James G. Moore was married on Oct. 15 to Miss M. Josephine Hibbard, of Shepherd, Mich. When at M. A. C. recently Mr. and Mrs. Moore were on their way to Madison, Wis., where they are at home at 809 Grant St. Mr. Moore is associate horticulturist in the University.

NOTRE DAME.

Perhaps the most important game ever played on our home field will be played on Saturday afternoon at 2:30. M. A. C. has never scored on Notre Dame although we have been playing them for years. When the contests first began it was not unusual for the Catholics to pile up a score of 50 or more points against us, but for the past three years we have been almost on a par. Last year N. D. were the undisputed champions of the west, winning every game on their schedule. They defeated M. A. C. 17 to 0 and Michigan 11 to 3. This basis of comparison makes this season's game of even greater interest than that of last.

Word received from old M. A. C. students indicate that we may expect large delegations from all parts of the state and it is expected that this will be sort of a home coming of M. A. C. football enthusiasts who will help us cheer the boys on to victory.

For this game all seats will be reserved and sale of same will open in Director Brewer's office on Tuesday at twelve o'clock. Extra bleachers and box seats are being erected for the game, and it is planned to have accommodations for a large crowd. Prices of seats will be 50c., 75c., $1 and $1.50. Season tickets may be exchanged for reserved seats, and this must be done if seat is reserved.

The officials for this game are the best obtainable, Hoagland, of Princeton, referee; Esterline, of Purdue, umpire; Dr. Robbins, of Nebraska, field judge; Fishleigh, of Ann Arbor, head linesman. It will be the game of the season and a big crowd is expected. Plan to be "one of 'em."

TEACHERS WANTED IN THE PHILIPPINES

There will be about one hundred positions in the teaching service to be filled before the opening of the next school year in June, 1911. These appointments will be made during the present school year, and the appointees will be furnished transportation early enough for them to reach Manila during May or early June. Of these hundred appointees about ten will be needed for high school science; ten for industrial subjects as wood working, iron working, the use of explosive engines, etc.; about twenty for other high and intermediate school subjects; five to teach domestic science and home economy, and others for supervising positions. Only those especially qualified for these particular lines of work should be recommended for appointment or encouraged to seek positions.

Address all inquiries concerning this matter to George N. Briggs, Superintendent Philippine Normal School, Care of Bureau of Insular Affairs, Washington, D. C.

MME. LANGENDORFF.

On Wednesday evening, October 19th, the first number of the college entertainment course took place at the Armory, when a concert was given by Madame Frieda Langendorff, contralto, assisted by Guy Callow, violinist, and Kurt Wanieck, pianist. The Armory was filled by a large and unusually enthusiastic audience which expressed its appreciation of the work of the performers by calling for repeated encores.

Madame Langendorff has, indeed, a marvelous voice and a most winning personality. Her voice has a wonderful range and she passes from the lower to the higher notes with an ease and smoothness that is delightful to hear, and always her tones are clear, full and resonant. Her singing was forceful and sympathetic and at times full of passion and dramatic power.

She won her audience with her first group of songs, which were as follows: "Aufenthalt" (Schubert); "Der Tod und Das Madchen" (Schubert); "Lotosblume" (Schumann); "Du Meine Seele" (Schumann). Her second number was an aria from Samson and Delilah ("My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice") by Saint-Saens, which she sang with wonderful pathos. Her last group consisted of "The Cross" (Ware); "The Danza" (Chadwick); "Charity" (MacDermid); "The Cry of Rachel" (Salter).

If it were possible to discriminate among any of these songs, perhaps Madame Langendorff's best efforts were put forth on the aria from Samson and Delilah, and "The Cry of Rachel," but this is scarcely fair as each selection rivaled the others in artistic production.

Madame Langendorff was well supported by Mr. Callow and Mr. Wanieck. Mr. Callow played the Andante and Finale from the Mendelssohn Concerto and Wieniawski's Faust Fantaisie with a precision and understanding which merited great praise. Mr. Callow is well known in Lansing, having appeared in that city in concert.

Mr. Wanieck played Brahms' Intermezzo, Op. 116, No. 4 and the Finale from Op. 72, Saint-Saens, closing the program of the evening with Liszt's Mephisto Waltz. Each of these selections was fraught with great technical difficulties of which the pianist disclosed a complete command. His accompaniments throughout the evening were rendered with a most excellent understanding and sympathy.

On the whole this concert stood far above the average run of entertainments, and if it is at all prophetic of the excellence of the remainder of the course, the value received will be worth many times the price of the season ticket. All those who have not already purchased tickets should do so without further delay, as no one can afford to miss this unusual opportunity. The Liberal Arts Union deserves great credit for bringing these artists to the college and should be encouraged by our most loyal support.

ALUMNI

Gordon E. Tower, with the Bohrnstedt Co., who are developing fruit lands in the west, writes that he is enjoying his new work very much. The company has just purchased a new transit and other surveying equipment and Mr. Tower is to do the surveying for the company in addition to his other duties as orchardist. His address is R. D. 5, Box 33, Salem, Oregon.

'03.

B. T. Hesse is now proprietor of a grain elevator at his home town, Napoleon, and is doing a good business. Prof. Shoemith called on him a few days ago.

'05.

Richard Fowler, with the Owen Motor Co., Detroit, was here on business last week and gives notice that on October 11 a son, Forest Kendall, was born into his home. Mrs. Fowler was formerly Miss Beulah Broas, also with '05.

EDITOR M. A. C. RECORD.

Dear Sir: I find the only way to keep in touch with my M. A. C. friends is through the RECORD. Please find enclosed year's subscription.

I hold position with the G. C. Hodgson & Co. as civil engineer. This company has the contract to build a U. S. lock and dam on the Ouachita River, about four and one-half miles below Felsenthal. The company furnishes comfortable cottages for their employees and so my wife, formerly Miss Ella MacManus, class '08, is here with me.

We both extend our wishes for the success of this year's RECORD.

Very truly yours,
CASS A. LAMB.

Felsenthal, Ark., 10/9, 1910.

'07.

L. C. Brass, writing from Seattle, Wash., says: "Please add me to the list of those who are enjoying their work, I am still computing in the city engineer's office, but my status quo, so to speak, is considerably better than it was a year ago. Much more might be said, but the least that is expected of an M. A. C. man is that he makes good." Mr. Brass' address is 1514 Boren Ave.

'08.

Ray A. Small has changed his address from San Francisco, Cal., to Manila, P. I., care of Chief Quartermaster, Philippines Division, Construction Office. Ray says, "everybody is well and happy here, fine climate and lots of fun."

J. R. Dice has resigned his position as instructor in animal husbandry in Orono, Maine, to accept a position as teacher in one of the county agricultural schools in New York. A 50 per cent. increase in salary is largely responsible for the change.

HORT. CLUB.

Instructor Gregg addressed the Hort. Club at its last meeting, and gave a very interesting account of fruit growing in the West as observed by him during his trip the past summer. He spoke of the manner in which the fruit trees were cared for, methods of irrigation and harvesting. He also spoke of some disadvantages and inconveniences with which some of these fruit sections of Washington have to contend. This address was followed by a short talk by Mr. Thayer on his trip to Mr. W. W. Farnsworth's orchard just outside of Toledo, Ohio. Mr. Farnsworth is one of the most prominent fruit growers in Ohio and some beautiful specimens of Jonathan and Delicious apples from his orchard were shown. Specimens were also shown from the Experiment Station at Wooster, Ohio.

Pres. Keith then had the pleasure of calling on Mr. Gunson who gave an interesting account of his trip through the fruit belt during the summer. Pears, and sweet cider made from apples gathered on the grounds, were served.

Mr. Patton will speak on fertilizers, their source, and how to use and mix them.

DEBATING CLUB.

Ypsilanti has submitted the following question for debate, "Resolved, that the federal government should retain ownership of all coal mines existing on lands now owned or hereafter acquired by the United States."

At the club meeting Thursday evening the club discussed the question to some extent, though on account of illness one member was unable to be present. The discussion, however, proved very satisfactory and brought out the fact that members of the club were much interested in the subject suggested by Ypsi.

A committee was appointed to act with a committee from the faculty to decide whether or not to accept the subject and which side to accept.

The faculty have granted a Thanksgiving vacation from Wednesday evening, Nov. 23 until Monday morning, Nov. 28. Class officers shall, however, have the right to excuse students earlier than Wednesday evening if it can be proven that such excuse is necessary in order that the student may reach home before Thursday noon. A fine of one dollar ($1.00) for each class missed on Wednesday or Monday will be imposed, such fines not to exceed $3.00.

WALKS AND TALKS WITH DR. BEAL.

Amherst, Mass., Oct. 7, 1910.

The unpacking and arranging of goods has gone far enough to find the rolling pin, so the girl does not resort to the use of a whiskey (empty) bottle as a substitute—this has but one handle as you know. A few tame gray squirrels come about the place and "sing" as they used to long ago when I was a young tutor. They will climb a boy's shoulder for an old butternut. I like them for a campus better than the red squirrels. The good people of East Lansing should be patient, they may in time have an abundance of wild carrots in the fields and along the roadside adding one more to the variety of plants to ornament the landscape. They cover most of the vacant lots here and are plenty almost everywhere. The distant views are fine—in one direction on clear days reaching into the edge of Vermont. To the northwest I can see twenty to thirty miles to the country where my grandfather Beal was born. Professor Brooks tells me that wheat rusts so bad here that it could not be successfully grown, even if farmers cared to grow it. The chief crops are gardening and fruit, dairying and chickens and tobacco. I saw men digging with a fork, large potatoes that would yield 400 bushels to the acre, and yet the last part of the summer has been very dry. This crop was on the college farm. We like this town and the people very much.

An authorized person visits all the schools occasionally and looks after every pupil, (here I am interrupted by the agricultural college bell where the buildings are so remote from each other that ten minutes are allowed between classes) to see that their hands are clean and finger nails properly free from dirt. Instead of drinking fountains in some schools, each pupil is required to keep in his desk a drinking cup, preferably one which has a cap or cover. Pupils are all furnished with books, pencils and cheap paper.

W. J. BEAL.

When people of Lansing and vicinity have a little spare time or when the weather is pretty warm, they often take the trolley car to Pine Lake or Waverly's Park, possibly Grand Ledge, to see tame scenery, but under similar conditions Amherst people take a suburban and go where they climb Sugar Loaf, up a zigzag path and see something worth while—the Connecticut river and the rich valley and roads and villages and farms marked off checkerboard fashion, or they may go to Mount Tom, 1,200 feet up, riding on a car to the top; on clear days seeing off 25 miles or more. Good air? Yes, and plenty of it. Other hills can be explored. Chestnut trees abound and bear well. The autumn scenery is fine.

Instead of spreading open tops as at Lansing, all the numerous red cedars grow with narrow dense tops as though they had been trimmed closely.

A few days ago Mr. Baker and I accompanied a few of the professors and fifty or more students and others on a suburban, four miles to the midst of a farm of about 300 acres to look over the planting to fruit. Two professors were the proprietors and had planted already 125 acres, chiefly apples and peaches. They had been at the work about three years, and already the trees showed the results of care, indicating by growth and color that they were promising fruit. The neighborhood had basted the professors when they began, calling them fools, idiots, theorists. The college is aiming to have a small orchard well managed in each county, at least, as an advertisement.

We saw plenty of tracks of deer which came from the wooded hill to browse the trees. They had to shoot a few of them which is permitted, provided the game warden is promptly notified.

In 1870, about fifteen young women became students of Michigan Agricultural College where they selected studies that were in the course for the boys. This year the M. A. C. of this town has three brave coeds in attendance. I was introduced to them. Massachusetts is conservative in the line of coeducation, though progressive in many other directions. It seems queer to have time at my disposal that I may stop almost anywhere and do anything I want to when I want to, though I am not idle.

W. J. BEAL.

Mrs. Snyder gave a Bohemian tea to members of the King's Daughters on Friday evening of last week.

FARMERS' CLUB.

The members of the Farmers' Club and their friends were given a very interesting talk by Prof. W. H. French. The subject was, "Public Agricultural Education." Prof. French told how the first schools and colleges were founded, and traced the beginning of agricultural science. Today there are not only colleges, but secondary and high schools teaching agricultural science. From the college the science is carried to the people who are not in schools. Young men and women are being trained in the high schools. The only danger is that of allowing, as some schools do, young students to specialize. Often the teachers are not well enough trained and the student becomes disgusted. We should have trained men who are interested in carrying out this great work.

Dr. Lyman will speak Oct. 25th. Be sure to come. Subject: "Pathology of Birth."

LAKE FOREST.

Lake Forest went down to defeat on M. A. C. ground Saturday afternoon before a crowd of 1,000 people, the final score being 37 to 0. Although a heavy rain had fallen during Friday the field was in fairly good condition for the contest, and the day just snappy enough for the work. M. A. C. played some erratic ball, as well as some of the best ever seen on our field. The first half was replete with fumbles and loose playing caused no doubt by cold fingers. The visitors showed lack of knowledge of the rudiments of the game, while M. A. C. was particularly strong as shown by splendid blocking and tackling. Hill was at his best, and made a number of spectacular runs. Several of these were made possible by the excellent work of Exelby, Stone, and Riblet, all of whom starred in their respective positions. The line played strong ball, McWilliams, the big center, getting in on every play, and in several plays tackled the runner in the open field. "Dobber" Davis, playing his first varsity game, was also a favorite, being everywhere present and proving a puzzler to the visitors.

The visitors got dangerously near a touchdown on two different occasions, both of these on fumbles following kick off. They in turn fumb'ed, however, and the ball was soon out of danger. The team improves with each game and the big team on Saturday will find they will have to go some.

Mr. Winfield C. Spratt wishes his mail addressed to box 758, Thief River Falls, Minnesota. He is teaching agriculture in the high school there. He spent a month this summer at Upper Peninsula experiment station at Chatham, Michigan. Writing from there early in August he said that he would go into Minnesota about the 16th inasmuch as he "was to draw up and teach a new course in a high school in a new and rapidly growing town in the rich and fertile Red River valley." Those who knew "Win." as a freshman and again as senior, are confident that the determination that wrought this transformation will insure him success now.

A DELIGHTFUL DINNER.

One of the most important, and certainly one of the pleasantest social affairs of the year was the dinner given last Thursday evening at the president's home, by Dr. and Mrs. Snyder and Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Mifflin, of Lansing.

Seventy-two guests, a majority of them prominent Lansing people, were seated at small tables scattered through the dining room, living room, and parlor. The house, so admirably adapted for entertainments on an elaborate scale, was never more beautiful than it was on this occasion in its decorations of brilliant salvia and gorgeous autumn leaves.

Following the dinner the guests were entertained with a number of delightful vocal solos by Mr. Fred Killeen, of Lansing, who is in charge of the college chorus this year, and with several readings by Professor King, of the English department.

ABOUT THE CAMPUS.

George Hubbard '09, of Clarkston, Michigan, visited the college yesterday.

Mr. M. L. LeBeau, of Elsie, Mich., has been engaged to work in the dairy during the fall term.

Mrs. D. M. Faunce of Fremont arrived at M. A. C. last week for a visit with her son B. A. and family.

Notre Dame won from Buchtel college, Ohio, Saturday, 51 to 0. Buchtel is on a par with Lake Forest.

A big mass meeting and barbecue will be held on Friday evening in order to prepare for the game with Notre Dame.

Rev. Goldsmith is delivering a series of sermons on "Great Affirmatives of Faith" extending from October 16 to Jan. 18.

Miss Wilhelmina Bates visited college friends over Sunday. Miss Bates is teaching domestic art in the city schools of Detroit.

Miss Clara Hunt, of Freeport, Ill., is spending a couple of weeks with her sister, Prof. Hunt, of the domestic science department.

On Wednesday of this week occurs the marriage of H. W. Norton, Jr., '03, of Howell, to Miss Mable Reeves at the latter's home near Lansing.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Buskirk, of Wayland, are visiting at the home of their daughter, Mrs. J. F. Baker. Mr. Buskirk, '78, was formerly a member of the State Board of Agriculture.

The alcove in the northeast corner of the library has been reserved for the use of the debaters who are requested to leave whatever library books they care to use upon the table in said alcove.

The freshmen played Mt. Pleasant Normal a tie game, Saturday, the final score being 6 to 6. Hough secured the touchdown for M. A. C. on a clever forward pass near the close of the game.

Mr. F. G. Brown and wife (Zoe Coleman), both of '12, were at M. A. C. on Saturday last for a visit with college friends. Mr. Brown is in the employ of Mr. Post, the Battle Creek cereal man.

ALUMNI.

F. C. Taylor, of '09, writes "Curly" Kurtz and himself are still with the Weston Mott Co., of Flint, and expect to be back for the Notre Dame game on the 29th.

'09.
R. A. Murdock, civil, who, during the summer has been working in the interest of state highways in Ohio, is now engaged with H. L. Russell, of Detroit, surveying and building. His present address is 175 24th St.

C. G. Burroughs, with above class, is foreman of the poultry department in the college of agriculture, Wis. Wisconsin has been doing considerable poultry house construction during the summer and Mr. B. had charge of this work also.

Rumors which seem to be easily confirmed are to the effect that Howard Taft, of '09, and Miss Fuchia Ryall, special in '07-'08, are to be united in marriage on Saturday, Nov. 5, at the home of Miss Ryall, South Haven, Mich.

'10.
Announcements are out for the marriage of Bert Shedd with '10, and Miss Lettie May Abel at Tekonsha, Mich., on Sunday, Oct. 16. Mr. Shedd has an important position as superintendent of a number of co-operative creameries in Calhoun county, with headquarters at Tekonsha.

The Phi Delts held an enjoyable party in the armory Saturday evening.

B. W. Keith, of Sawyer, E. C. Lindemann, Clare, Glen France, Coloma, all 1911, and Otto W. Schleussner, New York, '12, were given the first degrees of Alpha Zeta-ism on Saturday of last week.
