More Than 40,000 Persons Attend Week-Long Farmers' Week at MSC

By JOHN FITZGERALD, '47

Farmers and their families, seeking new information on agriculture and homemaking, journeyed to East Lansing Jan. 30-Feb. 3 for the annual Farmers' Week at MSC. Official estimates placed the attendance at more than 40,000, setting one of the crowd records of the 35-year history of the event.

The Spartan campus, turned into an agricultural exposition for the week, offered the visitors a variety of activities. Exhibits were set up in Demonstration Hall, Agricultural Engineering building, Olds Engineering building, and Home Economics building.

Touring visitors found such things as television in the electrical engineering building and a completely equipped saw-mill erected near the college's tennis courts.

Outstanding Speakers Appear

Included on the program were brush-up sessions on agricultural economics, silage making, turkey raising, and countless others. Farm women attended a dress review presented by home economics students.

Afternoons were devoted to general sessions in the college auditorium. Featured speakers were Allan Kline, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation; Marquis Childs, syndicated columnist; and Dr. Gerald Wendt, scientist and author.

Champion Steer on Hand

A special visitor to the livestock show was "Judge Roy Bean," judged grand champion steer of the International Livestock Exposition at Chicago last December. The animal was purchased for a record price of $13,800 by Dearborn Motors, Detroit tractor firm, and is now on a nation-wide tour of farm shows. From his comfortable quarters in the corner of the livestock judging pavilion, the "Judge" emerged long enough to lead the parade of livestock Friday night and was then rushed to Capital City airport where he boarded a chartered cargo plane to fly to Tampa, Florida, for the opening of the Florida State Fair on Saturday.

BEAUTY AND THE BEAST: Miss Florida of 1949, Shirley Ann Rhodes, poses with "Judge Roy Bean," national grand champion steer, at MSC's Farmers' Week. Miss Rhodes and Jeanne Flynn, "Miss Talahasee," journeyed to East Lansing to officially escort the steer by air flight to the Florida State Fair.

Home Ec Alumnae Plan May Reunion

Home economics alumnae, who learned the art of homemaking at Michigan State College, will gather for their second annual reunion on the campus this spring.

More than 300 home ec graduates from all over Michigan are expected to return for the Home Economics Alumnae Day, tentatively set for May 6.

More than 150 alumnae from the Lansing area attended the first get-together last spring. The success of last year's program and numerous demands for an expanded program each year prompted the School of Home Economics to go ahead with plans for making it an annual affair.

Tentative plans call for a coffee hour, sight-seeing tours of the campus, lunch at the Union building, and a short program depicting the activities of the School of Home Economics.

Worthington Resigns; Two Alumni Join Staff

Howard S. Worthington, '48, assistant director of alumni relations, resigned Feb. 15 to accept a position with the Aetna Insurance Co. in Northern Ohio.

Geer Named Housing Director

Other action by the State Board of Agriculture at its January meeting included the appointment of Richard O. Bernitt, '43, as campus fire inspector, and the elevation of Richard A. Geer, '47, to the post of housing director.

Worthington joined the college staff in 1948 as assistant director of personnel, and was transferred to the alumni relations office Jan. 1, 1949.

In his new position, Worthington will be attached to the rain and hail insurance division of the Aetna firm and will travel in Ohio and Southeastern Michigan.

Worthington

First Campus Fire Chief

Fire protection for the $50,000,000 physical plant at MSC moved ahead with the appointment of Bernitt, a Monroe, Mich., fireman, as campus fire inspector.

Bernitt will become the first campus fire inspector April 1. Previously, college buildings were inspected by the East Lansing fire department, but a full-time college inspector was deemed necessary in view of the tremendous expansion of campus facilities.

Geer, who has been assistant housing director since 1948, was a veteran of four years with the U. S. Infantry. He received a B.A. in business administration in 1947. Geer replaces Starr H. Keesler, who became assistant alumni director Jan. 16.

MSC's "Flying Prof" Leads Unique Air-Borne Classroom to Europe

By BILL BURKE, '50

The "air age of education" has arrived. Gone are the days when the only way students could study far-away places was in musty classrooms from dusty books and maps.

Today, the classroom has taken wings—the books have turned into real people and places—maps have become rivers, oceans, highways, and the panoramic view of a nation is from the window of an airplane.

Horn Pioneers Idea

The pioneer of "air age education" and the "Flying Classroom" is Prof. Carl M. Horn, director of continuing education at Michigan State College.

MSC's air-borne professor has conducted six "Flying Classroom" tours, covering the entire nation, during the past five years. With him have been more than 500 "students"—leading high school administrators whose experiences can most directly affect America's educational future.

Heads for Europe March 20

As the mid-year of the 20th Century dawned, Prof. Horn announced to the educational world that he was preparing to give the "Flying Classroom" its most important test flight.

On March 20, Horn will lead his classroom, with a roster of 68 top-ranking high school and college educators, on a study tour of Europe. It is the most ambitious venture of its type ever attempted by any educational institution.

Plans call for a six-week study of economic, political, social and educational conditions in Finland, England, France, Switzerland, Italy, Germany, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Belgium and Holland.

Every state in the nation will be represented on the trip, Horn said, with participants being selected by special state educational committees. Major obligation of participants will be to describe their experiences to key meetings of business, industrial, labor, agricultural, religious and lay groups.

Financed by Many Groups

The classroom will be financed by scholarships from business, industry and labor organizations and other individuals around the country on a state basis.

"With vision and initiative on the part of American educators and cooperation from the federal government, industrial, labor and other national leaders, the airplane will make the whole world a classroom and the 'air age of education' will be here," Horn said.

But other leaders of education differ with the MSC professor. The "air age of education," because of Horn's leadership, is already here, they say.

Record Alumni Crowd Is Expected June 2-4

Between 3,000 and 5,000 former students of Michigan State will gather for the biggest Alumni Day in the history of Michigan State College June 3, according to Tom H. King, director of alumni relations.

Will Graduate 4,000

As in previous years, Alumni Day will be part of a climactic week-end, culminating with the graduation of approximately 4,000 students—a new record—at the 92nd annual Commencement exercises in Jenison fieldhouse Sunday afternoon.

Festivities will get under way Friday afternoon, when alumni will begin registering in the main lobby of the MSC Union. Special luncheons and dinners will be held by more than a dozen classes, and special arrangements will be made for alumni whose classes are not having special meetings.

Clark Gets Kedzie Cane

The class of 1900 will enter the ranks of the Patriarches at a special Saturday banquet. The Kedzie Cane, given to the living member of the oldest class of MSC, will be officially awarded to Henry V. Clark, '78, Clearwater, Kan.

Museum Unveils New Beaver Habitat Group

Curator Joseph W. Stack unveiled still another bit of Michigan nature in the MSC museum display cases Jan. 29 when guests at a special public showing were introduced to a simulated "beaver habitat."

The display, eighth in a series of habitat groupings, put seven beavers in a natural setting, painted by Museum Technician John W. Pope. The exhibit included an adult male and female, four "kits," and a yearling, all trapped in Michigan in 1948.

An estimated 60,000 persons will visit the museum during the year, said Prof. Stack. About half of them will be school children from all parts of the state.

THE AFFAIRS OF STATE

ENROLLMENT

Enrollment is becoming a happily unpredictable factor in the phenomenal growth of Michigan State College.

Final winter figures reached 15,756, highest winter total in history, and something over the usually pin-point predictions of Registrar Robert S. Linton. This total compared with the 15,334 registered last winter.

The new record appeared despite a sharp drop in veteran enrollment, a major factor since ex-GI's began a march back to campuses in 1946. Veterans, who comprised 52 percent of the student body last winter, dropped to 40 percent.

Enrollment of new students for fall and winter quarters, however, forecast a drastic change in the "three-men-to-a-woman" ratio which has existed since the war. With women students constituting 40 per cent of the freshman class, coeds may find themselves having to "get along" next year with two or two-and-a-half men each.

Final fall enrollment figures, however, tell the story of the growth of Michigan State.

The end of World War II, 1945, was the last year for Michigan State as a small college. Fall enrollment was 5,329. The next fall brought an unprecedented 13,126, double the highest pre-war figure, to East Lansing. In 1946, fall registration reached 15,208, and some 16,010 were enrolled in the fall of 1948.

Total enrollment in the fall of 1949 was 16,243, and Michigan State became the eleventh largest university in the nation.

Future enrollment is just as unpredictable. With the graduation of veterans, other college enrollments are on the decrease. At Michigan State, however, each new term brings a statistical surprise.

Careful long-range planning for strengthened and expanded curricula in the hands of a strong faculty, in addition to vastly improved physical facilities, enable Registrar Linton, and many others, to eye the next few years with confidence.

Fables of Fantasy

The Spartan magazine, campus humor publication, cut a few new touches in the January issue as a swan song for Editor Mary Stewart, Detroit, who polished off 30 pages of campus humor, and prepared for graduation in March.

The magazine ran a gruesome gamut from "East Lansing's Own Skid Row," a fantasy inspired by a series in a Detroit newspaper, to "The Ten Worst Movies of 1949," a tongue-in-cheek review of films that were weighed and found wanton.

THE SPARTAN: It is later than you think!

Big drawing card of the January issue was "I Escaped From the U. of M.," a purportedly true account of an MSC student who was first lured to the "institution at Ann Arbor."

The cover was in lurid green and showed half the face of an unshaven, wasted derelict, which satirized for artist Will Peterson the fantasies of modern society.

Aid in Commencement

Seniors will have a hand in planning the 1950 Commencement for the first time in history.

Two students, Betsy Green, Mt. Clemens, and Paul Pettit, Bucyrus, O., were appointed to the college Commencement committee as non-voting members by Class President Edward Pino.

The faculty committee asked that Pino appoint representatives after a class referendum at fall registration disclosed seniors favored holding commencement in Macklin Field stadium and reestablishing baccalaureate services.

Administrative officials voiced the belief that students could contribute much in constructive advice in planning graduation week-end. In view of possible rain or other adverse weather conditions, the matter of holding Commencement outdoors was still a big question mark.

Student Affairs

Collegiate flagpole sitters and goldfish swallowers of another hectic era were a little aghast this winter at the ingenuity of their sons and daughters at Michigan State College.

Generally the goals were the same, but the procedures varied some.

Barbara Lampton, 18-year-old Detroit coed, was trying to forget "half a publicity stunt," in which she played the innocent victim.

Arthur Miller, a Chicago senior, paddled her before between-class throngs on the steps of Berkey Hall. Miller, who claimed to be her steady boy friend after one date, said "she'd been going around with another guy."

The stunt was a spectacular success for the nation's radio stations and newspapers.

Miller got his come uppance when it was reported that he had made arrangements to have a photographer and reporter on the scene. From that point on, the publicity stunt and his social prospects, fizzled.

Other student antics were less spectacular. Senior men, led by their class president, Edward Pino, blossomed out in green corduroy trousers to "distinguish ourselves from underclassmen."

Student Council members who voted themselves pin awards to be purchased from the Council kitty fund found themselves needled by John Ringle, Grand Rapids, president of the sophomore class. He organized a "Pins for the Council" campaign and rounded up hundreds of clothespins, hair pins, safety pins and old "Willkie buttons" in two days, after which he terminated his campaign.

One student, who dreaded going through the arduous fraternity hazing of pledges, would like to do it all over again.

Terry Olson, of Grand Rapids, was assigned by Phi Delta Theta actives to "capture" a 36-inch sports trophy from the Phi Gamma Delta House at Northwestern University.

Olson drove to Evanston, Ill., reported to the Phi Delta Theta house there and was ordered to kiss a certain coed he had never met. He carried out orders. "No trouble there at all," he reported.

Then he contacted the Phi Gamma Deltas. Their hospitality included a date with another coed—and a night's lodging. While trusting Phi Gammas slept, Olson headed back to East Lansing with their trophy.

THE AFFAIRS OF STATE

Quonsets Abandoned

Quonset Village, a community of steel huts which since 1946 has housed an overflow of male students from the college's dormitories, will be abandoned at the end of March.

Housing Director Richard A. Geer said that there is now sufficient dormitory space for all male students desiring on-campus housing.

Completion in March of Shaw Hall for Men, which will house 1,600, will bring to 4,500 the number of men that can be housed in modern dormitories.

Karl H. McDonel, secretary of the college, said the quonset huts would not be dismantled or removed. "We still have plenty of use for them," he added.

The 104 metal eight-man huts have housed more than 6,000 Spartans since they were erected four years ago.

Faculty Affairs

Distinction came to faculty members from many educational areas during the past few months. Some became officers in professional and national organizations and others published books in specialized fields.

Pres. John A. Hannah became chairman of a committee appointed by Gov. G. Mennen Williams to study the prospects for bringing the proposed United States Air Academy to Michigan.

Pres. Hannah and members of his committee conferred in late January with Pres. Harry S. Truman and other high officials of the Department of Defense in Washington on proposed sites for the academy in Michigan.

Dr. H. J. Stafseth, director of biological science and head of the Department of Bacteriology and Public Health, was named to the American Board of Veterinary Public Health. The board establishes standards for veterinarians in the U. S. Public Health Service. He was also named a special consultant to US PHS disease center in Atlanta, Ga.

Prof. Ralph F. Turner, of the police administration department, became a charter member and secretary-treasurer of the American Academy of Forensic Science in an organizational meeting at Chicago Jan. 26-28. Prof. Turner was also made an honorary member of the Cuban Society of Police Science and Criminalistics in recognition of his "distinguished efforts for improvement of scientific police service."

New books published included "The Challenge of Modern Art," by Allen Leepa, associate professor in the design division of the department of art; "Structure of American Industry," a textbook by Prof. Walter Adams, of the economics department, and "Public Finance and Fiscal Policies," a college textbook, by Economics Prof. R. W. Lindholm.

Society for the Study of Communication at Chicago. Clyde Dow, associate professor of Written and Spoken English, was named secretary of the latter organization.

Paul D. Bagwell, head of the Department of Written and Spoken English, was elected president of a curative workshop group affiliated with the Lansing YMCA. He also was elected president of the National

Inspects MSC Campus

Dr. Hachiro Yuasa, president-elect of the yet unfounded International Christian University in Japan, had a look at the Michigan State campus Jan. 31.

Ideas on curricula, buildings and facilities were main points of interest for the Japanese educator, who is planning to open the university in Mitaka, 14 miles east of Tokyo, in 1951.

Top MSC administrators and educators, including Dr. Albert T. Cordray, foreign student counselor, conferred with Dr. Yuasa on his campus tour.

Of particular interest to Dr. Yuasa was the Michigan State College physical plant and educational philosophy because of its rapid rise to prominent national stature in the past decade.

On The Cover . . .

Is Prof. Carl M. Horn, Michigan State's "Flying Prof." Horn, the nation's leading exponent of utilizing air travel for mass educational movements, now prepares for his most ambitious venture—a six-week "Flying Classroom" study tour of 11 European nations. Sixty-eight top flight college and high school educators, selected and financed on a state basis, will comprise the passenger list. (See story on page 3.)

Gifts and Grants

Research and study grants totaling $63,325.53 for extending the scope of educational programs at Michigan State were received in January.

Largest single gift was $10,000 from the Institute of Applied Hotel Economics, Detroit. The sum was the first payment of $90,000 pledged by the Institute for furnishings and equipment of the Kellogg Center for Continuing Education, now under construction on the campus.

Swift and Company of Chicago gave $6,200 for a study of the microscopic anatomy of the fowl in the Regional Poultry Research Laboratory of East Lansing.

The National Dairy Council of Chicago provided $5,000 to be used on a study of the food requirements of aging women. The work will be done under supervision of the Department of Foods and Nutrition.

Other research grants included $5,260 from the National Institute of Health of the U.S. Public Health Service and $4,500 from the American Potash Institute of Washington, D.C.

New Grants Awarded

Seven scholars began new research and writing projects into Midwestern culture under a $5,055 fund approved by a Michigan State College committee administering a $30,000 grant from the Rockefeller Foundation, New York.

Three of the recipients were Michigan State researchers.

The grants bring to $7,650 the total allocated for the study since inception of the long-term project in July, 1949, according to Dean Lloyd C. Emmons, chairman of the committee.

Selected in the second group were: Dr. R. H. Pierce, Ohio State University; Dr. Richard N. Current, Mills College, Oakland, Calif.; Dr. Albert H. Markwardt, University of Michigan; Dr. John F. McDermott, Washington University, St. Louis, Mo.; Jackson E. Towne, MSC librarian; and Clyde E. Hensen and Dr. Bernard J. Duffey, both of the MSC department of literature and fine arts.

Towne will compile a history of Midwestern university libraries under a $975 grant and Hensen received $500 for research on "Joseph Kirkland, Pioneer Realistic Novelist of the Middle Border." Dr. Duffey, currently tracing Midwestern literary activity from 1890 to 1920 will receive $300 to continue the study of poets, novelists and critics of the Chicago school from 1890 to 1920.

MSC Herbarium Serves as Valuable Research Laboratory in Many Fields

Blushing brides who press wedding corsages in the family dictionary have the makings of a herbarium.

This may come as quite a shock, but for more than 300 years men with more at stake than a fond memory of their wedding day have been pressing flowering plants for a more practical purpose.

Is Sixteenth Oldest

At Michigan State College, keepers of the nation's 16th oldest herbarium watch a steady parade of people who seek their aid in everything from weed control to crime detection.

"Our herbarium here is a sort of voucher to represent what grows in certain areas," said Prof. William B. Drews, head of the MSC botany department. "It's a research tool for work on vegetation," he said.

But that's only half the story.

Work in Crime Detection

In the past several years, technicians have dipped into mammoth files of mounted plants to identify samples of marijuana confiscated by police and vice squad officers.

Farmers throughout Michigan are the main "customers" of the college herbarium. "Weeds, of course, are their problem and we identify thousands of samples for them each year and recommend methods of killing them, or preventing their spread."

Thousands of Alumni See MSC Through New Movie

A new color movie, entitled "Invitation to Learning," is giving thousands of alumni their first view of the "new look in education" as exemplified at Michigan State College.

The movie has become standard equipment for college alumni personnel, along with football films, in their contacts with alumni clubs all over the nation. It is also being utilized in college cooperation programs with high schools, extension personnel, civic and other groups.

Produced by the Department of Public Relations at MSC, the 30-minute movie outlines the teaching, research and extension programs of the college, in addition to the physical plant and recreational facilities available.

The movie was directed by W. Lowell Treaster, public relations head, with script editing and narrations by Alvie L. Smith, college news editor. The movie was filmed by Don Doane, '47, of Doane Productions, East Lansing.

Michigan has some 2,500 types of plants, including trees, according to Prof. Charles L. Gilly, keeper of the herbarium. The herbarium has well over 100,000 types of plants from all parts of the world, and ranks 12th in the nation and sixth among other state colleges.

Started by Prentiss in 1865

The MSC herbarium was begun in 1865 by A. Prentiss, and many of the early mounted species were catalogued and contributed by George F. Comstock, of Lenawee county, brother of the late Dr. W. J. Beal, noted MSC botanist.

These early samples are used frequently to establish relationships between the first plants in Michigan and later ones.

The orchid, which grows wildly in Michigan swamps, is dying out mainly because of the march of science. Many of the swamps have been drained for sanitary and health reasons.

Too, orchids are picked more rapidly than usual—many, no doubt, are worn to weddings.

New Greenhouse Range Will Increase Research

Research in botany, entomology, horticulture, farm crops, and soil science is being speeded in the new greenhouse range located on MSC's south campus. Official dedication of the structure early in the year drew a crowd of 1,500 to East Lansing. Industry leaders and research scientists praised the building and predicted an expansion in needed plant research.

The 57,000 square foot greenhouse has many unique construction features, such as automatic temperature controls for each of the 14 separate houses, hydraulic ventilators governed by house temperature, and humidity controls. Conditions can be adjusted to resemble almost any kind of climate.

The greenhouses were constructed from funds appropriated by the Michigan Legislature at the request of the Michigan Agricultural Conference. Other assistance came from the Farmers' and Manufacturers' Beet Sugar association, Saginaw, and the Federal Bureau of Plant Industry.

MSC Men's Glee Club Embarks On State Concert Tour March 22

The popular Michigan State College Men's Glee Club will launch a ten-day concert tour of alumni clubs, high schools and civic groups throughout Michigan on March 22.

Starts in Detroit March 22

Dates have been set for ten Michigan cities and the Great Lakes Naval Training Station near Chicago.

John McGoff, Wilkensburg, Pa., senior, president of the Glee Club, said that although a concert excursion had been planned for Eastern alumni clubs, a number of factors forced cancellation of the tour.

Eastern Tour Next Spring

McGoff said that the 60-member club definitely plans to make the Eastern trip next spring, however. Alumni desiring to have the group appear before their club should contact John McGoff in Wells Hall, or Club Director David Machtel in the Music Building.

The advance schedule was as follows: Mar. 22, Detroit, at McKenzie and Redford high schools during the day and Detroit Alumni Club, evening; Mar. 23, Saginaw Arthur Hill high school, afternoon, and Gaylord civic auditorium, evening; Mar. 24, Sault Ste. Marie, public evening performance; Mar. 25, Ironwood; Mar. 26, Iron River; Mar. 27, Houghton; Mar. 28, Gladstone; Mar. 30, Great Lakes Naval Training Station; Mar. 31, Sturgis.

Bagwell Writes Foreword For "City in the Forest"

Prof. Paul G. Bagwell, head of the MSC Department of Written and Spoken English, will write the foreword of the new Lansing history, "City in the Forest," by Birt Darling, well-known Lansing newspaperman.

The book, scheduled for release by Stratford House, New York, in the next few months, has one section devoted exclusively to the growth and development of Michigan State College. The volume is another in the "American Heritage" series by Stratford House.

The Lansing Junior Chamber of Commerce has taken over sales promotion of the book as their number one project for 1950. Prof. Bagwell, now a national Jaycee director, served as president of the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce in 1948-1949.

Return Athletics to Faculty Control, Hannah Asks in Philadelphia Speech

By ALVIE L. SMITH

Football coaches and athletic directors quibbling in New York Jan. 10 on action to be taken against member schools accused of violating the so-called "sanity codes" of the NCAA might have turned an ear to remarks being made in Philadelphia by Michigan State's President John A. Hannah.

His remarks were in an address before the annual dinner meeting of the Maxwell Club, which saw the awarding of the famed Maxwell trophy to Notre Dame's great end, Leon Hart. The award is made annually to the best college football player of the year.

Avows Faith in College Athletics

Pres. Hannah, long respected as one of college football's big boosters, began by avowing his faith in college athletics as an integral part of American education. He did not call for drastic de-emphasis or elimination of collegiate athletics. But he did have some sharp words about current trends in the field of college sports.

Briefly, the MSC president called for the return of athletics to faculty control and for the adoption of simple enforceable regulations concerning recruiting and subsidizing athletes.

Pres. Hannah told the group, containing many of the nation's top athletic directors and coaches, that athletics should not be separate from the rest of the college philosophy—an independent or autonomous empire—nor should alumni groups be allowed to dictate athletic policy. He pointed out that MSC's athletic set-up is operated the same as any other department, and coaches have professorial rank and tenure.

Raps "Weasel-Worded" Codes

Pres. Hannah added that the "weasel-worded" collegiate athletic purity codes could be "thrown into the wastebasket" if all schools would adopt two simple eligibility rules. First, all athletic scholarships or other financial aids would be administered by the same faculty committee that handles scholarships for non-athletes. Second, eligibility to compete would be limited to full-time students who have completed in the past year work of quantity and quality to earn a college degree in four years.

Students First, Athletes Second

"No college will get into trouble with its athletic program if it remembers that its football players are students first and athletes second," he said. "Universities must be true to their traditions as centers for the preservation and discovery of knowledge. It is only when they desert those traditional roles for the pursuit of athletic glory that they damage themselves and the games they prostitute," he added.

"Colleges and universities must actually and continuously demonstrate that athletics are truly a part of the educational program, and not a carnival side-show to which the college or university lends its name for purposes of publicity and prestige," he said.

FOR ANIMAL HEALTH: Michigan State College officials have requested $2,265,000 for extensive improvement of veterinary medicine facilities on the campus. Above is an architect's sketch of the proposed building. Plans call for a structure connecting the Anatomy building, left, and the Veterinary Clinic, in addition to other modernization of the present structures. Following a highly critical report on MSC's facilities tendered by the American Veterinary Medicine Association in 1948, the Michigan Legislature appropriated $90,600 for preparing plans and specifications at last year's special session.

show to which the college or university lends its name for purposes of publicity and prestige," he said.

Editorial praise for Pres. Hannah's forthright speech came from leading newspapers all over the nation.

The Detroit Free Press said: "It will be best for the health of both the universities and their football if educators and alumni everywhere give heed." The Detroit News added: "If all college presidents were Hannahs, we seriously doubt that the carnival type of college athletics would constitute much of a problem."

Grantland Rice, dean of American sports writers, summed up the speech and its implications thusly: "I would like to see Dr. Hannah put in charge of the handling of all college football. There will, of course, be no seconds to this nomination. College football hasn't gotten that sane."

Veteran Track Team Aims for National Honors

By FRED STABLEY

Another fine track team for winter and spring competition appears in the making at Michigan State.

Its final record may not be as brilliant as that of the 1949 team, which won all dual meets except the one tied with Southern California and swept the IC4A and CCC indoor and outdoor team titles, but it probably will come very close to duplicating that performance.

Stand Out in Early Meets

The Spartan thin-clads starred in the first two indoor meets, the Michigan AAU meet at Ann Arbor and the Michigan State Relays, giving great promise of things to come.

Fred Johnson, the versatile Grandville, Mich., athlete, took right up where he left off last year as probably the best all-around track star in America.

Johnson

In the AAU meet, Johnson won three events, the low hurdles, the dash, and the broad jump. In the Relays, he won the broad jump, the low hurdles, and was barely nosed out in the dash final.

Lending him solid support again this season will be the fine array of distance runners boasted by Coach Karl Schlade-man. From a quarter of a mile to five miles, men like Jack Dianetti, Bill Mack, Don Makielski, Warren Druetzler, Dave Peppard and Clark Atcheson will cause trouble for any competition. Mack, Makielski, Druetzler and Peppard teamed in the two-mile relay at the MSC Relays to lop six seconds off meet and fieldhouse record held by MSC.

Many New Prospects

Horace Smith, IC4A indoor and outdoor high hurdles king, was not in physical shape for the first two meets because of a foot injury, but he is expected to be at peak again in a few weeks. Jesse Thomas will team with Smith in the highs and sophomore star Dick Henson with Johnson in the lows to give State another fine hurdles aggregation.

Running down the roster, here are some other promising performers: Pole vaulters Mayo Arndt and Mike Bowerman, both veterans; hurdler Joe Corbelli; hurdler and dash man Al Dorow, last fall's surprising sophomore football quarterback; Carl Miller, discus and John Mueller, shot put; Paul Shek, quarter mile run, and Joseph Wheeler, hurdles.

ONE-TWO PUNCH: The 1949 Spartan boxing team has power and experience, a hard combination to beat, in its two heaviest divisions, which will be capably handled by "Gabby" Marek and "Chuck" Spieser. Marek, left, heavyweight, is a two-year Spartan veteran, and Spieser, 175-pounder, was a member of the 1948 Olympic team.

Michigan State's 1950 Boxing Team Is Loaded With Power and Experience

The 1950 version of the Michigan State boxing team can be described in one word—"power."

Every weight division has at least one lad who can trade leather with the best in collegiate ranks. This may give Michigan State a better balanced team than in 1949, when the Spartans were second in the NCAA tournament held at East Lansing.

Even the loss of four-time NCAA champ Chuck Davey is not expected to have much effect on the squad. Coach George Makris has pulled a new ace out of his sleeve in the person of Chuck Spieser, the much heralded light heavy-weight from Detroit.

Spieser Was Olympic Boxer

Spieser, a member of the 1948 Olympic boxing team, got his first taste of collegiate competition in the Spartan's first dual meet of the season, a 5-3 victory over Penn State. As was expected, the husky sophomore pounded out an impressive win.

Rae Johnston, 155-pounder, another Detroiter, made his debut an auspicious one by scoring the only TKO of the meet. The hard-hitting Johnston caught his man in the third round, when the bout was stopped.

Six Veterans Return

Hank Amos, John Flynn, and John

Tierney, at 125, 130, and 135 pounds respectively, take care of the lower weights for the Spartans. All are cagey, experienced boxers with plenty of power.

The 145-pound division is in the hands of Pat Dougherty, 1949 NCAA runner up at 135 pounds. A clever boxer with a good punch, Dougherty is doing an excellent job filling Davey's spot.

Marek is Heavyweight

Jim Gemmell, another NCAA runner up, has charge of the 165-pound class for the Spartans. Gemmell developed rapidly toward the end of the season and should be a strong contender against all opponents this year.

Anchor man on the squad is Gabby Marek, the heavyweight. Marek is a fighter of the old school, a slugger with devastating power. He can end a bout with a single punch from either hand—and usually does just that.

Rapchak Breaks Basketball Record in Marquette Game

Bill Rapchak, Michigan State's all-time leading scorer, smashed his own single game scoring mark of 29 points, set against Virginia last year, with a 34-point spree in the Marquette game recently. Sam Fortino, ace scorer during the 1945-46 season, previously held the modern mark of 26 points.

Washington State Gets Evashevski Basketball in Brief And Flora; Sebo New Frosh Coach "Wait Until Next Year"

Forest Evashevski, backfield coach under "Biggie" Munn since 1947, has resigned his post at Michigan State to accept the head coaching position at Washington State College.

Evashevski, the former "One Man Gang" of Michigan football fame, is the second Spartan assistant to take over as head coach of a Pacific Coast Conference school. "Kip" Taylor left last spring to accept a similar position at Oregon State.

"Evy" Served Three Years

"Evy" has been chiefly responsible for the smooth-working Spartan backfield units during the past three seasons. During the 1948 campaign, Michigan State ranked fourth in the nation in total offense and also rated in the fourth spot in rushing offense.

Named in mid-February to replace Evashevski was Lowell P. "Red" Dawson, former head coach of Tulane University and the Buffalo Bills of the former All America professional football conference. Dawson quarter-backed three great Tulane teams, including in his senior year the 1931 team which played Southern California in the Rose Bowl.

Sebo Replaces Flora

Michigan State also lost the services of freshman coach Bob Flora, who will accompany Evashevski to Washington State as line coach. Flora has been a member of the Spartan staff for two seasons and has been a valuable aid in developing freshman talent into varsity competitors.

To replace Flora as freshman coach, Coach Munn has announced the signing of Steve Sebo, '37, former Spartan football ace, who has been backfield coach at Harvard University for the past year.

Sebo was a stellar performer on three Michigan State grid teams in 1934, 1935, and 1936, during which time the Spartans won 20 games, lost four and tied two. During the three year period the Spartans defeated arch-rival Michigan on each occasion.

A native of battle Creek, Mich., Sebo had high school coaching experience at Petoskey, and went to Alma college in 1946 as football, baseball, and basketball coach. His 1948 grid team was undefeated and won the MIAA championship.

Southern Tour Opens MSC Baseball Season

Just as sure a sign of approaching spring as the first robin is the sight of Michigan State baseball players heading to daily indoor workouts on the campus.

John H. Kobs, beginning his 26th year as head baseball coach, will have a tough job replacing star performers of the 1949 team—a team which compiled a record of 19 wins, 8 losses and one tie.

Ten Lettermen Return

Kobs has ten lettermen, plus several likely-looking sophomores, working out daily in the Stock Pavilion. Capt. Jack Kinney, Owosso senior, heads the list of veterans. Kinney batted a lusty .344 last season and led the team in home runs and runs batted-in with 35.

Other returning veterans include Joe Bechard, Detroit; Joe Barta, Detroit; Wendell Lawrence, Whitehouse, O.; Al Cummins, Brooksville, Ky.; and Ted Maupin, Monroe, all senior infielders; outfielder Vince Magi, Detroit junior, and catcher Ed Zbiciak, Flint senior. Wally Beggs, Birmingham junior, and Lou Block, Dearborn senior, are returning pitchers.

Promising Sophomores Emerge

Early sessions have focused attention on several promising sophomores who may hold the key to the team's success. Pitchers Tom Lawson, Detroit, and Bob Carlson, Jamestown, N. Y., have shown well, along with catcher Charley Joblonski, East Rochester, N. H.; Dick Blanchard, Detroit third baseman; Dan Hovanisian, Okemos outfielder; and Ray Lane, Detroit outfielder.

The tentative 1950 southern schedule is as follows: Mar. 22, Eastern Kentucky Teachers; Mar. 23, Tennessee; Mar. 24, 25, Clemson; Mar. 27, 28, South Carolina; Mar. 29, Wake Forest; Mar. 30, 31, North Carolina; Apr. 1, game pending.

While deep in the throes of the worst losing season in years, basketball coach Al Kircher can look at team scoring statistics and comment "wait until next year."

Four of the top five scorers on the Spartan quintet can look forward to at least one more year of competition and three will have two years of eligibility after the current campaign.

Carey Stars for Spartans

Jim Snodgrass, junior guard from Pierceton, Ind., has held the scoring lead since the season got under way with his closest competition coming from sophomore forward Dan Smith from Gary, Ind. However, since the season has passed the half-way mark, sophomore center Bob Carey has blossomed into an accomplished scorer and threatens to walk off with all the honors before the final gun sounds.

Carey

Carey, a 6'5" pass catching end on the Spartan grid team, was slow in rounding into shape for the cage sport, but once he shook off the effects of his football service he began to hit consistently for large scores. In his first nine games, Carey managed to dump in only 29 points for an unimpressive 3.2 average. The next seven contests, however, saw the husky blond sophomore net 125 points, for a lusty 18 average.

Guards Also Shine

Another bright spot for the future has been the play of sophomore guards Gordon Stauffer, Ft. Wayne, Ind., and Bob Nagel, Lansing, Mich. Stauffer ranks fifth in team scoring and Nagel has been a tremendous help defensively and as a rebounder.

The Spartans won only two of their first 18 games, but showed continued improvement in each performance against such stand-out teams as Notre Dame, Minnesota, Indiana, Purdue, and Wisconsin. Next year, the Spartans' first in Western Conference competition, should find the Green and White cagers well-fortified for the rigorous schedule with several seasoned veterans plus some capable replacements from the current freshman team.

FOLLOWING ALUMNI CLUBS

By Tom King

More than 5,000 Michigan State College alumni held parties, banquets and football busts in the state and nation during the past three months. Movies and prominent speakers were featured on programs, although election of new officers shared the spotlight at many rallies.

MICHIGAN CLUBS

Meet in Frankenmuth

Approximately 250 members of the Genesee County MSC Alumni Club played host to Flint high school footballers at the club's annual football bust, held Dec. 9 in the Zhender Hotel, Frankenmuth.

Thomas Mercy, '38, sports editor of the Flint Journal, was toastmaster at the affair, and MSC football mentors "Duffy" Daugherty, Earle Edwards and George Guerre made the principal speeches. Movies of the MSC-Notre Dame football tussle were also shown.

Other football busts were held in Muskegon, Dearborn and Grand Rapids.

Muskegon and Kent Busts

Coach Munn and Daugherty journeyed to Muskegon Jan. 20 with backfield star Everett Grandelius, a native of Muskegon Heights, to be principal speakers at the annual grid bust held by MSC alumni of the Muskegon area.

The banquet program honored star gridders and coaches of Greater Muskegon and Montague High Schools. Movies of the Spartans' western trip last fall, and the MSC-Arizona game were shown. The meeting, held in the Muskegon Masonic Temple, was under the chairmanship of Don Arnson, '47, and toastmaster was Fred Jacks, '17, former Spartan grid star.

The all-city high school football team of Grand Rapids was feted by 200 Kent county alumni who met in Grand Rapids in December for the club's annual football bust.

On hand for the meet were a galaxy of MSC gridders and coaches, and other prominent guests. Among them were Coach Munn, and Ed Bagdon, Don Mason, Lynn Chandnois and Kent Esbaugh, all members of the 1949 Spartan football team. Also present were William Davidson, '13, director of the MSC Fund, and Frederick H. Mueller, '14, of the State Board of Agriculture.

Two Clubs Elect

In a combination organizational-dinner meeting, 100 alumni of the Wayne-Dearborn Alumni Association feted MSC gridders from the Dearborn area.

Elected to the club's board of directors were Duane A. Barrett, '26; Farwell Brand, '24; Jean Chapman, '45; Sylvia Ciernick, '48; Clifton Ferguson, '35; Robert Johnson, '49; Dr. Leon Jones, '40; Earl C. Smith, '36; and Howard W. Neale, '48. Neale was toastmaster and chairman of the banquet.

Footballers Ed Bagdon and John Tobin were guests at the meeting, along with Dearborn Mayor Orville Hubbard.

Another December election took place in Monroe, where 40 members of the MSC Alumni Club of Monroe county named Glenn W. Quick, '17, president; Cairl Meier, vice-president; and Harold Knirk, '42, secretary-treasurer. Elected to the board of directors was L. Ray Servis, '13.

Alumnae Party

A benefit bridge party, sponsored by the Michigan State Alumnae Association of Grand Rapids, was held Jan. 26 in the Grand Rapids Woman's Club.

Co-chairmen of the party were Charlotte Runnels, '49; Yvonne Cilliers, '48; and Joan Meyer, '48. Approximately 60 alumnae and husbands attended the affair.

Dance in Battle Creek

Decorations depicting college days highlighted a semi-formal dance held by Calhoun County Alumni Club members Jan. 21.

A large-scale reproduction of MSC's familiar Beaumont Tower provided real atmosphere for some 250 persons who attended the dance in the American Legion clubhouse in Battle Creek. In the receiving line were Club President Glenn B. Moore, '46, and Mrs. Moore; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kenyon, '30; and Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Shotwell, '38.

CONVEY "GET-WELL" WISHES: Spartan Football Coaches "Biggie" Munn, center, and "Duffy" Daugherty express hopes for a speedy recovery to Judson King, '38, confined to a Munson Hospital bed since suffering a polio attack in December. Reason for King's broad grin could be his recent presents of a wheel chair, and MSC blanket and pillow made by Spartan alumni in the area.

New York and Connecticut Clubs Have Meetings

EASTERN CLUBS: Nearly 100 alumni gathered at meetings held by alumni clubs in Hartford, Conn., above, and Syracuse, N. Y., right. Dr. Arthur L. Knoblauch, '27, first row center, headed a slate of officers re-elected by 47 alumni meeting in the Bond Hotel, Hartford, Jan. 14. Forty alumni were present Jan. 13 at a meeting of the Syracuse Club, at which A. A. "Doc" Abbott, '28, first row, fourth from right, was elected president.

Farmington Meeting

Alumni in Northville, Plymouth and Farmington had a potluck dinner Jan. 19 in the Farmington high school gymnasium.

Principal speaker at the meeting was Lloyd C. Emmons, dean of MSC's School of Science and Arts. Movies of the MSC-Arizona football game were also shown at the meeting.

Magician in Traverse

Movies of Michigan State football games, prominent guest speakers, and a banquet "fit for a king" were features of an alumni gathering in Traverse City Jan. 25. Ed Hacker, Lansing magician and popular master of ceremonies, provided added entertainment.

The meeting, first of three get-togethers of the Grand Traverse Alumni Association, was held at Batsakis Inn. Spartan football mentors "Biggie" Munn and "Duffy" Daugherty were principal speakers. Chairman of the meeting was Erich Sleder, '36.

OUT-OF-STATE CLUBS

Large New York Rally

MSC President John A. Hannah and a delegation of college guests were present Jan. 11 at a meeting of 216 members of the Michigan State College Alumni Club of New York City. The meeting was held at the Biltmore Hotel.

Club President Earl Trangmar, '17, introduced Pres. Hannah, who outlined MSC's growth, present facilities and aims. Short speeches were made by MSC Dean Lloyd C. Emmons, and various Spartan coaches.

The new college movie, "Invitation to Learning," was also shown.

During a business session members of the club elected Robert Edgell, '44, president; Edward Elwood, '36, vice-president; and Mrs. Robert F. Gray, '23, secretary.

An executive committee of seven alumni was also named specifically to stimulate activities and interest of the New York group. Elected were Fred Hobbs, '17, Herman Doscher, '20, E. M. Young, '15, Matt Nuttela, '25, Paul Trath, '30, Dave Lucas, '48, and Margaret Terry, '46.

Syracuse Alums Meet

Elsewhere in New York 30 members of the Syracuse Chapter of MSC Alumni met at Drumline Country Club in Syracuse, Jan. 13.

At the meeting, retiring President C. H. Kelley, '35, introduced Tom King, MSC director of alumni relations, who reported on the up-to-date developments on the Spartan campus.

Elected new officers were A. A. Abbott, '28, president, and Paul Kindig, '35, vice-president.

Meeting in Wisconsin

Jacobus Park Lodge in Milwaukee was the meeting place for some 40 MSC alumni, who gathered Dec. 15 for their annual Christmas party.

Wallace P. Ernsberger, '42, was elected secretary-treasurer of the club, to fill the unexpired term of Catherine M. Jackson, '42. President of the club is Lewis Cook, '29. John Scales, '40, chairman of the prospective students committee, announced a campaign to place copies of the "Wolverine" yearbook and RECORD in high schools of the surrounding area.

Fisher Is Elected

Central Indianans—60 strong came from as far as Lafayette and Columbus, Ohio, to be on hand for the December meeting of the Indianapolis chapter of MSC Alumni.

Held in the Lincoln Hotel, the meet featured football movies and "Invitation to Learning," shown by George Guerre.

Newly elected officers of the club include Henry Fisher, '48, president; Robert Kershaw, '42, vice-president; W. C. Vissing, '46, secretary; and Donald Bremer, '27, treasurer.
