawn on a brighter, fuller palette. Friends and art critics alike applaud your determination and passion for your work.

For your artistic accomplishments, your ability to make us see individuals in new ways, and your determination, I am pleased to award you the honorary degree of Doctor of Fine Arts from Michigan State University.

HONORARY DEGREE

THOMAS M. IZZO

You have linked classroom, community and the basketball court to create a culture of excellence and success at Michigan State University during your six years as head men's basketball coach. Your values and goals are consistent in every way with the mission of a land-grant university. You are driven, above all, to seek quality and provide opportunity for those willing to work in order to reach their potential—as student-athletes and as citizens in our community. Although you are best known as a coach, clearly you are a talented teacher of young people as you encourage them to be leaders on and off the court.

As a teacher, you demand that each student-athlete strive for academic excellence. Eight of the last nine players on your teams who completed their eligibility have also earned their undergraduate degrees. This year alone, two were nominated as Academic All Big-Ten team members. In the classroom, they work with their fellow students to anticipate and solve the challenges of today—and tomorrow. You insist that your athletes know they are students first. Your student-athletes have been recognized as “Champions in the Classroom,” for their academic progress.

As a teacher, you also expect that your athletes be engaged with their communities. Your players participate along with other Spartan athletes in initiatives that reach into elementary school classrooms and urban community centers through personal visits and Internet interaction, giving youngsters personal contact with the players in a way that encourages those youngsters to seek excellence in their own endeavors. You insist that your athletes know they are role models. They acknowledge that, and contribute from the heart.

As a coach, your drive to succeed has drawn the community together in a way that showcases the positive impact that can accompany collegiate athletics. This year you coached the team to a fourth consecutive regular-season Big Ten championship, a feat accomplished by only three other teams in history. Your team reached the National Collegiate Athletic Association Final Four for the third consecutive season—an accomplishment only eight teams have matched. This year the National Association of Basketball Coaches (NABC) named you All-District 11 Coach of the Year for the second time in three years.

For your commitment to excellence, not only on the court, but in the classroom and in the community, and in recognition of your contributions as a teacher and coach of the next generation of leaders, I am pleased to award you the honorary degree of Doctor of Education from Michigan State University.

HONORARY DEGREE

RONALD H. MASON

After 35 years as a hockey coach, yours is a career distinguished by a steadfast commitment to the search for perfection—and the predictable achievement of success.

Indeed, success—in athletics, but also in academics and in community activities—defines you, your student-athletes and your program. That success across several dimensions reflects very positively on Michigan State University. You have inspired your student-athletes to recognize that their lives demand an invigorating balance of challenges and responsibilities.

Your MSU players have been Central Collegiate Hockey Association all-academic winners 44 times. You have coached 11 Academic All-Americans and eight Big Ten Medal of Honor winners. This season alone, six of your players were Academic All-American nominees. They are consistently high achievers academically. They reflect the high standards that you have set and that so many of your student-athletes have met over the years. In your respect for academic as well as athletic achievement, you are a role model for other coaches and an exemplar in the MSU community.

Your student-athletes have been honored as “Champions in the Classroom,” in recognition of their academic accomplishments and their encouragement of children to succeed. Your players read to school children, skate with them and encourage them to reach for the stars. Your student-athletes are constantly reaching out to the community, practicing the values that you teach.

Your career, including 22 years as MSU's head coach, is marked by 897 wins, the most in history of college hockey, and 608 of those are Spartan victories. Indeed, under your watchful eye, Spartan hockey has become a national power. Under your leadership, MSU has won seven Central Collegiate Hockey Association regular-season titles and ten tournament titles. Your teams continually seek the next level of achievement, reflecting a commitment to excel that you establish and in which your players delight.

For your dedication to excellence and your commitment to your players in all of the roles that they fill as extraordinary student-athletes, I am pleased to award you the honorary degree of Doctor of Education from Michigan State University.

HONORARY DEGREE

YASUYUKI YAMADA

You are internationally recognized as a pioneer in plant chemistry and plant tissue culture techniques, a respected senior science advisor to the Japanese government, an educator, and a leader in fostering international cooperation on critical scientific problems.

After earning your degrees in agricultural chemistry at Kyoto University, you received a postdoctoral Fulbright Fellowship to study at Michigan State University. Your research during that fellowship marked the beginning of your distinguished career.

Perhaps your greatest scientific achievement was recognizing the potential of specific plant cells to produce unique chemicals and developing culture systems to use such cells as “manufacturing plants” for synthesizing compounds of pharmacological importance. You not only developed unique technology but also elucidated the biochemical pathways, isolated important genes, developed transgenic plants, and optimized systems for commercial production of alkaloids and related intermediates now used in the pharmaceutical industry. In this area of secondary metabolism, you have no peers.

After a long and productive academic career at Kyoto University, where you developed the world-renowned Center for Cell and Tissue Culture, you were elected president of Nara Institute of Science and Technology, one of two new Japanese graduate schools specializing in science and taking a nontraditional approach to graduate education. There you are advocating self-evaluation and external evaluation of the institute's educational activities, encouraging lifelong learning, and forging links with industry. In its first decade, the Nara Institute has become the leader among Japanese universities in annual research grants per faculty.

In advisory positions on boards and government agencies you are known for your candor and for the long-term and global perspectives you bring to issues. You are one of only a few scientists invited to present a lecture to the Japanese royal family. Your peers around the world have recognized your accomplishments with numerous honors. Among the most prestigious are your election to the Japan National Academy of Sciences and to Foreign Membership in the U.S. National Academy of Sciences and the Royal Society of Sciences in Sweden.

For your accomplishments as a plant scientist, educator, science advisor, and proponent of international collaboration, I am pleased to award you the honorary degree of Doctor of Science from Michigan State University.

THE STAR SPANGLED BANNER.....Key

Oh, say can you see by the dawn's early light
What so proudly we hailed at the twilight's last gleaming?
Whose broad stripes and bright stars thru the perilous fight,
O'er the ramparts we watched were so gallantly streaming?
And the rocket's red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof thru the night that our flag was still there.
Oh, say does that star-spangled banner yet wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave?

ALMA MATER.....Traynor

M.S.U., We love thy shadows
When twilight silence falls,
Flushing deep and softly paling
O'er ivy-covered halls.
Beneath the pines we'll gather
To give our faith so true,
Sing our love for Alma Mater
And thy praises, M.S.U.
