FIRST HALF.

Hillsdale won the toss and chose south goal. Childs kicked off for 45 yds. Hillsdale fumbled and M. A. C. had the ball on Hillsdale's 20-yd. line. After five and one-half minutes of play Cooper carried the ball over for the first touch-down. Childs failed to kick goal. Score M. A. C., 5; Hillsdale, 0.

Hillsdale kicked off to M. A. C.'s 20-yd. line. M. A. C. now began a series of line smashes and were held for downs on Hillsdale's 40-yd. line. Hillsdale returned the ball 10 yds. and were then held for downs. M. A. C. advanced the ball very rapidly by sending Cooper and Brainerd through the ends and tackles for good gains. Brainerd carried the ball over for the second touch-down. Childs failed to kick goal. Score M. A. C., 10; Hillsdale, 0.

Hillsdale kicked to M. A. C.'s 15-yd. line. The ball was slowly advanced to the 40-yd. line and there held for downs. Hillsdale failed to gain 5 yds. and the ball went over to M. A. C. Hillsdale was given 20 yds. for holding. M. A. C. tried to punt but was blocked. This gave M. A. C. the ball on their 15-yd. line. This was the only time M. A. C.'s goal was in danger but by a number of tackle back plays the ball was carried to Hillsdale's 45-yd. line. Time was called ending the first half. Score M. A. C., 10; Hillsdale, 0.

SECOND HALF.

Hillsdale kicked off to M. A. C.'s 30-yd. line. M. A. C. fumbled and lost the ball on their 25-yd. line. M. A. C. held for downs and by hard fast work carried the ball down the field to Hillsdale's 15-yd. line where the ball was fumbled and lost. Hillsdale advanced the ball 3 yds. and lost the ball on a fumble. Peters carried the ball over for the third touch down. Childs kicked goal. Score M. A. C. 16, Hillsdale 0.

Hillsdale kicked to M. A. C.'s 5 yd. line and Childs carried it back 15 yds. before being downed. With about 5 minutes to play M. A. C. repeatedly sent the backs through Hillsdale's line for good gains. Childs carried the ball over for the fourth touch-down. Childs kicked goal. Score, M. A. C. 22, Hillsdale 0.

Hillsdale kicked to M. A. C.'s 15-yard line. Cooper carried it back 5 yards. Brainerd was sent around the end for 5 yards and time was called. M. A. C.'s ball on their 25-yard line. Score, M. A. C., 22; Hillsdale, 0.

Great credit is due Trainer Denman for the systematic way in which he is training the players. M. A. C. showed up strongly on the defense, repeatedly stopping Hillsdale's tackle back play with small gain. Childs did some star playing for M. A. C., but the victory is due to the splendid team work of our players.

M. A. C. at Albion.

Next Saturday M. A. C. will play at Albion. Every effort is being put forth to get reduced rates over the railroad. It is hoped that a large crowd will go and cheer our players to victory.

M. A. C. Reserves at Flint.

The M. A. C. Reserves will play the Flint Deaf Mutes at Flint. Since their defeat by the Lansing High School the Reserves have been practicing hard. Although the Reserves were beaten by Flint last year the boys are determined to turn the tables next Saturday.

Our Inter-Collegiate Oratorical Contests.

There are perhaps two or three things that ought to be said in addition to what has already been noted in the columns of the RECORD, with reference to the inter-collegiate contest held at M. A. C.

And no doubt one of the very best things that can be said about the contest, is, that judging it as a whole the work done this year was superior to that done a year ago. The participants in this year's contest were, for the most part, not only happier in the choice of subjects than were they of other years, but also somewhat more painstaking in the treatment of the subjects chosen. Besides, the delivery was uniformly better in the contest of the present year than it has been heretofore.

Too little attention is undoubtedly given to the matter of a nice correspondence between thought on the one hand and the expression of thought on the other hand. This will appear self-evident when it is pointed out that, not one man in fifty has anything like an adequate vocal appreciation of his own thoughts and sentiments, although he may be abundantly able to set them down upon paper. And it is worthy of note, by way of illustration, that if a man happens, for instance, to have the "big" voice under better control than any of the others, he will use it indiscriminately in the expression of everything that is colloquial; and he will use the same voice only because he has control of no other, in expressing whatever he may be able to feel of the sentiments of reverence and of sublimity. Surely one thing that needs to be known and appreciated universally, in this connection, is that in order to express the thoughts and sentiments of which one is capable, in a proper and intelligent manner, one needs to have control of more than a single quality of voice, out of the seven or eight different qualities which nature, otherwise, has very foolishly placed at one's disposal.

In our recent contest it was very noticeable that a speaker, for example, who had a thought that was great enough or a sentiment that was deep enough properly to tax the full capacity of the "big" voice, would force it out through a thin normal with the inevitable result of rendering it weak and meaningless. Likewise thoughts that were properly suited to the normal were frequently bellowed out through the "big" voice, floating away a mere sound; showing of course that the speaker had no true vocal appreciation of his own thoughts and sentiments.

The great trouble with our contest work is that oftentimes speakers are sent to represent colleges who have little or no oratorical ability; and the speakers themselves are seldom to blame for the unfortunate situation, since they have been chosen in good faith by their fellows and dubbed orators by them; and, of course, those who are chosen cannot be expected to protest against an overruling wisdom. The fault lies in the matter and the manner of choosing representatives for local contest work. Greater care should be exercised in making those choices, for it cannot reasonably be expected that better material will be exhibited in the inter-collegiate contest than is chosen for the local work. As much care, therefore, should be used in making the selections as will be necessary in order to pick out the very best speakers that are available. The choice should be made absolutely upon oratorical qualifications. It is futile to undertake to develop a man or a woman into an orator, who is devoid of any natural oratorical ability. We had speakers in our recent contest who could not acquire any adequate notion of oratory in a lifetime.

Finally, it might be well to observe that the results of our inter-collegiate contests so far have shown that there are on an average of four speakers who clearly rank above the rest. If the eight colleges, of which our Inter-collegiate Oratorical League is composed, could be put into two groups of four colleges each, in such a manner as to make it practically convenient for the colleges in each group to meet, say sometime in April, for preliminary inter-collegiate contest work, each group sending its two best speakers to take part in the regular yearly inter-collegiate contest, it seems as if we might be able to get better results than we could possibly hope for under the present arrangement.

Thursday evening prayer service was led by Archie Alger.

Scripture lesson read: Matthew, 5th chapter. The service was well attended.

Chapel exercises Sunday morning were well attended, as usual.

Rev. W. H. Pound, of the Plymouth Congregational Church, Lansing, delivered a very interesting sermon from Mark, 8:25. His theme was spiritual blindness and its cure.

The new text books selected for the Bible classes have arrived and are nearly all disposed of. Any one wishing a set of the books may secure them of Burt Wermuth. Only a few sets left.

Every Y. M. C. A. member, social as well as active, should take Bible study work. Any one may take the Bible study work whether he is a Y. M. C. A. member or not.

The Sunday evening services were very interesting. The subject under discussion was "foreign missionaries and our relations to them as christians." D. S. Bullock spoke on missionary work in general. Miss Clara Waterman spoke on missionary work in India and told a touching story of the conversion to the christian faith of an Indian girl of high cast. W. R. Wright briefly outlined the plan of work for the missionary class soon to be organized.

Olympic Party.

The Olympic society gave their first party of the term Saturday evening at their rooms in Williams' Hall. As is characteristic of Olympic eleven-o'clocks, it was, socially, a very enjoyable event, and the "last dance" came all too soon for those participating.

The rooms presented a fair counterfeit of Nature's decorative art. Potted plants, banked with evergreen, were arranged at the corners and front of the assembly room; the drinking fountain was nearly hidden with a bower of vines; while the chandeliers and pictures were entwined with pine boughs and climbing vines, and the deer's head (a memento of last season's venison roast), peered timidly out from its canopy of spruce boughs.

The pleasure of the evening had scarcely begun when the lights were suddenly extinguished. Before comments upon the fickleness of the Goddess of Light could be exchanged a flood of electrical glory burst forth from the network of vines on the front wall, and cast an intense but mellow light about the rooms. All eyes were now raised to where the word "OLYMPIC" was written in letters of fire upon a background of green, and denunciation of the Goddess changed to eulogies.

The Society was favored by the presence of the Misses Lyford and Avery, accompanied by Mr. Parrott, who ably chaperoned the party. Good music was rendered; and games provided for those not caring to dance. Orange punch and wafers, and peach in cream and cakes were served. Promptly at 10:50 all retired from the rooms, feeling that the occasion would be long remembered as a pleasant social feature of the College year.

A notice too late for full insertion announces an "At Home" at the Pilgrim Congregational church, Friday evening, Oct. 11, 1901, and cordially invites all College people to attend.

THE RECORD rejoices sincerely at the victory won over Hillsdale by our boys in the football game of Saturday. The "winter of our discontent" has been long and discouraging, and we earnestly hope that from now on it will be made "glorious summer." The coach and the team deserve great credit for their patient and persistent work, and we take great pride in their success.

The State Republican of October 5 contains a somewhat lengthy history of the College, from the standpoint, evidently, of an outsider. It gives well-deserved praise to Dr.
Kedzie, President Willits, President Abbot and President Snyder.
Broader information, however, might have softened certain harsh opinions. It is to be regretted, too, that so elaborate a sketch should contain no mention of Franklin Wells, Manley Miles, Geo. T. Fairchild, and others now passed from the immediate scene of action, but deserving a large and permanent place in college annals.

We want to read our people, teachers as well as students, a little lecture on College loyalty. One hardly knows just why, and yet it does seem to be characteristic of state schools to lack unity and coherence in their organization and life. Each department tends to hold itself aloof from the other and each individual tends to go his own independent course without regard to what others are doing. In contrast with such a spirit is that in certain of our Michigan colleges where every teacher, every student is deeply interested in all that the college is doing, and is ready, no matter who is the leader, to throw himself in and help on any movement to which the college has pledged itself, or which seems in any degree whatever to involve the good name or prestige of the institution. Is not this latter the better one of the two? Does it not raise the college and the individual, too, in the eyes of the outsider? On the other hand, does not one have some reservation of opinion, to say the least of it, about the man who resists every proposal that does not emanate from himself or at least coincide very closely with his notions; and with an I-was-not-consulted air sulks in a corner while others are honestly laboring to advance the general good? How unworthy and yet how frequent is the attitude—"This is not managed according to my ideas and so I'll have nothing to do with it." "The entertainment was not gotten up to suit me, and so I'll let the guests suffer." "This teacher does not manage the class just as I think right, and so I'll take no interest." And so on through the whole category; and always with the sneaking hope that through my defection the enterprise will fail and the workers for the general good be thrown into confusion. Let's try to cast out this devil of egoism and try to sink our own personality for the general good.

Now the writer expects to have about two hundred people after him with a club as soon as this gets around the College. He hereby faithfully promises our little public to give it the name of everyone who thus confesses to the accuracy of the description conveyed above.
Better wear the cap in quiet if it fits and try to grow a larger head so that it will fit no longer. H. E.

The Days of Auld Lang Syne.

In college life, with its yearly departure of the old student and advent of the new, changes in personnel and in tradition are much more rapid than in the usual community life, and the phrase "long ago" may well be applied to time comparatively recent; for after all it is change, and not years, that measures life. It seems to be all the more necessary, too, that in colleges those who are somewhat permanent and have in a sense become "the elders" in the community should carefully preserve and insistently commemorate the deeds and the honored names of the fast receding past. While we rejoice in the present with its enlarged opportunities and improved conditions, we should not lightly dismiss the struggles and achievements of those who have preceded us and by their far-seeing decisions and self-sacrificing efforts have made the present possible.

We are led to these reflections by a visit from Mr. Henry G. Reynolds, now of Pasadena, California.
Mr. Reynolds' connection with the College began in 1866, when he entered as a student, graduating in 1870. From '71 to '72 he was foreman of the Horticultural department; from 1879 to 1885 he was a member of the State Board of Agriculture; and from '85 to '93 he was secretary of the College. During all those troublous years, when the College was not firmly established in the affections of the people, and when its future was a matter of anxious thought for all those who loved it, no one was more active in its affairs or more influential in shaping its character and destiny than was Mr. Reynolds. A man of strong convictions, resolute will, and absolute singleness of purpose, he gave the best years of his life to the task of wisely administering the finances of the College and establishing and preserving its distinctive individuality. To no one man does the College owe its existence and success. Many hands have labored and many brains have planned; nor has it always been those best known to the public to whom at critical periods it has owed most. It is no derogation to the work that others have wrought for the College, thus briefly and simply to commemorate the potent influence of one who neither sought nor obtained public recognition and applause.

One thing, however, he did obtain —the high esteem of the community on the campus. With the aid of his sainted wife, he made his home the center of social life at the College.
Many a former student will recall with pleasure the welcome the homesick boy received from the beautiful spirit that presided over his home. No business was too urgent to prevent these two from planning for the welfare and pleasure of those whom the long winter shut in upon our grounds. And who of the older faculty can ever forget those social evenings when under the genial smile and ready wit and tact of host and hostess the hours passed by with winged speed, and all were made to forget the care and labor of the day! Alas, alas, that spirits such as hers should ever die! "For in all good works she was ever foremost."

And so, as I have walked with him over this campus that he had known so long and so well, where his influence had been so strong and so wide-reaching, where every tree and every house spoke so eloquently of all that he had loved in his own home, the beauty and the pathos of those days of long ago came over my own heart with overwhelming power and shut out all the present with its brightness and success.
The widely scattered forms and faces of the "long ago" came back each in its accustomed place and it was good to be back in the days of auld lang syne.

"Fresh as the first beam glittering on a sail, That brings our friends up from the under world,
Sad as the last which reddens over one That sinks with all we love below the verge;
So sad, so fresh, the days that are no more."

Botanical Club Meeting.

Miss Gilchrist gave a very interesting talk before the botanical club last Tuesday evening. The talk was general and comprised brief descriptions and comments on botanical gardens which she had the opportunity to visit in both this country and Europe. Among the gardens mentioned were those of Cambridge, Mass., which she referred to as the Mecca of American botanists, the Oxford, and the famous Kew gardens of England, and the parks and gardens of Paris and Berlin.
Miss Gilchrist is very enthusiastic on the subject of botany and we may look for more interesting talks by her. O. R. S.

C. D. WOODBURY,
 HOLLISTER BLOCK.

Old Students.

H. E., '95, and W. E. McLean, with '99, visited at M. A. C. last week.

Mr. H. E. Van Norman '97, now instructor in dairying at Purdue University, visited the College on last Wednesday.

Elmer J. Rowley, '90, visited the College Sunday and Monday last. He was on his way to his home in Greenville after a summer spent in the harvest fields of Manitoba.

Duncan L. Reynolds, '92-'93, is now a practicing dentist in Pasadena, Cal. He has just married a young lady of that city and is now making a home for himself.

S. W. Tracy, '96, writes from Pueblo, Colorado, to subscribe for THE RECORD. He writes on a Missouri Pacific Railway form, but does not say how he is engaged.

Robt. L. Reynolds, '95, has bought an interest in a manufacturing business in San Francisco, and has settled down to make a permanent home in that city.

J. M. Rankin, with '97a, has been making his headquarters at M. A. C. for the past two weeks. Mr. Rankin is State inspector of apiaries and has just closed his year's work. He expects to graduate with '02.

F. L. Reynolds, '91-'94, is a mining engineer in Mexico. He finds the life in that part of the world quite rough, and desires that his sister, Jessie, just graduated from school and now arrived at beautiful young womanhood, may visit him that she may at least learn never to marry a mining engineer.

The following is an excerpt from a letter written to a friend by Wm. T. Shaw, M. S., M. A. C., '01, and assistant last year in the zoological laboratory.

"I am about as busy as I was the last time we met. Am packing up again; this time to go to Oregon to accept a good position there in the college, (agricultural). They promoted me here but the Oregon people gave me a better offer.

My address will be 2293 Langford Ave, St Anthony Park, Minn., for a week when it will be Agricultural College, Corvallis, Oregon.

The following from the Lansing Republican of Oct. 2, will be of much interest to friends of Mr. Bulkley. The class date should read '99. Mr. Bulkley is now professor in Hawkesbury Agricultural College, Wallerawang, N. S. W., Australia. By the way, why is it that our friends allow us to have to depend on second hand information in this way? "Joseph A. Bulkley, who was graduated at M. A. C. with the class of '98, is the author of a poem called "The Hunger Track," which is attracting wide attention throughout Australia and Great Britain. The poem deals with the famine in Australia and the lack of sympathy of the well-to-do class in regard to it, and bears in style a strong resemblance to Rudyard Kipling."

Clarence B. Smith, '93, and M. S., '95, was married on the evening of October 2d, to Miss Lottie Lee Smith, special student at M. A. C., '01.

The wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents, 520 Capitol avenue n., Lansing. A large number of invited guests were present, many being from some distance. The future home of Mr. and Mrs. Smith will be Washington, D. C., 1404 West Street N. W., in which city Mr. Smith is located, being horticultural editor of the Experiment Station Record, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

[It is not often that two young people on their wedding day can look forward into a fairer or more promising future than offers itself before these two. The groom is one of our most promising graduates, a young man of sterling character and correct habits; a student now more even, than in his student days; a scholar whose work has already won recognition. And we can and do heartily congratulate him on his choice of a bride—a young lady of refined taste, charming manners and address, beautiful person, and womanly heart. The RECORD wishes them a hearty Godspeed. May the journey upon which they have entered together be a long and smooth one, leading upward to solid and secure achievement, and drawing by an easy and sunny slope to the end! Ed.]

Notes Gathered Here and There.

Instructor George Severance judged sheep at the Clinton Co. Fair.

Profs. W. O. and U. P. Hedrick have with them on a visit their father and mother.

Mr. Holdsworth, accompanied by his daughter, is spending the week with his son, Prof. W. S. Holdsworth.

Oct. 2, Prof. Ferguson and Instructor Humphrey judged, the one cattle, and the other sheep and swine at the Eaton County Fair.

The farm department has bought eighty home-grown lambs to be used in educational experiments, and will add to these eighty western lambs for the same purpose.

A fraternity pin and a pocket knife have been found on the campus and placed with the Librarian. The owners can get the same by applying to her and paying cost of advertisement.

On Sept. 23 and 24 Prof. Ferguson placed the awards of the different mutton classes at the State Fair, and on the 25th he judged Red Polled cattle at the same place.

From Mr. Henry G. Reynolds we learn with sincere regret that former President Oscar Clute is undergoing treatment for some nervous disease in a California hospital.

The live stock advertised for sale by the College has been partly sold during the week just past. There are still on hand several sheep and some younger Jersey and Holstein calves.

In the agricultural department 58 freshmen are enrolled.

The seniors have of late been engaged in writing criticisms of the live-stock work at the State fair, in competition for a silver medal offered by the Zenner Disinfectant Co.

Mr. L. L. Locke has in the Michigan School Moderator of Oct. 3, an interesting article on "The Power of Defining," in which he shows how the widening concept of number has necessitated entire reconstruction of old axioms and definitions in mathematics. It is an instructive and scholarly production, and will well reward careful study.
