EAST LANSING, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1917.

NO. 9

CUSTER DAY BIG SUCCESS.

M. A. C. RAISES $8200 FOR "Y"

With the idea of giving until it hurts and then giving until it stops hurting, the college students and faculty together met the Y. M. C. A.'s call for their quota of the $1,000,000 Student Friendship War Fund in a splendid manner on Camp Custer day Sunday.

Heralded with a Camp Custer day extra of the Holcad Friday, Nov. 9, and completely organized as to mass meeting and subscription solicitors the Camp Custer day project was put through in a manner that far exceeded the expectations of Secretary Hefley and others of the committee having the work in charge. The mass meeting held Sunday morning in the armory, at which President Kedzie presided, was one of the largest and most enthusiastic meetings that has been held on the campus in years. The program follows:

Star Spangled Banner.....Band
Invocation.....Rev. N. A. McCune
Women's Work in This War.....

.....Dean Georgia L. White
General Work by Y. M. C. A. in

Allied Armies.....Thad E. Leland
What is Being Done at Camp Custer

A. L. Bibbins, '16, R. S. Clark, '18
Prisoners of War Work, Don C. Hefley
My Country 'Tis of Thee.....Band Bibbins, '16, and Clark, '18, from Camp Custer, made a particularly urgent appeal, representing as they did M. A. C. men in service who are making use of and being greatly benefited by the Y. M. C. A. work.

No subscriptions were taken during the meeting, but under the soliciting organization these were gotten during the balance of the day. On Tuesday night a total of $8,174 had been subscribed and came from the following sources:

MEN.

Wells Hall	$730
Williams Hall	265
Abbot Hall	220
Society Houses	698
Off Campus	583
Short Course	390

WOMEN.

Woman's Building	649
Howard Terrace	365
Residence and Cottage	217
Senior House	157
Off Campus	494

Faculty men	2,653
Faculty women	686
Miscellaneous	65

Total

Total	$8,174
No. of pledges	913

Secretary Hefley has determined that the average subscription for women students were something over $7, the average subscription for men students about $6, and for faculty about $22.

The M. A. C. quota of the Students' Friendship War Fund was $6,500, so that the required amount has been exceeded by $1,674. All of the subscriptions are not yet in, but the balance will probably not aggregate more than $100.

MEETING OF THE AMERICAN ASSN. OF AG. COLLEGES AND EXP. STATIONS.

The annual meeting of the American Association of Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations is being held in Washington, D. C., this week on Nov. 14, 15 and 16. Those attending the sessions from M. A. C. are President Kedzie, Deans Shaw, Bissell and White, Secretary Brown, Dr. McCool, Prof. Spragg, Extension Director Baldwin, Prof. Patton and Misses Edmonds, Person and Smith of the home economics department.

The president of the association, Kenyon L. Butterfield, '91, delivers the annual address on the morning of Nov. 14. Other M. A. C. men on the program are C. E. Ferris, '90, who will discuss the Modification of Engineering Curriculum Due to the War; Wm. D. Hurd, '99, a discussion on the Utilization of Non-productive or Partly Non-productive Labor; and Dean Bissell who is to discuss Engineering Experiment Station Legislation.

President Kedzie is secretary of the Association of Separate Land Grant College Presidents, which convenes in Washington at the time of the Agricultural College and Experiment Station meeting.

ALUMNI ATTEND NORTHWESTERN GAME.

About 300 M. A. C. alumni from Chicago, Milwaukee, Fort Sheridan, and the Great Lakes Naval Training Station attended the Northwestern game at Evanston last Saturday. Following the game a dinner and get-together were held at the Hotel LaSalle in Chicago which 155 attended, including the team and band. The dinner was held in the large main dining room of the hotel and the band gave a concert in the lobby after the dinner, which made a decided hit with Chicagoans and undoubtedly brought some very favorable publicity to the college. When the band played the national anthem and director Abel unfurled Old Glory from the balcony the entire assemblage in the foyer and lobby rose and sung. At the request of U. of M. alumni rejoicing at the result of the Cornell-Michigan game the band played the "Victors" and received much applause. The playing of Alma Mater brought the gathering to a close—the band returning immediately to the college to assist in the Camp Custer day program.

About 100 alumni and former students from Chicago and the military and naval training camps enjoyed meeting Director Brewer and the members of the team. Among the alumni were P. G. McKenna, former football captain, who has recently returned from South Africa; Bert Doty, also a former captain of the M. A. C. team; and such prominent Chicago M. A. C. people as Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Woodworth and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hammond.

This week the president's outer office is being given a new floor covering of linoleum. Old timers returning on Homecoming day or any other time will hardly know the office in its new floor appointments. There are many who will miss the old linoleum that has been there for the last fifteen years, more or less.

FRIDAY NOVEMBER 16, 1917.

HOMEcoming DAY.

The time is set, the plans are drawn, everything is ready for a splendid homecoming celebration, which wants now but a goodly number of home-comers to make the day complete.

Almost every college and university in the middle west has developed the homecoming idea among their alumni, linking it with a big football game to provide the chief source of entertainment. Everyone enjoys a big football game and then at this time in the fall the college is seen at its best and going in full swing, in contrast with its usual quiet state at commencement when, except for seniors, the campus is often almost deserted. Too, at this particular time of year the press of business and farm work is somewhat lessened and can be left for a day or two without difficulty.

So that everything points to the big football game of the year as the logical time for alumni and former students to return to the campus of their Alma Mater, and renew their college ties.

And a homecoming implies a reception and entertainment by the folks at home. Exactly. That's where the student body comes in. Homecoming isn't an alumni function entirely. It's a celebration in which every member of the big M. A. C. family, past and present, has a part, student and alumnus, faculty and friends. Eventually we predict for homecoming day an annual event chalked up on the calendar six months in advance, one that will draw crowds of alumni and former students, students' families, and students' friends—a sort of a great big open house day for the whole college family, a day that will be full of entertainment for the homecomers, when they may see M. A. C. as they knew it in "their time." Undoubtedly a celebration that in its size and drawing power will far overshadow commencement.

With that in view let's begin now. True, the team has had hard luck this fall, but that's all the more reason why we should be there with the student body to back them in the big game of the year.

The game is going to be a good one. The campus looks as it never looked before.

You'll see a lot of old friends. Come on along.

THE STUDENT'S PART.

That the student body has caught the spirit and is entering heart and soul into the "greater homecoming celebration" idea is amply evidenced in this week's number of the Holcad, which besides two stories of the program and events prints the following editorial, which we are pleased to quote:

DONE YOUR INVITING YET?

"The M. A. C. Home-Coming is only about two weeks away now and it's about time you invited your guests for the occasion. Remember the old bromide and "do it now." And then after you've done it, get busy figuring out all the little points of a program that will give those guests the feeling that M. A. C. in general and you in particular, are SOME hosts.

"The college authorities, the alumni office and the athletic department are all working together to make the Home-Coming something worth while, something for all the guests to look forward to now and to look back on with pleasure after it's all over. To us, the students of the college, remains only the part of supplying all the little touches that go to make up the really perfect occasion.

"As the first step in your preparedness program, invite your guests. Then as step number two, think them over hard and recall just what they like to do or hear or see. After you have that figured out, get things ready for them.

"Get your society to pull off a special program for the benefit of the old society men who will be back. Study out a program of events for Home-Coming day and be ready to tell your guests what's going on at any hour of the day. And as a final step, get your room ready for the inspection that your mother will surely give it.

"Let's go, gang!"

TO THE LADIES OF EAST LANSING.

The girls of M. A. C. have pledged most generously to the Students' Friendship War Fund, and are now working hard to make good their pledges. Without interfering in any way with their regular college work, six girls offer their services to the wives of faculty members, and to the other women of East Lansing for waiting table and for taking care of children afternoon and evening.

Anyone desiring such service telephone Mrs. Peppard, 117 Woman's Building.

M. A. C. LOSES TO NORTHWESTERN 39-6.

The largest score of the season, 39-6 (which, by the way, isn't the worst we have known) was piled up against M. A. C. Saturday by Northwestern at Evanston in a game in which the East Lansing squad failed to find themselves until the second half. Very unfortunate breaks in the first few minutes of play took Brewer's men off their feet and had a very disheartening and disorganizing effect on the team. The first break came when the Purple fumbled on our three-yard line and Coryell recovered it. Archer went back for a punt and the ball was passed over his head to be immediately pounced upon by Randolph of Northwestern behind our goal line. With this piece of hard luck started, the Aggies were demoralized to the extent that 14 more points were added in the first quarter, Northwestern gaining at will in almost any direction its offensive attempted.

In the second half M. A. C. more nearly played its regular game and put up a fairly even battle, in which the plunging of Hammes was one of the features. In the last three minutes of play they made a break to save themselves from a goose egg. Ramsey got away with a forward pass, that gave us the ball on Northwestern's four yard line. McCool advanced it three yards and Coryell carried it over for our only touchdown. McCool missed the goal.

Northwestern's game was featured by a splendid exhibition of forward passes and almost immediately after the whistle blew five consecutive passes were worked that brought the ball very close to our goal line. In the first half of the game they gained at will through our line and around the ends and were stopped only by our secondary defense, Kellogg and Oas.

Between halves the band, which accompanied the team paraded before the stands and drew up with the Northwestern band to play the National Anthem. An armored motor car from Fort Sheridan circled the field several times, firing blank cartridges from its machine guns. About 300 alumni from Chicago attended the game and besides the band and team thirty or forty students accompanied the aggregation from East Lansing. About twenty-five of these, calling themselves the "oboe section" of the band made their way as stowaways in the special cars chartered for the band and team.

 evening full of college spirit and rem-iniscences.

The following were present: Lois domestic science and art in the Cheboygan schools; Bertel W. Straight,

 '17, Ag. teacher of science, Cheboygan;

 of Cheboygan county. He leaves soon for war activities; George L. Gilbert,

M. A. C. AT POMOLOGICAL SO- CIETY MEETING.

The 35th biennial meeting of the American Pomological Society held at Boston October 30 and November 1 included a number of former M. A. C.
 students and professors on its program. The class of '95 seems to have had the most representatives. Dr. U.
 P. Hedrick, '95, spoke on European Grapes in the Eastern United States; C. P. Close, '95, as chairman of the committee on new fruits, gave a report; and M. G. Kains, '95, spoke on Home Fruits as Educators of Public Taste. Professor Taft of East Lansing gave a talk on Commercial Cherry Culture and Dr. S. W. Fletcher, formerly professor of horticulture at M.
 A. C., spoke on One Hundred Years of American Strawberry Growing.
 Wendell Paddock, '93, as chairman of the committee on general fruits, gave a report. E. R. Lake, '85, is secretary of the National Congress of Horticulture. The standing committee on foreign fruits is headed by D. G. Fairchild, a son of George T. Fairchild, who was professor of English literature at M. A. C. from 1886 to 1879.

IN CHICAGO MARKETS.

Editor M. A. C. RECORD:

M. A. C. seems to be well represented in the Chicago branch offices of the Bureau of Markets. Here we are:

OF COURSE YOU'RE COMING TO HOME-COMING NOVEMBER 24

BUT TRY YOUR BEST TO GET HERE THE NIGHT BEFORE FOR THE OLD TIMERS' MASS MEETING

A mass meeting that will be entirely turned over to old-timers to handle in good old-time fashion. Listen to this, Howard Rather, '17, Chairman—that in itself is sufficient to pull out folks of recent years.

Then there'll be M. A. C. spirit and fun pumped from such as Pete Bancroft, '12; Chappie Chapman, '09; Blake Miller, '16; Jerry DePrato, '16; Linde-mann, '11; H. R. Pattengill, Prof. French, Director Brewer, etc.

Of course the men in school will be given a little space in the program and they will pull a stunt all their own.

The old-timers are going to demonstrate that 'has beeners' can "come back."

Come and see.

The rest of the program for Home-Coming Day will follow in accordance with the outline given in last week's Record. Between the halves at the game students will put on several stunts including a parade by the farmers' band and a contest of freak stuff, in which the different dorm inhabitants will compete for a prize.

The game itself is going to be a good one and one well worth your attendance. Director Brewer has this to say of it: "Syracuse is one of the strongest of the big eastern teams this year and alumni will be given an opportunity at the homecoming game to see one of the best of the east in action. Following the series of hard games that we have been playing some of our squad are crippled temporarily but we will have all of our best ones in the game on the 24th, and on the home field with the strong backing we are expecting from students and alumni, M. A. C. will put up a battle that everyone will be proud of."

In this connection it may be said that the University of Missouri was the first of the western schools to establish a homecoming day as a university institution and Director Brewer was largely instrumental in developing the day and the occasion into an annual celebration that brought to the home campus upward to 10,000 alumni, former students and friends of the university every year. Many of his ideas for promoting and organizing homecomings are being used by a number of middle western colleges and universities.

The college and student body are making preparations for a big day that will be brimful of enlivening entertainment every minute.

ATTENTION, CAMP CUSTER!—M. A. C. is making a special request of her sons in olive drab that they come over for this home-coming. Apply right now for leave, and plan to come early and stay late.

New Home of Eunomian Society Just Completed This Fall

EUNOMIANS TO ENTERTAIN HOMECOMERS IN NEW HOUSE.

Members of the Eunomian Literary society are residing this year in a new home at 360 Abbot Ave., a block north of the Olympic house. They moved into the new quarters at the beginning of the fall term, realizing finally what they have been more or less bending their energies toward for several years past—a sort of reward for their patience, so to speak, for the society, though one of the oldest on the campus, has always deferred moving into a residence of its own until it could get pretty much what it has wished for.

And as society houses go the Eunomians seem to have well nigh approached the ideal, for inside and out the place is at once both the most attractive and homelike of any in the college's society house colony. The house is set in a grove on the east side of Abbot Ave., and is approached up a red brick walk which is but one of the many little artistic touches about the place fitting in with its colonial architectural style, white finish and red roof. Inside the residence has been built to exactly meet society needs.

The first floor, finished in fumed oak, has been given over to a large hallway, from which the living room and library are entered—the library at the north end of the house, and the living room at the south. Opening off the living room is a sun parlor, liberally endowed with windows to "let a little sunshine in." Off the library is the matron's room (now occupied by a couple of near-bald alumni of motherly qualities and sedate habits).

Then to give a little "edge" whole, the rooms have been furnished in a substantial, bachelor-like style of fumed oak furniture matching the woodwork. Also there are such details as built-in bench and mirrors in the hallway, two more in the living room out of the same tree, and a bookcase in like style in the library. All the library needs now to make it complete, the alumni have been advised, is a few books to adorn the shelves and a few more students to read them.

The second and third floors are given over to a bathroom and the individual rooms of the members, for there are, strictly speaking, no bedrooms. All the sleeping, when there is any, is done in cots herded together in a capacious and airy double-decked sleeping porch in the rear.

The second and third stories are provided with hardwood floors, and finished in white Georgia pine. Window seats, which take the place of the good old cedar chests of yore, are other features of every room, while in a couple of rooms, inhabited by the most sylph-like of the boys, i. e., H. K. Abbott, there are full length mirrors in the closet doors.

The bathroom (deleted by censor)—also it is "modern in every respect."

In the basement the house has been finished off into a dining room, a kitchen and a den, with all the details that appertain thereto. Just now, however, members of the society are boarding at the college clubs where it is less difficult to Hooverize.

Alumni will be welcomed in the new house on November 23, the night before the Syracuse game, and on the day and evening of November 24. Friday evening's entertainment will be an open house, while Saturday's will take the form of a stag party "for men only."

Last week 270 M. A. C. men in service received the RECORD gratis.

The alumni secretary's office has just been supplied with an office table and some telephones which help a lot.

WARNER '12 ON WAY ACROSS

2117 G St., Washington, D. C., Oct. 23, 1917.

Dear Editor:

On the eve of my departure for France I wish to take this opportunity to say goodbye to my college friends. Since May 14, when I entered the Officers Training Camp at Ft. Myer, Va., I have been wearing the U. S. uniform and hope to wear it until war has been brought to a successful finish. During my training I met F. H. Kierstead, '09, who is now an officer in the U. S. service. I received my commission as 1st lieutenant in the Engineers O. R. C. on August 11. At the end of camp I was assigned to the 305th Engineer Regiment at Camp Lee, Petersburg, Va.

About Sept. 7, the National Army started to arrive and from then on we were kept on the jump getting them into shape to whip the Kaiser. The men as a whole are willing and anxious to work and learn. We received a great number of foreigners, some could not read or speak English and had long, funny names, hard to pronounce. To illustrate—the top sergeant was calling company roll and had to sneeze loudly, which was responded to by seven privates answering "Here."

Many of the men knew absolutely nothing about military life. At one of the first formations the captain asked his company if any of them had ever drilled before. A big private in the rear rank answered, "Yes, Sir." Captain: "Where did you drill?" Private: "In a stone quarry, sir." Another private came into the company office after his third day in camp and said something like this: "I no like job. I give you ten days notice. I quit." However, the men are doing fine and I feel sure that in a few months we shall be very proud of our National Army.

"I have recently been transferred to the 2d Engineer Regiment (Regulars). My mail should be addressed as follows: 1st Lieut. Russell A. Warner, 2d Engineers, American Expeditionary Forces.

"I hear that the U. of M. defeated us at football last week. I feel that must be due to the fact that many of our men are playing a bigger game with the U. S. forces. My kid brother, Herbert, is getting a commission in the Aviation Reserve Corps.

Best wishes to all,

Sincerely,

RUSSELL A. WARNER, '12.

P. S.—Mrs. Warner's address is 2117 G. St., Washington, D. C.

RUSSELL-HILTON.

The wedding of Melvin A. Russell, '14, and Miss Gladys Hilton, Olivet, '12, of Fremont, Michigan, occurred at the home of the bride on June 14. Mrs. Russell will be remembered by a number of M. A. C. people as the sister of Huber Hilton, '11, as she was a frequent visitor during the time of her brother's college career. Russell is a teacher in the Minotola School of Agriculture, at Minotola, N. J., which is one of the Atlantic County vocational schools.

A co-ed without her knitting is almost as uncommon as a freshman without his cap. And they do it in class meetings, lectures and mass meetings, and everywhere except fussing.

Jason E. Hammond is superintendent of ward organizations of the Dry Chicago Federation that is campaigning "For a Dry Chicago." In a letter to the ward chairmen and district leaders from the general superintendent of the federation the following is quoted: "When we began this present campaign, we announced that we were going to build a city machine that would rival the best political machine ever constructed in Chicago. We looked over the middle west for a man, and selected Mr. Hammond. With infinite patience and exceptional intelligence, Mr. Hammond has built this machine." Mr. Hammond has been very prominent in dry campaigns in Michigan and has been most successful. He began with Ingham county and was a big factor in driving the saloons from this section. He then attacked Kent county and helped make it dry, and his last work, which brought him to the attention of the Chicago people, was his campaign at Springfield, Illinois, where last spring he succeeded in making Springfield and the county dry against strong opposition and many personal threats. Mr. Hammond certainly does not lack courage.
