Thomas Henry Brzoznowski, 1941

Thomas H. Brzoznowski, a second lieutenant in the Army Air Forces, was killed in action over Noyen, France, on July 4, 1943. Lt. Brzoznowski entered from Iron River, Michigan, and was graduated from the School of Agriculture on June 14, 1941. He is survived by his wife, his mother, and a sister, Amelia, '41.

Alvah Morgan Miller, 1937

Alvah M. Miller, a major in the Army, was killed in action in Italy on January 30, 1944. Major Miller was enrolled in liberal arts during 1933-37, entering from Saginaw, Michigan. He is survived by his parents, his wife, and a son.

William John Zeches, 1944

William J. Zeches, a private first class in the Army, died in Percy Jones hospital in Battle Creek, Michigan, on June 15, 1944, of injuries received in a swimming accident near East Lansing. He was enrolled in the School of Veterinary Medicine during 1941-44, and his degree was granted posthumously on September 1, 1944.

Robert Leroy Blough, 1942

Robert L. Blough, a private first class in the Marine Corps, was killed in action on Saipan Island on June 16, 1944. He entered from Grand Ledge, Michigan, and was enrolled in police administration during 1938-39. His mother and a brother, Donald R. '39, survive. Pvt. Blough's group received the Presidential citation for action on Guadalcanal and Tarawa.

Standley John Leitheiser, 1936

Standley J. Leitheiser, a first lieutenant in the Army, was killed in action in France on July 5, 1944. Lt. Leitheiser was graduated from business administration on June 15, 1936, entering from Detroit. He is survived by his parents and a brother, Walter H. '36.

William Bernard Fulmer, 1943

William B. Fulmer, a second lieutenant in the Army, was killed in action in France on July 6, 1944. Lt. Fulmer entered from Collingswood, New Jersey, and was enrolled in applied science during 1939-43.

Carleton Edwin Morehouse, 1944

Carleton E. Morehouse, a second lieutenant in the Army, was killed in action in France on July 15, 1944. Lt. Morehouse was enrolled in applied music during 1940-42, and entered from Lansing.

Thure Leonard Wisen, 1943

Thure L. Wisen, a second lieutenant in the Army, was killed in action in France on July 17, 1944. He entered from Ludington, Michigan, and was enrolled in business administration during 1939-43.

Robert Bruce Selby, 1945

Robert B. Selby, a private in the Marine Corps, was killed in action on Guam on July 28, 1944. Pvt. Selby was enrolled in forestry during 1941-42, and entered from Sturgis, Michigan.

Robert Rudolph Schwabe, 1945

Robert R. Schwabe, a second lieutenant in the Army Air Forces, was killed on August 3, 1944, while on a mission over Belgium. Lt. Schwabe was enrolled in liberal arts during 1941-43, entering from Lansing. Lt. Schwabe was a member of a unit cited by the President for its England-Africa shuttle bombing of aircraft plants in Germany, and he had been awarded the Air Medal for the "courage, coolness, and skill" displayed while participating in heavy bombardment missions against the enemy over continental Europe.

Martin Van Scheid, 1942

Martin V. Scheid, a first lieutenant in the Marine Corps, was killed in action on Guam on August 3, 1944. Lt. Scheid received his master of science degree in dairy manufacturing on June 13, 1942. He entered from Whitesboro, Texas.

Robert Henry Nickerson Jr., 1943

Robert H. Nickerson Jr., a private first class in the Army Medical Corps, was killed in action in France on August 10, 1944. Pvt. Nickerson entered from South Bend, Indiana, and was enrolled in applied science during 1939-42. He is survived by his wife, his parents, and a sister, June, '41.

Philip Albert Denton, 1941

Philip A. Denton, a first lieutenant in the Army Air Forces, was killed in an airplane accident in Alaska on August 20, 1944. Lt. Denton was enrolled in business administration during 1937-41, entering from Alpena, Michigan.

Joseph Allshouse Pelton, 1936

Joseph A. Pelton, a lieutenant colonel in the Army, was killed in France on August 25, 1944. Col. Pelton was graduated from liberal arts on June 15, 1936, entering from Pontiac, Michigan. During his overseas service he had been awarded the Bronze Star medal and the Legion of Merit.

Robert Lukens Blue, 1943

Robert L. Blue, a corporal in the Army Air Forces, was killed in a plane crash near Albuquerque, New Mexico, on August 26, 1944. Cpl. Blue entered from White Pigeon, Michigan, and was graduated from liberal arts on June 12, 1943.

Burton Warren Benz, 1939

Burton W. Benz, a captain in the Army's Third Armored division, was killed in action in France on August 27, 1944. Capt. Benz entered from Kenmore, New York, and was graduated from physical education on July 28, 1939. He is survived by his parents, his wife, and a daughter.

Arthur John Howland, 1941

Arthur J. Howland, a captain in the Army, was killed in action in France on August 27, 1944. Capt. Howland was graduated from hotel administration on June 14, 1941, entering from East Lansing. He is survived by his mother, his wife, and a son.

Gordon Frederic Fischer, 1933

Gordon F. Fischer, a captain in the Army Medical Corps, was killed on September 16, 1944, while on a special detail in Belgium. Capt. Fischer entered from East Lansing and was graduated from liberal arts on June 12, 1933. He is survived by his parents, his wife, and daughter.

Vol. 50 — No. 1, Quarterly

The above picture shows a section of the approximately 1,300 students in Basic college taking their first term-ending examination in written and spoken English in the college auditorium. With civilian enrollment last fall reaching almost 4,700, first sign of an upward swing in World War II, President Hannah predicts the registration of 20,000 students in 1960. This is based on a pattern of increases since 1900. More details appear in an article which follows on this page.

M. S. C. Problems of Tomorrow

THE following article from President Hannah is intended to reveal some of the problems which face Michigan State college in the future. These deal with educational training of discharged veterans, enrollment increases, classroom facilities, teaching personnel, and research.

The federal government is encouraging all members of the armed services to seek more educational training after their discharge. The so-called G.I. Bill of Rights offers to pay tuition, provide books, and pay $50 a month of the living expenses for these men and women during the time they are enrolled at college.

The following statistical tabulation shows the actual enrollment of students working toward degrees at Michigan State college for the year 1900 and each succeeding tenth year thereafter through 1940, and shows the actual enrollments during the past school year, and the anticipated enrollment, based on previous trends, exclusive of returned war veterans, for 1950, 1955, and 1960.

The Cover

One hundred and sixty war veterans are enrolled in the Servicemen's Institute at Michigan State College. The cover picture shows one of them, Don Steffee, of Sturgis, Michigan, talking over a problem with Dr. Fred T. Mitchell, counselor for men and director of the training program for ex-servicemen. Steffee served as radio operator on a Flying Fortress in the European area for 12 months, and has one German plane—an ME-109—to his credit. Now he is enrolled in business administration at MSC, where he was a student in 1940-41, and expects to transfer to engineering.

The estimates for the future will depend on many factors that cannot be foreseen, but they represent what will happen in the future if the trends of the past are continued. Added to these estimated enrollments must be the number of returned war veterans, estimated for Michigan State college to be in the neighborhood of between 4,000 and 5,000 men.

ENROLLMENT FIGURES

Year	Enrollment
1900	652
1910	1,568
1920	2,036
1930	4,428
1940	8,457
1943-44	11,347, including 4,753 Army (Net 6,594 civilians)
1950	12,220
1955	15,000
1960	20,200

This great anticipated increase in enrollment presents very serious problems. Michigan State college had fewer classrooms and laboratories for use by college students in 1944 than it had in 1934. Classroom and laboratory buildings can be built either through state appropriations or by gifts. There have been no gifts and there have been no state appropriations for this purpose since 1929. The buildings that have been built on this campus since 1930 have been built on a self-liquidating basis and limited to those projects that could liquidate themselves, including dormitories, music buildings, auditorium, and Jenison gymnasium and field house.

Michigan State college has now reached the point where it is unable to schedule final examinations because of lack of classrooms to make such scheduling possible. Unless a major classroom building with a large number of teaching classrooms is made available immediately following the end of the war, the college will not be able to offer reasonable educational opportunities for the young men and women who will come to the campus, with the result that they will be cheated out of the type of education they expect to receive.

The large classroom building is an absolute "must," and adequate facilities for teaching laboratories in physics, botany, zoology, geology, entomology, agricultural engineering, bacteriology, animal disease control, engineering, home economics, art, and many other departments of the institution, are of the utmost importance and must be provided in the near future if the college is to be able to provide for its students the type of training they expect.

Michigan State college must ever be mindful of the fact that the most important component of an educational institution is the quality of its teaching and research staff. A substantial number of additional staff members is now required, and these additions and replacements must be of the highest quality obtainable. This will require salary schedules higher than those that have previously existed.

In the past, Michigan State college has found itself always in the position of being the training ground for other colleges and universities. Competent people demonstrate their worth as teachers or scientific research workers, and other institutions, because of their ability to pay higher salaries, attract them away from us. If Michigan State college is to be the kind of an institution that the people of Michigan expect it to be, it must be able to pay salaries comparable to those paid by other similar colleges and universities.

Increased enrollments bring increased costs of operation. About two-thirds of the total cost of providing a college education is borne by the state and about one-third is paid by the individual. As enrollment increases, additional teachers are required, additional laboratories and classrooms are required, additional teaching materials are required, and additional maintenance costs are incurred. Beyond a certain point, the per capita cost is slightly reduced due to lesser over-all overhead, but beyond the first 7,000 students it will cost the state of Michigan approximately $250 a student a year in excess of the fees paid by the student; or, in the case of the war veteran, in excess of the fee paid by the federal government. It will, therefore, be necessary for the legislature to increase substantially the annual appropriation for maintenance of Michigan State college.

The post-war period is going to bring new problems to agriculture. The war has greatly stimulated total production of agricultural produce. In immediate post-war years there may be a demand for that increased production in rehabilitating some of the devastated areas of the world, but that demand will be shortly curtailed as these areas struggle to place themselves on a self-sustaining basis. When that occurs American agriculture will be faced again with a great problem, probably not less difficult than the one of ten years ago.

To plan intelligently to meet these impacts when they come requires the expenditure now of substantial sums in various types of research and educational activities for and in cooperation with the farmers of this state. The program that is now being thought through by Dean E. L. Anthony and members of his staff in the school of agriculture in cooperation with leading farm organizations and farmers in the state, will, if properly encouraged, bring about greater stability and a more satisfactory living to farmers.

Every activity at Michigan State college today is geared to the war effort. In dedicating itself to help win this war in the least possible time, Michigan State college has not lost sight of a program for post-war. The college was established, developed and is maintained by the people of Michigan. It must stand or fall upon its ability to serve the public that supports it.

G.I. Joe

One-hundred and sixty World War II veterans, including a dozen or more who have had overseas service, are enrolled in the MSC Servicemen's Institute, under the direction of Dr. Fred T. Mitchell, counselor for men. Approximately 45 per cent are former Michigan State students, returning to complete their studies.

The institute is an administrative unit responsible for the program of education for all ex-servicemen who enroll in the college. Its program is concerned with counseling regarding the rights of the veteran under the "G.I. Bill of Rights," problems of admission, objective testing, occupational and educational objectives, course offerings, class scheduling, health, housing, and employment.

The federal bill provides up to $500 in any calendar year for books, fees, supplies, and equipment. In addition $50 a month is allowed for subsistence, or $75 a month if the veteran has a dependent or dependents.

Most veterans who return to the campus find themselves mentally "rusty" and welcome "refresher courses" in English, mathematics, history, and science. "We have found all these returned servicemen serious about their education and very anxious to progress as rapidly as sound educational practice makes possible," Dr. Mitchell said.

Registration

Including 606 army trainees, enrollment at Michigan State college for fall quarter reached approximately 4,700 students, representing 79 counties in Michigan, 36 states and 10 foreign countries.

Michigan residents constitute the bulk of the student body with 3,305 enrolled, Wayne and Ingham leading the counties with 746 and 601, respectively. Other counties highly represented are Oakland with 300, Kent with 140, Genesee with 118, Jackson with 69, Calhoun with 63, Muskegon with 62, and Saginaw with 58.

Among the out-of-state leaders are New York with 122, Illinois with 65, Indiana with 45, Ohio with 44, and Wisconsin with 30.

In the group of 27 foreign students, 16 are from South America, and others are from Canada, China and Hawaii.

Nutrition Institute

To meet the needs of the modern world, a new service organization has been established at Michigan State college. Known as the Institute of Nutrition, the organization has as its aims the coordination and integration of instruction and research in nutrition, the bringing together of workers in this broad field, and in general, the betterment of mankind.

The Institute will supply a contact between industry and the college to further research in food and nutrition and will supply the food industry with results of the laboratory. It in no sense competes with or supplants research of the agricultural experiment station, but rather will supplement it through additional funds and will make possible a fresh approach to pertinent problems through a coordinated effort of the central organization.

Aid for maintenance of the Institute will be received from the college, and it is hoped that industry, trade associations, and agricultural organizations will provide grants for research and industrial fellowships so that the scope and extent of the work may be materially increased.

Professor Herbert Returns

Paul A. Herbert, head of the M.S.C. forestry department, has returned to his position after two years as a captain in the Army, where he was attached to the Office of Chief of Ordnance.

His duties in the army were primarily with the packaging and proper identification of ammunition for overseas shipment. When the war began, ammunition was packed in containers too heavy for beach landings, and wooden containers had to be designed and tested and then manufactured by the millions.

As this program has become one of routine supply and as the termination of hostilities will require the reorganization of forestry activities at the college, Mr. Herbert was released from Army assignment November 1 to prepare for the expected influx of students. His leave for military service began December 15, 1942.

Plastic Course

Because of the importance of plastics in the war effort, and at the request of munitions manufacturers, a 10-week course in plastics under the Engineering, Science, and Management War Training program was begun at Michigan State college on November 29.

D. D. McGrady, of the chemical engineering staff, is teaching the class, which is made up of war workers. The class meets for three hours one night each week.

At present approximately 500 men and women are enrolled in war training courses under the sponsorship of the M.S.C. School of Engineering and the U.S. Office of Education. Classes are conducted in Battle Creek, Kalamazoo, Sturgis, St. Joseph, Bay City, Midland, Flint, and Grand Rapids.

Dr. Chen at M.S.C.

Dr. Chen Yu-kuang, president of Nanking university, China, was a visitor to the M.S.C. campus the week of December 10, and addressed an all-college convocation in the auditorium on "Higher Education in China in Wartime."

The Chinese educator described changes that have taken place in educational institutions in his country since the Japanese invasion. Nanking university, along with other schools, was forced to move books and equipment a thousand miles into the mountains, he said, but he expressed the belief that the change was advantageous since educational leaders from all parts of China have been thrown together.

"We are looking forward to a more positive program when we move back to Nanking," he declared. "Although we may find that our buildings and equipment have disappeared or are badly damaged, we now have enough of a foundation to make a good start again."

County Officials Meet

Newly elected county officials of Michigan gathered at Michigan State College December 18-19-20 for the first conference course offered by the Michigan Institute of Local Government in cooperation with the short course department and the department of public administration.

Speakers included Governor Harry F. Kelly, President John A. Hannah, State Senator Audley Rawson and other men prominent in public life. The teaching staff, for the most part, consisted of experienced county officials interested in conducting better administration of county offices.

County treasurers, clerks, registers of deeds, prosecutors, drain commissioners, and sheriffs—both new and old—from throughout the state attended.

72 Degrees Are Given

Fifty-seven seniors and 15 graduate students were awarded degrees at Michigan State college at the close of the fall term, December 15. No commencement exercises were held at that time but those who received degrees may participate in senior week activities in June.

The following advanced degrees were awarded:

Doctor of philosophy—Albert Burris, physics, Silver Springs, Maryland; Chi Yang Keh, agriculture, East Lansing; Lucile M. Portwood, bacteriology, Okemos; and Henry L. VanDyke, chemistry, State Teachers college, Montgomery, Alabama.

Master of arts—Elwyn R. Dell, education major, Leslie, and Jean Smith Warren, English major, Bancroft.

Master of music—Evelyn King Hoekstad, Watervliet, and Ellen Wistinetzki, East Lansing.

Master of science—Margaret Bullard Burleigh, bacteriology major, Jackson Heights, New York city; Annabell Campbell, foods and nutrition major, Lansing; Robert K. Hudson, forestry major, Wyandot, Illinois; Edgar W. Kivela, bacteriology major, Albany, N. Y.; Aubrey A. Larsen, organic chemistry major, East Lansing; Edna Leffler, foods and nutrition major, New Jersey State college, Brunswick, N. J.; and Elizabeth Musser, foods and nutrition major, South Haven.

International Center Opens

Informal open house at the new International center on the M.S.C. campus, Sunday, October 22, marked the official opening of the former home of Dean Elisabeth Conrad as a gathering place for students from foreign lands.

The center is under the direction of Prof. Shao Chang Lee, director of the institute of foreign studies, and Mrs. Lee, who reside at the house with their daughter. Completely redecorated, the center has a reading room, living room, discussion rooms and a kitchen, all of which are open to students every day. To further the foreign studies program, a guest room has been set aside for lecturers brought to the campus by the institute.

Lt. Hal Stimson, '42 Runs Army Hotel

Lt. Hal Stimson, '42, graduate of the M.S.C. hotel training school, today is military manager of one of the finest hotels in Europe—"somewhere in Italy"—where rooms and service are free, meals cost 25 cents a day, and no telling when the next Nazi-set booby trap will turn up.

Managing a hotel in Europe nowadays is not without its worries. Dime-store quality cups cost 75 cents each at Italian "bargain counters." Fresh food items are scarce. Cloth materials of all kinds are irreplaceable. Many ordinary things cannot be replaced at any price.

One problem never confronts Manager Stimson. Guests in the dining room are not disturbed by noises from the kitchen, which a considerate architect hid away in the cellar at the end of a maze of narrow passages known only to experienced waiters.

As military manager of the hotel, Lieutenant Stimson is in complete charge and is entirely responsible for the establishment and its operation. He employs 209 civilians and 10 American doughboys. Fewer than a dozen of the civilian employes speak English, which complicates matters considerably.

Hotel towels, ashtrays, and knick-knacks of various sorts have a way of disappearing from even the best managed hotels, but petty thefts at the military hotel are infrequent. Souvenir hunting is discouraged by a polite letter to each guest on his arrival and an immediate inventory of his room on his departure.

Col. Jewett, '20

Col. Maurice G. Jewett, '20, of the Transportation Corps, is charged with requisitioning and delivering, from various parts of the United States, the necessary port facilities, including tugs, barges, dock equipment and material handling gear, the railway cars, locomotives and transport equipment. In addition he provides all spare and replacement parts, except the motor transport, which is an Ordnance function.

Jewett entered M.S.C. with the class of 1918, and after two years of service in World War I, graduated as a mechanical engineer in 1920. He held his reserve commission and became Lieutenant Colonel at the time of Pearl Harbor. He spent two years in the North Pacific area and was then transferred to the European theater of operations where he was made a Colonel. Previous to returning to army life he had worked with Chain Belt Co., of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, for 15 years. His son, David, is an Ensign in the South Pacific.

Col. Caldwell, '15

Col. George L. Caldwell, '15, has been moved from Ft. Riley, Kansas, to Third Service Command veterinarian headquarters, room 404, Tower building, Baltimore, Md.

He will supervise all Army veterinary activities within the Maryland, Virginia, and Pennsylvania regions. A regular Army officer, Colonel Caldwell entered the service in 1917 and has been on active duty continuously since that time. He has been stationed in many posts in this country and in Hawaii. Before entering the Army, he was an instructor in veterinary medicine and bacteriology at the University of Arkansas.

In college he was a member of the Olympic society (now Sigma Nu). He resides at 3706 North Charles street, Baltimore, and has one son in service, Sgt. James Charles Caldwell.

Dayton Gurney, '04

Retired because of illness, Dayton A. Gurney, '04, called by the War Department "one of America's foremost heavy gun designers," on November 17 received the department's commendation for exceptional civilian service.

In a certificate signed by Henry L. Stimson, Secretary for War, Mr. Gurney was cited for "his superb technical ability in creating, testing and manufacturing many of the Army's big guns noted for their accuracy and power. His contribution in the development of modern artillery, over a period of 39 years with the WD, has been immeasurable."

As chief ordnance engineer of the artillery division of the ordnance department, Mr. Gurney long was associated with many outstanding artillery experts who are today either assigned to the staffs of General Eisenhower and General MacArthur, or are handling vast ordnance production and supply problems in this country. His skill has been reflected in hard-hitting mobile artillery such as the 155-mm. "Long Tom" gun and the 240-mm. "Black Dragon" howitzer.

Lt. Col. Peters, '35

An interesting letter was received recently from Arthur D. Peters, '05, of Cleveland, general superintendent of the Nickle Plate railroad, telling about his sons, both Michigan State graduates:

"Thought you might be interested to know that in August the War Department advised the railroad executives that the Army was in need of men with operating services experience for duty in France. My son, Ernest F. Peters, (M.S.C. '35) volunteered for such assignment and left his job as assistant superintendent at Conneaut, Ohio. The New York Central railroad granted him leave and he reported to Washington October 24. He was immediately granted a commission of lieutenant colonel and assigned to the 2nd Military Railway Service, leaving Washington, October 25, for over-seas duty.

"My other son, Arthur D. Jr. (M.S.C. '36) is now a full lieutenant in the Navy, assigned as gunnery officer on a destroyer escort somewhere in the Pacific."

Lt. Col. Strobel, '30

Although it was midwinter when Lt. Col. Lawrence A. Strobel, '30, visited Australia on furlough, he found none of the blizzards, ice and sub-zero temperatures which he remembers back in Michigan. However, he found the cooler weather a welcome change from the tropical temperatures of New Guinea, where he has been stationed with an anti-aircraft artillery unit.

Colonel Strobel was in the first group of anti-aircraft artillery captains called to active duty in November, 1940. He was promoted to the rank of major in June, 1941, and was advanced to lieutenant colonel in January, 1943. He went overseas in August, 1943, with one of the first combat units composed of Negro troops to reach the Southwest

Pacific.

Before entering the Army on active duty, Colonel Strobel was employed as power engineer with the Detroit Edison Co. His home is at 14459 Greenview bld., Detroit, where Mrs. Strobel and their three children reside.

Major Gay, '42

Major Robert S. Gay, '42, adjutant at the Eighth Air Force B-17 Flying Fortress base in England, has had many exciting moments since graduating as an "ag" student in June of 1942. That same month he entered the Air Forces of the Army and today the Major's Fortress group is a member of the Third Bombardment division, cited by the President for its now historic England-African shuttle bombing of Messerschmitt plants at Regensburg, Germany, in 1943.

Major Gay graduated from the Trenton, Michigan, high school, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Gay, of Rockwood. In college he was a member of Alpha Zeta, Farm House fraternity, and the Inter-Fraternity council. His wife, Phyllis Ann and daughter Diana, live at 601 Westmoreland avenue, Lansing.

Lt. Zane, w'45

Ensign Wolf, '42

Among the SPAR officers commissioned at the United States Coast Guard academy, New London, Conn., September 6, 1944, was Ensign Betty Jean Wolf, Class of 1942, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wolf, 402 East State street, St. Johns, Michigan.

The officer, previous to her enlistment as a Spar cadet, was employed by the Liberty Mutual Insurance company, as an investigator of department store food and industrial accidents, in Boston, Philadelphia and Wilmington. She was a member of Alpha Phi sorority, Spartan Woman's league, A.W.S., Red Cross Nurse's aide and the A.A.U.W. She is now assigned to the District Coast Guard office, 6th Naval district, in Charleston, S. C., and lives at 2 South Battery, Charleston.

Ruth Ryder, '36

Specializing in musical therapy, Ruth Ryder, '36, daughter of Mrs. E. H. Ryder, of East Lansing, and the late Professor Ryder, feels that destiny must have led her into the training that she now enjoys so well with the American Red Cross. Writing her mother recently she said she was spending a few weeks in a rest home in Australia after some strenuous months in the South Pacific. As a diversion she is assistant Technological Coordinator of Arts and Crafts and finds her patients much interested in this work.

Margaret Collinge, '39

As a Red Cross Recreation worker and under fire repeatedly, Margaret Collinge, '39, had the honor of being one of the first American women to cross the Seine River into Metz. She is a nurses' aid with the 54th Field Hospital in a forward patrol in France.

Pvt. Davis Killed In Action

Pvt. Donald H. Davis, 34 years old, for six years desk clerk at the Student Union building, died in a Belgian hospital after being seriously wounded in the fighting around Aachen, Germany. The War Department notified his widow, Mrs. Helen Davis, East Lansing, on November 23.

Mrs. Davis gave birth to a son at the Edward W. Sparrow hospital in Lansing on November 24. Other children surviving their father are Donald H. Jr., Bernard, and Bruce.

Mr. Davis left his position at M.S.C. in March, 1944, to enter the Army. He was in the infantry.

Chinese Educator Visits Campus

Tseng-Ying Hsu, chief of the department of animal husbandry, Chinese National Animal Husbandry Research bureau, spent two days on the Michigan State campus in November, studying the work being done here in animal husbandry.

Hospital Unit

Relaxing together at an informal Michigan State college alumni meeting, the five men above are members of an evacuation hospital unit at New Hebrides, South Pacific.

In the Limelight

Albert Case, '02

Back at the turn of the century the well known "Michigan Aggie" football team boasted of "Big Case" and "Little Case" and they made a formidable combination.

Today one member of that team, Albert Case, the "Big Case," is vice-president and general manager of the U. S. Phosphoric Products Division of Tennessee corporation, at Tampa, Florida. He is one of the outstanding men in America in this field and is still hitting the line hard. He has held this position since 1927.

Born at Cambridge in Lenawee county, Michigan, on June 1, 1875, Mr. Case entered the engineering field and was graduated here as a mechanical engineer in 1902. Three years later he earned the degree of engineer of mines at Columbia university in New York. He married Sarah B. S. Avery, of East Lansing, on August 14, 1906.

Listed in Who's Who in America as a mining engineer, his biographical sketch, although incomplete, contains the following: Director of New Haven Copper company; director of Tampa chamber of commerce; director of Southern States Industrial council; trustee of Tampa university; member Tampa, Florida, Rotary club; lieutenant colonel on staff of Florida's Gov. Spessard Holland; life member of Sons of American Revolution; director of Lyons Fertilizer company; member of Tau Beta Pi; member of Sigma Xi; member of tax committee, National Association of Manufacturers; member of Bankers Club of America; member of Columbia University club in New York.

M. S. C. Senators and Representatives

Eight men and one woman—all graduates or former students of Michigan State college—took office on January 1 as state senators and representatives and are serving in the 1945 legislature. They are, left to right: Sen. G. Elwood Bonine, '23, Vandalia, manager and owner of Elk Park farms, member of committee on agriculture, banks and corporations, conservation, Michigan State college, and labor; Sen. Harold Tripp, w'16, Allegan, member 1943 state senate, member of committees on conservation, institutions for state wards, liquor control, normal schools, and public health; Sen. Carl F. DeLano, '12, short course, Kalamazoo, member of 1943 state senate, member of committees on apportionment, highways, insurance, liquor control, public utilities and transportation, and welfare and relief.

MacKinnon, '95

Rep. John W. Thompson, '00, Midland, who has served six terms in the house of representatives and who two years ago was a member of committees on conservation, Girls' Training school, Michigan State college, N. Michigan Tuberculosis sanatorium, public utilities, and state affairs; Rep. Albert W. Dimmers, w'26, Hillsdale, attorney, elected state representative for first term; Rep. Dora Stockman, doctor of science, '34, East Lansing, member of state board of agriculture from 1921 to 1932, past state lecturer for state grange, member of house committees on education, Girls' Training school, Michigan State college, Michigan School for the Blind, and chairman, public health committee; and Rep. Howard Estes, '17, Birmingham, chairman, M.S.C. alumni scholarship committee for district 12, member Birmingham city commission, elected state representative for first term.

Lower left, Sen. George Gurrbach, master of science, '24, Sault Ste. Marie, elected to 1944 state senate from district 30; lower right, Rep. Arthur C. MacKinnon, '95, Bay City, who has served in six sessions of the legislature and this year is the fifth oldest member of the house in point of service, in 1925 was co-author of bill changing name of Michigan Agricultural college to Michigan State college, past president M.S.C. Alumni association, in 1941 session was member of house committees of city corporations, Michigan State college, transportation, and state library.

Appointments Are Made

Several major appointments to the M.S.C. staff were approved by the State Board of Agriculture, governing body of the college, at its monthly meetings in September, October, and November.

Edward E. Kinney, associate professor of electrical engineering, was appointed to succeed Ward A. Davenport, superintendent of buildings and grounds since 1929, who has accepted a similar position at Brown university, Providence, Rhode Island. Professor Kinney has been associated with Michigan State for 24 years. He holds degrees from M.S.C. and the California Institute of Technology, and is a registered electrical engineer in Michigan.

Dr. Laurence L. Quill, former head of the department of chemistry at the University of Kentucky, was named professor and head of the chemistry department, effective January 1. He replaces Prof. A. J. Clark, who has been associated with M.S.C. for 39 years. Professor Clark has been named distinguished professor and chairman of the faculty committee on scholarships.

Professor Quill has held teaching positions at Ohio State university and the University of Illinois. At one time he held a national research fellowship at Gottingen university, Hanover, Germany. He is a member of various chemical societies. Since 1942 Dr. Quill has served as head of the chemistry department at Kentucky.

Clifford M. Hardin, former member of the agricultural economics faculty at the University of Wisconsin, was appointed associate professor, research associate, and extension associate in economics, effective December 1. He replaces the late Prof. R. V. Gunn. Professor Hardin received the doctor of philosophy degree in 1941 from Purdue university, and joined the Wisconsin staff at that time. He also has done graduate work at the University of Chicago.

Disability retirement was granted to Dr. C. H. Spurway, professor and research professor in soil science, with the stipulation that he be reinstated if he regains his health before reaching the retirement age of 65. Dr. Spurway has completed 35 years of service in the soil science department. He holds several degrees from M.S.C., among them the degrees of master of agriculture, master of science and chemistry, and doctor of philosophy.

Former Teacher Dies

Prof. Robert K. Steward, 59, former head of the M.S.C. department of drawing and design, died September 29 at Bayside, Maine, after an illness of several years. Professor Steward came to Michigan State in 1916 and retired in 1941. He was a member of numerous professional and honor societies. His widow, Mrs. Marjorie Steward, survives.

New Work Presented

"Vance Inn," a new composition by Dr. J. Murray Barbour of the M.S.C. music staff, was presented on the third annual concert of works by Michigan composers, November 10, in the Detroit public library, under the auspices of the Michigan Composers' club. Dr. Barbour composed "Vance Inn" last summer, and the work consists of four movements. It was played on the Detroit concert by two faculty members and two students in the department of music.

New Orchard Spray Developed at M.S.C.

A new three-purpose oil-wax emulsion orchard spray that will serve to thin blossoms on fruit trees without hand labor, reduce leaf water loss to maintain production through dry periods, and provide a spreader and sticker for ordinary insecticides and fungicides, has been developed at Michigan State college.

Discovery of the new spray formula came as the outgrowth of experiments begun at the college in 1938. Rackham research funds were provided and laboratory research was carried out by the department of agricultural chemistry. After several years, trials, with different combinations of vegetable oils, paraffin wax, and bentonite, yielded an emulsifying agent that possessed many of the characteristics desired.

Preliminary experiments indicated that the spray may be of much value to Michigan orchards. It is emphasized, however, that extended trials are necessary before the place of the spray in horticultural practice is established.

Muck Yields Wealth

One of the most valued possessions of Michigan State college is a 200-acre piece of ground that little more than 10 years ago was considered virtually worthless. Today it would sell for from $150 to $200 an acre, and is worth millions of dollars to Michigan's muck land farmers in the wealth of experimental findings it is spawning.

Situated 12 miles north of Lansing in the center of Corey marsh, the land was a part of the 240,000-acre grant from the federal government to the college in 1862. For 70 years it remained forgotten, until in 1931 someone offered to buy it for $2.50 an acre. The college retained it when Dr. Paul Harmer, muck specialist, recommended that it be converted into an experimental muck farm.

Now it is producing 1,000 bushels an acre in onions, and fantastic yields of mint, spinach, lettuce, dill, carrots, parsnips, cabbage, and other crops. Experimental findings by Dr. Harmer have enabled the state's muck farmers to convert many acres of mediocre land into high producing soil.

Obituaries

Dr. DeLamarter

Dr. Louis DeLamarter, oldest living former student of Michigan State college, died on August 15, 1944, one day before his 94th birthday anniversary. Always interested in the welfare of his alma mater Dr. DeLamarter liked to recall his school days when the student body consisted of 84 students and the faculty was composed of nine men.

Dr. DeLamarter

A native of Livingston county, he moved to Lansing with his family at the age of 6. During 1870-72 he took pre-medical work at the college. He was largely responsible for founding of the first Y.M.C.A. in Lansing, and worked in the office of secretary of state for eight years. During his free hours he studied for the ministry, completed his theological studies in 1884, and was a minister for 46 years. Albion college conferred the honorary degree of doctor of divinity upon him in 1898.

Dr. DeLamarter is survived by a son, Eric, of the University of Michigan music staff, and a daughter, Mrs. Edward Dawson, New York city.

L. H. Dewey, '88

Dr. Lyster Hoxie Dewey, '88, retired botanist and fiber-crop specialist of the United States Department of Agriculture, died November 27 in Kenmore, New York, after a long illness. He was 79 years old.

Born in Cambridge, Lenawee county, Michigan, and educated in Tecumseh high school, Dr. Dewey was graduated from Michigan State college in 1888, remaining for two years to teach botany. In 1890 he became assistant botanist, U. S. Department of Agriculture, in Washington, D. C., and for the next 10 years worked on grasses, weeds, and identification of plants.

From 1900 until his retirement in 1925 Dr. Dewey specialized on fiber plants which yield fiber used in binder twine. His study took him through many states, the Bahamas, Mexico, the Philippines, and Cuba. He represented the United States at the World Fiber Congress at Soerabaiya, Java, in 1911.

Jobs in Post-war

Next to winning complete victory and coming home again, a subject uppermost in the minds of college men in service is the kind of job opportunities that might await their return to civilian life. Thousands of these service men never had the opportunity to follow their chosen careers before entering their country's service. For them post-war poses even a more puzzling problem than for the soldier, sailor, and marine who has a job awaiting his return. Certainly, there is no one person or industry that can give the college man in service answers to all the questions which rush to his mind when he thinks of post-war. But, according to Prof. Tom King, director of the M.S.C. Placement bureau, industry and business in general are doing their best to be prepared with plenty of "answers" when peace comes.

When the many recent graduates of the college classes of 1941-42-43-44 who went directly into service from college and who never held industrial jobs are ready to return to civilian life, Procter & Gamble will have places for a number of them. They may enter training toward responsibilities in production management, chemical research and development, and mechanical engineering. Whenever conditions permit, a representative of The Procter & Gamble company, Ivorydale 17, Ohio, will be glad to discuss these opportunities. Meanwhile, those interested are invited to write to the Industrial Relations division of the company for an application blank and further information.

The General Electric company engineers, develops, and produces all kinds of electrical, mechanical, and electronics equipment. This involves extensive programs for practically all types of college graduates who are trained in engineering and science. In addition to engineers, the need for chemists, chemical engineers, metallurgists, and physicists is expanding and will probably continue to expand for some time. Write to M. M. Boring, General Electric Co., Schenectady 5, N. Y.

The Burroughs Adding Machine company, world's largest manufacturers of adding, calculating, accounting and cash registering machines, is expanding marketing plans for the post-war period and will provide a considerable number of opportunities for well qualified college graduates with selling experience, or with accounting knowledge and selling ability. For more detailed information write to William Putnam, 6075 Second Blvd., Detroit.

Another firm desiring college students for jobs in post-war is the Revere Copper, and Brass Company, Rome, N. Y. This firm is particularly interested in engineering graduates for sales and for production and methods departments. Engineering graduates should write to C. S. Phillips, personnel director for the firm.

Sports at State

By Nick Kerbawy

WHEN the 1944-1945 basketball schedule was revealed, followers of Michigan State athletics said: "Ben has lined up a ding-dong schedule that should keep him and his team plenty busy, and the fans genuinely interested."

What the fans referred to was that Coach Ben F. Van Alstyne, starting his 18th year as Spartan cage mentor, would find plenty of work shaping an all-civilian team to face such aggregations as Ohio State, Kentucky, Syracuse, Temple, Iowa, and others.

Three discharged servicemen won berths on the squad. Nick Hashu, junior guard from Hammond, Ind., is the sole Spartan letterman, winning a pair before going to the Army. Sam Fortino, sophomore forward from Alma, won all-state collegiate honors at Central Michigan where he was a V-12 enrollee, while Joe Beyer, freshman from Grosse Pointe, played guard last year for University of Detroit.

Other members of the squad, now in the thick of an 18-game schedule, include Charles Frankel, 17, and William Krall, 23, both of Detroit; Paul Bauman, 18, and Jack Breslin, 24, both of Battle Creek; Richard Young, 18, Rockford; Robert O'Leary, 18, Portsmouth, N. H.; John Burdick, 18, Catteraugus, N. Y.; William Rapchak, 18, Whiting, Ind.; Robin Roberts, 18, Springfield, Ill., and Joseph Krekora, 18, Berwyn, Ill.

Probing into Michigan State's 1942-1943 basketball record, last time the Spartans appeared on the hardwood, reveals interest, in that Van Alstyne's charges winning but two of 16 games, scored 586 points to the oppositions' 615 or just 29 fewer points.

This year's team is without great experience, but most assuredly it's a fighting aggregation.

Following is the season's schedule, including games already played:

- M.S.C. 44, Drake 36
- M.S.C. 31, Ohio State 58
- M.S.C. 31, Ohio State 67
- M.S.C. 29, Iowa 66
- M.S.C. 37, Cincinnati 39
- M.S.C. 72, Albion 36

- Friday, Jan. 12—Cincinnati, there
- Saturday, Jan. 13—Kentucky, there
- Thursday, Jan. 18—Michigan Normal, there
- Saturday, Jan. 20—Wayne, here

- Monday, Jan. 22—Albion, here
- Saturday, Jan. 27—Temple at Buffalo
- Monday, Jan. 29—Syracuse, there
- Monday, February 5—Kentucky, here
- Saturday, Feb. 10—Wayne, there
- Wednesday, Feb. 14—Detroit, here
- Monday, Feb. 19—Michigan Normal, here
- Saturday, Feb. 24—Detroit, there

Football Record— 6 Wins, 1 Defeat

Wartime football for Michigan State college turned out to be a better activity than was expected as the Spartans chalked up their best record since 1937 when eight victories and one defeat sent them into the annual New Year's Orange Bowl game. The 1944 books closed with six victories and one defeat, a record achieved with an all-civilian squad, composed entirely of discharged servicemen, 4-F's, 17-year-olds, and a few awaiting military.

Victories were registered over the University of Scranton (40 to 12), University of Kentucky (2 to 0), Kansas State (45 to 6), Wayne university (32 to 0), and a pair over the University of Maryland (8 to 0 and 33 to 0). University of Missouri came from behind to spank the Spartans, 13 to 7, to spoil an unbeaten record in a game played at Columbia, Mo.

As the season advanced, national attention was given the Spartans. Both Orange and Rose Bowl game officials cited Michigan State until the final week of the season as candidates for bids to the respective classics.

Reputation of players was widespread. "First stringers" included Donald

Special Citations Given to Spartans

Special citations resulted from last fall's Michigan State football season.

Jack Breslin, brilliant triple-threat fullback from Battle Creek, and Frank Brogger, sturdy end from Saginaw, each were named to the all-East squad that appeared in the annual New Year's day East-West game at San Francisco. The only other Spartan to be similarly honored was All-American John S. Pingel in 1938.

Brady Sullivan, of Steubenville, Ohio, was elected honorary captain while Breslin was named the most valuable player. Harold Johnson, of DuBois, Pa., was voted the team's best blocker.

Grondzik and Frank Brogger, both of Saginaw, at the ends; Mike Prashaw of Messena, N. Y., Pete Dendrino of Muskegon Heights, and Dick Massuch of Lansing at the tackles; Don Arnson of Muskegon, and Bob Godfrey of Mt. Clemens at the guards, and Brady Sullivan of Steubenville, Ohio, at center. Seeing most service in the backfield were Quarterback Bill Siler of Dundee, Halfbacks Bob Bruegger of Lansing, Fred Aronson of Chicago, Herb Speerstra of Saginaw, and Harold Johnson of Dubois, Pa., and Fullbacks Jack Breslin of Battle Creek and Bill Maskill of Detroit.

Commenting on the past season, Coach Bachman says:

"This year's Michigan State team was an interesting aggregation. It was a team that believed in itself. Poise, beautiful coordination between the line and backfield, and good blocking especially downfield were its qualities that a coach likes to see. Not once, even in their one defeat, did the players lose or discard these characteristics."

When the season began there were but two numeral winners from the 1942 season and not a single Michigan State letterman on the squad. As the Spartans look forward to next year, prospects are that at least six and possibly eight out of this year's 22 letter winners will be available to form a nucleus for the 1945 team.

Conference Meets Scheduled

Award of two Central Collegiate conference meets to the Michigan State college campus keynote the Spartans' return to the intercollegiate picture of winter and spring sports.

Appearance of the midwest's strongest assemblage of schools in both swimming and track is scheduled here March 10.

Athletic Director Ralph H. Young announced that several dates have been set for appearances in swimming, wrestling, and track of Spartan teams. Additional dates are expected, Young said.

Five events have been listed for Coach Charles McCaffree's swimming team. They are: Jan. 20, Detroit Tech at East Lansing; Feb. 3, triangular meet with Indiana and Wayne and East Lansing; March 3, Ohio State at Columbus; March 10, third annual CCC meet at East Lansing; March 30, 31, National Collegiate Athletic Association meet at Ann Arbor.

Coach Fendley Collins is grooming his matmen for meets that opened Jan. 13 at Wheaton college. Other events include: Jan. 20, Ohio State at Columbus; Feb. 2, Indiana at East Lansing; Feb. 3, Ohio State at East Lansing; Feb. 17, Wheaton at East Lansing; and NCAA meet, date and place to be announced later.

Track Coach Karl A. Schlademan has at least 12 events facing Spartan thinclads. They are: Jan. 27, Ohio State at East Lansing; Feb. 24, Indiana at East Lansing; March 10, CCC at East Lansing; March 17, Chicago relays; March 24, Purdue relays; March 31, Iowa Pre-Flight relays; April 28, Drake or Pennsylvania relays; May 1, Ohio State at Columbus; May 19, Indiana at Bloomington; May 26, ICAAAA meet, place to be announced later; June 2, CCC either at Milwaukee or Great Lakes; June 16, NCAA, place to be announced later.

Track Coach Schlademan has been named president of the Central Collegiate Conference, an organization comprising the strongest group of schools in the midwest. Schlademan, who has been a member of the Michigan State athletic staff since 1940, succeeds Melvin Schimek of Marquette.

Elect Harrier Captain

Robert E. Price, Belding Junior, was named honorary captain of Coach Lauren P. Brown's cross country team. The harriers split even in four meets, concluding their season placing fifth in the sixth annual National Collegiate Athletic Association cross country run here in November. Drake university was the title winner.

Price and Walter A. Kalmbach, Grass Lake freshman, won major cross country Spartan awards.

1945 Football

Three intersectional football games, including one with the University of Miami at Miami, Fla., have already been arranged on the 1945 Michigan State college football schedule, Athletic Director Ralph H. Young reported.

Scheduled are games at East Lansing with Kentucky, October 6, and with Pennsylvania State, November 17. The contest with Miami, in the Orange Bowl stadium, will be a night affair November 23.

Artists Do Paintings

Two members of the M.S.C. art department—John S. deMartelly, assistant professor, and Doris Lee, visiting instructor—have been commissioned to do paintings in Peoria, Illinois, and Hollywood, California.

Mr. deMartelly left on December 14 for Peoria, where he is making several paintings for a business firm depicting the industrial life of America. Miss Lee, the wife of Arnold Blanch, also a visiting art instructor at Michigan State, left the latter part of December for California to do a series of paintings for Life magazine on Hollywood as she sees it.

Before coming to Michigan State in 1943, Mr. deMartelly taught graphic arts at the Kansas City art institute, and many of his lithographs are collectors' items. Works of Miss Lee are included in the collections of many museums.

Following Alumni Clubs

By Glen O. Stewart

Flint Hears Dr. Lee

The Michigan State college alumni club of Flint was fortunate in having a speaker from the faculty and a student entertainer at its fall meeting on November 15, when nearly 100 people held a dinner at the Home Dairy dining room in Flint.

Nancy Blue, Detroit senior and a major in speech and dramatics, entertained with two readings. Prof. Shao Chang Lee, director of the Institute of Foreign Studies, spoke on American relations with our Pacific allies and told the historical background of Chinese culture and education. Major Albert Sobey, '09, served as toastmaster and assisted in the question period following Professor Lee's talk.

President Henry Kowalk, '31, announced that Mrs. Luella Harris, '16, of 801 Blanchard street, Flint, had been named chairman of the scholarship committee, succeeding Mrs. Ruth James, '28, who now becomes historian of the Flint alumni club. Another meeting in January or February is being planned, followed by the annual spring meeting when Dean Howard Rather will discuss the Basic college program.

Mrs. Harold Maloney (Amy Perry, '28) is directing the Woman's league group of the Flint club which, under the chairmanship of Ruth James, held a benefit dessert bridge at the Federation club house on November 9, netting $50 from 30 tables. Miss Kathryn Faner directed the Christmas party December 14. — Mrs. Helen Cline, '40, secretary.

Washington, D. C.

Using the Michigan State-Maryland football game as a basis for a pep-meeting, about 200 loyal Spartans met at an alumni open house in the Pan-American room of the Statler hotel, October 20. Receiving the guests was Mrs. James K. McElroy (Annie-Laurie Walls, '26), president of the Washington, D. C., club.

Visiting the group was President John A. Hannah; Dean L. C. Emmons, of the school of science and arts; Ralph H. Young, L. L. Frimodig, and Coach Charles Bachman of the athletic department; Dr. Charles Holland of the health center; and Glen O. Stewart, director of alumni relations. Several former staff members, on leave from military duty in Washington, were present. Because of the terrific rainstorm only a handful of ticket holders appeared at the rain-soaked Maryland stadium that night to see the Spartans splash to an 8-0 victory over Dr. Clarence W. Spear's Terrapins.

Mrs. McElroy has announced that plans are under way for the club's annual meeting in February.

District III Teachers Meet

During the M.E.A. sessions held at the college this fall the departments of education and alumni relations cooperated in bringing together 140 M.S.C. alumni in the teaching profession. The luncheon was held October 26, in the Union building ballroom with Prof. Guy Hill, as toastmaster. Dean Howard Rather of the Basic college outlined briefly the scope of the Basic college and urged alumni to interpret its value in their respective high schools.

Grand Rapids Reorganizing

On November 29, a representative group of men and women of the Grand Rapids alumni club, met at the Morton hotel with the director of alumni relations to broaden their local organization to meet the opportunities of present and future. A general Michigan State night is being planned for early in the New Year, with President Hannah, as guest speaker.

Milwaukee, Wisconsin

The Milwaukee, Wisconsin, M.S.C. alumni club, with 40 members present, held a dinner meeting and annual election at the Wisconsin hotel on September 14. Officers elected were: Thor Bank, '41, president; Mrs. W. D. Kimmel (Orrena Caswell, w'19), vice president; and John H. Kline, '42, secretary-treasurer. The new sound film, "Michigan State College at War for Peace," was shown. — John Kline, secretary.

Missouri Alumni Meet

Prior to the State-Missouri football game November 4, about 50 Michigan State alumni met at the Tiger hotel in Columbia, Missouri, to greet President Hannah and to hear his message about changes at the college. Campus movies were shown. The meeting was directed by Harry Kempster, '09, head of the department of poultry husbandry at Missouri. Prof. and Mrs. Chester Brewer entertained the Michigan State staff members at their home in Columbia, following the dinner served by the Missouri athletic department. Hilding C. Olson, '32, announced that consideration was being given to the formation of a permanent alumni club in St. Louis. Interested persons can reach him at 5838 Nottingham avenue, St. Louis.

Escanaba Group Meets

Mr. Stewart spent four days with alumni at Escanaba, September 15 to 19. He showed the new M.S.C. sound movie and explained the Basic college. The group discussed plans for interesting more seniors in the college and later pictures were shown at assembly meetings of the Escanaba high school, St. Joseph's high school, and Gladstone.

Detroiters Look Ahead

Hold January 24, 1945! That's the brief announcement made recently by Charles Burns, '12, president of the M.S.C. club of Detroit. Several committee members have been working with Prof. Roy Underwood, of the music department, and a program by the music department staff will be given for M.S.C. alumni and their friends in the Detroit Art institute auditorium on January 24.

Central Michigan Entertains

Proving that entertainment had not been lost after a lapse of one year, the men of the Central Michigan Alumni club entertained pre-homecoming guests at a smoker at the Hotel Olds, November 11. Movies of the Kansas State and Maryland football games were shown by the coaching staff. Refreshments were served and the club had as its special guests the coaching staff of the University of Maryland.

On November 17, in the Union building ballroom, 250 men attended the 24th annual football banquet, honoring M.S.C. varsity members. With James Conzelman, vice president of the St. Louis Browns, as the principal speaker, it was declared by many to be one of the best affairs of its kind ever sponsored by the club. L. O. Benner, '12, is president of the Central Michigan group.

Days of Yore

By Joseph G. Duncan

There was never a dull moment at college functions in 1909 when the Clown Band was present. The men are standing on the gravel road between the Old Chemistry (now Physics) building and the Old Armory. In the background are College hall, Williams hall, and (barely discernible on the right) the Old Chemistry building.

Identification of the members of the band is incomplete. The third from the left is Joseph E. Coulter, Jr., w'11, deceased. Prof. A. J. Clark, who directed the regular College Band at various times from 1907 to 1925, believes that the grease-painted drummer is Bert Keith, '11, and the trombone player on the right is E. D. Hallock, '10. Who are the others?

This picture was loaned by Michigan State's oldest woman alumnus, Mrs. Alice Coulter, '82, of Grand Rapids, mother of Joseph E.

(Below) Georgene Walker, '37, occupies the spotlight in this scene from "Take My Advice," a student play sponsored by Theta Alpha Phi and produced in 1936. Facts about the picture were furnished by Cecil H. Nickle, assistant professor of speech.

This picture was loaned by a daughter of Mrs. Woodworth, Mrs. Pat Grimes. Identifications were made by Mr. Robison.

Women alumni of the 1920's will recall Mrs. Eva H. Wyckoff who died in Lansing on November 14. Mrs. Wyckoff was housemother of Vedder house, one of the first of the college's ventures in housing women outside of the Woman's building (now Morrill Hall), and also of Abbot hall (now Music Practice building). With Mrs. Wyckoff on the steps of Vedder house in 1924 are: left to right, first row—Jane (Rutka) Taylor, w'27; Velma (Hill) Teel, w'27; June (Ranney) Lyman, '27; and Margaret (Lueders) Boehringer, '27; middle row—Ruth (Norton) Johnson, '27; Maxine Evans, w'27; Corrine (Backus) Maxon, '27; and Ruth Payne, '27; top row—J. Marlowe Trask, w'27; Mrs. Wyckoff; and Hazel Folkert, w'27.

This picture and facts about Mrs. Wyckoff were furnished by Mrs. Eben Mumford of East Lansing.

Frank B. Garratt, w'78, who devoted his lifetime to farming and the interests of farmers, died at his home near Battle Creek on July 26. Mr. Garratt had the reputation of being one of the best farmers in Pennfield township of Calhoun county, and was prominent in many farm organizations. He was a charter member and vice president of the Battle Creek Farm Bureau association from the time of its organization in 1920 until his death. He was also associated with the Michigan State Farm bureau in Lansing and a former president of the Calhoun County Farm bureau. He was a life member of the Pennfield Grange and for years was its master. He held office for many years in the Pennfield Farmers club and the West Pennfield Cemetery association, was at one time director and auditor for the Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance company, served as township supervisor in 1923, and was a member of the local school board. His widow and one son survive.

William F. Paek, w'82, who served for many years as province governor in the Philippine Islands, died at his home in Miami, Florida, on September 3. After leaving college Mr. Paek was engaged in the dry goods and grocery business in Centreville, Michigan, where he also served as postmaster. Upon his return from the Spanish-American war he was elected to the Michigan legislature from which he volunteered for the Philippine insurrection. After his "mustering out" he returned to the Islands and in 1901 accepted from General Arthur MacArthur the governorship of Benguet Province, thus becoming the first American governor in the Islands. In 1906 his territory was expanded to include all of the savage head-hunting tribes in northern Luzon in what was re-named Mountain province. He resigned in 1913 because of ill health, and upon the advice of his physician that he remain in the tropics he bought an estate on the Isle of Pines, Cuba, and created a show place of much interest to travelers. During the last decade his home was in Miami, Florida. He is survived by his widow.
