FORESTRY ANNUAL.

The M. A. C. Forester for 1918, published by the Forestry Club, has just made its appearance and is a very creditable publication. This year's issue is dedicated to the M. A. C. Foresters who are serving our country in the war and contains a list of some sixty-five graduates and nongraduates of the forestry course now in service. The Forester contains timely articles by members of the teaching staff in the forestry department and students, as well as some interesting letters from men in France.

The men responsible for the 1918 Forester are H. Dorr, Jr., '18, editor in chief; J. M. Bennett, '19, associate editor; R. I. Thompson, '18, business manager; and I. V. Anderson, '20, assistant business manager.

ALUMNI AND REUNION HEADQUAR TERS TO BE IN NEW GYMNASIUM.

In order to have every returning alumnus see the new gymnasium, it has been decided to have alumni headquarters this commencement in the gymnasium building. The first three offices to the right of the main entrance have been given over by Director Brewer as alumni rooms and will be equipped with tables, chairs, class signature rolls and facilities for checking parcels. We will see that the path is labeled from the street car to the alumni headquarters so that old timers who have not been back in a long time won't get lost by the wayside. The alumni office in the car station will be open part of the time commencement day.

UNION PICNIC FAREWELL TO SE-NIORS FRIDAY NIGHT.

The first annual M. A. C. Union picnic being arranged for Friday night is hoped to be an inauguration of an annual custom which will celebrate a farewell to the seniors by the student body and faculty.

The picnic will be held at the picnic grounds north of Prof. Pettit's residence. The program will start at 5:30. Arrangements have been made with the clubs so that each will furnish a part of the picnic menu that will amount to the portion each would have to supply if regular supper was served in the clubs. Faculty and those eating outside the clubs will pay 25c for the picnic dinner, but free tickets will be given club diners.

Director Brewer has charge of a program of games and sports to follow the picnic. The band will be there and with a pleasant evening a large crowd is assured. The supper will be served cafateria style in paper plates and some novelties are in store.

SAGINAW '16ERS PLAN REUNION DINNER.

Members of the class of 1916 in Saginaw are planning a 1916 Reunion for Friday, May 24, at a six o'clock dinner for those who are not able to get back for commencement. If you can attend you are asked to notify Rose Hogue, Saginaw, W. S., Court House, Mich.

There are a number of 1916 folks in and near Saginaw and while they ought to attend the main reunion on the campus still if that is impossible a get-together at home is the next best thing, and should bring '16ers forth.

FORTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF CLASS OF '78.

Prof. J. Troop of Purdue University is mustering the forces of 1878 to attend their fortieth birthday Reunion here May 23.

Seventy-eight has lost two members in the past six months, Charles F. Shilling and Ralph D. Sessions whose death is recorded in this issue.

Many of the '78 class live in Michigan within a short distance of the campus, and there should be a good turn-out of the class that's forty years and fair and fat, too, except Will Prudden—but then he is Michigan's coal administrator, you'd scarcely expect it of one in that position.

C. A. STIMPSON, '05, WOUNDED IN ACTION.

A communication has just been received from Ruth Stimpson Barrett, 12, telling that her brother, Clarence A. Stimpson, of Co. B, 6th Engineers, American E. F. France, was seriously wonded in the left arm on the 28th of March during an action in which his regiment was engaged. A letter from him received May 2 stated that he was getting along very nicely and that he considered himself very fortunate to escape a more serious fate. He is at a British base hospital in France and receiving good treatment. It is reported that he is the first Cheboygan county man to be wounded in action.

CLUB D BOARDERS MOVE IN FAVOR OF MOTOR MECHANICS.

Club D closed its doors to students this week and instead of hungry ags and engineers it now receives three times a day some 350 soldiers of the national army taking the motor mechanics courses. About 70 students who have been eating in Club D have been distributed among the other men's clubs. Mrs. Farleman will of course remain to cook and oversee the club but soldiers will perform the other kitchen and dining room duties heretofore done by students who worked for their board.

THE ALUMNI PUBLICATION.

The conference of alumni editors and organizers at Yale was a banner meeting in every respect. There never was a time when alumni workers needed to get together to discuss means and measures and learn how the other fellow is solving his war problems than at present in such times as these.

Everywhere colleges and universities are suffering from the war, suffering in attendance and in finances. Many of the endowed institutions are struggling under a war indebtedness, to be relieved from which they must depend entirely upon alumni aid. M. A. C. is fortunate in that respect, or unfortunate possibly, for surely there can be nothing that draws an alumni body closer than the rallying of forces about Alma Mater's standard to clear a war deficit.

But while conditions in certain phases of alumni work have been made acute by the war there is one thing that hasn't suffered and that is the alumni journal, Reports from every college and university represented at the meeting showed that instead of a falling off in interest and financial aid the war has stimulated the alumni publication: It is actually being brought into its own. It is rendering a distinct service and is sought from many sources. Many have been added to the subscription lists, readers added who formerly paid little or no attention to the alumni columns. There is a definite reason for the increase in interest in the alumni publication for it is furnishing war news of a nature that cannot be gotten from any other source. In supplying personal notes of the men in war service, communications from them and listing their activities and whereabouts in its columns, it is performing a service to the college and to the alumni body that is becoming more and more appreciated. Reports from every alumni editor showed that this appreciation was being reflected in increased subscription receipts and a greatly enlarged mailing list. The war apparently is bringing us nearer to our ideal which is to place the alumni organ in the hands of every alumnus.

Of the forty or fifty institutions represented at the conference, however, we did not find a single one that was sending its alumni paper gratis to her men in service, as M. A. C. is doing.

i. C. is doing

REUNIONS IN WAR TIME.

One of the most important of the actions taken by the conference was in respect to alumni reunions in war It was generally agreed that, while social and business activities could not proceed as usual during the war, educational institutions should by all means continue their work of training men. The nation cannot afford to lose one iota of its educational facilities or effectiveness in training man power. The ability of an institution to continue its work in war, to keep up its courses and its attendance, depends largely upon the support of its alumni body. This support must be enlisted, and when gained must be held and continued. One of the means, and practically the only one, of stimulating interest of alumni in their institution is by means of reunions. As was brought out in the discussions, the class reunions are not the "thread" but rather the "rope" that binds men to their Alma Mater. They return for reunions of their class because they love their love college, because they their friends made there, and because they love the men their institution sends out. Only when he returns to the campus does the opportunity come to show the alumnus what the institution is doing in support of the war. Only through such a visit is he able to appreciate its problems and its needs.

The college's call for assistance is as important as the call of the Liberty Loan, the Red Cross and the War Chest, because they are performing a definite war service, some in special research, some in laboratory manufacturing, but all in training men in military or naval work and other forms of service in the modern war game. When alumni are brought to see these facts they will hesitate to place other great national calls ahead of those of the college and university.

In endorsing the continuing of reunions it is needless to say that the conference agreed that extravagance and needless expense be eliminated.

RALPH D. SESSIONS, '78.

Ralph Dexter Sessions died at the home of his brother, F. A. Sessions, '71, at Reading, Penn., on March 15. He nad been afflicted for a great many years with rheumatism and had been for some time a helpless invalid. His condition became very acute early this spring and his severe suffering was relieved by death.

Mr. Sessions was 61 years old. He entered M. A. C. from Ionia, Michigan. He was engaged in business at Grand Rapids for some time after graduation, but about 15 years ago he moved to Reading, Penn., and entered in business in a mercantile agency, with his brother.

While in college he was a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity and excelled in military work having been a lieutenant in his sophomore year and captain of Cadet Co. D in 1876.

SOLDIERS FOR AUTO MECHANICS COURSE ARRIVE THIS WEEK.

Engineering Department Completes Preparations for Training 500 N. A. Motorists.

A special train bearing 500 selected men from local draft boards in Wisconsin arrived on the campus Thursday morning and were 'rapidly assigned to quarters in Abbot Hall, the armory, agricultural building and certain rooms in the engineering shops. Training work in the courses in auto mechanics is already organized and well under way.

Early this week the officers and additional instructors began arriving on the campus and plans for receiving them were completed in the first two days. A concrete floor has been laid between the wood shop and the machine shops east of the R. E. Olds hall and a temporary covering of scaffolding and canvas snelters the court. Twenty-five used cars will comprise the equipment upon which the draftees will begin their work and the government is soon to furnish ten regulation army trucks for further instruction. The Reo, Oldsmobile and Duplex companies of Lansing have loaned the college large quantities of materials for demonstration purposes.

The officers who will have in charge the military instruction of the men are all from Camp Custer. Captain Murchie, senior captain, commands the contingent with Captain Britton assisting him. Captain Lavin is the medical officer. The other officers are First Lieutenants Fisk, Tieneren and Caldwell, and Second Lieutenants Fry. adjutant; Ferguson, receiving officer, and Lessig.

Besides the army officers who have been brought to M. A. C. on account of the courses, there are twenty-five additional assistants whom Dean Bissell has secured from various auto schools and automobile factories as instructors in automobile work. All the men being brought in as instructors are practical men, the college depending largely upon its own teaching staff for lecturers and the little theoretical work which is to be given. Mr. Castiglia, who comes to M. A. C. from Selfridge Field, Mt. Clemens. has been designated as chief lecturer and is considered an expert on motors. Professor Polson will have charge of the shop end of the work and look after shop supplies, material and shop instructors. Prof. R. K. Steward is to have charge of the records of the classes.

The entire 500 men are to receive a lecture a week and each man is to write an examination on each Saturday morning. Shop instructors must report on the work of each man every day.

The entire two months' course is divided into eight parts or courses seven of which are given in the mechanical engineering department and one course in stationary engines and tractors will be handled by Professor Musselman of the farm mechanics department. Wood shop, machine shop, forge shop and the newly constructed court are being entirely turned over for the special work. It is understood that 35 additional men will be sent here from Camp Custer for the auto mechanics work a little later when the first group is well started.

M. A. C. TRIMS NOTRE DAME 4--0.

Aggies Win Three in Week End Trip.

In the baseball week end trip last Friday and Saturday M. A. C. was shown the real worth of its baseball aggregation. The three games were won in one, two, three style. Kalamazoo College was the first to encounter Brewer's detachment and was beaten by a score of 10-6.

With this game as a starter the Aggies went on to Kalamazoo Western State Normal and grabbed off a 10.3 victory. Carrying these laurels so easily DeMond took command against Notre Dame and allowed but one hit in a contest that ended 4-0 in M. A. C.'s favor, the first time in a number of years that M. A. C. has beaten Dame on her own grounds. In fact it is one of the two home games that games that Notre Dame has lost in the past seven Vears

DeMond pitched in the Kalamazoo College game. With the Western State Normal Donnelly started the game, but was supplanted by Mills in the third who pitched a tight game for the last seven innings. DeMond was on the mound again at Notre Dame and permitted but one hit. In the whole game Notre Dame succeeded in getting only one man as far as third base. Notre Dame has been playing unusually good ball this year and counts in its victories games with Indiana, Purdue, Wisconsin, Wabash and Rose Polytechnic, so that the 4-0 defeat administered by M. A. C. is something of an indication of the baseball Brewer's men though green are playing this season.

The scores by innings:

PROGRAM FOR GYMNASIUM DEDI-CATION.

The program for the dedication exercises of the new gymnasium building will include the appearance of a number of famous football and baseball stars if plans that have been worked out by Director Brewer carry. Returns from notices sent to former athletes requesting their presence at the dedication exercises indicate that a fairly large representation of old football, baseball and track lights will show themselves on the platform during the dedication.

The program follows:

Presentation of Keys by Secretary

Short talks from the president of the senior class, representing the student body, and from the alumni by E. W. Rannev. '00.

E. W. Ranney, '00.

"What the Gymnasium Means to My Division," responded to by short speeches from Deans Bissell, Shaw, White and Lyman.

Senator A. T. Roberts of Marquette, who introduced the bill providing for the new gymnasium into the state legislature, has been asked to attend the dedication and say a few words.

An especially urgent invitation is directed to Lansing alumni and friends and it is hoped that many will avail themselves of this opportunity to see the new building in its completed state and acquaint themselves with the splendid athletic facilities with which the college is now provided. Awards will be given to this year's team men as well as to the former athletes. The dedication exercises will be followed by a short reception at which the deans, heads of departments of the college, members of the State Board and state officials will be in line.

Delbridge's orchestra of Jackson will furnish music for the dedication and for the Union party which follows the exercises.

R. O. T. C. CAMP FOR M. A. C. MEN BEGINS JUNE 3, FT. SHERIDAN.

Major Wrightson, commandant of the R. O. T. C. unit, has just been notified by the war department that a training camp for the men of the unit will begin on June 3 at Ft. Sheridan and will continue for a month. It will probably be a short course of the regular three months' training camps previously given at Ft. Sheridan for officer candidates. M. A. C.'s quota of men to go to the R. O. T. C. summer camp is forty-one. Of this number five will be juniors, who are all of the R. O. T. C. juniors not now in service, approximately twenty-five sophomores and eleven freshmen. The sophomores and freshmen selected for the camp are those who have made the best showing in their classes and on the drill ground this spring and in the competition drill.

The men will receive transportation to and from their homes to the camp and will be given quarters, but will not receive compensation for their work. The summer camp is a part of the required R. O. T. C. work and the men will continue their military studies in college next fall.

WOLVERINES OUT THURSDAY NIGHT.

The Wolverine Board heaved a sigh of relief and the campus viewed the 1918 Board's supreme effort Thursday night, May 16, with the distribution of this year's publication. A band concert accompanied the distribution. The board worked out a special scheme of distribution with individual stands where each college class and the faculty group could secure their volumes. Distribution was made just west of College Hall.

The Wolverine Board is to be congratulated upon the splendid production with which, after many struggles and the combined handicaps of time and funds they succeeded in coming through.

NEW SPRING TERM PRIVILEGES FOR SENIOR GIRLS.

A considerable extension of privileges has been granted to senior girls during spring term and are to obtain permanently. The new privileges have been brought about through the Men's and Women's Student Councils and have been agreed to by Dean White and the Social committee. An amendment to the constitution of the student council places the new rules under the control of that body.

The new spring term senior girls' privileges are:

1st. Senior girls may have the privilege of attending all senior functions which have been duly arranged for by the Student Council.

2nd. Senior girls may have special privileges granted to them by the Senior Committee of the Student Council when entertaining out-of-town guests.

3rd. While the 7:30 privilege will hold for Seniors, they may have special privilege to be out until 9:30 for calling purposes provided they register their names and the place where they will be calling in the Council book in the Dean's office.

4th. Senior girls may take dinner in Lansing at the regular dinner hours if so registered in the Council book in the Dean's office. Special arrangements must be made with the Council Committee if the girls are to be out after 8:00 p. m.

PUT THE GLOW IN OLD GLORY.

Perhaps you're not cut out to be a soldier—

You may not be quite sound in wind and limb:

Your digestion or your years may be "agin ye"

Or your molars may not be in perfect trim.

But you needn't let these little things restrain you

From handing Bill the Hun an awful slam;

Just economize and save for all that's in ye

And lend your coin to good old Uncle Sam.

PROF. EUSTACE WRITES OF FOOD ADMINISTRATION.

A few notes from the inside of the Food Administration may be of interest. Everybody in the country knows of Mr. Hoover and the Food Administration and probably associate both in their minds with a request to be stingy with one's appetite. This has been a decidedly new request to make of freedom-loving Americans, but in these days everything is new. All the conservation urged has been necessary and the little that each individual has done helped. Save the wheat now is the all important plea.

The Food Administration is housed in a "war time" paste board building in Washington; long, low and rangy. Every visitor is kind enough to suggest how hot it will be this summer. We let our hopes run to the thought that the war may be over before dog days. Cheerfulness helps a lot anyway. There are many hundred people in the building—and except for the clerical force, they have all been "drafted"; that is, borrowed from business organizations or colleges. This has brought together a unique group of men; the business men and college teachers can not be distinguished, unless the latter have whiskers.

All work of a similar nature is handled for convenience in a "group" or by a "division," but there are not any departments. It is only a war time organization and there is not time nor need for the development of "departments." This really means—always be ready for any kind of task. The result is a splendid spirit of helpfulness and team work. Everybody is willing to help anybody, nobody hinders, and the ever present thought is —what might help to win.

In addition to urging conservation of food at times when the need demands it there are many other important affairs the Food Administration is charged with; such as the elimination, from the food trades, of speculation, hoarding, extortion and wasteful practices. The important thing being to keep food products moving from the producer to the consumer in as direct a line as practicable and without unreasonable delay.

In my work I am closely associated with Mr. G. Harold Powell—many of the "horts" will remember him as the General Manager of the California Fruit Growers Exchange. He was "drafted" from that organization by Mr. Hoover on a few hours notice. The work is with "Perishable Foods," which includes fruits and vegetables; dairy and poultry products, fish, milk, and the many products that appertain to them. The day's duties might be likened to a day on a busy farm—you never know what the next minute may bring you face to face with. It's only a step from something about banana imports to cold storage fish.

Rules, requests, regulations and plans must be changed with startling suddenness. This should be expected. It means that at one time the production or transportation of a certain product is such that conservation is necessary, and any change quickly causes an unlike condition. Just now the greatest need is to save wheat. I hope the clubs are doing all they can.

Mr. Hoover is a remarkable man, and an inspiring leader. He works hard and on long hours and expects and gets the same from all associated with him. Many times I have seen the entire attitude of a delegation of men representing a food industry change from indifference, or even hostility, to one of most enthusiastic helpfulness after he had presented to them the true conditions. The honest, frank, quiet, sincere way in which he pictures a situation never fails to command interest and respect. He is always ready to listen and to make helpful suggestions and his quickness to grasp the points of a situation is almost uncanny.

It may be interesting to know that this quotation is in a prominent place on his desk:

If I were to try to read, much less to answer, all the attacks made upon me, this shop might as well be closed for any other business. I do the very best I know how—the best I can; I mean to keep on doing so until the end. If the end brings me out all right, what is said against me won't amount to anything. If the end brings me out wrong, ten angels swearing I was right would make no difference.

—Abraham Lincoln.

It was not many years ago that he worked his way through college as "an agent for a laundry". We all know of quite a few good men who have profited by the same employment. May the years to come find them as successful and as useful citizens as Mr. Hoover.

Washington is a busy city. Do not come here on your wedding trip or for any other reason except urgent business. Hotel accommodations are difficult to secure, even at advanced prices. Even a seat in a street car is a luxury. The large number of men in uniform keep the thought of war ever prominent, and the number of French, English, and Italian soldiers in their attractive uniforms, add an interesting contrast to the crowds.

I cannot recall a day when I have not seen an M. A. C. student or graduate—more frequently several—and have the pleasure of doing busines with them. The boys in uniform always look better than they did in civilian dress. Sometimes so handsome that they do not look natural. How proud we are all of them. It would keep me busy sending to the Editor of the "Record" all of the good things that I hear about them. It may be comforting to know that they are all busy and in the thick of it all, and the record "that M. A. C. has never failed to do her duty" is still clean.

Make your vacation a profitable one. Write for our proposition to students for work in Michigan. Congenial employment representing best selling farm magazine in the country. Liberal commissions and bonuses. Good territory guaranteed. First applications will receive consideration. Rural Publishing Co., Mt. Clemens, Mich.

REIMER '03 TELLS OF TRIP TO ORIENT.

F. C. Reimer, '03, superintendent and horticulturalist of the Southern Oregon Experiment Station at Talent, Oregon, who has recently returned from a six months trip in the Orient where he was sent on investigation work by the Department of Agriculture, writes the following:

"I went to the Orient as an agent of the Oregon Experiment Station and the U.S. Department of Agriculture to make a special study of the Oriental pears. This work took me through Japan, Korea, Manchuria, Northern, Central and Western China. I had quite a remarkable and profitable trip. This trip was an outgrowth of work at this Experiment Station during the past five years. I have gathered together at this station practically all the known species of Pyrus from all parts of the world. These are being used in various lines of experimental work. One of the most important and most promising lines of this work is a study to determine the resistance or susceptibility to pear blight of every species. In this work I found three Chinese species which show a high degree of resistance, and one which is practically immune to this disease. Some of the Oriental species, however, are very susceptible to this disease. For this reason I went to the Orient to study these various species in their native home, and to procure propagating material of the most important of these.

While in Western China evil spirits took possession of my left leg, and I came very near leaving this important organ over there. I turned the case over to several surgeons and they soused me with ether and then like M. A. C. veterinarians used me for dissecting purposes. When I came back to daylight and looked at myself I thought that some Moro had demonstrated the effectiveness of a brand new Machete on me. However, with the assistance of crutches I rambled back to America and fortunately brought both legs with me; although it will require some time for the haw one to get back into normal condition. Aside from this little cutup everything moved along peaceably and smoothly.

"Your animal husbandman will be interested to know that at Kingmen, in western China, where I spent some time, no slaughtered beef could be brought into town for fear that it would bring more evil spirits into the city. Hence the only beef available was from those departed animals which had died a natural death—either from old age or from disease.

"Our menu included in addition to the irrepressible rice, such delicacies as millet seed, water lily roots, colocasia crowns, dried seaweeds, burdock roots and bamboo buds."

CORRESPONDENCE.

Allow me to make an apparent correction to one statement in the last issue of the Record, viz.: In the last paragraph of the article on "Japanese Live Stock Commission Visits M. A. C."—you say: "He (Dr. Tanimura) knew intimately the first Japanese graduate to receive a degree at M. A. C., Kizo Tamari, who received a degree here in 1886."

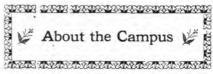

In correction I wish to call your attention to the fact that Michitaro Tsuda, of Tokio, graduated in my class (1884) and was given his degree. The 1900 General Catalog refers to him as "Secretary H. I. M.'s Privy Council. Connected with the Tsuda Bank. Care of Tsuda Bank, Iidamachi, Kudan, Kando, Tokyo, Japan."

For the information of the boys who knew him at M. A. C., that I addressed a letter to him as above several years ago, but was returned to me after many months, as in cannu (unknown). I would very much like to know if any one has any information concerning him. He was a royal good fellow, belonged to my fraternity and he and I attended the Republican National convention together in 1884 at the expense of the Japanese government. Soon after his graduation he returned and entered the service of his government who sent him to San Francisco to procure a large cargo of live stock and agricultural implements. He wrote me an invitation to meet him there and accompany him home as his guest and remain a year if I would at his expense. Needless to say I was greatly grieved because circumstances (yes, financial of course) were such that it was impossible for me to avail myself of his very generous and cordial invitation.

I am very busy trying in my exasperatingly weak way to help win the war. Have charge of the 4-Minute Men Organization in Jackson County, and serving on Speakers' and Soliciting committees of our Jackson County War League; raising garden and chickens for the same purpose and for physical "torture," and heartsick because I cannot raise more H—with the Boches.

Yours truly, J. I. Breck, '84.

F. D. Messenger, of the department of drawing and design, has just accepted an appointment as assistant sanitary engineer of the U. S. Public Health Service and left college May 5 to report at Gulfport, Miss., for duty. He expects the work will be in sanitation engineering in the districts adjacent to the southern training camps, particularly the prevention of malaria. He has a leave of absence from the college.

William L. Lodge, "Bill," formerly assistant professor of physics at M. A. C., has now active charge of the electrical department of the Underwriters laboratories in Chicago. Earl Hotchin, '12, L. P. Dendell, '14, and Fay F. Burroughs, '09, recently met "Bill" at a meeting which they attended of the National Fire Prevention Association held in Chicago May 7, 8 and 9. Hotch remarked that "Bill" seemed to be entirely satisfied as he was located in a fireproof building and could smoke to his heart's content.

DAIRY SALES HOURS.

As a great many people seem to be unacquainted with the sales-hours of the College Dairy, the Dairy Department wishes it announced that sales are made between 8 and 11:45 in the morning and 1 and 5 in the afternoon. No sales are made on Sunday nor elsewhere in the dairy than at the sales-office window. It is earnestly requested that no one will ask the favor of special sales out of hours.

M. A. C. LOSES IN NOTRE DAME MEET.

The Aggie track team was defeated by a score of 85 to 35 in the meet held at Notre Dame Saturday, May 11. The larger numbers of entrants from Notre Dame's side of the board and the fact that they had a number of old men of superior ability accounted for our defeat. Eleven M. A. C. men made the trip and each one scored in his event. We won second place in the quarter, half mile, mile, two mile, high hurdle, low hurdle, shot put, discus throw, and high jump. Kurtz took first in the quarter and Simmons third in the 100 and 220 dashes.

WITH THE COLORS

From Capt. Dorr Skeels, '15, 10th Engrs., A. E. F., France, to Mrs. Bogue.

"Aside from the lack of pen and ink this is a good time to answer your cheery letter of last winter. I was mighty glad to get your letter—all the boys are hungry for home news and letters from the States, tho' like myself, many of them are very slow in reply. I have ever so many letters from mothers wanting to know why their boys don't write and in one case I sent a motorcycle messenger several miles to a telegraph office to wire a boy who had been transferred to another command that he must write home at once. * * *

"It's remarkable what a small knowledge of the language is necessary for getting along with the kindly courteous friendly ordinary citizen of France. Within a week after we had made camp in the park of the little village that was our headquarters this winter our boys had their friends and acquaintances,—some of the boys even their girls,—among the villagers.

"You'd see a group going along the street, one of our big six-footers carrying a little garcon in his arms or pushing madame's wheelbarrow and arm in arm with madamoiselle, or giving her and the little fellow a ride, with madame walking along with her knitting, thre discret—and not twenty real words between them.

"All the French are learning a little English too. It's easy to pick up a vocabulary. The grammar is difficult and I find the verbs to be as difficult as I had always been told they were. Gestures, facial expression and a few words go far with these quick alert people and it's easy to understand and be understood even before you really begin to learn the language.

"You would be proud of our boys over here. They hate to be called 'Sammies;' they will make a name for themselves 'before it's over over here' and meanwhile we call ourselves Yanks and Yankees a great deal, even the southerners. There's a good old Scotch word bonnie that describes them well. In the crowd, on the street, in the city, where we mingle with soldiers from almost every land in the world, our boys are bigger, broader shouldered, longer backed, more clean cut and alert. They walk more briskly seem to see more—like looking over the heads of the crowd. Somehow you feel they are just a little better—'top hole' the Englishmen would say.

'You are proud of America over here,-our motives in the war, the way we are coming in; we are better fed, better clothed, better kept, a better educated lot, as a whole. We used-to have a reputation, when Europe knew America by tourists and its ex-patriots, of being braggers, and over here now with our army it's easy to understand how hard the American finds it to avoid that fault. Don't worry over there about the boys over here. No American army was ever before so well cared for, so fit, and so well prepared and certain to do its part and more. We're glad we're here."

LIEUT. O. A. TAYLOR, '15, "FAT," SENDS A LETTER.

A Wide Place in the Road, Dear McKibbin:

I have changed stations this month and as per—S. O. via M. A. C. Record am notifying you and will give you my new address. To say the least, it will be rather indefinite, as I am now stationed in a French town where we have no Military Postoffice of our own. Hence, our mail is forwarded to us, via French mail, from Head-quarters. Until further notice, send RECORD to Remount Division, American E. F., France, U. S. M. P. O. 717. Possibly, my mail will eventually reach me.

This morning at mail time I went into the Orderly Room with an expectant air and three Records were there. They were surely a God send. Have waited patiently and of course, looked for the back numbers every day.

Very recently I saw Capt. Curtis, '12, and Lieut. Van Meter, '12. Both are stationed about 20 miles from me. Saw Lt. McMillan, '15, and Lt. Couchois, '16, before I left my old station. All of the boys are looking and feeling fine.

We are all optimistic about the present battle that is raging and like the French, feel sure that our line will hold. And, while speaking of battles I might add that our own army is showing the Huns a few things about real fighting. Have heard many interesting stories about little individual scraps out in "No Man's Land" and would send them on to you if censor regulations permitted. Let it be known that they are not at all detrimental to "our boys."

Am inclosing a picture as per General Order No. 2, via Record. It was taken for my passport and no doubt a similar likeness adorns the walls of the Rogues' Gallery, at A. E. F. Headquarters. A Frenchman took the picture and when he said, "Look at the birdie," I misunderstood him, hence the bored expression.

Give old college friends my kindest regards and with your permission, we'll give "Nine Rahs! for the Record. O. A. Taylor, per "Fat."

Morn Hill Camp, Winchester, Eng., March 27, 1918. Dear Prof. Chittenden:

Just want to let you know of my good luck. Week before last Emory Crocker, "Frenchman" Leveaux, P. V. Tower paid me a visit during a stopover at this camp. Koleman was among the bunch, too. They all looked like a bunch of healthy convicts with their shaved heads. I sure was tickled to see the fellows. Then last week "Bill" Anderson, '17 ag., walked into the office and I knew then that the world isn't much bigger than our M. A. C. campus after all. Best wiskes to you and Prof. Sanford.

70. The Michigan Tradesman of April 24 contains an inspiring article on the work and gifts of Charles W. Garfield and titles him Grand Rapids' "greatest civic asset." From it the following is quoted: "All his life Mr. Garfield has unselfishly devoted his time and talents in no small measure to the public he serves and the city and country he loves * * * His presence in the community is an inspiration and his career has found appreciation in many other hearts who have sought to follow his leadership and emulate his example. Mr. Garfield is our greatest civic asset because he is hopeful, useful, radiant and unquenched."
