THE M. A. C. RECORD

VOL. XXIV.

EAST LANSING, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, JANUARY 17, 1919.

NO. 14.

STUDENT LIFE and activities, as in days before the war are beginning this term. Parties and social functions after a long period of inactivity are again coming to the fore. Class meetings are being held for the election of officers absent, and class yells are again heard, particularly after nightfall. To all appearances the student body are preparing themselves for the reconstruction period.

THE EAST LANSING CHURCH is continuing its community service in the capacity of an information bureau and clearing house for rooms for short course students. Throughout the S. A. T. C. regime it was used as a Hostess House, and proved its worth under the direction of Mrs. Holt who is continuing as its matron.

EAST LANSING COMMUNITY LIFE, volume one, number one, made its appearance in the college community last week. "Community Life" represents the fulfillments of hopes long cherished by East Lansing business men for a community newspaper. It is to be issued weekly on Fridays. Glenn Kies, Gardening Club Leader for Lansing, has been selected by the businessmen's association as managing editor. Paul Miller, formerly an instructor in the economics department and now a teacher of history in the East Lansing high school, is assistant editor. The printing is done by the Campus Press in East Lansing. The first issue contains a very interesting report on the community garden project by N. A. McCune, '02, entitled "When the Church Turns Farmer." The story with illustrations was reprinted from the "Michigan Farmer."

THE EATING CLUBS in the basement of Williams Hall have transferred their scenes of action to the basement of the Dickson Building in East Lansing. Mrs. James, who was in charge of the combined Williams Hall clubs for the S. A. T. C., has opened up a new dining room "on her own" and is operating independently of the college.

ROOMING HOUSES in East Lansing have profited greatly by the Williams Hall fire. The lean times felt while the R. O. T. C. was in vogue have apparently terminated with a snap for rooms are now in great demand.

Nearly one hundred men who had signed up for quarters in Williams returned for the winter term to find no happy homes awaiting them. The placing of Williams Hall roomers into off campus houses, together with the usual winter demand of "Short Horns" for lodging places has filled up practically every available room in the community, even though the college attendance is small. It would not appear to be an opportune time for East Lansing to oppose the dormitory scheme at M. A. C.

HAVE YOU SOMETHING FOR THE WAR EXHIBIT?

* * * * *

The exhibit of war relics in which pieces collected by M. A. C. men are to feature is being prepared as a part of the general exhibit for Farmers Week February 4 to 10. The committee will appreciate the loan of any war pieces of any sort that will add to the attractiveness of the exhibit, and will pay transportation charges and assure their safe return. Pieces should be sent to C. W. McKibbin, Alumni Recorder, East Lansing.

* * * * *

A CASUAL ONLOOKER would scarcely believe his eyes should he drop in at the gymnasium Wednesdays and Fridays from 5 to 6 to witness the faculty gymnasium class in action. The cavortings and antics of the once termed "staid old faculty" put to shame the gambolings of a spring lamb. The pool too is being heavily patronized.

SIGNS THAT THE YOUNG MEN of Michigan, as a result of some of the lessons they learned in the war, are turning their attention to engineering, have become manifest at M. A. C. Registrations in Miss Yakely's office show that for the first time in years the number of young men who have enrolled in the mechanical, chemical, civil and electrical engineering courses has leaped up until it is nearly equal to the number who are pursuing the study of agriculture. The last figures show 227 Ags and 220 engineers, with a total enrollment of 800 regular students, including women.

MISS ELIZABETH PALM, '11, assistant librarian, who has been serving with the Red Cross at the Base Hospital at Camp Custer, has been released from service and returned to her former post in the library on Monday.

RAY STANNARD BAKER, '89, has recently been appointed as publicity agent for President Wilson during the peace conference. Mr. Baker has been in England and France in an official capacity for a number of months.

THE ANNUAL JUNIOR HOP has been set for the evening of April 4th. It is the first time in years that the J Hop has not been held in the winter term. Unsettled conditions with the reopening of college and the inability of the committee to conveniently arrange for the gymnasium in which to hold this year's party are the reasons for its postponement to the spring term. Plans are being made for an annual J Hop that will equal those of former years.

COMMANDANT MURCHIE of the S. A. T. C. and the officers of his staff are still at the college. Major Murchie and Lieutenant Lessig, Adjutant, expect to leave this week, but it is expected that the quartermaster, Captain Walsworth, will not be able to close up his office for some time.

SUCH ORGANIZATIONS as the M. A. C. Union, the Student Council, the Athletic Board and the Liberal Arts Union are finding the necessity of holding elections to supply officers to their boards. The M. A. C. Union announces an early community party that will serve as a "get together" for new students and returned soldiers.

Prof. E. J. McEwan, who was professor of English at M. A. C. from 1880 to 1889, died at Kalamazoo, Michigan, December 10th. He is survived by a wife and four children. Dr. McEwan had been professor of English literature at Kalamazoo College for some years. From 1880 to 1883 he was librarian in addition to his position as head of the English department at M. A. C.

There is still some influenza among campus people and students, although during the week the number of cases have been reduced to nine, none of which appear to be serious.

"ALUMNI MAGAZINES ASSOCIATED."

The Association of Alumni Secretaries has been at work for several years to effect a consolidation of all alumni magazines for the purpose of securing national advertising. The details of such a consolidation have finally been worked out and have taken shape in the combination known as "Alumni Magazines, Associated," which is now being incorporated.

Individually the advertising problem for the alumni magazine has been an uphill climb, but in combination Alumni Magazines Associated is able to furnish a circulation and a select group of readers which taken together means service to advertisers. From our standpoint when worked out properly it will effect a great saving of time and effort on the part of the editor and provide the Association with a much larger working capital.

The advertising of Alumni Magazines Associated will no doubt be only that of the large nationally known advertisers and will not effect in any way the advertising already being carried in the RECORD or hinder us from procuring advertising for the RECORD independently of the combination.

The campaign among advertisers began January 1 and has met with unhoped for success. Progress has been so rapid that plans are now being drawn for making the organization permanent and strengthening it.

We sincerely hope that its success will continue.

THE THREE-YEAR RULE.

Close followers of intercollegiate athletics will realize the importance of the step taken by the athletic department at M. A. C. in resuming sports under the three-year rule. There was considerable discussion among middle western colleges about the time of the disbanding of the S. A. T. C. as to whether it would be possible to resume intercollegiate athletics under the three-year rule, which does not permit freshmen taking part in the varsity contests, and it is understood that at a number of schools it is not now in force. This rule has been the means of standardizing athletic contests among the colleges and has been a trade-mark of fair play and clean cut sport for its users. Accordingly the action of M. A. C. in resuming athletics under the non-freshman regulation, difficult though it may be at first, makes clear our position with respect to the maintenance of standards attained in pre-war days, and places us in splendid standing with other middle western schools with whom we come in contact.

The effects of the rule are being felt in basketball this term, some splendid freshmen material having been kept from the varsity because of it. However, it is the expectation of the coaches that the adherence to the three-year rule will not effect M. A. C. athletics later than next fall, as many former varsity men are counted on to reenter college in September.

Franklin E. Leonard with '11.

Captain Franklin E. Leonard, with '11, was killed in the wreck of the Wolverine Limited at South Byron, N. Y., on Sunday morning, January 12th.

Captain Leonard was a son of Franklin E. Leonard, Sr., vice president of the Grand Rapids Refrigerator Company, and was in charge of the New England States office, with headquarters in Boston up to the time he joined the army. He had recently been in the office of the Chief of Staff at Washington, D. C., where he was attached to the requirement section of the Ordnance Department. Early in 1917 he was connected with the Red Cross in Washington.

In college Leonard was popularly known as "Jock" and was a member of the Hesperian society. He spent two years at M. A. C. in the agricultural course with the class of 1911 and then entered Harvard University where he followed a course in business administration. Since leaving Harvard he had been connected with his father's company in eastern states.

He is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Marguerite Tuthill, Grand Rapids, his parents and one sister.

Elizabeth Pettit Schartow with '12.

Elizabeth Pettit Schartow died November 24th at the Women's Hospital, Columbus, Ohio. Mrs. Schartow spent a year at M. A. C. in 1908 and will be remembered as a cousin of Professor Rufus Pettit. Her death resulted from overwork and general breakdown while caring for sufferers from influenza. She had taken a Red Cross Nurses course and at the outbreak of the disease was one of the first to volunteer her services. She did not contract the disease.

She graduated in 1910 from the Saginaw County Normal and taught for two years before her marriage in June, 1913, to Mr. Schartow.

ALUMNI ENDORSE DORMITORY SYSTEM.

The following telegram was sent by alumni in attendance at the meetings of the Association of American Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations:

Baltimore, Md., January 8, 1919.
President F. S. Kedzie:

We, the Alumni, believe the dormitory system has been an important factor in developing strength of character and qualities of leadership among students at M. A. C. We therefore strongly urge the Board of Agriculture to continue the dormitory system.

WAR DEPT. SEEKS PHOTOGRAPHS.

To the Editor of the Michigan Agricultural College Alumni Magazine:

It is requested and very vigorously urged that the alumni of the Michigan Agricultural College who have served in any capacity with the American Expeditionary Force and who have snapshot photographs, taken in France, forward copies of all such photographs, together with the necessary explanatory information to be used as captions, to the Officer in Charge, Pictorial Section, Historical Branch, War Plans Division, General Staff, Army War College, Washington, D. C.

These photographs are requested for incorporation in the permanent pictorial files, which will serve as the official photographic record and history of the war.

BASKETBALL POPULAR.

The Aggie basketballers are just about breaking even in their games won and lost so far this season.

Wednesday night of this week Gauthier's men succeeded in taking a very clean game from the Kalamazoo College team in the college gymnasium. The final score stood 42 to 22. Kurtz was taken out during the game because of injuries, but the playing throughout was especially clean and sproutsmanlike.

M. A. C. is specializing on Kalamazoo this week, playing a game with Kalamazoo Normal School Friday night at Kalamazoo.

In last week's trip the team was downed by the Rayles of Detroit, 35 and 16. The Rayles are a professional team of high caliber and the fact that M. A. C. held them 13 and 11 up to the middle of the last half speaks well for the Aggies. The game with Oberlin Saturday night was lost to Oberlin 2 to 14.

This year's home games are being especially well attended, in fact there is the best support accorded a basketball team in some years.

SPECIAL MEETING OF THE BOARD.

A special meeting of the State Board of Agriculture was held January 8th in President Kedzie's office. Those present were President Kedzie, Messrs. Graham, Doherty, Beaumont, Wallace and Woodman. The report from the auditor general and the general accountant, Fred Z. Hamilton of an examination of the accounts of the treasurer of the Michigan Agricultural College was received and placed on file. The report shows a balance of $8,578.71 on hand at the close of December 30th, 1918.

Stanley J. Brownell was appointed as assistant in the Experiment Station connected with the dairy department, effective January 15th.

The request of Director Baldwin for the appointment of Roswell G. Carr to succeed H. G. Smith in Kent County was referred to Mr. Graham with power to act.

Director Baldwin was authorized to employ Carl Knopf as County Agent for Manistee County, provided the arrangement is satisfactory to the Manistee County Farm Bureau.

A request from Prof. C. A. Melick for permission to undertake work for the highway department in addition to his college work was granted, subject to certain recommendations from Dean Bissell.

The chemical department was authorized to employ Miss Mable Mosher for the months of January, February and March as instructor in wheat and flour chemistry.

Professor Eustace was authorized to attend the horticultural meeting held at Rochester the second week in January, with expenses paid.

Professor Eustace's suggestion that the M. A. C. offer professional advice in preparing plans for landscape improvements of the grounds of different State institutions providing the institution receiving the service bear incidental expenses in connection with it, was approved.

The plan of C. W. McKibbin for the preparation of the history of the college in its connection with the war was approved with the understanding that all matter be submitted to the president and secretary for review and criticism before printing.

Professor Patton was authorized to attend a meeting of the Association of Feed Control Officials at Pittsburg January 13th.

B. F. Kindig was authorized to attend the meeting of the National Bee Keepers Association at Chicago, February 19th.

The president was authorized to purchase a car for his official use, the selection to be his own.

Mr. Trangmar's plan for publicity was approved.

That part of the resolution of the December meeting regarding a free clinic on the campus so far as it relates to Dr. McKircher's work was stricken out thus permitting him to collect his usual fee in such cases.

Dr. Oscar H. Bruegel was appointed medical officer of the college beginning January 1.

Miss Helen Grimes was appointed instructor in athletics and Miss Anna Bayha, instructor in domestic art beginning January 1.

WEDDING.

The marriage of Lieut. Wm. N. Cawood, '18, and Helen I. Peterson, '17, took place at the bride's home in Lansing, Saturday afternoon, January 10th. Since graduation Mrs. Cawood has been manager of the Reo Motor Car Company's cafeteria. Lieut. Cawood has been discharged from the army and is entering the extension service of the college. They will reside at 1501 S. Washington Ave., Lansing, Mich.

About the Campus

A daughter, Jane Sellars, arrived Dec. 23, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Darlington.

Dr. and Mrs. R. P. Hibbard are rejoicing over the arrival of a son John Sidney on January 11. Mrs. Hibbard was formerly Miss von Walhausen, an instructor in the English department.

The popular Young Men's Class of the Pilgrim church in Lansing is now being directed by William Krieger, '02. Mr. Krieger is recruiting a number of college men. The hour is 9:30 a. m.

Mrs. Clinton D. Smith, formerly of Trumansburg, N. Y., instructs us that she is now living at 113 W. Buffalo street, Ithaca, N. Y., and hopes that if any of her M. A. C. friends are in Ithaca that they will call.

President Kedzie recently received a communication from A. C. Cron, Commandant at M. A. C. from 1911 to 1913 and now Lieut.-Colonel of the 104th Infantry in France. Lieut.-Col. Cron sends congratulations to the college for the splendid war work that it has accomplished during the past year.

Dr. Bessey and Dr. Coons saw the following people at a meeting of the American Phytogathopological Society in Baltimore the last week in January: J. H. Muncie, formerly research associate in plant pathology; Ruth Allen, instructor in botany from 1910 to 1914; M. W. Gardner, 12; L. J. Krakover, '15, and T. G. Yunker, '14.

ANOTHER LETTER FROM NED LACEY '14.

The following is part of a letter written from Lieut. Ned Lacey, '14, an aviator in France, now at A. P. O. 725, to Don Francisco, '14.

Your letter found me taking a long rest this time and when it came in minus the Sunkist label the hand and old time pen tracks didn't register at all. It was little wonder though as I was just cursing my way out of nice warm blankets into my cold clammy clothes when friend orderly appeared with my pal.

Since this business took its present hue I have been so busy doing nothing that my pen simply hasn't functioned. And maybe your good old "chatter" didn't make me feel good. A glittering plutocrat, wife and big bouncer while this one time unit of aviation is a fit candidate for an old soldiers' home. Sharp knife-pine stick-a wee bit of "scrap" on the sunny side of a big red barn.

But it is all over now safe for the epitaph on old Bill's marker and I for one am glad. Where was I when I wrote you last? As for travel the war has surely been good to me. In late summer we were flying near Milano spending our days off duty on the beautiful lakes north of the city. Those days would make a thesis all by themselves for it is poetry itself there in the foothills of the Alps, among the villas and mountains. We played tennis, met some fine people, were guests at teas and dinners, at breakfast in bed—in short, everything that didn't have to do with Mr. Mars.

Then we were imposed upon to the extent of being asked to go to the front. It wasn't so bad only traveling in Italy is hard and packing up a nuisance.

It was attached to a Caproni Squadron in the Royal Marine. We had a fine camp near a fair sized city on the Po. The Command was a regular fellow whose left breast looked like a menu card in a paint shop. All of us had individual rooms which were well furnished with a "Man-Friday" to bring in the coffee at 8 A. M. and keep the boots in shape. The Italian idea of being an officer is that of having someone around to hand you your clothes as you dress and to make you feel like an invalid. I doubt if I shall ever recover.

Outside of a few machine gun punctures and heavy anti-aircraft fire none of the boys had much to write home about until the offensive. Weather was bad for weeks which made work very slow. We knew the drive was going to start and were waiting for it a long time. On the 23rd I had a smash which took me out of the running for a few days. The result of a forced landing at dusk on a foggy day. She sure "war" dark. I fell clear of the good old war horse which spread itself over the countryside and netted only a strain here and there and a few square inches of fairly good hide.

Two days later the push began and we were detailed to deposit about one hundred thousand pounds of eggs along the Austrian lines of communication. Most every one had done a few tricks alone but it was my first experience with a large camp in daylight formation. Don, I would not have missed those days for a great deal of money. The crisp, frosty air, the mountains, the gathering dawn, the thunder of the great motors, the majestic birds bristling with bombs and machine guns, the life and action tempered by the thought that perhaps some of us wouldn't come back.

The Austrian gunners sure would do credit to any army and for a couple of days the air was hot. We lost two good Americans in another camp and it left an imprint on all of us for a day or so.

After the resistance was broken the retreat soon became a run and the work for us was over.

Later I spent three days tramping through the zone of disaster. Ruin was your companion at every turn. The starving and sick Italian prisoners returning on foot from the interior of Austria; the thousands of Austrian prisoners on their way to Italy; the stream of traffic to and from the advanced lines; the riddled homes and cities; the trenches and entanglements surrounded by great yawning shell holes—it gave one a great deal to think about.

We were just clearing up to move up on the prospective Bavarian front when Germany saved us the trouble.

Orders soon recalled us to France. We had a couple of days in which to say goodbye to Italy in Milan and Turin, then came through to Paris—all of this on top of a three-day visit in Venice has given me a fine month's vacation.

Now we are in an American camp, as "casual," with real American food and the prospect of seeing the Goddess again very soon. The worst news in weeks to me—eh what? ? Suffice to say it makes me take a long look at all made-in-America signs just to "get the feel of the machine" again. It sure was good to see the "family" loom out of the script. It sort of made me feel human again.

Ours was sure a damnable occupation. Always the thought that one of those infernal eggs was going to seal some child's life forever. One day one of the best lads we had over-shot a bridge and hit a hospital which was close by. He saw it "go up" and I think the thoughts of it are going to stay with the fellow always.

I guess this will be about my last season in Europe and I am glad that I am spending it far from the miles of spaghetti that has been our diet for a year. France is fine for a change and you should have seen us go after our first breakfast of hot cakes, bacon and coffee.

Music News of November 29th, containing a photograph and a long article on the work and achievements of Irving Gingrich is very complimentary in its description of his many musical compositions. Gingrich is gaining considerable fame as a musician and choir and choral director in Chicago. It mentions in particular some fifteen different compositions of his which are attracting favorable comment in public performances. Mr. Gingrich is a member of the Chicago Chapter of the Society of American Musicians (membership committee) and the Baton Club (new compositions and publicity committee). He is also consulting editor of the National Music Committee.

Mill's Clearance Sales

Take Early Advantage of This

Bargain Occasion

Scores of remarkable values are passed along to you. Seed-time and harvest under conditions of peaceful developments will be necessary before even an attempt can be made to re-construct the prices of average merchandise; so any great drop in prices for next season is out of the question. The sale prices we quote therefore are subsequently less than their real worth—in many cases—we would be obliged to pay more. Our regular stock is sold down to odd lots and odd sizes, remnant lengths and some small assortments. These we offer at Clearance Prices.

Our Entire Stock of Carpets

Rugs and linoleums will be sacrificed by the big cuts to close out. We are clearing out the floor covering department which is to be replaced by an up-to-date woman's department, with corsets, muslin underwear, babies' and children's garments, beauty shop and an enlarged drapery department.

Ready Made Garments

There are many splendid models left in our ready-to-wear department, and each is a special bargain.
