These Men Gave All

Franklin Mahlon Weaver, 1940

Cpl. Franklin M. Weaver, of the Army Air Corps, who has been missing in action in the South Pacific area since February 19, 1943, has been declared dead by the War Department. Cpl. Weaver entered from Sturgis, Michigan, and was graduated in applied science on June 10, 1940.

Eugene Roy Brogan, 1941

First Lieut. Eugene R. Brogan, a pilot in the Army Air Forces, who has been missing in action in the Pacific since June 23, 1943, has been declared dead by the War Department. Entering from Lansing, Lt. Brogan was graduated in Liberal arts on June 14, 1941.

Hubert Eugene Gluski, 1942

Lt. (jg) Hubert E. Gluski, executive officer of the submarine Runner, which has been missing since July 11, 1943, has been reported dead by the Navy. It is believed that the submarine was sunk near Honshu, Japan. Lt. Gluski entered from Detroit and was graduated in engineering on June 13, 1942. His parents and wife survive.

Robert Edmond Bishop, 1941

Robert E. Bishop, a first lieutenant in the Marine Air Corps, was killed in action over New Britain on January 17, 1944. Entering from Vermontville, Michigan, Lt. Bishop was enrolled in public school music during 1937-41. Surviving are his parents and his wife and son.

Edward Sterling Abdo, 1941

Capt. Edward S. Abdo, a navigator in the Army Air Forces, who has been missing in action over the Pacific since June 7, 1944, has been declared dead by the War Department. Entering from Detroit, Capt. Abdo was graduated in physical education on June 14, 1941. He is survived by his wife and daughter.

Harold Melvin May, 1945

Harold M. May, a private first class with the 82nd Airborne Division, was killed in action in Normandy on June 9, 1944. Pfc. May was enrolled as a sophomore in engineering the fall term of 1942, entering from Detroit.

William John Heitman, 1944

William J. Heitman, a first lieutenant in the 9th Air Force, was killed in action in France on July 8, 1944. Lt. Heitman entered from Ionia, Michigan, and was enrolled in applied science during 1940-41.

Miles Newell, 1941

Miles Newell, a captain in the Army Air Forces, was killed in action in the China theatre on July 28, 1944. Entering from Dearborn, Michigan, Capt. Newell was graduated in agriculture on June 14, 1941.

Walter E. O'Brien Jr., 1940

Walter E. O'Brien Jr., a first lieutenant in the Army, was killed on September 7, 1944, in the Philippine Islands while a prisoner of the Japanese. Lt. O'Brien entered from Lansing and was graduated in business administration on June 10, 1940.

Richard Allen Hardman, 1946

Lt. Richard A. Hardman of the Army Air Forces, and holder of the Air Medal, the Purple Heart, and a presidential citation, was killed on October 16, 1944, while on a mission over Austria. Lt. Hardman was enrolled in engineering the fall and winter terms of 1942-43, entering from Detroit.

George Patrick McKinley, 1945

George P. McKinley, a second lieutenant in the Army Air Forces, was killed on December 11, 1944, while on a mission over Austria. Entering from Lansing, Lt. McKinley was enrolled in engineering during 1941-42. Surviving are his parents, and his wife and son.

Willis Patrick Beard, 1945

Lt. Willis P. Beard, bombardier-navigator in the Army Air Forces, was killed in action over the Kurile Islands on December 30, 1944. Entering from Oscoda, Michigan, Lt. Beard was enrolled in business administration during 1941-42. Surviving are his parents, a sister, and two brothers, Capt. George L. Beard, '42, and Lt. Thomas B. Beard, '42, USNR.

Jack Bevington Tinkham, 1944

Lt. Jack B. Tinkham, of the Army Air Forces, was killed in action in the Pacific area on January 5, 1945. Lt. Tinkham entered from Wayne, Michigan, and was enrolled in business administration during 1940-41. He is survived by his parents and a brother, Capt. Matthew H. Tinkham, '41.

Francis Robert Burke, 1944

Francis R. Burke, a staff sergeant in the 15th Air Force, was killed in action over Hungary on March 8, 1945. Entering from Richmond, Michigan, Sgt. Burke was enrolled in business administration during 1940-41 and again in 1942-43.

George Lester Halpin, 1946

George L. Halpin, a private first class in the Army, was accidentally killed on April 23, 1945, while on duty in Germany. Pfc. Halpin entered from Detroit and was enrolled in business administration the fall and winter terms of 1942-43.

Campus Is Alive With Students

At the close of formal registration for the spring quarter, a total of 7,938 students had enrolled at Michigan State College, the largest number ever to enroll at M.S.C. Late registrations were expected to bring the total to well over the 8,000 mark. Only 3,555 civilian students were registered at a corresponding time last year.

Spring term enrollment as of March 28 included 4,374 full-time men students, 3,406 full-time women students, and 158 short course students. War veterans numbered 3,486.

An enrollment of 10,000 students is predicted by college officials for the 1946 fall term, with veterans making up half that number, provided necessary classroom space, housing facilities, and teaching staff are available to take care of them.

Every effort will be made to take care of all male graduates of Michigan high schools who qualify for admission for the fall term, but the same assurance cannot be given to women graduates because of the crowded conditions existing at M.S.C., according to Robert S. Linton, registrar.

In a letter sent to principals of all state high schools, Mr. Linton made the following explanation:

"I wish to assure you we are going to make every effort to take care of all male graduates of Michigan high schools who qualify for admission. I am sorry the same assurance cannot be given to young women graduates from Michigan high schools. There is real uncertainty in regard to housing of new women students for the fall quarter, 1946. Our new dormitories for women will not be completed until 1947. We do expect one new one to be completed by September, 1946, but we are going to have to use this one for the housing of girls who will be moved out of Mason Hall (men's dormitory) and out of fraternity houses. Fraternities are taking over their houses now rented to women. Women applicants who can provide for their own housing in East Lansing or Lansing will, of course, be accepted. We expect to be able to accept freshman women and provide dormitory housing for them by March, 1947, and possibly in January, 1947.

"With so many returned veterans making application for admission to the college, including many who are not residents of Michigan, it is necessary for us to ask your cooperation in making it possible to provide places for male graduates from Michigan high schools. In order to do this, two things are necessary: First, applications from Michigan high school graduates should be sent in now showing their records through the first semester of the senior year and indicating the subjects they are taking in their final semester. In order to make places for them we should have these applications filed on or before May 1, 1946, since we expect to inform out-of-state male applicants who qualify for admission by June 1, 1946, as to whether or not we will have places open for them. Second, each Michigan high school applicant should write to the housing director making application for room accommodation.

"We are holding many applications from out-of-state students in our files until we hear from the Michigan high school seniors. This request is urgent."

Because of the large number of applications for admission being received weekly from out-of-state students, Michigan State College has established the following policy regarding their acceptance:

1. Michigan residents will continue to receive first consideration.

2. Sons and daughters of alumni, and so far as possible other relatives of alumni, provided they present acceptable credentials, will be admitted.

3. Those who have a very definite connection with the college through relatives attending Michigan State now, or through staff members, also will receive serious consideration.

4. Out-of-state students who may meet all requirements with a high standard of credentials, and whom M.S.C. would like to have if housing permits, are being notified that their acceptance is being delayed until the latter part of July, at which time it should be known how many Michigan students have been admitted for fall term and whether any housing space can be provided for out-of-state students.

5. Out-of-state war veterans who have received Army training at M.S.C. will be considered on the same basis as any former students.

Michigan State's registration for the winter term reached the highest mark previously recorded by the college in its 90-year history. Total enrollment was 7,223, a 65 per cent increase over a corresponding time in 1945.

Commenting on the growth of the college, Mr. Linton said: "As I see it, this is just a start. Next fall we should reach our peak on returning veterans, when our total enrollment probably will be about 10,000, provided necessary classroom space, housing facilities, and teaching staff are available to take care of them."

Campus in March. The winter term brought many veterans back to Michigan State College. Now, for the first time since the war began, men outnumber women students.

Some of the 52 Quonset huts and 400 house trailers on Michigan State's south campus are shown in this aerial view. Married veterans and their families will occupy the trailers, and single men will live in the Quonsets, 14 to a hut.

College Furnishes Counseling, Testing Service for Veterans

Michigan State College has signed a contract with the Veterans Administration to furnish counseling and testing service for World War II veterans.

Under the plan, a guidance center for veterans has been set up in Demonstration Hall, with a staff of three counselors. Any veteran authorized by the Veterans Administration training officer to receive the counseling and testing service reports to one of the counselors for an initial conference. When his record has been studied and his interests determined, the veteran is given a battery of tests lasting from two to six hours.

After the aptitude tests have been graded, the counselor is able to make specific recommendations regarding the veteran's immediate future. It may be suggested that he enter college, obtain employment, or take vocational training in a field of work for which he shows an aptitude. The veteran then reports back to the V. A. training officer for assignment.

Any veteran receiving benefits under Public Act 16 must take the tests, but they are voluntary for men coming under the G. I. Bill of Rights. The counseling and testing service formerly was administered by the Veterans Administration.

The men who will serve as counselors in the new guidance center are William Mann, former director of guidance in Grosse Pointe schools and during the war director of rehabilitation at the Naval hospital, New Orleans; Laurence Cooke, former director of guidance, East Lansing schools; and Curtis Moore, who has done counseling work in the Army and at Grinnell College, Iowa.

Graduates Choose M. S. C.

Approximately half of Michigan's best high school graduates intend to go on to college, and more of them plan to attend Michigan State College than any other institution of higher learning.

That is the conclusion reached by Edwin M. Boyne, superintendent of Mason schools, as the result of a survey he conducted among last year's Michigan high school graduates in the upper third of their classes. The survey was made in connection with his M.S.C. doctoral study, entitled "Factors Affecting the Likelihood of College Attendance on the Part of Graduates of Superior Ability."

Of the 1,631 high school graduates filling in questionnaires, 241 indicated they would enter military service and 399 replied that they planned to work following graduation. Eight hundred ten said they intended to go to college, 168 had miscellaneous plans, and 13 failed to state their plans.

Colleges selected by the high school graduates are as follows in order of preference:

Michigan State College, 204; University of Michigan, 149; Western Michigan College of Education, 62; Central Michigan College of Education, 43; Albion College, 21; Northern Michigan College of Education and Michigan State Normal College, 17 each; Wayne University, 15; Hope College, 11; Kalamazoo College, 10; Michigan College of Mining and Technology, 9; University of Detroit, 8; Alma College, 7; Michigan junior colleges, 29; all other Michigan colleges, 74; out-of-state colleges, 123; no preference expressed, 11.

The survey was conducted by mail, and approximately one-third of the students who were sent questionnaires filled them in properly and returned them to Mr. Boyne. Names of the outstanding graduates were obtained from principals of 70 per cent of the state's 672 high schools.

Students in Education At School for Blind

A cooperative arrangement has been worked out with the Michigan School for the Blind whereby M.S.C. students in education, training to become teachers of the blind, will be enabled to do practice teaching at the Lansing institution.

The future teachers will live at the School for the Blind for one term and work as interns under the direction of Wallace Finch, superintendent. They will receive college credit for the work. Preliminary classes are being held at Michigan State now, and the first group of practice teachers will begin the internship next fall.

Arrangements also have been made for Michigan State elementary education majors to spend one term at the Merrill-Palmer School, Detroit, during their senior year at college. The students will have an opportunity to study nursery school techniques and child development there under outstanding specialists.

Cover Picture

Wallace McLay and his wife, Susan, pictured on The Record cover this issue, are among the war veterans enrolled at Michigan State College under the G. I. Bill of Rights. On their combined allotment of $155 a month from the government, they live comfortably in a small apartment near the campus. For locomotion, they depend on bicycles.

Nephew of Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace, Wally was a pharmacist's mate in the Navy for two years, stationed on the heavy cruiser New Orleans. Sue was a hospital apprentice, first class, in the Waves. Both are from Birmingham, Mich.

Faculty Changes Made

Four new heads of departments were appointed by the State Board of Agriculture, governing body of Michigan State College, at recent meetings.

Franklin H. Knower was named professor and head of the department of speech and dramatics, effective September 1, to replace Paul Bagwell, acting head. A graduate of Northwestern University, Dr. Knower received the doctor of philosophy degree from the University of Minnesota. Since 1939 Dr. Knower has been on the staff of the University of Iowa. Previously he was on the faculty at Syracuse University and the University of Minnesota.

Frederick F. Fales was appointed professor and head of the department of foreign languages, effective September 1, to replace L. C. Hughes, retired. Dr. Fales has his Ph.D. degree from Johns Hopkins University. He served as instructor and assistant professor in romance languages at New York University from 1927 to 1943, and in 1943-44 was a research analyst with the Office of Strategic Services, Washington. During the past year Dr. Fales has been field secretary for the Institute of International Education.

W. Lowell Treaster was transferred from extension editor in the department of public relations to director of public relations and department head, effective March 1, replacing Lloyd H. Geil. A graduate of Kansas State College, Mr. Treaster was associated with weekly and daily newspapers in Kansas for 10 years, and for three years prior to coming to M.S.C. in 1944, he was assistant extension editor at Kansas State. Mr. Geil resigned to become a specialist in public relations and field representative in the public relations department of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, Chicago. He was a member of the Michigan State staff since 1935, and editor of the M.S.C. Record from 1935 to January of this year.

Harold W. Lautner was appointed to take charge of landscaping the college grounds, effective January 1, 1946, succeeding the late T. Glenn Phillips, '02. Upon the retirement of Charles P. Halligan on July 1, Mr. Lautner will become professor and head of the department of landscape architecture. Nationally known for his research in city planning, Mr. Lautner was assistant to the director of the Urban Land Institute, Washington, before joining the Michigan State staff. A graduate of M.S.C. in 1925, he holds the master of city planning degree from Harvard University.

C. O. Wilkins, college comptroller since 1925, was granted an indefinite leave of absence because of ill health. After July 1 he will be in retirement but retained as the president's financial adviser, available on call. Arthur J. Clark, distinguished professor of chemistry and chairman of the scholarship committee, will retire on June 30 after serving the college since 1906. Dr. E. A. Bessey, distinguished professor of botany and plant pathology, will retire on August 31. Dr. Bessey has been associated with M.S.C. since 1910, serving as teacher, research specialist, dean of the graduate school, and head of the botany department.

Music Short Course Planned for Summer

As a service to school music teachers and high school musicians, Michigan State College will conduct a three-week school music short course on the college campus this summer, the first course of its kind ever held at M.S.C.

Under the direction of Dr. William R. Sur, professor of public school music, the short course will be held June 17-July 7. The course is designed for the school musician, the war veteran who plans to return to music teaching, the beginning teacher who wishes to observe the work of experienced teachers, and the experienced teacher who desires further training leading to a degree, the renewal of a teacher's certificate, or refresher courses.

Plans are being worked out which will make it possible for high school students to participate in a large band, orchestra, and choir; a course in music theory; private lessons for those desiring to study with experienced teachers; festival concerts; radio broadcasts; and recreational activities. Daily rehearsals of the high school band, orchestra, and choir will be open for observation by teachers enrolled.

A staff of 27 outstanding college and high school music teachers will include George F. Strickling, conductor of the Cleveland Heights, Ohio, high school choir; Leonard V. Falcone, conductor of the Michigan State College band; and Alexander Schuster, conductor of the M.S.C. orchestra.

High school musicians in grades nine through twelve may make application for acceptance, and students graduated from high school during the 1945-46 school year also are eligible. All applicants for the special short course must be recommended by their school music teacher and principal. Students will be housed in college dormitories and counselors will be provided in each dormitory.

JUST A POSTCARD

That's all it takes to tell us that you are out of the armed forces. With your cooperation in this regard, we'll be able to keep our Alumni Office records and our mailing list up-to-date. And the news about you ought to be in The Record.

Architect's drawing of Michigan State's proposed new $2,000,000 science building.

Building Program Begins

Michigan State College was authorized by the State Board of Agriculture, college governing body, at its meeting on March 21, to proceed with the construction of two additional buildings. One is the science building, pictured above, which will be built just east of the dairy building, and the other is an addition to the present power plant. Construction started on the science building the early part of April. Work on the power plant addition will begin soon.

Work is in progress now on two dormitories for men, three dormitories for women, a new classroom building, a home management laboratory, an addition to the administration building, six apartment buildings to house war veterans and their families, and 52 Quonset huts accommodating 700 single men.

Total cost of the college building program will exceed $10,000,000. Other buildings which will be constructed as labor and materials become available include an addition to the Student Union, a food storage building, a conference-hotel building, an agricultural engineering building, a poultry building, an electrical engineering building and a physics building.

The contract for erecting the new science building was awarded to the Reniger Construction Company, Lansing, and the board approved a contract with the H. G. Christman Company, Lansing, for construction of two women's dormitories. Approval also was given for construction of a temporary building to provide dining facilities for students housed in the Quonset huts. The dining hall will be used while the Union is being remodeled.

The new science building will be the largest classroom structure on the campus. Constructed of red brick in a style of architecture designed to harmonize with that of other campus buildings, it will have four stories and basement. It will be 700 feet long and will have a ground area of 36,000 square feet. The building will house classrooms, laboratories, and offices for the departments of botany, entomology, zoology, geology and geography. Estimated cost of the structure is set at $2,000,000.

Names were selected for two of the new women's dormitories now being built. Women's dormitory No. 5 will be named for Elida Yakeley, former college registrar. Miss Yakeley joined the college staff in 1903. Until 1908, when she was appointed registrar, she was secretary to President J. L. Snyder. At the beginning of her term as registrar, she personally handled all details of registering and keeping records on approximately 500 students. As the college grew her duties expanded until her office had eight full-time employees and additional student help. Miss Yakeley served as registrar until 1938, when she became a research associate in history, devoting her time to collecting college historical material. She retired from that position in 1941.

Women's dormitory No. 6 will be named for Maude Gilchrist, who was dean of home economics and dean of women at Michigan State from 1901 to 1913. She received her bachelor's degree from Iowa State Teachers' College in 1880, studied at Wellesley College, Wellesley, Mass., Harvard, and the University of Goettingen, Germany, and received her master's degree from the University of Michigan. She also served on the staffs of Iowa State College, Ames; Illinois Women's College, Jacksonville.

$27,304 in Gifts Accepted by Board At Recent Meetings

Gifts totaling $27,304 were accepted by the State Board of Agriculture, governing body of Michigan State College, at its meetings in January and February. In addition to the cash gifts, the college received 1,000 shares of South American gold and platinum stock from Albert H. Case, '02.

Heading the list of gifts was a grant of $15,600 from Swift and Company, Chicago, for research on the anatomy of domesticated fowl. From the Ciba Pharmaceutical Products, Inc., Summit, N.J., came a grant of $1,000 for research on turkeys; from the William Wrigley Jr. Company, Chicago, $5,000 for research on the protection of the spearmint and peppermint industry in Michigan; from the Dow Chemical Company, Midland, $300 for studies on fungicides.

A cash gift of $1,350 was received from Strong, Cobb and Company for research on the value of the addition of dried baker's yeast to cereal products and its effect on quality and nutrition; from the American Potash Institute for continuing a soil science fellowship for one year, $1,200; from the American College of Dentists for continuance of studies on tooth decay in rats, $500; from the Detroit New Century Club, $1,104.83 to reestablish its student loan fund; from the Winifred S. Gettemy estate, $500 to the school of home economics for purchase of an exhibit case.

A gift of $750 was accepted for grants to junior or senior students showing unusual interest in civic affairs, with the provision that the donor's name would not be made public. Money from the sale of the shares given by Mr. Case is to be added to the Albert Vaughan Case Memorial Scholarship fund.

Caravan Is Viewed By 85,000 People Throughout State

Featuring a vast array of farm and home labor-saving items and ideas, the first annual Rural Progress Caravan of Michigan State College ended its tour around the state early in April after being viewed by more than 85,000 people.

Sponsored by the M.S.C. extension service and financed principally by the emergency farm labor department, the caravan included scores of devices which were successfully used by Michigan farmers to meet wartime goals in the face of labor and machinery shortages. Fifty one-day showings in as many counties were made during the 3,000-mile trip.

Two trucks and two trailers were used to haul the 340 lineal feet of displays, models and equipment. Most of the college departments having extension staff members had individual demonstrations. George Amundson, of the department of agricultural engineering, supervised the work of assembling displays and constructing models, and was in charge of the tour.

A local display was a part of the showing in each county. Farmers were asked to bring in pieces of equipment of their own making, so that their neighbors might profit from their ideas.

Because of the success of the 1946 tour, college officials hope the Rural Progress Caravan can become an annual event.

Alumni Day, June 8

As The Record goes to press, all activity for class reunions on Alumni Day, June 8, is being held up to determine available space and food facilities at the Union. If 750 to 1,000 new students entering spring term are forced to eat at the Union, no accommodations will be available. If not, then class secretaries will rush notices to all classes scheduled for special reunions this year. This will involve all classes ending in "1" and "6," such as 1901, 1906, 1911, 1916, etc.

The annual Patriarchs Dinner probably will be held Friday evening, June 7, but special letters will be mailed to all concerned within the next few weeks.

Dr. W. A. Kelly Honored

Dr. William A. Kelly, professor of geology and geography at Michigan State College, has been made an honorary member of the Sociedad Geologica Mexicana (Mexican Geological Society) and has been sent a certificate of honorary membership by Professor F. Contreras, treasurer of the organization.

This is Hidden Lake, from which the picturesque gardens acquired by Michigan State College derive their name.

College Gets Beauty Spot

Hidden Lake Gardens, beauty spot near Tipton in the Irish Hills of southeastern Michigan, has been given to Michigan State College by H. A. Fee, of Adrian, together with the income from an endowment for its operation and development.

Consisting of 227 acres of beautiful rolling land valued at not less than $25,000, the garden is ideally situated along main lines of travel within easy reach of major population centers in Michigan, Indiana, and Ohio. The prime object of the project undertaken by the college is to inform the public regarding the best use of available plant, tree, and shrub material and to create a picturesque setting that will give rise to a demand for more beautiful roadsides and home surroundings.

Mr. Fee, a pioneer in Michigan in the field of electrical service, began developing Hidden Lake Gardens in 1925 as a hobby. He acquired the acreage from four farms, developed an entrance from the state highway, built greenhouses, and put in three miles of roadway to scenic spots in the area.

Long known for their beauty, the Irish Hills derive their name from the fact that emigrants from Ireland came to the region in the 1820s, being attracted to the place by its lake and hill beauty and its resemblance to some of the country in Ireland. The rock garden, nestled against the six-acre lake, has attracted hundreds of visitors in a single day.

Besides the rock garden and the general shrub and evergreen plantings, Mr. Fee developed plantings of perennials, such as iris, peonies, and narcissus, each of which in its season has been of much interest to the public.

In addition to the value of the garden as a place to demonstrate the worth of trees, shrubs, and perennials for the area, Mr. Fee made arrangements so that, radiating outward in all directions from the garden site, the roadsides are to be planted with interesting and attractive horticultural material.

Clarence E. Hoxsie, who holds the master of science degree from Michigan State, has been appointed superintendent of the gardens.

Graduate Assistantships Are Available at State

Dr. Ralph C. Huston, dean of the Michigan State College school of graduate studies, announces that 99 graduate assistantships, 74 scholarships, and 23 fellowships will be available at M.S.C. for the academic year 1946-47.

Half-time graduate assistants devote a maximum of 15 hours a week to laboratory instruction or other service to the college and carry eight credits of graduate work per quarter. Quarter-time graduate assistants devote eight hours a week to work for the college and carry 12 credits of class work per quarter.

The stipend for half-time graduate assistants who have completed less than 45 credits toward an advanced degree is $800 per academic year. For those who have the master's degree or its equivalent, and are candidates for the doctor's degree, it is $1,000 per academic year. Assistants are not required to pay course and non-resident fees.

Folks from Everywhere ON THE JOB

Margaret M. Smith, '35

Margaret M. Smith, '35, chief of the business and industrial department of the Public Library of South Bend, Indiana, says that people who as a rule seldom read anything but a newspaper found that books became important to them in their jobs during the war years.

Miss Smith

and her new customers ranged all the way from top executives to janitors.

Industrial chemists and metallurgists wanted to know how to make and use substitute materials; women had to learn to run machines and use precision instruments; men entering the army and navy had to study radio and aeronautics; and almost everyone had to learn how to repair his own automobile, radio or washing machine.

"Since V-J day," Miss Smith writes, "we have been even busier than before with demands for new house plans and material on how to start in business. It is our job to anticipate public interest and demand, and to supply the newest and best material. The work is always interesting and stimulating."

John R. Hunt, '14

Few engineers graduating in June ever examine their diploma and see in it a career of public school teaching. Neither did John R. Hunt, of Laingsburg, foresee his future in that field when he left Michigan in the fall of 1914 to go with the Ford Motor Company in California. But a chance meeting with Mark Keppel, superintendent of schools of Los Angeles County, and generally accepted educational leader of California, soon changed Hunt's future.

Mr. Hunt

Being a college room-mate of George Gauthier, that fiery little quarterback of Macklin's famous "Aggies," and liking football himself, Hunt accepted a position as coach of the Venice Union Polytechnic high school in California and also taught mechanical arts. Finding that this was the type of work that interested him most he later was made teacher of mathematics and coach at Oxnard Union high school. Then World War I called and he became a major and commandant at the officers' training camp at the Presidio in San Francisco. In 1919 he was released from the Army and accepted a position as mathematics teacher and coach at Pasadena high school.

In September, 1921, Superintendent Keppel, having sponsored legislation providing for attendance and child welfare directors, offered Hunt the position for Los Angeles county. For 25 years he has been assistant to the Los Angeles County superintendent of schools, handling problems of parents and teachers, and correlating the work of the juvenile court with the schools. Today he is a recognized authority in this field.

He has continued his educational training, securing a master's degree in education at the University of Southern California, and has taught courses in education law at the University of California, Stanford University, and the University of Southern California. Hunt was a charter member of the Southern California Football Officials Association, and had the distinction of refereeing the first football game ever played in the Pasadena Rose Bowl and in the Los Angeles Coliseum.

In 1917 Hunt married Florence Melba Perkins, and they have one daughter, Bethelva, married to Major Packard Thurber Jr. Mrs. Hunt is a distinguished pianist and club woman. The Hunts enjoy travel as their hobby and have visited practically every country in the world.

Friendships formed by Hunt at Michigan State have been most enjoyable all through life, he writes, and adds, "I think a lot of Don Francisco, Paul Armstrong, Norton Mogge, Blakeslee Crane and George Gauthier, just to mention a few."

Howard K. Menhinick, '23

Did you ever view the huge TVA dams, powerhouses and other structures from the air? Only from a plane can one visualize the magnitude of the Tennessee Valley Authority properties, and immediately one asks, "Who is the dreamer and planner of these man-made developments?"

President John A. Hannah and Dean E. L. Anthony returned recently from Knoxville, where, as guests of TVA officials, they gained first-hand information about the project and learned that Howard K. Menhinick, formerly of Lansing and a graduate in landscape architecture at Michigan State in 1923, has carried much of the responsibility of TVA planning during the past nine years.

After receiving his master's degree from Harvard in 1928 in city planning, Menhinick visited the principal cities of the United States, obtaining information for a Harvard study entitled "Our Cities—Today and Tomorrow." While serving as an instructor at Harvard he acted as consultant to the state planning commissions of Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

Since 1937, Menhinick has been employed by the Tennessee Valley Authority, and since 1941 has been director of the department of regional studies. His department is responsible for architectural design of dams, powerhouses and other structures; for the site planning and landscape development of all properties; for the advance planning of structures to meet TVA permanent operational needs; for assisting in the recreational development of the Tennessee Valley; for calculating payment in lieu of taxes made by the TVA on its power properties; for aiding cities and counties in planning for physical, economic and governmental readjustments to take advantage of new opportunities created by TVA developments.

Menhinick is a member of the board of governors of the American Institute of Planners and chairman of its committee on education and personnel standards, and is an instructor in the International City Managers Association's course in local planning administration. He married Dorothea Fulton, of Lansing, in 1929. They have two children, Edward, 10, and Robert, 6. They live in Norris, Tennessee, at 29 Dogwood Road.

Campus Landmark Razed

Another old landmark at Michigan State College has passed into history. On March 20, workmen began razing the three-story brick structure which since its completion in 1875 served variously as the home of college presidents, as a dormitory for senior women, as the college hospital, and as a home management practice house for home economics students.

The site the building occupied—a knoll overlooking the Red Cedar River—will be the location of one of the new dormitories for women students at Michigan State. Westernmost of the old residences along Faculty Row, and known as No. 1 in the group, the ornate structure since 1939 has been the Alice Cowles home management house. Nos. 4 and 5 already are gone, torn down to make way for the first of three residence halls for women, and Nos. 2 and 3 (the former International Center) are being removed for the same purpose.

Dr. T. C. Abbot, second president of the Michigan Agricultural College, was the first of several presidents to occupy the house. The following notes from his diary shed some light on the building's early history:

"October 20, 1874—Mr. Cooper (Ypsilanti contractor) was up and promised to have the president's house done by commencement. Sarah and the children are staying in East Saginaw.

"November 11—Commencement. Vacation begins.

"November 15—We are moving into College Hall (classroom building).

"February 8, 1875—We moved into new president's house. House not finished. Cooper too deeply in debt to ever finish it. Spent our first night in the new building.

"February 9—Mrs. Abbot has a school in our home—some children from East Saginaw. (This 'school' was continued until June 30, 1877.)

"June 23, 1882—Bath room arrangements fitted in house."

E. E. Myers, Detroit, architect of the new state capitol, drew up the plans for the house, and the contract for its construction was let to Cooper and Baker on January 7, 1874. H. G. Wells and Franklin Wells signed the agreement for the Board of State Agriculture.

M.A.C. presidents and their families resided in the big house with the cupola on top until 1915, when the administration of President Frank Kedzie began. Dr. Kedzie lived in Lansing throughout his administration, and the house was turned into a dormitory for senior women.

A college hospital containing seven rooms and two bathrooms was built in 1894 on the site now occupied by the Union Building. When, in 1925, the facilities became inadequate, the president's house was converted into a hospital. The original hospital building was removed to 901 Abbot Road and is now the home of Merrill Jones, order librarian for the college library. In 1939 the present hospital, the Olin Memorial Health Center, was completed, and since that time the old house that once was the home of college presidents, where Theodore Roosevelt and other notables were entertained, has been used as a practical laboratory for future homemakers.

Nye Named to Board Of U.S. Book List

Dr. Russel B. Nye, professor of English at Michigan State College, has been notified of his appointment to the editorial board of the U.S. Quarterly Book List. He will serve with a group of 100 American scholars in selecting and annotating articles for the publication which is sent to all republics in the western hemisphere.

Dr. Nye received the 1944 Pulitzer award for American biography with his book, "George Bancroft, Brahmin Rebel." In 1942 he was awarded the Alfred A. Knopf fellowship in biography. From September, 1944 to September, 1945, he was on leave of absence from Michigan State college, on a research fellowship from the Rockefeller foundation.

Maurice G. Kains, Prominent Alumnus, Dies on February 25

Even though Alumni Day of 1946 was still weeks away, members of the Class of 1895 were wondering in February what tricks their class secretary might have to pull from his sleeve next June. Then they heard the sad news that Maurice G. Kains, who carried out a unique semi-centennial reunion last June, had died in Good Samaritan Hospital, in Suffern, N. Y., February 25, of a heart attack. He was 77 years old. He was born in St. Thomas, Ontario, the son of the late John and Edith Hughes Kains, members of old Ontario families.

After receiving his degree in agriculture in 1895, Kains earned degrees at Cornell in 1896 and 1897, where the quality of his work attracted attention as he began to teach, write, lecture, and consult on agricultural and horticultural subjects. From 1914 to 1916 Kains was professor and head of horticulture at Pennsylvania State College. During the last 45 years Kains published 27 books. One of them, a 1935 best seller, was "Five Acres and Independence." In 1943 it was selected for free distribution to soldiers and sailors.

Mr. Kains

Kains enjoyed letter-writing and receiving notes. He often received more than 100 letters a day from friends in all parts of the country.

He was active in alumni affairs. He served the Class of 1895 as a secretary, since 1935. "Fifty Years Out of College," a 166-page book of composite memoirs was compiled, edited and printed by Mr. Kains in 1944 as prelude to the fiftieth class reunion. Complimentary copies were mailed to each member of the class, to wives and children of deceased members, and to persons on the campus. Kains was host to more than 40 persons the night before Alumni Day last June; he staged a surprise "Club E" Sunday dinner of 50 years ago, and had it served in a most unique manner in the Spartan Room of the Hotel Olds. His zeal and enthusiasm kept group interest alive and fresh.

More than a year ago, he recovered from a long illness largely through his desire to fulfill a cherished ambition to attend the anniversary celebration last June.

Sports at State

By Nick Kerbawy

Tempered by their first southern training trip in four years, Coach John Kobs' baseball Spartans are posing to open an 18-game schedule April 19 in East Lansing with a two-game series against Wisconsin.

Three members of last year's mound crop, a first string catcher, veteran infield and a lone outfielder comprise the nucleus for this year's diamond delegation. For reinforcements, Kobs is drawing from a supply of returned servicemen and new recruits.

Joe Skrocki, Saginaw senior, returned from the service to bolster the hold-over mound staff composed of Keith Steffee, the Sturgis fireballer; Bill Page, bespectacled sophomore from Muskegon, and Darrell Couey, Detroit senior. The trio accounted for 11 of last year's 12 triumphs, Steffee being unbeaten with six victories. All are right handers.

George Killmaster, 6-foot 4-inch returned serviceman from Harrisville, Mich., and Johnny Stallings, Flint freshman, are newcomers to pitching assignments showing the most promise.

Best fortified position is in catching where Capt. Ben Hudenko, of Wyandotte, last year's leading sticker with a .370 percentage, and Eugene "Bucky" Walsh, Buffalo sophomore, hold forth. Walsh won freshman numerals before entering the service.

The veteran infield has Jack Breslin of Battle Creek at first, Nick Gregory of Chicago at second, Dick Mineweaser of Pontiac at the hot corner and Marty Hansen of Flint at short. Just how hard these lads are pressed to hold their jobs remains to be seen.

Most promising infielders are Harrison Hughes Jr., Detroit third baseman who won numerals before entering the service; Danny Urbanik, 17-year-old Flint freshman adjudged the finest shortstopper in state American Legion ball last year; and Bob Lectka, sophomore first baseman from Cadillac who can tickle the apple.

Kobs' real problem is in the outer garden. He has Jim Grant, Grosse Ile, a fair sticker, back from last season. Bob Ludwig, Muskegon freshman who starred in prep ball both as a fly chaser, hitter and pitcher looms as a bright spot while other promising candidates include Jim Guest, Royal Oak senior, and George Rutenbar, Detroit freshman.

The schedule:

Friday, April 19—Wisconsin at East Lansing
Saturday, April 20—Wisconsin at East Lansing

Traveling Spartans Make Clean Sweep Of Southern Tour

Special to The Record

RALEIGH, N. C.—Joe Skrocki, a returned Navy chief from Saginaw, gave Michigan State a clean sweep of its nine-game southern tour by pitching the Spartans to a 3 to 1 victory over North Carolina State.

The victory was Skrocki's third of the season and enabled the Spartans to emerge undefeated for the third time in the tour's 18-year-old history below the Mason-Dixon line. In 1938, they won seven straight games while in 1936 four games were won with three rained out.

Other teams defeated by the Spartans on the trip through Dixie were Georgia, South Carolina and North Carolina, each measured twice while single triumphs were registered over Fort Jackson and Duke.

11 Schools in Relays

Outstanding events of Michigan State's winter sports season in track were the 24th Michigan State Relays that attracted 11 schools and close to 3,000 fans to Jenison Fieldhouse and the 19th Central Collegiate Conference indoor meet won by Notre Dame.

Twins Are Wrestlers

Michigan State's famed wrestling twins, Burl (Bo) and Merle (Cut) Jennings were repeat N.C.A.A. titlists in the 128 and 121 pounds, respectively, at the association's 1942 annual meeting which proved the last because of the war.

110,655 Fans See "Talk of the Town" Spartan Net Team

Michigan State's basketball team was the "talk of the town" as Coach Ben Van Alstyne's charges won 12 of 21 games in the toughest schedule ever attempted by a Spartan aggregation.

Attendance and scoring records fell all over the place. A total of 110,655 fans watched the Spartans at home and away, 60,533 sitting in at Jenison Fieldhouse. Choicest home gatherings were the 9,720 fans who watched Notre Dame squeeze out a 56 to 54 triumph and the 8,909 who witnessed the Spartans' 49 to 36 victory over Michigan.

The Notre Dame crowd was the largest to ever witness a single basketball billing in Michigan history.

Forward Sam Fortino of Alma led the assault on records. He scored 26 in the Syracuse game for a new Spartan individual game record, shattering Dudley Jones' mark of 25 set in 1942. Fortino closed the season with 251 points to surpass Joe Gerard's previous high total of 239. Fortino's performance of scoring 454 points in two seasons likewise surpassed Gerard's 448 points scored in three seasons which stood as a tenure record for a Spartan scorer.

This year's 1,125 points were the most points ever scored by a Michigan State team in a single season as was the team scoring average per game at 53.6.

Fortino Is Honored

Sam Fortino, leading scorer on Michigan State College's basketball team the past two seasons, has been named by Coach Elmer Ripley to Notre Dame's all opponent quintet.

Robin Roberts, Springfield, Ill., sophomore, was named by coaches and officials as most valuable collegiate basketball player in Michigan as a result of a poll conducted by the Detroit Free Press. Roberts won the award for Michigan State for the second straight year, teammate Sam Fortino being similarly honored last year. M.S.C. led the all-state selections, placing Roberts and Fortino at forwards, with Glenn Selbo of Michigan at center, Art Stolkey of Detroit and Chuck Smith of Central Michigan at guards.

Wrestlers Win 5, Lose 2, and Tie 1

During the past season, Michigan State College was represented in wrestling by a team that won five meets, lost two and tied one. Victories were achieved over Wheaton, Illinois, Northwestern, Minnesota and Ohio State while losing to Purdue and Michigan and tying Iowa State.

Coach Fendley Collins has entered seven Spartans in the devised N.C.A.A. meet sponsored this year by Oklahoma A. & M. College.

Gale Mikles, Michigan State's National AAU 145-pound champion, during the dual meet season wrestled as a 155-pounder. Iggy Konrad and Burl Boring both returned from the service to win places on the squad, each having previously won letters on the mat before going to war.

M.S.C. Meets Teams From Nine States On Football Slate

Michigan State's 1946 football schedule takes on the appearance of a station agent's delight, with several opponents consulting long distance transportation time-tables to appear in East Lansing.

Ten games have been arranged, providing an intersectional flavor the likes of which have never been seen by a State football crowd. Eastern football will be represented by Boston College, Maryland and Penn State, while Mississippi State brings in the strong southwest conference. Out of the far west will come Washington State to ring down the season on November 30.

The traditional game with Michigan at Ann Arbor has been set for November 9 while games with Marquette, Kentucky, Wayne and Cincinnati complete the billing.

The schedule:

Sept. 28, Wayne at East Lansing
Oct. 5, Boston at East Lansing
Oct. 12, Mississippi State at East Lansing
Oct. 19, Penn State at State College, Pa.
Oct. 26, Cincinnati at East Lansing
Nov. 2, Kentucky at Lexington, Ky.
Nov. 9, Michigan at Ann Arbor
Nov. 16, Marquette at East Lansing (Homecoming)
Nov. 23, Maryland at East Lansing
Nov. 30, Washington State at East Lansing.

Swimming Team Strong

Coach Charlie McCaffree's swimming team held well to preseason predictions as the strongest ever assembled at Michigan State College. The Spartans sunk Northwestern, Illinois, Purdue and Wisconsin while losing only to Ohio State, Michigan and Great Lakes. The latter three opponents were regarded among the best in the nation.

Howard Patterson, freshman back-stroker from Saginaw, was undefeated all season while Abel Gilbert, the 24-year-old star from Guayaquil, Ecuador, was a standout in the distance free styles events. The Spartans also won a generous share of Michigan AAU titles and are slated to compete in the National Collegiate Athletic Association meet at Bainbridge, Md.

Following Alumni Clubs

By Glen O. Stewart

Jackson County

More than 125 men and women of the Michigan State Alumni Club of Jackson welcomed President John A. Hannah and Glen O. Stewart at their annual meeting February 28 when the group met for dinner in the dining room of the First Methodist church in Jackson.

President Hannah lauded the Jackson county alumni for their increasing interest in the college and reviewed in detail the building program and the many problems brought to the campus with the record-breaking enrollment. One of the enjoyable parts of the evening was a question-and-answer period conducted by President Hannah.

At a meeting early in March the new board met and named the following officers: John C. Tanner, '39, president; Edgar V. Sayles, '21, first vice-president; Beverly Rinker, '44, second vice-president; M. Alfreda Hanson, '42, secretary; and Frank Schmidt, '14, treasurer.

Berrien-Cass

The snow banks of Berrien County had no effect upon the annual meeting of the alumni groups in Berrien and Cass Counties on the night of January 23. More than 125 people enjoyed a pot-luck dinner in the dining room of the Benton Harbor Y.M.C.A. building, with Dan W. Mather, '13, serving as chairman of the dinner committee.

President Leslie Zillman, '30, introduced O. I. Gregg, '07, landscape extension specialist from the college, who gave a build-up lecture demonstration on landscaping for the family home. He was followed by Glen O. Stewart, director of alumni relations, who used as his subject "The Story of the Year," a review of problems which had been met by the college.

Officers for next year are all from Berrien Springs: Lawrence Stover, '37, president; John D. Johnson, '40, vice-president; and Mary Ellen Graham, '14, secretary-treasurer.

Knoxville, Tenn.

The University of Tennessee cafeteria was the meeting place for nearly 40 persons on February 23, when the Michigan State College Alumni Club of Knoxville held its annual meeting. More than half of the group were new members and were welcomed by Dr. Brooks Drain, Ph.D., '33, president, who officiated.

At the business meeting Dr. N. D. Peacock, Ph.D., '37, vice-director of resident teaching of the College of Agriculture, was elected president for next year and the secretary-treasurer was asked to continue in the same capacity.

Grand Traverse Bay

Expanding the activities and the counties served, the Michigan State College Alumni Club of Grand Traverse Bay area entertained President John A. Hannah and Glen O. Stewart at a dinner meeting at the Park Place Hotel in Traverse City, Monday evening, April 1.

Detroit

With the resignation of Charles G. Burns, '12, president of the M.S.C. Club of Detroit since 1941, members of the Board of Directors met at the Detroit Engineering Society Building on March 13 to start reorganization plans. Dean Davis, '33, vice-president, discussed the need for an enlarged board, and Secretary G. Verne Branch, '12, presented his new card index files of Wayne County alumni for suggestions of younger men and women now in the Detroit area. Twenty-four new board members were named, and new officers elected were: President, Coy Ecklund, '39; vice-president, Richard Colina, '36; secretary, Mrs. Charles L. Crooks (nee Betty Stevenson), '43; and treasurer Walter Ewald, '24.

Immediate efforts of the club are to back the M.S.C. faculty music concert in the auditorium of the Detroit Art Institute on April 30, at 8:15 p.m. This is a free concert for all graduates and former students of the college and their friends. Mrs. Carl Siglin (nee Virginia Van Atter, '37) is again serving as general chairman for the concert.

Rochester, N. Y.

A new type of entertainment was injected into the Rochester M.S.C. alumni meeting Thursday evening, March 21, at the Normandie Hotel when J. Griff Little, '23, played the role of Dr. I.Q. and carried out a unique quiz program using the club members as his audience. Mrs. Worthe Clark, '41, president of the club, introduced Glen O. Stewart, guest speaker, who told about important developments at the college since the return of many veterans. He also touched upon the war memorial which is being proposed by the alumni of the institution.—Calvin A. Brown, '23, secretary.

Cleveland, Ohio

The Carter Hotel in Cleveland was the scene of the annual Michigan State College Alumni Club banquet on Saturday night, March 16, when Glen O. Stewart and Assistant Coach John Pingel were the guest speakers from the college. A large group of younger alumni and undergraduates were present to boost Michigan State activities in the Cleveland area and Samuel Disantis, '33, acting president, has proposed a big program for the activities of 1946.—James LaDu, '40, secretary.

Buffalo, N. Y.

In one of the most unusual and greatly enjoyed alumni activities of the year the Michigan State College Alumni Club of Buffalo played host to Glen O. Stewart and John Pingel on Wednesday evening, March 20. Nearly 100 people enjoyed the dinner meeting in the Fiesta Room of the Hotel Worth in Buffalo when Thomas Arrigo, '21, president of the club, introduced a number of guests and the two campus speakers. Mr. Stewart described latest trends of the college development program, while Pingel discussed the future of athletics at Michigan State and showed several reels of the 1945 football games.—Lois Hotte, '44, secretary.

Saginaw

The annual meeting of the Saginaw Alumni Club was held at the Fischer Hotel in Frankenmuth Thursday evening, March 28th, with Bryson McCulloch, '28, presiding. An unusual entertainment was provided by four students of the speech and music departments of the college who work under the direction of Don Buell. Dr. Herman Wyngarden, head of the department of economics and for three years a member of the War Labor Board in Detroit, spoke on "What Does Labor Want?"—John Breyfogle, '28, secretary.

Syracuse, N. Y.

For the first time the Syracuse Club entertained Glen O. Stewart at the University Club on Friday evening, March 22. After the group viewed colored movies of the campus, President Harold Harr, '24, outlined the value of alumni solidarity and welcomed Mr. Stewart to Syracuse. The guest speaker covered many interesting items about the college and future plans of the alumni organization.—Shirley Townsend, '38, secretary.

Chicago

President J. A. Hannah, G. O. Stewart and three staff members of the music department will be guests of the Chicago Alumni Club, Friday evening, April 26, at the Garfield Park auditorium, at 8:00 p.m.

Days of Yore

By Joseph G. Duncan

In soil tilled so tenderly, no vegetable could refuse to grow. From 1905 to 1918, Home Economics juniors and seniors planted 12 by 30-foot gardens under the direction of such instructors as Kohler, C. P. Halligan (who will retire this year), G. W. Hood, and R. E. Loree, '13.

In 1918 the vegetables and the coeds were evicted from the plot by eight barracks and two mess halls erected to accommodate the Army enlisted men who came to the campus in the first World War to study auto mechanics. With the war over, the spot became a sweep of grass with a border of flowering fruit trees.

Now, on the site of the coeds' gardens, the foundations of the new classroom building are taking shape.

Below is a picture of President and Mrs. Snyder and son Robert, '14, in the library of the President's house into which they had moved in the spring of 1896—fifty years ago. Built for President Abbot in 1874, the house was used by five Presidents: Abbot, Willits, Clute, Gorton, and Snyder.

It was still an impressive structure when Mrs. Snyder entertained each senior class at dinner—until the classes became too large for the accommodations. Here President Theodore Roosevelt ate a hearty dinner (with his back to a wall—not to a doorway or window—as required by the Secret Service) and then stopped to plant an elm in the dooryard before addressing the crowd attending the semi-centennial of the college's opening.

The M. A. C. Record.

Successor to the Speculum, the M.A.C. Record first appeared in January, 1896. In commemoration of its half-century anniversary, we reproduce above the first page of the first issue. It was edited by the faculty, assisted by students, and was published weekly except during vacations.

The early issues contain news items about alumni, proceedings of the State Board of Agriculture, essays by faculty members, and considerable information for prospective students. Included as campus news is this mention of the installation of electric lights:

"A good deal of repair work has been done in the shops this winter, besides putting in the wiring for the new 200-light dynamo."

In memory of Prof. William C. Latta, '77, who died in 1935 after many years of service on the staff at Purdue University, the SS W. C. LATTA was launched by the Delta Shipbuilding company of New Orleans on the morning of April 13, 1944. The name was suggested by the 4-H clubs of Indiana in appreciation of Prof. Latta's 54 years of continuous service to the agricultural interests of his native state. The official sponsor of the ship was Miss Carol Reemtsma, only grand daughter of Prof. Latta. In the sponsor's party were Prof. Latta's four children, the Misses Bertha and Mary Latta of Lafayette, Indiana, Robert W. Latta of South Bend, Mrs. Pauline Latta Reemtsma and her husband, the Rev. Henry J. Reemtsma, of Fort Defiance, Arizona. Prof. Latta's only grand son, Henry Keith Reemtsma, was unable to attend the launching because of his Navy V-12 pre-medicine studies.

Edwin A. Murphy, '82, justice of the peace and village assessor in Lyons, Michigan, for a number of years, died at his home in that community on December 15, 1945. After serving as superintendent of the Pewamo and Muir schools and as Ionia county school commissioner for a number of years, Mr. Murphy enrolled at the University of Michigan where he was graduated from the law school in 1895. In the fall of that year he opened a law office in Ionia where he lived until moving to Lyons in 1920. Mr. Murphy served Ionia county as circuit court commissioner for 40 years, his term expiring in January 1945. He is survived by his wife, a son, a daughter, and four grand children.

Robert W. McCulloch, '87, novelist and former newspaper man, died at his home in New York City on February 4. After graduating from the College, Mr. McCulloch continued his studies at Northwestern university, receiving his LL.B. from Union College of Law in 1893. After practicing law in Chicago for a few years he entered newspaper work in New York where he served on the Evening Telegram, the Evening Mail, and the Evening World. He later entered public relations work and after his retirement ten years ago wrote several novels and contributed fiction and research articles to magazines. A book entitled, "Come, Jack" is scheduled for publication by the Houghton Mifflin company this spring. He is survived by his son, Robert M.

A. C. Carton, w'89, veteran state official who started his long career of public service as a senate messenger in 1885, died at his home in Lansing on February 3. While a resident of East Tawas, Mr. Carton was elected to the state senate in 1905, and at the time of his death was serving as chairman of the Great Lakes tidewater commission, secretary of the state farm board, and as a member of the Michigan historical commission. He has been connected with the state department of agriculture since 1922, having served as assistant commissioner, deputy commissioner, and as director of the bureau of agriculture. Just a month before his death he retired as director of state fairs. Mr. Carton was the last state land commissioner. Because of his wide knowledge and experience in the fields of government in which he devoted his life, he was called upon continuously to speak before various groups throughout the state. He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Horace Sarvis, and a son, John H. Carton.

Word has been received of the death of George L. McPherson, w'89, of Portland, Oregon, on December 8, 1945.

Albert H. Gillett, '92, writes from 605 E. Second street, Albany, Oregon, that he expects to return to Michigan to spend June and July. He will be on the campus for Alumni Day and extends an invitation to all his friends and students to help him celebrate his 80th birthday on July 23 in Owosso's park.

Wynn A. Bartholomew, engaged in the hardware business in Ravenna, Michigan, for the past decade, died at his home in that community on February 2. Mr. Bartholomew attended the Michigan College of Mines and was employed in various lines of engineering work until he returned to Ravenna in 1935 to join his father in his hardware store. Surviving are his mother, his wife, daughter, and four grandchildren.

The class notes editor is indebted to the class secretary, Mrs. Irma Thompson Ireland, of 1704 Vernon Avenue, Flint, for the following notes about the class members:

"A. G. Bodourian, 18 K. Paleologhou street, Thessaloniki, Greece. In a recent letter to William Ball in Detroit our old friend Bodourian acknowledged receipt of early shipments of food packages and expressed deep appreciation of the interest shown in him by his one-time classmates at M.S.C. He hoped his thanks might be published in the Record for all to see. His family consists of himself, nearing 70, his wife, recovering slowly from pneumonia, his wife's mother, bed-ridden with arthritis, and his daughter Mary, 22, forced to give up her position as a typist to care for her mother and grand-mother. He hopes sometime to be able to send Mary to Michigan State. . . . C. W. Bale, 3945 N.E. 60th avenue, Portland 13, Oregon, wrote on January 5, 1946, that his daughter Helen had just returned from Pearl Harbor and son William from Adak in the Aleutians, and son-in-law got back from Tokyo just before Christmas. The Portland alumni group expected to meet in February for the annual dinner. . . . John R. Thompson, 1312 N. Gardner street, Los Angeles 46, California, under date of November 15, served in engineer corps, U. S. Army, as a colonel, was transferred to a transportation corps as chief of the rail design board until he was retired in November 1943. Remained with the War department in the same capacity on a civilian status until May 1944 when he retired in fact and with Mrs. Thompson established residence in Los Angeles as above. . . . Homer B. Clark, 812 Sanford street, Muskegon, under date of November 21, 1945, has been with the Morton Manufacturing company for 45 years. Was chief engineer for several years but is now on special machine design and engineering. Lives with his daughter since the death of his wife three years ago. . . . Frank W. Burt died April 24, 1945, according to information supplied by Kenneth Burt, his son. . . . Fred B. Brooks, 300 S. Shiawassee street, Corunna, Michigan, lives alone since the death of his wife two years ago. Operates a grocery store. . . . W. H. Arney, 201 E. Howard C. Baker is a specialist on heating and ventilation for Gilbert Associates, Inc., consultants and engineers with offices in New York, Washington, and Reading. His address in Reading, Pennsylvania, is 412 Washington street. . . . The New Hampshire extension service and Epsilon Sigma Phi, honorary extension fraternity, recently surprised Earl P. Robinson with the gift of a Hamilton watch and a Victory bond. The occasion was his formal separation from the extension service to devote full time to the work of state executive assistant in the U.S.D.A. production and marketing administration. The award was made at the annual extension conference which was Mr. Robinson's 29th yearly meeting since becoming state leader of county agents two months after the close of the first World War. In 1934 he was granted leave to serve as representative in 12 northeastern states of the program planning section of the Agricultural Adjustment administration. The immediate task was to collaborate with the FERA in the development of the rural rehabilitation program now carried on by the Farm Security Administration. Returning to the extension service in 1935 he continued to serve as county agent leader, taking on the additional duties of executive assistant to the state AAA committee.
