

MICHIGAN STATE COLLEGE

CHAMPIONSHIPS

♦ The school year of 1934-35 has ended. This year we have seen championships in many fields of endeavor — athletic, debating, music, drama, scholarly offerings — all synonymous with Michigan State College. Ours is a champion college, so recognized today by the educational world.

♦ But how about her alumni? Is their spirit of gratitude and appreciation for what M. S. C. has meant to their lives of championship calibre?

♦ A great educator once said, "A college can grow no faster than the loving ambition of its sons and daughters. Its successful work may attract admiration. It will enlist friends. But the driving wheel of steady progress is the enthusiastic, untiring ambition of its alumni."

♦ Such an enthusiastic driving force on the part of our alumni — a new championship in alumni loyalty — is the great need of Michigan State College at this hour.

Its Quality shines brightest after 10,000 miles

People who have examined the new Master De Luxe Chevrolet marvel at its quality. Very likely you will marvel, too . . . because Chevrolet has made this car so big and sturdy—so fine in every part—that it no longer looks or acts like a low-priced car! The most pleasing result of this high quality manufacture is that the Master De Luxe will continue to give real satisfaction long after you are satisfied you have received full value for the money paid for it. This new Chevrolet has a habit of staying young. Its quality shines brightest after ten thousand miles. The most surprising thing of all is that its prices are among the lowest and that it gives the greatest operating economy in Chevrolet history. But, as we have said before, quality is remembered all the more pleasantly when price is so low.

A Glimpse of Some of the Reunion Groups

● Those after-dinner visits lasted so long that not all reunion groups could wait for the photographer. He caught a few. The Class of 1885, upper left, forgot their big sign which read "Golden Anniversary—50 Years Out." The attendance record on a percentage basis went to 1895, upper right.

ALUMNI DAY VOTED "THE BEST EVER"

● "THERE'S nothing I enjoy more than to return to the Campus for Alumni Day; there's nothing to compare with the associations and the opportunities it brings," writes an enthusiastic old grad of the '70's from his home in Detroit, after spending the Commencement week-end at the College.

Many of the old standbys, loyal over many years, were heard to say, "it was the best Alumni Day ever held." No one could tell just why, but perhaps the conditions of industrial Michigan made for the right psychological effect. Preceded by almost a week of cold, rainy weather, Alumni Day dawned clear and warm. Committees in charge of the golf tournament, class reunions, baseball game, and water carnival held bated breath, fearful that the weather would take the proverbial turn for the worse and at some critical hour the Campus would be deluged. But for nine years the weather man has decreed that Alumni Day should have perfect weather and such it was. Never, in many a year has the Campus looked so beautiful. An old grad from California, back for the first time in years, said, "Well the front yard looks well kept." The fragrant and colorful lilacs were not able to wait for the reunion groups to return but the spirea bushes were bursting forth in heavy white banks of flowers and stood out as boldly as snowbanks against the stately monarchs and towering pines of the Campus.

Out at the Walnut Hills Country club (Mayor) L. L. Frimodig, '17, took charge of nearly fifty golfers who teed off between the hours of eight and ten. Results of this contest are noted elsewhere but grads like Al Bibbins, '15, who win one-third of all the prizes ought to be required to put up a cup for the following year. Great yarns come from the tournament each year.

● LONG before nine o'clock the crowds arrived at the Union to register and get squared away for the day's program. Some of the '95 boys and even one from '73 came on Friday night to get their inoculation of that wonderful soul-soothing, spirit-sustaining serum that comes with each Alumni Day. Everybody was greeting everybody else, recalling old events with glee and laughter, slapping each other on the shoulder or projecting a query such as "Say, who are you, I remember your face?" Then the registration badge gave away the secret and two old friends sat down for a good old visit. As usual there was a care-free, comfortable crowd of loyal men and women, released for a day from worrisome care by the generous welcome of a beloved Alma Mater.

The annual business meeting of the Alumni Association was again held on the south lawn of the Union, with C. Fred Schneider, '85, president, in charge of the oratorical traffic. He proved to be a good forceful officer and for the first ten minutes addressed the old grads on loyalty, traditions and purposes of alumni work as related to the College. The secretary's annual report, which followed gave a history of the Alumni Association and closed with a detailed statement of activities carried on throughout the year. The treasury report showed less financial participation by graduates during the past year than anytime since 1928. The secretary reported that the decline in Association finances had focused attention on the whole alumni program and the College was now considering several plans. Consideration is being given to the adoption of a long-range policy calculated not only to assure the Alumni Association's work on a permanent basis but also to make its program an integral part of the building up and strengthening of the institution.

● HENRY HAIGH, '74, in addition to being honored as honorary life president of the M. S. C. Association, took an active part in the annual business meeting when he read a report of the committee on memorials. He mentioned that the loss of alumni during the year numbered some of the most influential members of the Association. He cited especially Frank S. Kedzie and Charles W. Garfield, whose names had been associated with the College almost from the beginning.

The report of the mail ballot for Association officers was read by O. L. Snow, '10, chairman of the canvassing committee. Having received the majority of votes cast the following people were elected for ensuing year: President, C. Fred Schneider, '85, Grand Rapids; first vice president, Clyde Allen, '23, Dansville; second vice president, Otto Hess, '16, Grand Rapids; treasurer, Harold Plumb, '21, Jackson; member of executive committee (three year term), John Hannah, '23, East Lansing, and representative of the Alumnae League, Mrs. Helen Erickson, '23, Lansing.

● EXCEPTIONALLY impressive was the annual dinner given by the

The Alumnae League presented the College with its first official flag on Alumni Day. The 5x9 flag was accepted by Secretary John Hannah in behalf of the College, who in turn asked Alumni Secretary Stewart to display it on the Union flag pole on special occasions.

College to the Patriarchs. These graduates of 50 years or more look forward to this meeting as the high spot of Alumni Day. Fifty-five graduates and their guests were greeted by Clark Brody, '04, chairman of the State Board and the first part of their program was a welcome address by President R. S. Shaw and a short memorial service for the Patriarchs who had passed on since last June. This ceremonial was in charge of Dr. N. A. McCune, '01, of the Peoples church. As he read a short eulogy the young daughter of Ethel Taft Klaver, '16, carried a wreath of flowers and placed them on an altar under a lighted cross. The Patriarchs who died during the last year were: Charles W. Garfield, '70, Martin T. Rainier, '74, Hiram S. Hampton, '76, Frank S. Kedzie, '77, and Theries D. Hinebauch, '85. For nearly two hours members of the Patriarchs club told of their personal experiences and Daniel Strange, '67, oldest living alumnus, read a poem which he had written since last year, entitled, "Seventy Years Ago."

Twelve classes held formal reunions in the Union, but hundreds more from non-reunion classes returned in large numbers and spent the day greeting and being greeted by old friends and classmates. The largest group to return was the class of 1925, back for their tenth anniversary. More than 70 members of the class registered and enjoyed a private party in the dining room on the third floor of the Union. Details of the dinner were in charge of Frances Ayres, class secretary.

The prize orchid went to Maurice Kains, of Suffern, New York, who mustered all but four members of the class of 1895 to return for their 40th class anniversary reunion. They came from coast to coast to attend Kains' party and to hear and visit with four of the professors, A. B. Noble, of Ames, Iowa, W. O. Hedrick, Levi Taft and H. K. Vedder, of East Lansing, who stood before their class, forty years ago.

The class of 1910, with O. L. Snow, as reunion chairman, was very much in evidence wearing green and white sashes advertising their 25th anniversary. Prof. and Mrs. E. H. Ryder, and Miss Elida Yakeley, registrar, were their special luncheon guests.

● THE SUNSET SUPPER at six o'clock more than taxed the capacity of the Union ballroom. Hostesses, members of the Alumnae League, seated the crowds at the class reunion tables and in a few minutes the noise of tin crickets, horns, whistles, and the pop of a punctured toy balloon soon drowned the din and clatter of dishes and silverware. C. Fred Schneider, '85, president of the Alumni Association, introduced President Shaw, who had a few words of greeting and cheer for the old grads, and then the famous musical Mathews family of Winamac, Indiana, entertained with a 20 minute number that was pronounced one of the best musical skits ever given before a Sunset Supper audience. I. J. Mathews, the father, was incidentally here to swell his 1915 class reunion attendance. John Hannah, secretary of the College, spoke briefly and publicly thanked the Alumnae League for presenting the College with a large silk flag. A. P. Johnson, well-known Grand Rapids lecturer and former editor, praised Michigan State graduates in their sane attitude on world conditions and changes in the new social order. He was highly complimentary to Michigan State college as an educational institution and predicted a great future in the coming years.

No sooner had the last words of Alma Mater died down than the party moved out of the ballroom and the Union staff started clearing the space for the annual alumni dance. At nine o'clock the orchestra was ready for action and for three hours the summer frocks of the women moving about the ballroom with their partners made a kaleidoscope of color that was beautiful to watch. As the chimes of the Beaumont tower pealed out the notes of twelve o'clock, the dim lights of the Union twinkled amid the hanging flowers on the walls of the ballroom and a great moon cast golden shadows across the beautiful tree-covered Campus. It was the end of the 1935 Alumni Day, the one voted by all who returned as "the best ever".

College Honors Two Alumni

● TWO UNDERGRADUATE degrees were granted on Commencement Day, June 10, to alumni long out of school. Charles H. Hatch, who is vice-president in charge of business development of the Miller Franklin company of New York City, received the degree of bachelor of science in mechanical engineering as of 1915. Oliver D. Dales, chief engineer in charge of construction for the Niagara Falls Power company in Niagara Falls, New York, received the degree of bachelor of science in civil engineering. Both of these men are outstanding in the engineering field.

Appropriation Budget Fixed

● THE LONG suspense is over. The state legislature having passed the "yardstick bills" and adjourned on May 24, left the Governor with unusual authority in granting him power to cut, cut, cut — to balance the budget. Governor Fitzgerald announced last week through Budget Director George Thompson, that all institutional budgets would be trimmed five percent along with all other departments of the State's government. The College has been officially notified that the biennium budget has been placed at $1,284,653.47 and extension funds at $166,250.00. State appropriation for operating the College were $1,000,000 per year for the past biennium while the annual appropriation for agricultural extension work was $178,609.09 for the same period.

Foresters Build Log Cabin

● IN MEMORY of the late Professor A. K. Chittenden, formerly head of the forestry department, a log cabin club house has been erected by members of the Forestry club among the pines in the forest nursery. It will be dedicated at fall Homecoming, November 9. Of late, the ring of the axe and the song of the saw has frequently been heard from across the river. The boys have been more than a year collecting and peeling the logs, putting in the foundation and erecting the 56 by 28-foot structure, all for the simple reason that it is being done entirely during their spare time. It is a strange prank of fate that the only building being erected on the Campus this lean school year should be one at the hands of a group of students. Are we reverting to the days of the '60's when students had a hand in constructing many of the campus buildings?

Besides being unique, when compared with the more formal types of architecture on the Campus, it is hoped that when entirely finished the structure may indicate the better principles in log house building, including recommended uses for crooked lengths, proper log fitting and notching, treatment of logs to preserve their appearance and soundness, desirable types of chinking, and modern methods in supporting roofs.

It is expected that "the cabin" will also provide an appropriate retreat well away from the staid walls of the classroom where students may further speculate upon the feats of this Bunyan character that has lately come to their attention. According to Professor P. A. Herbert, present chief of the department, a special effort will be made to have alumni of the forestry department return for the Homecoming dedication.

Alumni Golf Tournament

●WALNUT HILLS COUNTRY club was again the scene of the annual Alumni Day golf tournament on the morning of June 8. Under the direction of L. L. Frimodig, '17, a large number of golfers played eighteen holes, hoped that they would win one of the many prizes which this year were golf balls. Best golfer was A. L. Bibbins, '15, while best guessers were E. B. Hill, '15, of East Lansing, and Don Robinson, '22, of Detroit, who tied for the blind bogey. A complete list of the winners, together with the number of golf balls won follows:

LOW NET (18 holes)—A. L. Bibbins, '15, 90 Darwin drive, Synder, New York (6 balls).

1910 Silver Anniversary

(O. L. SNOW, Temporary Secretary)

"Twenty-five years isn't long — when you look back over your shoulder at it." So said all of us who were present at the luncheon last Saturday. But when Norma Vedder Walter reported that she is now a grandmother some of us just had to admit that twenty-five years must be twenty-five years. We did not burn the Campus with gushing enthusiasm and any noisy demonstrations but we did have a good time visiting, introducing our families, and listening to brief informal reports from each other around the circle. Fifty persons attended our luncheon. Professor and Mrs. E. H. Ryder and Miss Yakeley were the honor guests. Members of the class present with all or a part of their respective families were: R. G. Crane, O. L. Snow, C. E. Smith, P. H. Piper, G. P. Burkhart, M. L. Johnston, Mina Bates Overstreet, Helen Emery Pratt, E. L. Brown, S. C. Hagenbuch, Norma Vedder Walter, Blanche Bair Lyon, Catherine Benham Vasold, C. S. Wagner, L. W. Dougnerty, A. P. Pulling, Muriel Twiggs Chilson, George Hobbs, and A. H. Perrine.

In an attempt to carry to those members of the class who could not be present the spirit and picture of the occasion, an experiment is being started. An "Around Robin" letter which includes a detailed report of the celebration and original reply letters from members of the class is being started. Each member is to add a letter to the "robin" and speed it on its way. The schedule calls for the return of the "robin" to this office at frequent intervals for checking and the extracting of any material which would be good for publication in the RECORD.

All members of the class of 1910 therefore stand by with patience and in due time the "robin" will come to you.

Degrees Conferred Upon 499

● COVERING SEVEN interesting days, beginning with the traditional swing-out Monday evening, June 3, and extending through Monday forenoon, June 10, Michigan State's seventy-seventh commencement attracted a large number of alumni, friends, and relatives of the 499 candidates for degrees, and many other visitors and friends of the College.

The graduating class this year exceeded last year's group by 34. In the list of graduates for this year the liberal arts division led with 182, followed in order by engineering with 82, agriculture with 78, home economics with 67, applied science with 63, and veterinary medicine with 27.

Exceptionally fine speaking and beautiful music went far in making the commencement exercises long to be remembered. President Wynand Wichers, of Hope college, delivered the baccalaureate address with Julius Stulberg, student violin soloist, and the college orchestra under the direction of Michael Press, furnishing the music.

● ON MONDAY morning, June 10, the military parade and awarding of commissions in the Reserve Officers Training corps was held on the college parade grounds. At 10:30 a. m. the processional of faculty and candidates for degrees marched from the gymnasium to Demonstration hall, led by the college band. During the exercises Wendell J. Westcott, a member of the graduating class, played the beautiful "Hungarian Fantasy" by Liszt. He was accompanied by the band. The commencement address was given by Professor Edwin Mims, head of the department of English language and literature, Vanderbilt university. Using the subject "Inner Resources" the speaker dwelt upon the underlying fundamentals in education, stating that a graduate after having been in the study halls of a great college or university four years ought to have a trained and disciplined mind; ought to have developed a power to think; to have developed a power of imagination; to have developed a sense of appreciation and beauty, and to have developed an interest in the mysteries of life and of the universe.

One honorary degree was conferred. J. H. Skinner, dean of agriculture, Purdue university, received the Doctor of Agriculture degree. A part of the citation given by President Shaw was as follows: "In honoring you, Dean Skinner, Michigan State college honors a man who is pre-eminent in the field upon which this school itself was founded—agriculture. You graduated in 1897 from Purdue university and at the present time you head all of the agricultural interests in the University, both instructional and research You have had a profound effect upon agriculture in Indiana, Dean Skinner, and the agricultural resources of the University have increased under your administration, and the instructional work has been amplified and organized until it ranks with the best in the United States. You have had many honors bestowed upon you One could enumerate your activities and accomplishments indefinitely; suffice it to say that Michigan State college is herself honored in bestowing the degree of Doctor of Agriculture upon a man so eminent as a research worker, a writer, a practical agriculturist, and a teacher."

Start Fall Football Plans

● WHAT'S IN PROSPECT for the gridiron this fall? That's the question all the old grads were asking on Alumni Day. Can Charlie Bachman repeat the great season of 1934 when the Spartans emerged victorious in eight out of nine contests?

Football practice will start in earnest September 9 and the opening game with Grinnell of Iowa will take place in East Lansing on September 28. The coaching staff of Bachman, Casteel, and King anticipate one of the largest squads this fall that has ever participated in early practice.

The personnel of the 1935 Spartan squad shapes up well with such men as Kurt Warmbein, Dick Colina, Dick Edwards, Steve Sebo, Lou Zarza, Bob Allman, Howard Zindel, Sid Wagner, Gordon Dahlgren, Joe Buzolitz, Vince Vandenberg and several reserves from last year's club. The biggest holes to fill will be the ones left vacant by Russ Reynolds, captain and quarterback; Buck Reavely, huge tackle, and Ed Klewicki, right end, voted as the most valuable player of last year's team. At this writing it appears that Dick Colina will fill the vacancy at quarter; Bob Allman, the right end position, and it is a toss up for the tackle position left open by Reavely, with Julius Sleder, Fred Schroeder and Frank Swartz all having equal chances.

During the spring practice drills the fresh who stood out as good varsity timber included: Bill Miller, of Ardmore, Pennsylvania; John Pingle, of Mt. Clemens; Chuck Halbert, of Grand Rapids; Jesse Cornoa, of Detroit, all backs. Along the line men showing exceptional promise were Frank Gaines, Harold Schwartz, Don Miller, Bob Elder, Bill Boyko, Bob McComb and Jerry Behn.

Baseball

● THE Spartan baseball squad swung into the final month of intercollegiate competition and finished in a blaze of glory. To their credit was a 4 to 1 victory over Michigan, played on Decoration Day at College Field, and the Alumni Day win over Iowa, 5 to 4.

The double defeat which Coach Kob's men suffered at the hands of Ohio State at Columbus on May 17 and 18 aroused the team morale and they came back to win a second game over Michigan Normal on May 21 by a score of 5 to 4. Arnold Parker was the pitching ace of the game while "Buzz" Bartling came out of his batting slump and hit a home run. Western State, with Lefty Brandt hurling superb ball, took the Spartans on May 25 by a score of 5 to 2.

George Hill, sophomore sensation from South Haven, subdued the Michigan nine in an interesting game May 30, by a score of 4 to 1. He allowed but nine hits. The Spartans won one and lost one with Notre Dame, dropping a heart breaker by a score of 2 to 1 at South Bend on June 1.

The University of Iowa club came to East Lansing to close the State season on June 7th and 8th. The Hawk-eyes won Friday's clash 5 to 2. Kronbach started on the mound but was relieved by Hill in the fifth. Hill finished the game.

Bringing their season to a grand climax on Alumni Day, June 8, State won over Iowa 5 to 4. Berg and Hopkins hurled for State and did a fine job of it. The feature of the contest was the hard hitting of Captain Art Rouse who drove out three solid smashes for safe blows.

The season's record was as follows; State winning nine and losing six. Seniors playing their final games for State were Captain Art Rouse, Eddie Fielder, Al Kronbach, Arnold Parker, and Theron Fager. Steve Sebo proved to be the club's leading hitter, while Al Kronbach was the most steady mound performer.

Track

● TRAVELING to the 59th annual I. C. 4-A. meet held this year in Harvard's stadium in Cambridge, Mass., June 1, were eight Spartan thinclads and Coaches Young and Casteel. The State entries came through to take fifth place, tying Harvard and Stanford with 11 points. Leland Stanford university was the defending champion. Southern California took first with 52 points, doubling the score of the Golden Bears from the University of California who won second place.

Featuring for the Spartans was Wesley Hurd who came within an ace of taking Gene Venzke in the mile. Venzke broke the tape four yards ahead of Captain Hurd in a courageous finish.

● ON SATURDAY, June 8, Coaches Young and Casteel took the State track squad to the Tenth Annual Central Intercollegiate Track and Field meet held at Marquette university, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

State won sixth place in this meet with 17 points, trailing Ohio State who won first, Wisconsin in second, Indiana in third, Notre Dame in fourth, and Marquette in fifth. Ohio State won the meet on the strength of Jesse Owens, the versatile Buckeye performer, who took firsts in the 100, 220 and broad jump.

Tom Ottey ran a beautiful race in the two mile losing by six yards to Bill Zepp of Michigan Normal. Jimmie Wright came through again to take a second in the half mile, while Nelson Gardner lost by an eye-lash in the mile, placing third. Frank Dittrich took a second in the broad jump placing second to the great Jesse Owens of Ohio State.

● COACH YOUNG accompanied by Ottey, Gardner, and Wright arrived on the Pacific coast Tuesday, June 18, for the 14th Annual National Collegiate meet. They will be competing with the finest track talent in the United States today. On the return trip to East Lansing Coach Young and his three stars will stop off at Omaha, Nebraska, to compete in the National A. A. U. meet on the third and fourth of July.

Board Orders Carillon Enlarged

● AT THE JUNE 10 meeting of the State Board approval was granted for the purchase from Gillette and Johnson, Croydon, England, of ten more bells to complete the carillon in the Beaumont tower at the center of the Campus. There are now thirteen bells in the tower. The new shipment will be made early this fall and "Jake" Daubert is hopeful that installation will be made so he can give the football fans a better variety of musical selections after all the home games next fall.

Hannah Seeks PWA Funds

● SECRETARY John A. Hannah secured approval of the State Board this month to file formal application through the federal emergency administration of public works for a loan and grant to aid in financing the construction of many new buildings for the College.

Of immediate need is a new dormitory for girls, one or more dormitories for men, remodeling the present woman's building into an office and classroom building, an addition to the power plant, a new home for the college health center, a livestock judging pavillion, an auditorium, dormitory for short course students, and a chemical engineering building.

Wanted -- More Macklin Pictures

● THE ALUMNI committee in charge of Macklin Field Day celebration at the Homecoming game, November 9, has requested more pictures of Coach John Macklin as he worked with athletic teams here from 1911 to 1916. A unique souvenir booklet will be made up for the big homecoming game and given free to all who buy a regular program. Anyone having pictures of former Coach Macklin and willing to lend them to the committee should send same to the alumni office at once. Group pictures of squads coached by Macklin are coming in rapidly but a few more may be helpful.

L. Whitney Watkins, president of the alumni Varsity club, is appealing to all graduates and former students who played under Macklin—even one term—to make plans now to return for the big Homecoming celebration and dinner honoring the man whose name will for all time be attached to Michigan State college athletics.

"CLOSE BESIDE THE WINDING CEDAR"

Between rainstorms and cold waves the seniors held or attempted to hold traditional Senior Week activities during the week of June 2 to 8. Lantern night, the ceremony at which prominent senior girls turn over their duties to juniors, was postponed, postponed again, and finally cancelled because of rain. Swingout, at which seniors first appear in their caps and gowns, saw only a small percentage of the seniors facing President Shaw to hear his farewell speech and to hear Alumni Secretary Stewart welcome them to the ranks of the alumni body—a downpour in the afternoon coupled with threatening skies kept the number of participants far below its usual size.

The 1935 Wolverine, edited by Richard O'Dell of Lansing, made its appearance during the final week of school and was acclaimed to be the equal in many respects to the very fine book published last year. Larger and containing more cuts than any depression annual, it nevertheless showed a substantial profit.

After a campaign marked by its dullness, and by a light vote, the count after the spring term elections showed Richard Colina, football star and alumni undergraduate scholarship holder, to be the winner in the contest for the presidency of the senior class. Elected leader of the juniors was Ronald Garlock, of Lansing, star on last year's basketball team, who won by a large majority from Philip Linebaugh, of Detroit. In the closest race of the entire election, Jack McKibbin, of East Lansing, son of C. W. McKibbin, '11, one-time alumni secretary, was defeated for the presidency of the sophomore class by William Ingelson, of Jamestown, New York.

The "Blue Star" rating of excellence will again be given the College R. O. T. C., officers who inspected the local unit said unofficially before they left the Campus. The visiting officers, all of whom are on duty with the University of Illinois R. O. T. C., were tendered a banquet by Scabbard and Blade, honorary military fraternity.

Heading the Inter-Fraternity council, governing body of social fraternities, next year will be James Sargent, a forestry student from Little Rock, Arkansas. Sargent, who is a Lambda Chi Alpha, defeated Walt Eissler, a Phi Delta Theta, in the race for the office.

The thirteenth annual R. O. T. C. horse show, held on May 29 and 30, was termed the most successful ever held on the Campus. Entries from three states competed for prizes and trophies valued at more than a thousand dollars. An innovation this year was an evening show held in Demonstration hall followed by a supper dance at the Hotel Olds. An outstanding performer at the show was Lieutenant Royce A. Drake, '27, now stationed with the cavalry R. O. T. C. unit at the College.

The last short course of the year was in ornamental horticulture and was held from April 15 to 19. The course was primarily for home gardeners who desire to improve their lawns and gardens and was conducted by members of the horticultural faculty. According to Ralph Tenny, '19, director of short courses, it is one of the most popular courses offered.

"Milestones of Michigan," this year's water carnival, was on its Friday night presentation, attended by a large audience and more cold weather. Depicting the story of Michigan, each float represented a high point in the history of the state. The theme, well conceived and executed by Angelica Rodney, daughter of Colonel D. R. Rodney of the College R. O. T. C., was well carried out by the various organizations which presented the floats. Lambda Chi Alpha's float depicting the first steamboat on the Great Lakes was adjudged to be the winner of first prize after a repeat performance before a good-weather, record-breaking Saturday night audience.

Heading the local chapter of Tau Beta Pi, honorary engineering fraternity which will come to the Campus next fall to celebrate the 50th anniversary of its founding, will be David W. Stonecliffe, of Benton Harbor.

William Klum, '36, of Benton Harbor, will next year head Sigma Epsilon, honorary business administration fraternity, members of that organization decided at their final dinner meeting of the year. Copies of the booklet, "Ready for Business," containing pictures and short biographies of sixteen graduating business administration students were distributed at the banquet. Copies of the booklet were sent to businesses which might be interested in hiring students who had completed the course in business administration.

Thomas C. Ottey, Ardmore, Pennsylvania track star, was awarded the medal given each year by the Athletic Council to the senior who has best combined athletics with scholarship. Beside being an athlete of national prominence, Ottey obtained a high scholastic average in the business administration course which he pursued in College. In addition, he was a member of several honorary organizations and acted as president of his class during his senior year. During Senior Week, he was chosen to head the permanent organization of his class during its first five years out of college.

"Chanticleer," the senior play, held on Wednesday night in the Forest of Arden, was well attended despite the very cold weather which attended its presentation. Directed by Professor E. S. King, the manner in which Rostand's very difficult play was presented would have done credit to a professional group.

A campus teeming with returning grads on Saturday, overflowed with friends of departing seniors on Monday, and left deserted by undergraduates on the following Friday marks the end of another successful Michigan State year. Those of us who will stay on the Campus must adjust ourselves to this new, strange quiet which steals quickly over the Campus as the last undergraduate leaves for home. Summer school brings an atmosphere all its own to the Campus, August brings a death-like silence, while September will bring to us new life and vigor when the freshmen invade the Campus. A successful summer to you—and more Campus news for you in September. —G. A. C.

I struck a Match in the Rain -

*I struck a match amid the rain drops
While there we waited you and I.
A little flame revealed we both liked Chesterfield.
You know—I know—They Satisfy.*

*You smiled and said, "They do taste better"
And I replied, "They're milder, too."
Those words just fit them to the letter.
You know—I know—They're true.*

*And now we're furnishing a cottage
Where we'll be happy by and by.
Because the night we met, you held that cigarette.
You know—I know—THEY SATISFY.*
