A Letter From The Dean . . .

TO THE ALUMNI OF THE SCHOOL OF VETERINARY MEDICINE:

The staff of the School of Veterinary Medicine, which gives instruction in both the veterinary and the medical technology curricula, sends its best wishes to each of you. Just as we are interested in each of you and your achievements, we believe that you are interested in some of the past and present happenings at your Alma Mater. This letter will present some of these events.

Dean Giltner Resigns

The retirement of Dean Giltner, July 1, 1948—as Dean Emeritus—following a year of terminal leave, was the major change in the school. Dr. H. J. Stafseth was appointed acting head of the Department of Bacteriology and Public Health for the period of July 1, 1947 to April 1, 1948 when he was made head of the department. On these same dates I was made acting dean and dean, respectively. It required two men to fill the shoes formerly filled by Dean Giltner.

On July 1, Dr. B. V. Alfredson was appointed head of the Department of Physiology and Pharmacology when Prof. B. B. Roseboom began a one-year terminal leave, prior to retirement after 39 years of service to Michigan State College. At the same time, Dr. E. T. Hallman completed 36 years on the staff of the college and began a terminal leave of one year. Dr. R. A. Runnells, author of the only American textbook on animal pathology was transferred July 1, from head of the Department of Anatomy to head of the Department of Animal Pathology.

Strong Research Program

The school continues to conduct a very active research program in the fields of animal and human disease, with specific attention to milk and water supplies, food bacteriology and sanitation. Individual staff members have earned worldwide reputations in the specific areas of research. In addition to the teaching and research programs, Dr. B. J. Killham and Dr. Glen Reed are active in the very worthwhile extension program on the prevention and control of animal disease in Michigan. The present status of these three areas of service to Michigan has developed over the years, therefore a brief look at the history of the School of Veterinary Medicine may serve to emphasize our heritage.

Interest in veterinary education at this institution was manifest at the founding of Michigan State College in 1855. Successively, the following veterinarians served on the faculty: In 1881, A. J. Murray, V.S.; 1883, E. A. A. Grange, V.S.; 1897, George A. Waterman, B.S., M.D.C.; and 1907, Leslie M. Hurt, D.V.M.

Dean Bryan

The State Legislature in 1907 approved a bill providing for the establishment of a department of veterinary science at MSC, and in 1909, the State Board of Agriculture authorized the first course.

In the fall of 1910, Richard P. Lyman, B.S., M.D.V. (Harvard), was appointed Dean of the Division of Veterinary Science and at once undertook the organization of the new school. Students were admitted to the freshman and sophomore years of the course for the first time in 1910-11.

In 1919, upon the resignation of Dean Lyman, Dr. F. W. Chamberlain, head of the Department of Anatomy, became acting dean and served until the close of the school year, 1923. Dr. Ward Giltner, head of the Department of Bacteriology, was then also appointed dean. He served in this capacity until July 1, 1947 when he began a one year leave of absence prior to retirement June 30, 1948. During these years much progress was made in further developing instruction in veterinary medicine and research in animal diseases that is so important to the teaching of veterinary students. The growth in the size of our faculty is indicated by the following: 20 staff members in 1924; 23 in 1926; 35 in 1933; 57 in 1938; 63 in 1942; and 72 in 1947. This development of the school is due, in part, to the ever present emphasis on better instruction for the student and, in part, to the greatly increased interest of young people for an education in veterinary medicine or in medical technology.

New Curriculum Established

In 1926, the curriculum of medical biology leading to a B.S. degree was established. The name was changed to "Medical Technology." July 1, 1944, at the same time that the name "Division of Veterinary Science" was changed to "School of Veterinary Medicine." Since the inception of these courses, 837 have received their D.V.M. degrees and 240 have earned their B.S. degrees in medical technology.

A recent change of vital interest to prospective students is the requirement of two years of pre-veterinary work for entry into the School of Veterinary Medicine, beginning Sept. 1949. Thus, the veterinary course now consists of six years of college work.

To each of you, the Alumni of our School, we look for suggestions to further improve the work offered at the College. Stop in to see us whenever you can or drop us a line. It is your work and conduct that determines the opinion of the public toward the School of Veterinary Medicine. In closing, I want you to know that we are proud of your achievements.

Dean C. S. Bryan.

Lorin G. Miller Is Named MSC Dean of Engineering

Lorin G. Miller, national authority in the field of heating and ventilation and former head of the MSC Department of Mechanical Engineering, was named Dean of the School of Engineering at the June 10 meeting of the State Board of Agriculture. His appointment was effective July 1.

The retirement of Dean Henry B. Dirks and the appointment of Dean Miller come at a time when the engineering facilities of Michigan State are in the process of great expansion and modernization. Recent completion of the electrical engineering building, and scheduled completion of the electrical engineering and the physics and mathematics buildings this summer, will be a long step toward making the engineering school one of the most complete and up-to-date in the nation.

Dean Miller received his B.S. and B.S.E.E. degrees from Des Moines University, and took advanced graduate work at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Formerly employed by Western General Electric Company, and the University of Wisconsin as an associate professor, Dean Miller came to MSC in 1929, and was elevated to head of the Department of Mechanical Engineering in 1935.

Holds Important Engineering Posts

A member of the executive committee of the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers, Dean Miller has served as president of the Michigan chapters of the ASHVE and the American Society of Engineering Education. He is author of numerous journal and magazine articles in the field of engineering.

Commenting on his appointment, Dean Miller said, "The engineering school at MSC is at the crossroads. It must go ahead on the road which will make it of infinitely greater value to the people of Michigan—by establishing closer service connections with the state industries. Too, the school must continue to provide first class educational opportunities for students in the field of engineering, and seek to develop a strong graduate department for specialization in the more technical and specific fields."

Three Are Named Dean-Emeritus

The State Board also named three former Deans to the title of Dean-Emeritus of their respective schools: They are: Dean Henry B. Dirks, of the School of Engineering; Dr. Ward Giltner, School of Veterinary Medicine; and Dr. E. A. Bessey, School of Graduate Studies.

Lorin G. Miller

Dr. M. Lois Calhoun Named Anatomy Head

Dr. M. Lois Calhoun, member of the Michigan State faculty since 1943, was named professor and head of the Department of Anatomy in the School of Veterinary Medicine at the June 24 meeting of the State Board of Agriculture.

Dr. Calhoun

Dr. Calhoun thus became, effective July 1, the only woman department head at MSC, excluding the fields of home economics and physical education for women. She succeeds Dr. R. A. Runnells, transferred.

The new department head holds four degrees from Iowa State College, receiving B.S., M.S., D.V.M., and Ph.D. degrees there between 1924 and 1945. She is the author of numerous journal articles in the field of veterinary medicine.

Baldwin Retires After 38 Years Of Service to Michigan Farmers

Robert J. Baldwin, one of Michigan's best known agricultural figures and a pioneer in the Cooperative Extension program, retired July 1 after 38 years of service to Michigan farmers.

His judgment and counsel have reached every county in the state through the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service of which he has been the only director. Through the extension service, rural families receive the aid of county agricultural agents, home demonstration agents, and 4-H Club agents.

The extension program which Baldwin has guided has grown from three "field agents" in 1910 to the staff of 280 today. These people are members of the MSC staff, but are made available through the cooperative effort of the federal, state and county governments.

Born in Sanilac county, Baldwin graduated from Michigan Agricultural College in 1904. Fate took a hand in his life following graduation when he was stricken with infantile paralysis. This prevented him from entering farming as a life work, but caused him to begin his career of service to Michigan agriculture.

Through the years, Baldwin has advocated many well-known farming practices. An alfalfa program which he sponsored almost doubled Michigan's acreage of this soil-building crop from 1919 to 1939.

His guidance was of great value to the state's farmers during two World Wars and two farm depressions and his help has aided Michigan farmers in their successful efforts to make the state one of the nation's agricultural leaders.

Clinton V. Ballard, a member of the Michigan Cooperative Extension staff since 1915, succeeded Baldwin as director.

On The Cover . . .

THE AFFAIRS OF STATE

SUMMER SCHOOL

Mid-June saw a mass exodus of students from the MSC campus, but a week later—by June 21, some were returning for the summer grind. When official registration for the six and eleven week terms closed, 4,508 had signed up for summer courses.

This figure was to be augmented, however, by more than 500 students attending special workshops being held during the first nine weeks of the summer.

These workshops were developed in response to demand from teachers, guidance workers and administrators for practical help and assistance in solving instructional problems. They include special courses in state and local governmental activities, measurement and evaluation, special teacher guidance, home and family living and communication, child development, and a workshop for supervising teachers of secondary education practice teachers.

End of the Year

The regular 1947-48 college year went out with a big splash.

Record Vote Recorded

The election was one of the most lively in recent history, and a record vote of 5,584 was recorded. Only one election rule violation was reported. Jack Brayley, leading candidate for sophomore treasurer, got a little too ambitious—rigged up a 30-foot-square poster, which exceeded the limit by 14 square feet. He doffed his political hat, and withdrew from the race.

In the annual Frosh-Soph battle, the sophomores were outnumbered and outclassed in almost every contest, and went down before the conquering freshmen. In the end, almost everybody, including many spectators, got an early season ducking in the Red Cedar River, scene of the tug-of-war contest.

Shirley Brehm Was Best Milker

Before they left school, dairy students decided to pick another Dairy Queen. Mrs. Ken Balge, who had been announced as Dairy Queen the month before, dropped out of the limelight, and another contest was staged.

REVERSAL OF IWO JIMA

Might well be the title of this picture, as an oil-soaked freshman, supported by countless Frosh palms, rips down the sophomore flag during the annual Frosh-Soph battle.

In the second match, Shirley Brehm, senior from Cadillac, pulled to an easy victory over eight other contestants, getting two pounds of milk in four minutes in the cow-milking contest. She reigned over the June Dairy Month festivities in Michigan.

Other events, such as the Water Carnival, Alumni Day and Commencement, definitely pushed studies into the background—but only for the moment. The next week—the end of finals—saw little or no activity on the part of Michigan State College students.

ROTC NEWS

Col. John L. Whitelaw, professor of military science and tactics and commandant of the Reserve Officers Training Corps at Michigan State for the past two years, will leave in September for new assignment in the Italian port of Trieste.

This announcement came shortly after MSC's ROTC unit had been given the highest rating possible—"superior"—after an inspection by U.S. Fifth Army officers, held in May. The Spartan group was rated superior in administration, training, and over-all performance.

Building Program

The $5,210,198 appropriation to Michigan State College contained in the capital outlay bill passed by the Michigan Legislature May 20 will mean rapid completion of all the buildings now under construction on the campus.

"This appropriation puts us over the top. All the buildings—natural science, physics, sewage and power plants, electrical engineering—are taken care of and will be completed as rapidly as possible," said Karl H. McDonel, State Board of Agriculture secretary.

The structures now are in various work stages, with anticipated completion dates as follows: electrical engineering, Jan. 1948; physics and mathematics, Sept. 1949; natural science, Sept. 1949; power plant, Sept. 1948; and sewage plant, being built on a 50-50 basis with the city of East Lansing, late 1948.

"The State Legislature has made it possible," said Secretary McDonel, "for Michigan State College to increase greatly its effectiveness in educating the young people of Michigan. These buildings were desperately needed. They move the college a long step forward in its physical growth."

IT'S ALL SMILES after winning national contest for Bonnie Atwell, senior in journalism at MSC. Miss Atwell was named as one of three first place winners in a national advertising contest conducted by Gamma Alpha Chi, national advertising sorority. She was entertained for a week in New York, plus getting three job interviews with top-flight fashion agencies.

THE AFFAIRS OF STATE

A WELL DESERVED VICTORY

Was Prof. Paul D. Bagwell's unanimous election as president of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce at the June national convention in Philadelphia.

Prof. Bagwell, head of the MSC Department of Written and Spoken English since 1944, has been active in Jaycee work for 11 years. He served as a national director from 1944 to 1946, president of the Michigan chapter in 1946, and national president for the past year. He has gained national recognition through civic leadership, direction of war bond drives, civilian defense work, and many other projects.

He has been granted a year's leave of absence from the college in connection with this national office. As part of his duties, Prof. Bagwell will conduct an extensive speaking tour, which will take him into the 48 states, Hawaii, Alaska, Canada and Central and South America. As an "extra-curricular" honor, he will crown Miss America of 1948 in Atlantic City in September.

AMONG THE FACULTY

Dr. Russell A. Runnells, who has directed the MSC Department of Anatomy since 1943, was named head of the Department of Animal Pathology at the May meeting of the State Board of Agriculture. On July 1, he replaced Dr. E. T. Hallman, on leave of absence prior to retirement.

Prof. Milton E. Muelder, history and political science, has been appointed deputy director of the American Military Government's educational and cultural relations in Germany. On leave from the college, Prof. Muelder has been in Berlin for some months with the AMG reports and statistics branch.

Three Publish Books

Three MSC professors have recently published books in their respective fields. They are Prof. Irving W. Knobloch, "Readings in Biological Science;" Prof. Charles C. Killingsworth, "State Labor Relations Acts;" and Prof. Arnold Williams, "The Common Expositor." In addition, two books written or edited by C. E. Erickson, director of the MSC Institute of Counseling, Testing and Guidance, were selected as among the ten best books in the field of guidance published in 1947.

Prof. Romeo Tata, head of the MSC violin department for the past two years, was recently awarded a life membership in the Arizona Composers Society.

Another mark of outstanding recognition came to Michigan State when Prof. Otto J. Gombosi, literature and fine arts, was named a member of the Advisory Board of the Musicological Institute of the American Academy in Rome.

"Flying Classrooms"

Prof. Carl M. Horn's second national "flying classroom" field study of industry, educational and governmental institutions, and business and military organizations, got under way June 27 in Chicago. The study will conclude in Denver, Colo., July 25.

Horn

Aboard the specially chartered planes were 50 key educators from nine states — educators who would make an extensive study of selected subjects in 12 of the nation's largest cities by July 25. This is Horn's fourth "flying classroom" venture.

The trip is sponsored by Michigan State College and the American Association of School Administrators, with participating educators paying their own expenses. Most of the men taking part are city, county and state superintendents of schools, although some college professors are included.

1948 Water Carnival Winner . . .

Almost 1,000 Return for Alumni Day

Approximately 1,000 Michigan State College alumni were on hand for the 1948 Alumni Day festivities held June 5 on the campus, according to figures compiled by the Alumni Records office.

These former students and graduates met old classmates and friends, visited the "old haunts," examined the expanded campus and the latest additions, and took in the program arranged for them over the graduation week-end.

Many came early—Thursday and Friday—but the bulk did not start registering until Saturday. The Union Memorial building, in the midst of drastic revision and modernization, was packed to capacity with alumni—shaking hands, peering for familiar faces, and having a lot of fun.

Took Rain in Stride

Many of the alumni were in the stands Friday night when the Water Carnival, a beautiful parade of 40 floats and many sports events, was rained out. But they took it in stride, and were back in the crowd the next day for all the events.

Many were on hand in Jenison fieldhouse Sunday to hear Charles F. Kettering, a director of General Motors Corporation and one of the world's top inventor-manufacturers, deliver an address on "Days of Opportunity." Kettering spoke to MSC's largest graduation class in history—1,966 received bachelor's degrees and 213 advanced degrees at the ceremonies. They also saw the presentation of four honorary degrees and the 1948 MSC Alumni Awards for Distinguished Service by President John A. Hannah. Honorary degrees went to Irving J. Woodin, '13; William J. Wolf, '12; Nathan P. Hull, '89; and Samuel M. Dean, '14. The Distinguished Service Awards were given Elmer W. Brandes, '13; Ulysses P. Hedrick, '93; I. Forest Huddleson, '25; and Floyd W. Owen, '02.

110 Patriarchs Present

About 110 patriarchs and guests attended the Saturday noon banquet of the Patriarchs Club, which saw the inauguration of 1898 alumni into the "50-years-and-older" organization. William Snyder, '82, represented the oldest class in attendance, and Leslie A. Buell, '83, was the oldest alumni present in point of age. President Hannah spoke to the group at the banquet, which was presided over by Clark Brody, chairman of the State Board of Agriculture.

Friday had seen a little activity on the part of that class that just won't be outdone—1895. W. O. Hedrick, '91, served as guide on a campus tour Friday afternoon for more than 30 who had gathered on the Spartan campus for the 1895 reunion. They had a special banquet Friday evening in the Union.

Silver Anniversary for 1923

The class of 1923 had about 190 present at their silver anniversary banquet in the Union Saturday noon. President Hannah, a member of this class, spoke on plans of the college for the present and future.

Eight other classes held quin-quennial luncheon reunions in the Union Saturday noon, and there were many "guests" at the various tables—alumni out of other classes who did not hold special reunion luncheons. These luncheons were held by the classes of 1903, 1908, 1913, 1918, 1928, 1933, 1938 and 1943. An estimated 400 persons were in attendance.

The alumni took in everything that the college campus had to offer—the Water Carnival, special luncheons, an Alumni Day parade of land floats, baseball games, a special Alumni Day Dance

Saturday night, and Commencement Sunday. They came, saw and participated—for a short while they were "back home" in the college environment which had made such an indelible impression on their lives.

June 5 was a big day on the Michigan State College campus, but from the spirit and exuberance displayed by the 1,000 who returned—next year will be even bigger.

THE PICTURES

On the adjoining page tell the story better than words could possibly do. These are pictures of most of the special luncheons and reunions held June 5-6. In the center are Distinguished Service Award winners Owen, Brandes and Huddleson. Illness prevented Dr. Hedrick from returning to the campus for the presentation.

Alumni Day 1948

MSC Olympic Team Now Numbers Five

Michigan State's representation on the U. S. Olympic team was augmented recently when Ernest Crosbie and Adolph Weinacker "walked away" with first and second places, respectively, in the Olympic "walking" trials at Cincinnati.

Marathon walking, definitely an art of muscular coordination, requires that the heel has to touch the ground and the knee must lock at the same time. The Cincinnati trials were over a 50,000 meter course.

Crosbie Is Alumnus

Crosbie, an alumnus of State, participated in both the 1932 and 1936 Olympic games. In 1932, he placed first among the Americans and seventh in the meet. At present, Crosbie hails from Baltimore, Md.

Weinacker, a sophomore in the School of Veterinary Medicine, is from Detroit. This was his first attempt at the more than 31 mile distance, although he previously placed third in the NAAU 25,000 meter, fourth in the 40,000, and fifth in the 30,000 meter competition.

This brings State's known contingent on the United States team to five, with many likely prospects. Crosbie and Weinacker join trainer Jack Heppinstall and wrestlers "Big Bob" Maldegan and alumnus Lee Merrill, as members of this contingent.

Chuck Davey, three-time NCAA boxing champ, became the sixth MSC athlete on the U. S. Olympic team when he won the alternate spot in the 135-pound class at Boston June 30. Davey lost a split decision in the final match, and flyweight Ernie Charboneau was eliminated when he received a cut over his right eye in an early match.

Other Likely Prospects

Among the likely prospects are representatives from three sports, track, swimming and boxing. In track Jack "The Rocket" Dianetti will be a strong contender for the middle distances, especially in the 880. Teammates Bill Mack and Fred Johnson are almost sureties to qualify as finalists in the mile and the broad jump, their respective specialties.

From the tank squad, the brilliant George Hoogerhyde has a berth almost in the bag, according to swimming mentor McCaffree. Dave Seibold, Howard Patterson, and Don Paton will also make the trip to Detroit with Hoogerhyde for the Olympic Trials to be held in River Rouge Park July 8, 9, 10, and 11.

A Preview of Things to Come?

This action shot of Lynn Chandnois, eluding a Washington State tackler in last year's game which the Spartans won 21-7, might be a familiar scene this year if pre-season performances mean anything. A standout during spring practice, Chandnois led the "Green" team to a 47-6 rout of the "Whites" in the spring practice finale in May. He scored three times, and tossed a pass for another marker.

State Faces Tough 1948 Schedule

By John Walters, '50

Clarence L. "Biggie" Munn will begin his second year this coming fall in the Spartan encampment as head coach. With Munn are his three assistants, Hugh Daugherty, line coach, Forest Evashevski, backfield, and Laverne Taylor, ends.

Dedication of the new 51,000-seat Macklin Field stadium will precede the opening game against the mighty Wolverines of the University of Michigan on Saturday, Sept. 25. This will be the first appearance of the Wolves since 1924 when they won from State in a very close ball game 7-0.

The University of Hawaii is scheduled to follow Michigan, Oct. 2. The "Rain-bows" fell before a powerful Spartan onslaught 58-19 last fall out in the Islands in the first game ever played between the two schools.

October 9 will re-institute football relations with the University of Notre Dame at South Bend. State last played Notre Dame in 1921 losing by the lopsided score of 48-0.

Homecoming will see the University of Arizona opposing Michigan State on Oct. 16, after a lapse of 12 years. In that game in 1936 State was the victor 7-0.

State's third tough opponent will be

Penn State at State College, Pa., on October 23. The Spartans have won 3 and lost 1 against the "Nittany Lions," winning the last contest in 1946, 19-16.

From Penn State the Spartans journey to the other side of the continent to meet Oregon State on Oct. 30. MSC has played two previous contests with the "Beavers," one way back in 1915, losing 20-0 and the last one in 1942 which ended in a 7-7 tie.

November 6 will see the Spartans back in East Lansing for their encounter with an old foe—Marquette University. State ran the "won" column up last season with a 13-7 win which places the current record at won 10, lost 6 and tied 1.

The remainder of the schedule finds Michigan State travelling to Ames, Iowa, Nov. 13, for a return encounter with Iowa State, who fell before the Spartan guns 20-0 in the Homecoming game last fall. Following that will be a home game with Washington State November 20, whom the Spartans dropped 21-7 during last fall's campaign.

Michigan State winds up the 1948 season under the warm sun of California when Santa Clara plays host to the Green and White at San Francisco on Nov. 27. The Spartans took advantage of a near blizzard last fall in "snowing" under the boys from California 28-0.

Irmen Named 1948-49 Track Captain; Christensen Wins Knappen Award

Tom Irmen, lanky distance runner from Toledo, Ohio, has been named captain of the Michigan State College track team for the 1948-49 season by his teammates.

At the same time, hurdler Paige Christensen was nominated for the Knappen award, given annually to the varsity track team member who is adjudged by team members, coaches and managers to have given the most effort to his work and to have been of the greatest team value.

Irmen, who took up running seriously only last year, was a stand-out miler and two-miler, both indoor and outdoor. Coach Karl A. Schlademan "discovered" him in an intramural track affair.

Last winter he cracked the Central Collegiate Conference mile record by taking the event in 4:21.9. This spring he broke the University of Illinois field record in the two-mile with a time of 9:21.4.

Christensen's top achievement came this spring when he copped the IC4A 120-yard high hurdles title with a time of 14.9 seconds. A junior, he hails from Washington, D. C.

20-Game Schedule Set for Cage Team

Five Big Nine teams top a 20-game schedule for Michigan State's 1948-49 basketball season. The Western Conference teams which will face the Spartans are Michigan, Indiana, Iowa, Purdue and Minnesota.

Other teams on the schedule include Notre Dame, Marquette, Mississippi, Wayne, Detroit and Virginia. The most unusual thing about the schedule is the opening night double-header scheduled for Nov. 27 in East Lansing. The MSC cagers will split into two squads, one taking on Alma College, the other facing Hillsdale College.

The remainder of the schedule, as announced by cage mentor Ben Van Alstyne is as follows:

HOME: Iowa, Dec. 18; Cornell, Dec. 20; Mississippi College, Dec. 29; Marquette, Jan. 7; Detroit, Jan. 10; Western Reserve, Jan. 14; Wayne, Jan. 27; Michigan, Jan. 31; Purdue, Feb. 12; Minnesota, Feb. 14; Virginia, Feb. 19; and Notre Dame, Feb. 22.

AWAY: Michigan, Dec. 4; Indiana, Dec. 6; Detroit, Jan. 17; Wayne, Jan. 22; Notre Dame, Feb. 2; and Marquette, Feb. 5.

Year's Sports Summary

The end of Michigan State's 1947-48 athletic program showed that the Spartans, engaging in 12 sports and 130 contests, had won 75, lost 51 and tied four. This gave them an over-all percentage of over .600 for the season record.

Heading the victory list was Fendley Collins' wrestling team, which was undefeated in nine dual meets and placed second in the NCAA tournament.

Good Season for Netmen

Close behind was Frank Beeman's tennis squad, which posted an impressive 13 won and four lost. During the regular season, only one loss was sustained and that was by a 5-4 score in a return match with the University of Michigan. The record was bettered when the Spartan netmen copped the Central Collegiate Conference title in June. This wound up the best season since 1934.

Coach John Kobs and his baseball team, feeling the effects of heavy losses to professional baseball, wound up the season with a 10 won, 14 lost and one tie record. Of these losses, eight were by a one-run margin. Although the 1948 team was a more balanced squad, lack of pitching was the main weakness.

The football squad had a 7-2 record, and the swimming team had eight victories against two losses in dual competition.

Other varsity teams showed these records, victories listed first: Basketball, 12-10; fencing, 6-3; boxing, 2-4, with one tie; indoor track, 1-1; gymnastics, 1-4, with one tie; outdoor track, 1-2; and golf, 5-5.

Boxers to Sugar Bowl

Michigan State's boxing team will participate in the Sugar Bowl sports carnival in New Orleans next December. The Spartan mittmen will oppose Louisiana State.

Michigan State appeared there last year and dropped a 4½ to 3½ decision to the University of Maryland.

ATTENTION ALUMNI:

The advanced season football ticket sale is going strong, and tickets for the Michigan game Sept. 25 are going to be mighty scarce items, according to Lyman L. Frimodig, assistant director of athletics.

Season tickets, which are for the five Macklin Field games, can still be secured from the MSC Athletic Ticket Office. The price is $11.00, compared to an individual game purchase price total of $13.60. Tickets for the Michigan game are $3.60 and the others are $2.50. The ticket office has also secured a block of tickets for the MSC-Notre Dame game Oct. 9 at South Bend. The price of these is $3.60.

Fred Stabley Named MSC Sports Editor

Fred W. Stabley, who for the past year has served as news editor in the department of public relations, has been named MSC sports editor.

Stabley

Stabley replaces W. Nicholas Kerbawy, who resigned May 15 to accept the position of director of public relations for the Detroit Lions Football Company.

The new sports editor was a member of the Associated Press Baltimore bureau for three years, and city editor of the York (Pa.) Gazette and Daily for two years.

Prof. W. O. Hedrick, Retired Ten Years Ago, Is Michigan State's Most Faithful Student

By Madison Kuhn

Almost any afternoon in the year one may see Prof. Wilbur O. Hedrick, '91, with his slow-swinging stride, as he crosses the campus in the direction of the Library. There, you observe, goes a retired professor but not a retired student. A few minutes later you come upon him at a desk in the library stacks, with books on the Crusades piled before him and you get a thoughtful comment on the old struggle of Christian and Turk and the present one of Arab and Jew for Palestine.

Hedrick has always been a student—an omnivorous one. It was necessary in a man who taught so many courses. Upon graduation, the opening for an instructor in English fitted into the plans of one who, since the days when he walked from the farm to high school in Harbor Springs, had planned to go on to Law School at Ann Arbor. By teaching country school in the long winter vacations, by the eight-cent-an-hour daily labor on the College farm, and by cutting firewood for classroom stoves at forty cents a cord, Hedrick had come thus far. An instructor's pay opened the way for study at the University in winter vacations.

Has Taught Many Courses

But that year-around cycle was changed two years later when the newspapers quoted the professor of history and political economy of Michigan Agricultural College to the effect that the College was useless and should be converted into a normal school. The vacancy that suddenly occurred became Hedrick's to fill. Now—there was history, government, economics, and even psychology and philosophy to be taught, as well as the winters in Ann Arbor.

Later, as these became separate departments, Hedrick developed many an advanced course in finance, taxation, management, and the course that became a book: The Economics of a Food Supply. The habit of reading was thus instilled, year after year, as he met his classes, earned his master's and doctor's degrees at the University, debated current issues with Prof. Ryder, and spoke to farm and business groups. When his teaching came to an end ten years ago—he was only seventy—the habits of all those years went right on.

Was Favorite With Students

But Hedrick's career has been on the side of students as well as study. His classes were popular in the first years when many agriculture students preferred a general education and found it in the history, economics, and government that he taught with such mastery, such humor, and such personal interest in each student. In later years as the emphasis in agriculture came to include marketing, credit, finance, and management, and with opportunities to major in economics or business administration, Hedrick's courses became professional as well as general education ones. In considerable measure these shifting emphases at MSC were accelerated by the work of Hedrick and the Department of Economics he headed until 1930.

On the side of the students too were the years as chairman of the Social Committee when he was inclined to a leniency that expanded social opportunities.

To free students from the inconvenience and expense of buying textbooks in Lansing, the book-buying cooperative was founded by Hedrick and others. He was the guiding hand through all its years. Every student in forty-five years benefitted from the reduced prices that that cooperative college book store offered.

For one to have survived a half century at MSC was no small achievement in itself. In the 1880s and 1890s, as Dr. Hedrick so vividly recalls, "the students counted that year lost in which they did not force the resignation or dismissal of some professor or president." Hedrick escaped the stamping-feet, the rats turned loose in class, and the notebook bonfires before professors' homes. Those were days, too, when the instructor on the "sub-faculty" was looked upon as temporary, inexpensive help. Few men made the jump from what was nicknamed the "scrub faculty" to the faculty itself. Hedrick was one of the few.

Has Survived Many Hazards

He survived other hazards as well. There was the broken nose in the annual Faculty-Senior baseball game when he missed a throw to "first" from Stanley Crowe. But that was an exception, for Hedrick played on faculty ball teams into his fifties, and at sixty-five was playing tennis several times a week. Well might Hedrick say with the Abbé S. eys who, when asked what great thing he had done in the French Revolution, replied, "I lived through it."

When Prof. Hedrick retired ten years ago, he set for himself a line of readings: first Greece, then Rome, then the Popes, and now the Crusades. That is only the beginning. For years to come—he turned eighty this April—we shall see him, as the bells in Beaumont Tower ring at five-fifteen, going down the walk, past the spruce that were old when he came here as a student, past the Union whose inception owed much to Hedrick, and the rest of the pleasant three-quarter mile walk to the old home on Oakhill.

At right is Doctor Hedrick as an instructor when he lived in Station Terrace. The time was December, 1896. Today, the background has changed, but the man W. O. Hedrick remains the same—a faithful student.

Following Alumni Clubs

By Tom King

Chicago Alumni Club Honors William Gill

MSC alumni members of the American Chemical Society have made a habit of meeting for breakfast annually, during the spring meetings of the Society in Chicago. This year, Spartan chemists and chemical engineers broke all existing attendance records when they gathered at Harding's Presidential Grill to honor William "Bill" Gill, who retired this year after 26 years as MSC chemistry department stockkeeper.

Dr. Laurence L. Quill, head of the MSC chemistry department, summarized recent progress made by the College. His talk was followed by one by Dean R. Laurence, '26, now a patent attorney in St. Louis, Mich. Mr. Laurence introduced former MSC students who had worked under Mr. Gill, and who remembered "chem lab" incidents which drew appreciative laughter from the chemists.

Mr. Gill was presented with a pigskin wallet and cash gift in appreciation of his service and comradeship.

Chicago alumni meet for luncheon the first Wednesday in the month, October to June, at the Chicago Engineers' Club, 314 S. Federal Street, at 12 noon.

S. B. Lee, Secretary.

First Meeting at Midland

An attendance of 110 Spartan alumni at the first meeting of the newly formed Midland alumni chapter May 13 predicted a successful future for the club.

Tom King, director of alumni relations at Michigan State, introduced Prof. Albert A. Applegate, head of the MSC Department of Journalism, who brought Midland alumni up to date on activities of the college.

Election of officers was scheduled to take place at the June meeting of the club.—William R. Collinson, '18, 812 Eastman Road, Midland, Mich.

Cleveland Group Meets

Approximately 60 alumni gathered for dinner at the June 11 meeting of the Cleveland chapter in the Carter Hotel, with James LaDu presiding.

Clare Winston presented the case for the Memorial Fund drive and accepted contributions.

It was suggested that Akron and Canton, now included in the Cleveland area, might wish to establish separate alumni groups, inasmuch as few persons from either city find it possible to attend meetings in Cleveland.—Mrs. Jacqueline S. Macomber, 1363 Lakewood Ave., Lakewood, Ohio.

Syracuse Tops Fund Drive

Lowell Eklund, '39, reported that the Syracuse chapter leads all alumni chapters in percentage participation in the Memorial Fund campaign, at the group's May 12 meeting at the Drumlins Country Club. To reach those members not yet personally contacted, solicitation assignments were accepted by those present.

With a view to increasing interest in and attendance at alumni meetings, the group decided to put into effect a special "notice" plan, under the direction of Harold Haight.

An expression of sympathy to the family of Glen Stewart was formally issued and incorporated into the group's minutes.—Miss Shirley Townsend, '37, 871 Ackerman Ave.

Alumni Guide Farm Bureau Growth

The growth and outstanding contributions of the Michigan Farm Bureau to the farmers of Michigan are due in large part to Michigan State College alumni serving on the administrative staff of the Bureau. Approximately half of this staff are graduates of MSC, including those shown in the above picture. The Farm Bureau, a general farmer membership group, is the parent organization of four farm service companies and numerous local groups. These service companies deal with wholesale manufacturing, retail supplies, fruit products, and petroleum. Founded on the MSC campus in 1919, the Bureau now has a working staff of over 600 employees; operates business concerns in 35 Michigan towns; and does an annual business of more than $15,000,000.

R. Sleight, '15, district insurance manager; K. A. Tanner, '33, organization director; J. F. Yager, '20, assistant executive secretary; Clark L. Brody, '04, executive secretary; B. A. Rainey, '19, purchasing manager; S. W. Powell, '20, public affairs and legislative counsel; E. J. Young, '39, education director; B. F. Hennick, '25, Junior Farm Bureau director; W. V. Bielinski, '36, personnel director; standing, W. A. Le Cureux, '40, fertilizer department supervisor; L. A. Zillman, '30, insecticide department supervisor; B. P. Pattison, '12, commodity relations director; H. E. Zweering, '46, assistant credit manager; and N. K. Waggoner, '42, Community Farm Bureau information director.

Other MSC graduates on the administrative staff include E. E. Ungren, '19, public relations director and editor of "Michigan Farm News;" M. L. Larson, '48, district organization representative, and J. H. Bouck, '48, retail trainee.

ABOUT THESE ALUMNI

By Gladys M. Franks

PATRIARCHS

Patriarchs all! Registering on Alumni Day and attending the annual dinner given by the college to honor those who have been graduated fifty or more years were: W. L. Snyder, '82; Leslie Buell, '83; Jason Hammond, '86; T. A. Saylor, '87; Howard Cannon, N. P. Hull, Nelson and Mary Carpenter Mayo, Charles Redman, and W. F. Staley, '88; E. A. Holden, Perry Holden, and Harry Martin, '89; Frank Clark and R. Bruce McPherson, '90; B. A. Holden and W. O. Hedrick, '91; H. B. Baker, C. A. Hathaway, Willis Herron, W. K. Sagendorph, Charles Smith, and Dor Stowell, '92; Albert Chase, A. B. Cook, and Joseph Perrien, '93; C. J. Barnum and W. A. Hamilton, '94. From 1895 were Charles Alvord, W. A. Ansoorge, Harry Baker, Guy Fraze, Frank Johnson, I. R. Jones, S. C. Laitner, A. C. MacKinnon, Chace Newman, I. J. Quigley, H. R. Parish, Daniel Smith, Howard Smith, Thorn Smith, and Clay Tallman. From 1896, Burton Bowditch, R. L. Clute, Dwight Randall, and G. W. Williams; from 1897, A. T. Cartland, Frederick Kramer, J. W. Riegerink, R. J. Robb, and I. L. Simmons.

Led by their class secretary, Edmund A. Calkins, the following members of the golden anniversary class of 1898 were on hand for their induction into the Patriarchs club: Frank Ainger, Thomas Chittenden, Albert Patriarchs, Myrtle Prek Randall, Floyd Robison, and Calvin Wardwell.

Word has been received of the death on March 4 of Nile C. Smith, '90, of Wilmette, Illinois. . . Mrs. Elva E. Hicks, '95, widow of Gilbert H. Hicks, '92, and an employee of the Bureau of Animal Industry from 1900 to 1932, died in Washington, D.C., on May 11. . . John P. Nellist, '96, pioneer Michigan map maker, died at his home in Grand Rapids on May 20. For many years Mr. Nellist made a specialty of road maps for both the upper and lower peninsulas of Michigan, showing counties, townships, and sections. Over five years in compilation these maps were a complete atlas of the state. He also engaged in a greenhouse business and in recent years was interested in cherry growing in the Suttons Bay area. He is survived by his wife, the former Clara Waterman, '02. . . Word has been received of the death of Leon J. Cole, '98, in Madison, Wisconsin, on February 17.

S. F. Edwards and Charles Johnson staged a pre-Patriarch reunion on Alumni Day. . . Francis E. West has retired as chairman of the division of pure and applied sciences and professor of chemistry at Bob Jones university, and is making his home at 610 16th street, Cleveland, Tenn.

1901

Representing the class in Alumni Day activities were N. A. McCune, F. L. Radford, and Vern Shoemith.

1902

On hand to congratulate their classmate, Dr. Floyd Owen, on his selection to receive an alumni distinguished service award, were H. L. Brunger and Estelle Ward Robison. . . E. D. Searing writes from 1640 S. W. Sunset boulevard, Portland, Oregon: "On January 1, 1947, I retired after 38½ years of engineering service with the Portland General Electric company and its predecessor and affiliated companies. Since retirement, Mrs. Searing and I have covered most of the 13 western states by automobile and have now decided to settle down to enjoy a more quiet life. We would like to see more of the M.S.C. alumni out this way and hope they call upon us when they reach our city."

1903

Responding to the call of their class officers, James Moore and Edna Smith Tuller, the following registered on Alumni Day and celebrated the 45th anniversary with traditional '03 enthusiasm: W. C. Armstrong, Emma Barrett Underhill, Mabel Bristol Yoder, Don Button, J. F. Chamberlain, T. P. Chase, Raymond Clark, Seymour Gates, W. M. Hallack, Mary Kyes Allen, Arthur Miller, Elsie Morrison Shoemith, Frank Nickle, H. W. Norton, Cecil and Hettie Wright Phillips, Austin Rea, Harry Schulz, and Ray Thomas.

1904

R. J. Baldwin, Clark Brody, and George Martin represented the class on Alumni Day. . . Albert M. Fraser, structural engineer for the G. O. Neumann company of Gary, is located at 308 Kelly street, Hobart, Indiana.

1905

Helen Baker Morgan was the sole registrant from the class on Alumni Day.

1906

On campus for Alumni Day festivities were Frank Liverance, William Morgan, and Roy Potts. . . Ernest H. Wieder, of 2710 Central, Evanston, Illinois, retired April 1 after 42 years of service with the Chicago Northwestern railway.

1907

Helen Ashley Hill and Grace Smith Button made it a ladies' day reunion for the class on June 5. . . J. L. Myers manages the San Juan Heights company in Manila, P.I., with offices in the E.M.A. building. He writes that he passed through East Lansing last November and while he saw old ghosts on several corners there was nary a familiar face.

1908

It was 40 years out for '08 and the following rallied to celebrate the event on June 5: M. R. Allen, Philip Baker, Floyd Barden, A. William Brewster, James Campbell, Roswell Carr, Carolyn Ellsworth Edwards, M. E. Hall, E. C. Krehl, C. E. Merwin, Mabel Mosher, H. H. Musselman,

Grace Owen Kantz, Mary Pratt Potts, A. E. Riegerink, E. J. Shassberger, Leslie Slot, G. S. Valentine, J. W. Wilber, and Eugene Wilcox. . . Amos H. Ashley, a major in World War I and for more than 30 years associated with the S. S. Kresge company, died at his home at Great Bear Lake near St. Paul, Minnesota, on April 27.

Coyne Bulis, C. L. Nash, A. H. Sargeant, and Myrtle Severance Barben were on campus for Alumni Day festivities. . . Albert Sobey, director of General Motors Institute in Flint, was recently named president and member of the institute's board of regents.

1910

The class was represented on Alumni Day by 1902 Cartright Kohl and Arthur Pulling. . . Clyde E. Weed, vice president in charge of mining for the Anaconda Copper Mining company, has offices at 25 Broadway, New York City.

1911

Here on campus for Alumni Day were Roscoe Brightup, J. DeKoning, J. G. Hays, and Glenn Sanford. . . Florence Kayner Westerman and Arch T. Wilson were married in October 1947 and are at home at 304 S. McKenzie street, Adrian, Michigan.

1912

Count 'em! It wasn't a five year reunion date for '12 but the following returned to the campus for Alumni Day: Lee Ashley, C. V. and Marjorie George Ballard, Edward Bender, Lee Bender, G. V. Branch, C. H. Dickinson, E. H. Gunison, E. E. Hotchin, Lottie Robinson Gunson, Sara Vandervoort Riordan, and Charles Stahl.

1913

The exhortations of E. B. Gaffney and R. E. Lorce and the prospect of seeing their classmates Elmer Brandes, William Wolf, and Irving Woodin, honored at commencement, proved a strong lure, and the following returned to the campus for the 35th anniversary reunion: L. C. Carey, C. B. Chapman, R. A. Colgan, Frank Cowing, Rena Crane Pearson, C. B. Crawford, F. C. Crawford, W. S. Cuming, William Davidson, Truman Dean, Earl Douglas, Elmer Geyer, Gladys Graham Ilue, F. L. Granger, Howard Hewitt, Clara Jakeway Culhy, Ray Kroodama, Martha Lorce, W. A. McDonald, Ethel McKillop Roop, Joseph and Kathryn Tobias Macdonald, Dan Mather, Morris Moore, George Newhall, I. T. Pickford, Hazel

Liberty Hyde Bailey Given Two Awards

Added to the list of honors received by Liberty Hyde Bailey, '82, is the first Distinguished Service Award made by the American Agricultural Editors' Association June 26 at Cornell University.

Dr. Bailey's selection for "outstanding service to agriculture" was by ballot of the Association's membership. The award was presented by Paul D. Sanders, president of the Association.

In late April, shortly after his return from the West Indies, Dr. Bailey was awarded the first Johnny Appleseed Memorial Medal from the Men's Garden Clubs of America for "meritorious service" in the field of horticulture.

Getting into practice for the 35th next year were Bess Andrews Hays, Don Barman, Austin Coons, Blakeslee and Muriel Smith Crane, S. M. Dean, Frances Kirk Patch, Ferne Liverance Woodin, Charles Merwin, R. E. Minogue, and Gertrude Wickens Gordon.

1915

The class was represented on Alumni Day by C. H. Blades, Ray Campell, Dan Henry, Frances Hurd Dean, E. E. Kinney, O. R. Miller, Hazel Mundy Burke, A. L. Ringle, A. L. Sayles, and Anne VanHaltean Vernier.

1916

"6ers on hand for Alumni Day festivities included G. R. Bogan, Bessie Halsted Millbrook, R. O. Knudson, and Karl McDonel. . . . "New Designs for Small Properties" is the latest book of M. E. Bottomley, professor of landscape architecture at the University of Cincinnati. Try it on your lot! . . . Wilbur A. Wright writes from Corsicana, Texas: "I have been receiving the RECORD a long time but it hadn't dawned on me that other students would like to know where everyone is located until I read the letter from S. C. Vandenburg. I have been in Texas so long I am considered an old timer by all but the natives. In April our country is a mass of color and really a month for tourists."

1917

'17 had a bridge foursome and one to kibitz with the following registering on Alumni Day: Haidee Judson Brady, Herb Huebner, Sheldon Lee, Elsa Schuren Kumke, and Herbert Straight.

1918

"Happy greetings to all of you '18ers. Have planned for five years not to miss this reunion so certainly regret inability to be with you. Best of everything for each and every one of you" wired Frank Davis from Tampa, Florida, to the following classmates back for the 30th anniversary reunion: Grace Andersen Brownrigg, George Bentley, Glen Blades, Eva Bouschor Cromley, Merle Chubb Parks, W. R. Collinson, and Cook Steele, W. Mc Coulter, Floyd Fogle, Holmes Froelich, Cleo Gledhill Beck, Iva Granger Clark, Marion Grettenberger Musselman, Gladys Barker Straight, Iva Jensen Foster, C. L. Margeson, B. M. Murray, Clarissa Pike Lee, Wayne Quigley, Mary Ray Tobey, Merritt and Blanche MacNaughton Reeves, Julia Riegerink Yeakey, E. H. Walker, Earl Waters, W. B. Williams, Eileen Wilson Bogan, and H. K. Wrench. . . . Howard C. Abbott, who has headed the science division at Kletzing College in Iowa since 1946, has been named head of the department of biology at Sioux Falls College in Sioux Falls, South Dakota. . . . A. Clyde Brown writes from Ormond, Florida: "Living at 91 Live Oak in our own home built last year. Now building for others. Entranced with Florida, especially the summers." . . . Arthur V. Mooney is located in Los Angeles as vice president of the Youngberg-Carlson company, with offices at 621 S. Spring street.

1919

Raymond Baxter and Forrest Musselman kept it from being ladies' day for '19 on June 5 when other registrants were: Gertrude Cole Burtch, Lavenia Cottrell Bentley, Nenna Dunlap Kenyon, Helen Edmonds Coulter, Aletha Keiser Grubhaug, Agnes McIntyre, Dorothy Rusche Baxter, and Ordella Southard Shurtleff.

1920

The following classmates returned to the campus for Alumni Day and registered at the Union: R. S. Clark, Laura Collingwood Johnston, Rebecca Collingwood Trangmar, M. E. Fortney, Florence Rouse Huxtable, Louise Larrabee Johnson, R. J. Martin, Carl Miller, and C. F. Ramsay. . . . Capt. Charles W. Gray heads the Naval ROTC unit at Cornell university, Ithaca, New York.

1921

Mildred Bennett Fortney, Laura Crissman Marx, Marshall Draper, F. L. Hendrick, Winiford Smith Topping, and W. Arthur Tobey registered at alumni headquarters on June 5.

1922

Returning to the campus for Alumni Day and registering at the Union were: M. L. Bailey, E. L. Besemer, Margaret Bowerman Taylor, E. D. Clifford, Gladys Kellogg Brady, Julius Marx, George Phillips, Stanley Radford, and Donald Robinson. . . . Ellsworth Besemer has been named director of farm training at the high school in Charlevoix, Mich. . . . Leo B. Grant, assistant manager of the New York office of Dow Chemical, lives in Searsdale at 16 Withington road.

1923

'Twas a great day for '23. From the impromptu supper Friday evening, the drenching at the water carnival, the Pinetum (?) breakfast Saturday morning, the informal luncheon that noon, through the BIG dinner Saturday evening, it was a silver anniversary party long to be remembered. Rallying around Bill "Whiskers" Taylor and Buss "Where did I put that ticket" Morrison the following registered at alumni headquarters: Lester Allen, Cecil Apsey Gray, George Arnold, Hazen Atkins, Kathryn Baert Ramsay, Marie Bentley Higbie, Kenneth Blakiston, Hester Bradley, Jacob Brady, R. F. Brevitz, Calvin Brown, L. J. Bullen, Margaret Campbell Leach, A. A. Catlin, Cameron Caruthers, Jessie Church Briggs, Russell Clausen, A. B. Cook, Jr., Dwight Coulter, Margaret Crozier Ranney, John Dakin, L. C. Davies, Charles Davis, Leona DeYoung MacLeod, A. W. Emery, Keith Farley, Helen Gibson Cleveland, Marguerite Gorman Cruise, Helen Gould Hitchcock, Emmet Greenwood, Mildred Grettenberger Buxton, Waino Helli, Fred Henshaw, E. B. Holden, Lloyd Hughes, Austin Ingersol, William Jacobs, Dorothy Jermin Clark, C. E. Johnson, W. C. Johnson, Margaret Keller Robinson, J. A. Kloha, Marjorgia Knowles Caldwell, G. A. Kurtz, Donald Lacy, M. W. Landon, Katherine Langley Marling, John and Edith Brown Lazell, Earl Mailison, Sigurd Mathieson, Howard Menhinick, Kendall Meriau, J. Ward Percy, L. E. Perrine, George Postmus, Matthew Quirk, Mary Ranney Whitelaw, Maude Rau Hasley, Eleanor Richey Cheney, A. P. Schweizer, A. W. VanOrden, Nathalia Vasold Lautner, Marian Ward Clark, John and Dorothy Stuart Watson, Phil Weamer, Lucille Wellman Morrow, W. A. L. Willard, Irene Wilson Peattie, and W. S. Wixom.

1924

Vanguard for next year's big celebration were Mildred Austin Snyder, Edna Bark Kloha, Elizabeth Basingthwaite Clifford, Janet Boyce Lyons, Harold Clark, W. E. Dunlap, Naomi Hensley Ousterhout, and Norma Robson Lacy. . . . State Senator George Girschbach died in Hurley hospital in Flint, Michigan, on May 24 of injuries suffered in an automobile collision the previous day. Mr. Girschbach, who received his M.S. with the class, had been engaged in the creamery business in Sault Ste. Marie for several years. He was first elected to the state senate for the 1944-45 term. In the 1947-48

Iddles Is Named Head Of Babcock & Wilcox

Alfred Iddles

Alfred Iddles, '12, was recently appointed president of Babcock & Wilcox Company, New York City, world's largest manufacturers of steam boilers and pulverized fuel-burning equipment.

Iddles, a graduate engineer, was active in student affairs during his four years on campus, on the staffs of Holcad and The Wolverine, and as a member of the student council.

Following his graduation in 1912 he was employed for several years on the MSC engineering faculty, and received his MS in Mechanical Engineering.

During World War I, Iddles held the rank of captain in the U. S. Army. He worked for a time with the U. S. Bureau of Mines and later was chief engineer and vice-president for a large consulting firm in Philadelphia for several years.

He has been associated with the Babcock and Wilcox company for the past 12 years, and was named vice-president several years ago. In 1947, he was appointed to the Board of Directors and recently was elevated to the presidency.

'25ers on campus for Alumni Day included Dorothy Maxson Henshaw, Corrine Ormiston White, F. B. Ranney, Donald Stark, Derna Toan McPherson, and A. R. Vanderburg.

Registering at alumni headquarters on June 5 were Marjorie Baker Holden, J. B. Burns, Norma Collins Landon, Ray Heydrick, Winifred Landon Gardner, Maribel McKnight Parker, and

Raymond Riggs. . . . After 18 years as a salesman for the Chicago Apparatus Company, covering the Michigan and New York territory, Frank D. McCally has been made sales manager with offices in Chicago at 1735 North Ashland avenue.

Registrations for '27 on Alumni Day included T. R. Foster, Gladys Franks, W. F. Morofsky, June Ranney Lyman, and Madeline Rohlf Tuck.

Donald W. Fleser, assistant resident manager of the Fisher plant in Flint, has been named resident manager of the Fisher unit in Atlanta, Georgia. He and Mrs. Fleser, the former Margaret Preston, '30, are living at 84 Lake Shore drive, Avondale Estates, Georgia.

1928

The following were on hand Alumni Day to see that the 20th anniversary was properly noted: A. Ferris Bradley, Harlow and Ruth Andrus Brigham, J. B. Brown, Frances Chambers Hewetson, John Cook, Pauline Gibson Holmes, Geraldine Gillespie Ford, Milton Grams, Leon Greene, H. C. Griffith, Roberta Hartman Burns, John Kaiser, Marguerite Kirker Throop, Fred Klein, Gerald Knapp, Emily Loree Lyon, M. Eugene Malone, Walter and Frances Harvey Nelson, Amy Perry Maloney, Harold Peters, Ruth Simmons James, Clark Snyder, Marguerite Sprague Becker, and Ruth Tower Geagley. . . . Charles M. Gillis is sales manager for the Radio Equipment company, Inc., in Grand Rapids where he and Mrs. Gillis (Tina Skeels, '27) live at 357 Madison S.E. . . . A son, James Wiseman, was born March 9 to Mr. and Mrs. James W. Candler (Beatrice Shepard) of 2557 W. Grand Blvd., Detroit.

1929

Alton Becker and G. T. Ford were the only ones from the class to register on Alumni Day. . . . J. Chester Grey, Jr., is division manager for the Central Indiana Gas company in Anderson where he and Mrs. Grey (Florence Priest, '28) live at 748 Main street.

1930

Lt. Col. K. T. Boughner, assistant chief of staff traffic, Hq. ATC in Washington since November 1945, recently spent five weeks in Europe and the Middle East on a mission connected with the ERP. June 27 he leaves the ATC for a year's assignment at Naval War College in Newport, Rhode Island, as a student. . . . John Dean will join the staff at Texas College of Arts and Industries at Kingsville on September 1. . . . Roy L. Jacobus, who was associated with Montgomery Ward in Chicago for many years, has been named director of insurance for the Ford Motor company.

1931

Representing the class on Alumni Day were Milton Bergman, Alice Cutler Thorpe, Cliff Derr, L. W. Kelner, Keith King, Howard and Lucille Morris Witmer.

1932

Betty Otwell Derr and Richmond Simmons were the only ones from the class to register on Alumni Day.

1933

For a while George Culp and Cornelius Wagenvoord thought they would have to do all the celebrating for the fifteenth anniversary, and then the following showed up to help: Florence Austin Villars, P. A. Bell, Jane Benedict Kilner, Leslie Casselman, Alden and Marie Miller Cole, John Doneth, Esther Gowan Reagan, Clifton Heller, Clarence Hoedeman, Ray Lamphear, Wilma Sackett Dressel, and Walter Thompson. . . .
