MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY

As one of the leading land-grant universities and the first agricultural college in the nation, Michigan State University provides a technical practical and cultural education for its student body, in addition to extensive research and extension services to the people of Michigan.

Now in its 105th year, Michigan State University has grown from three buildings and six faculty members to one of the ten largest universities in the nation. It has approximately 2,000 staff members engaged in teaching, research and public service, 371 permanent and 281 temporary buildings, and almost 4,200 acres of land, including 900 acres in the campus area proper.

Founded in 1855 to educate youth for the major occupation of that day—farming—Michigan State University has broadened its offerings as young people, preparing for other vocations, have sought the advantages of university training. Today, Michigan State University has eight colleges—Agriculture, Business and Public Service, Communication Arts, Education, Engineering, Home Economics, Science and Arts, Veterinary Medicine—and the School for Advanced Graduate Studies, and offers 130 different courses of study, 70 of these on the graduate level. This excludes the curriculum of the Basic College, which has been recognized as one of the most progressive ideas for higher education in the nation today, and the Honors College established in 1957 as a unique program designed for the superior student. All students finishing their freshman year with a “B plus” average, or attaining this average in their sophomore year, have the option of entering the Honors College. Once a student is designated an Honors College scholar, all requirements for his graduation from Michigan State (other than total number of hours) are waived. He is assigned a special adviser in his field of major interest and together they work out a program appropriate for the individual.

Michigan State University continually strives to expand its service to the people of the state through the Agricultural Experiment Station, the Cooperative Extension Service and the Continuing Education Service. The Agricultural Experiment Station conducts research on campus and at five off-campus substations. Through the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service, more than 333,000 families are reached with technical information on agriculture, homemaking and the 4-H Club program. The field staff, located in every county, extends M.S.U.'s campus into every township in Michigan. During the 1958-59 year, the Continuing Education Service reached more than 100,000 persons in programs conducted both on campus and in local communities.

Today, more than 19,000 students from Michigan and other states and from nations all over the world are attending the University at East Lansing—about 9,000 of whom are housed on the campus proper. With about 80 percent of these students coming from communities in every section of the state, Michigan State University is doing its part to fill the greatly increased demand of the younger generation for higher education.

In the agricultural, business and professional fields, Michigan State University has proved its worth to the people of the State of Michigan, paying dividends many times the appropriation for its maintenance each year by the state and national governments. Noted for its democratic and friendly spirit, the student body harmonizes with the University faculty to make Michigan State University a first-class educational institution.

HONORARY DEGREES

JAMES ELBERT BRIGGS

Soldier and educator. By a brilliant career as an officer in the air forces of the United States during the years of peace and in the terrible crucible of the Second World War and of Korea, you have continuously revealed a high sense of duty and a courageous acceptance of heavy responsibility both for action and for decision. In 1956, the opportunity came to you to direct the Air Force Academy as its Superintendent. The academy under your guidance has already taken a place of leadership both in general education and in the training of future officers of a vital branch of our military forces. For your past contributions to our survival and your vital share in building a future of peace and security for our country, Michigan State University counts it a privilege to confer upon you the degree of Doctor of Laws.

JOHN GEORGE DIEFENBAKER,

Lawyer, public servant, statesman, Prime Minister of Canada. From your youth you have served your country with devotion and distinction, in war and peace, at home and abroad, at the conference table of nations and in Parliament. Your long and distinguished career has now been crowned by the highest elective office that Canada can bestow. We of Michigan welcome you today not only as our guest, but as an honored envoy of our great sister democracy to the North, our closest friend and staunchest ally, with whom we share a continent and a heritage, and with whom we have joined ourselves for the future security of freedom and justice in our hemisphere. It is with pleasure and pride that Michigan State University, in recognition of your own achievements and of the alliance of ideals which your nation and ours represent, bestows upon you today the degree of Doctor of Laws.

FREDERICK H. MUELLER

Educational administrator, industrial leader, public servant. You have served the people of Michigan well and faithfully in education, industry, and public welfare. Your wise counsel and mature judgment as a member of the State Board of Agriculture have added materially to the capacities of Michigan State University to meet the increasingly complex responsibilities of higher education today. Your industrial talents have led you into greater responsibilities and opportunities as Under Secretary of Commerce. For these reasons: your contributions to education, your business acumen, your unselfish service to the people of this state and the nation, Michigan State University is privileged to confer upon you the degree of Doctor of Laws.

ALUMNI MEMORIAL CHAPEL

The Alumni Memorial Chapel was erected in memory of over 400 boys who left this campus to serve in the armed forces of America and who paid the supreme sacrifice.

The funds were provided by gifts from alumni and friends of Michigan State University.

The building is located on Auditorium Road and will be open all day to visitors.

Attention of the public is directed especially to the exhibits of Michigan fishes, birds, deer, beaver, bear and other animals in natural habitat groups, the Richey collection of ceramics bearing a corn motif, breeds of poultry, the Chamberlain collection of antique watches, porcelain figurines and the Lee collection of Chinese embroidered textiles. Materials preserved by the Museum for both display and study are obtained largely through the generosity of alumni and friends.

Visitors are cordially welcomed. A member of the staff is always on duty to answer questions or to direct you to exhibits of special interest.
