

The M. A. C. RECORD.

MICHIGAN STATE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

VOL. 15.

LANSING, MICHIGAN, TUESDAY, JANUARY 11, 1910.

No. 15.

WILL OFFER ONE WEEK COURSES.

The latest departure of the Agricultural department is to offer one week courses in corn production, dairying and swine production. The week of the round-up institute will be devoted to fruit culture, soils, crops, fertilizers, etc. They will occur in the following order: Corn production Feb. 14, Round-up Institute Feb. 22-25, inclusive, Dairying Feb. 28, Swine Production, March 7. They are intended for men that are actually engaged in business; men confined by responsibilities so that they do not have an opportunity to get in touch with some of the more scientific and practical developments of the farmers' craft. It is also intended to afford a desirable relaxation from the regular routine of farm work.

Specialists and college men of the best ability will conduct the work, and general discussions from personal experiences will be a feature of each meeting.

An enrollment fee of $1 will be required at the time of registration. This fee will be good for all the course.

Following are the programs:

The following subjects will be presented and discussed:

(1) Soils, preparation, planting, cultivating and corn cutting implements, fertilizers.

(2) Corn improvement, possibilities, seed selection, breeding, commercial seed production, Michigan weeds, chemistry of corn and corn products.

(3) Harvesting and marketing, general methods, details of methods, huskers, shredders, etc., marketing and shrinkage and enemies.

(4) Corn judging—ideal ear, methods and terms, score card relation to improvement.

Two or three hours daily will be devoted to corn judging.

ROUND-UP FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

The meeting will continue for four days and among the topics will be:

(1) Soils, their chemical and physical nature and the effects produced by tillage.

(2) Commercial fertilizers and manures, their source, use and value.

(3) Farm crops and the best methods of planting and caring for them.

(4) Fruit culture, including the planting, pruning and spraying of orchards and the marketing of the crop.

(5) Farm animals, their breeding and care.

(6) Demonstration exercises in spraying and corn judging.

The lectures from day to day will be arranged to form a continuous series and to get the full benefit from them one should be present for the entire four days.

There will be sessions the first three evenings at which most of the addresses will be illustrated with stereopticon views.

DAIRY WEEK.

This course will include the following:

(1). Studies in breed type with animals for demonstration and criticism, scoring, etc. The actual judging of rings of animals will be included.

(2). Dairy cattle feeding.*

(3). Dairy cattle breeding problems.

(4). Private, semi-official and official tests.

(5). Babcock test and cream separators.

(6). Tuberculin testing.

(7). Emergencies.

(8). Equipment.

SWINE WEEK.

The following outline is presented:

(1). Studies in breed type.

(2). Swine judging.

(3). Breeding.

(4). Feeding.

(5). Forage crops.

(6). General diseases and sanitation.

(7). Equipment.

FELL FROM TOP OF BUILDING.

George Vorse, a carpenter employed on the new addition to the botany building, received severe injuries from a fall Monday. The scaffold upon which he was working gave way and allowed him to drop two stories to the basement. His collar bone was broken and head badly bruised. Dr. Broegel did not think the injuries would prove fatal.

Mr. Vorse was taken to the Lansing hospital to be cared for. His home is at 1420 Ionia St. West.

PROMENADE CONCERT.

The first promenade concert of the year will be given by the band Saturday evening in the Armory. A good program has been arranged and this promenade bids fair to outclass all previous ones given. It will be conducted similar to those given last year, ladies being invited to attend in a body and the men charged 15 cents each. Be there and show the band you are interested in them. The program is as follows:

1. March—"Grand Honor"—Lehnhardt.

2. Idyl—"The Glow Worm"—Lincke.

3. Two Step—

4. Selection—"Broken Idol"—Van Alstyne.

5. Waltz—

6. Andante—"Meditation"—Morrison.

7. Descriptive Overture—"The Fall of Jericho"—Maillochand.

8. Two Step—

9. Chinese March—Prendeville.

10. Entrée Act—"Spring Dreams"—King.

11. Waltz—

AN APPRECIATION.

The Try and Trust Circle of King's Daughters desires to express its deep sense of loss in the death of one of its charter members,

MRS. HANNAH A. BEAL.

Always present when health permitted, she took an active interest in both the Bible study and the charitable work of the organization, serving it for several years as treasurer and custodian of its charity fund. The appeals for help from the needy always struck a responsive chord in her heart, and she gave liberally for their relief.

We learned to know her and love her for her earnest faith and Christian charity. For nearly forty years she has been one of the leading spirits of the community, ready and willing to assist in any worthy undertaking; always cheerful, always hopeful. Her life brightened the path and made life easier for the many who knew her during these years.

To her family and friends we extend our heartfelt sympathy.

DEBATERS, ATTENTION!

The first preliminaries for the Psi Chi debate will be held on Friday evening, Jan. 14, at 7 o'clock. The question is, "Resolved, that cities in Michigan having a population of 25,000 or more should be governed by a commission of not over nine men elected at large. Constitutionality conceded." Six teams have been chosen and will meet at the following places at 7 o'clock sharp:

Team I in Columbian society rooms.

Team II in Agricultural building.

Team III in Eunomian Society rooms.

Team IV in chapel.

Team V in Forensic Society rooms.

Team VI in Y. M. C. A. rooms.

M. A. C. AT A. A. A. S.

M. A. C.'s representation at the A. A. A. S., which met in Boston, Dec. 27, 1909, to Jan. 1, 1910, was composed of Dr. Marshall, Dr. Rahn and Dean Bissell. Dean Bissell was secretary of the Society of Engineers and Dr. Marshall was elected secretary of Society of Bacteriologists for the coming year. Dr. Rahn read a paper which was very well received.

The next meeting will be held in Minneapolis instead of Honolulu as was previously planned. The various societies known as "the naturalists" will hold their convention separate from the rest, so it is thought, the place not having been chosen yet. Dr. Marshall presented a paper for Walter G. Sackett of Fort Collins, Colorado, on "Bacterial Diseases of Alfalfa."

The motorman on car 110 found a silver open-faced watch Thursday noon.

ALUMNI

With '89.

Dr. J. A. Weslner, with '89, will be present at the State Millers' Association at Lansing Jan. 18 and 19.

'95.

Gerrit Masselink, '95, is assistant principal of Ferris Institute.

With '00.

F. W. Dodge, with 1900, spent the holidays with his parents in Lansing. He is engaged in mining engineering with the Moores-Mansfield Construction Co., Indianapolis, Ind. A severe attack of typhoid fever prevented Mr. Dodge's graduation with his class. He expects to make arrangements to receive his degree at the next commencement.

'04.

M. W. Taber, '04 mechanical, spent the holiday week with relatives in Lansing. Mr. Taber is located in Manistee, Mich., as chief engineer of the Manistee & Grand Rapids Railroad Co.

'07.

Ira D. Angell, '07 civil, spent the holidays with his parents in Alma, but took one day for a visit to the college. He is chief assistant engineer for the St. Joseph Lead Co., at Bonne Terre, Mo.

Kelley Lemmon, '08, one of the recently appointed lieutenants of coast artillery, whose headquarters are at Portland, Me., was married during the holidays to Miss Agnes Johnson, of Ironwood, Mich., at the Hotel Brevort, Chicago. The bride is a sister of Julius E. Johnson, of the class of '13.

F. J. Twaits, with '08 civil, can be addressed at 453 Sargent Ave., Manitoba. Since June 1st he has been engaged with the Manitoba Bridge & Iron Works as assistant engineer in charge of the drafting room. When he returns it is possible he may take along with him one or two other M. A. C. men who will be employed at drafting and design.

Miss Grace Owen, '08, stopped at the college Friday evening. She is teaching in Wisconsin.

E. J. Shassberger, '08, spent vacation with Mrs. Shassberger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Miller, at Lansing. He is teaching his second year at Harvey, Ill.

'09.

Prof. Jefferies gave a talk before the farmers' school at Otsego, Saturday. Roy G. Hoopingarner, '09, is principal there.

J. L. Graybill, '09, is principal of schools at Mt. Zion, Pa.

"Bennie" Roberts, '09, is teaching in the Hudson high school.

A. J. Hutchins, '09, is teaching in the St. Louis, Mich., high school.

THE FORESTERS' TRIP.

On the evening of December 13 Prof. Baker and ten senior foresters left for the camps of Salling & Hanson Lumber Co., located in Crawford Co., to make observations on practical logging as conducted in hard woods. They arrived at Grayling 4:00 a. m. the next morning and left at 7:00 a. m. for Watters Switch with T. E. Michelson, Wood's manager for the company. Just before noon the party left the combination freight and log train which had carried them from Grayling to Watters Switch and followed Mr. Michelson along a log switch about a mile and a half to Camp Frederic.

Camp Frederic is located between two hills with a broad stretch of plains extending from the camp to the eastward. The tree growth is still dense on the hills, and consists mostly of hard maple, beech and hemlock with a few birch and iron wood. The plains were heavily timbered once. The old forest growth was in great measure made of red and white pine, as the huge blackened stumps now indicate. Fires have run over these plains at irregular intervals. The jack pine has taken possession until now the lands look like thousands of other acres in northern Michigan located in the same general region.

Camp Frederic is composed of several low, square log buildings and several freight cars on a side track. The low, square log buildings include the stable, the hay and grain house, the filers cabin, a bunk house, a pump house, and a cold storage house. The freight cars were fitted up for camp use. The first one was fitted up for a camp store, or van or bum as the lumber jacks termed it.

The log scaler and the camp foreman were considered privileged characters by the rest of the crew as they slept in the Bum. It was pleasant to drop in to the Bum for an evening chat with the scaler or foreman. Across one end of the car ran a curtain which hid in a measure the beds of the scaler and foreman with a huge old fashioned tin trunk and a more modern cheap make-believe leather suit case. In the other end of the Bum on shelves extending from the floor to the ceiling was the camp dry goods and tobacco supply. The scaler acted as storekeeper and would sell Peerless or Niggerhead to the waiting Jack, always recording it before he gave the piece over to the prospective purchaser. There were socks, caps, rubbers, shirts and other heavy clothing equipment to be had at any time by the Jack and recorded up against him to be paid for at the month's end.

Three of the other cars were fitted up for bunk houses or sleeping quarters. A big heating stove was placed in the middle and the double deck iron beds in four sets occupied each end. The weather being cold the windows had all been nailed shut, as fresh air is supposed to be injurious to sleeping lumber jacks.

Two of the remaining cars were fitted up as dining rooms to accommodate 45 hungry woodsmen, and the last car as a cook house where the cook and cookee ruled supreme.

After the baggage had been stowed away under the double decked beds it was dinner time. After dinner the party left for the woods where the actual operations of logging were going on. Sample plats were laid out and the men divided into squads. Each squad measured the timber carefully and then choppers were put at work felling the trees on the area. Then each squad measured the trees as soon as they were felled. The days passed quickly, breakfast before day light, supper long after dark.

COLLEGE BUS HEADQUARTERS

Then the whole camp was quiet, save when an extraordinary loud peal of laughter floated from the bunk house, or the restless pawing of one of the heavy horses in their stalls might be heard above the wind in the trees.

The first in the morning to stir was Jay, the yard man, he burst into the bunk house, lighted the lanterns, stuffed the stove with pine knots, poured on kerosene, opened up the drafts, lit the knots, then exclaimed "— (blankety-blankety) it is a good one, get up boys." Then he would disappear. Besides Jay, the teamsters were always first up. The lights could be seen at the stables and the chuck of the trace chains could be heard as the men harness their horses for the day's work. Then came the long drawn out call for breakfast.

The present day lumber jack is rough and ready, always ready to take and give. It may be as an individual he is old in the work, hair turning gray, stoop shoulder, red eyed, with an immoral face, that never quite lacks the smirk produced by the last vile story his brain has conjured to please his younger companion, who in twenty years of the same life will be like him. These men work hard, drink hard and doubtless die hard.

There is, however, another class of camp or shanty men who can scarcely be classed as lumber jacks.

They come into the camps from the adjoining country for the winter, hoping to earn money to help pay for their holdings in the clearings. When Saturday night comes they start out after dark across the snow on skies for their homes to spend Sunday with their family and to replenish the store of fire wood.

The foresters upon completion of the work at camp Frederic, returned to Frederic and the next morning walked eight miles in a snow storm to camp No. 12 of the David Ward Estate, then five miles to where the last of the white pine was being cut and then five miles westward to the big double band mill which was cutting 110 thousand feet per day of hemlock and pine.

That night late four horses hitched to a big pair of bob sleds hauled the foresters back to Frederic. The next day the entire party went ten miles east of Frederic to the Jap Smith camp to see more operations in mixed hard woods and hemlock and that night late a down train was boarded for Grayling.

Sunday evening was enjoyably spent at the beautiful home of Mr. Mickelson, in listening to music and telling stories. Next two days were spent in Grayling under the guidance of Mr. Mickelson in going through the mills and yards of the company.

The senior foresters were guests of the company from the time they reached Grayling until they left it after completion of the work. Everything was done to make the trip both one of pleasure and of profit to each member of the party.

As a token the foresters presented Mickelson with a brass smoking set.

THE REAL TESTS

Of good underwear are warmth, wear and washing. Warmth means wool and plenty of it, or a fine cotton fabric closely woven. Wear is too often a matter of conjecture. The washing qualities can only be demonstrated in the tub. Good underwear is warm, soft, firm and non-shrinking. It is for these essential qualities we recommend our "Munsing" underwear. It is thoroughly good, perfect fitting, all flat seams, which makes it comfortable, and its wearing qualities makes it the most satisfactory underwear at popular prices that can be produced.

ATHLETIC NOTES.

The game Friday night between Jackson Y. M. C. A. and the home team was an extra good one for the opening game of the season. While we had had only three days' practice the work of the individuals promises that we will have a stronger team than we have ever had before. Of the new men, Busch at the forward position showed exceptionally clever work, while Spencer, Chamberlain and Barnett all proved varsity material.

During the first half the team showed splendid team work, scoring 31 points to Jackson 8. In the second half shifts in the line-up broke up the team play somewhat.

SUMMARY.

JACKSON. M. A. C.
Bucknell l. f. Spencer
Dewey r. f. McKenna
Dean c. Chamberlain
Corbitt l. g. Campbell
Capt. Russell r. g. Barnett
Hodgman Hanish
Field baskets—McKenna 6, Busch 6,
Campbell 3, Spencer 2, Barnett 4, Hanish 4, Bucknell 4, Dewey 1, Dean 1.

The second game of the schedule is with the Spalding team of Detroit. This team is one of the best of the state teams and the game promises to be one of the fastest on the local floor this season.

This game has a special interest, as Merz, a last year's M. A. C. star and favorite, is playing on their team.

The opening of the class series will be Friday night also, the seniors playing the freshmen and the juniors the sophomores. The first game will be called at 6:45.

A portion of the football schedule for next fall has been announced and it promises to be the most attractive we have ever had. Michigan will be played at Ann Arbor. Marquette University at Milwaukee, Wis., while Notre Dame will come here for the first time. Wabash will also play their annual game on the home field. Of the state colleges Olivet, Alma and Detroit will be on the schedule.

Geo. Hubbard, '09, is assisting H. L. Kempster in the poultry department this term.

Claud Nash, '09, is teaching at Lawton.

C. Chandler Taylor, '09, paid the college a visit Monday. He is traveling for the Kentucky Tobacco Products Co., of Louisville, instead of American Tobacco Products Co., as was stated in the last issue of the RECORD.

The short course men will hold a meeting each Friday evening during their term. The meeting last Friday evening was addressed by President Snyder. Music was a part of the program, and everybody enjoyed a good time.
