MICHIGAN STATE COLLEGE

World-Famed Scientist Named Physics Head

Dr. Egon A. Hiedemann, international authority in acoustics and ultrasonic research, has been named head of the Department of Physics and Astronomy at Michigan State College. Dr. Hiedemann replaced Dr. Thomas H. Osgood, new dean of the graduate school.

Has Done U. S. Military Research

German-born and educated, Dr. Hiedemann has been engaged in military research for the United States government since 1947. He served as consultant at the U. S. Army engineering research laboratory, Ft. Belvoir, Va., during 1947, and from September, 1947 to June, 1950, was employed as a full-time consultant in ultrasonic research at the U. S. naval ordnance laboratory at White Oak, Md. Dr. Hiedemann has taken his first papers for United States citizenship.

After receiving his Ph.D. degree from Goettingen University in 1921, Dr. Hiedemann taught physics at the universities of Cologne and Strassburg until 1941, when he went to the Technische Hochschule Karlsruhe, where he became dean of the science faculty in 1946. He also served as chairman of basic research in ultrasonics for the German Council of Research, 1943-1945.

Hiedemann

Osgood Praises Successor

Dr. Osgood, head of physics and astronomy at MSC since 1941, said:

"Physicist Dr. Hiedemann is an internationally recognized authority in the field of acoustics, a subject of great importance in fundamental science, already capable of numerous applications to many branches of industry and technology. Both in Europe and the U.S., he has held numerous positions requiring an unusual combination of scientific and administrative talents. Dr. Hiedemann will assume his new duties of teaching, administration and research in laboratories unsurpassed for this purpose on any campus in the U.S."

Fire Destroys MSC Quonset Cafeteria

Firemen, Students Stage Futile Hour-Long Battle

Fire, caused by lightning during an electrical storm, completely gutted the Quonset Village Cafeteria of Michigan State College on July 30.

Damage Estimated at $140,000

Two companies of firemen from East Lansing, a unit from Lansing and about 30 student volunteers battled the flames for more than an hour. Hundreds of students and faculty from the near-by married housing area turned out to watch firemen fight the fire.

Philip J. May, college comptroller, estimated the damage at more than $140,000, with kitchen and dining room equipment being valued at over $40,000. May said the building was 80 percent covered by insurance.

First Major Fire Since 1919

It was the first major fire on the Michigan State campus since the 1916-19 era, when the Engineering Building and Williams Hall burned down. The Engineering Building, built in 1907, cost $100,000 and Williams Hall was built for $31,500 in 1870.

The big "quonsette," set up in 1946 to feed the huge influx of G.I. students, had accommodations for 2,000 students. It was closed last spring when the college announced that it would no longer be necessary to use Quonset Village for temporary male housing. The cafeteria has been used extensively, however, for summer conferences and conventions.

The fire was reminiscent of the 1916

Monaghan, shows the blaze approximately 30 minutes after it started. and 1919 fires as students pitched in whole-heartedly to help firemen battle the blaze. Fire and police department leaders, as well as college officials, were strong in their praise of students.

The fire started at 7:15 p.m., when lightning struck the building. The flames were subdued around 8:30 p.m., although East Lansing firemen did not leave the smouldering cafeteria until after midnight.

Oct. 14 Homecoming Is Expected To Attract Over 10,000 Alumni

By JOHN C. LEONARD, '49

The Saturday of October 14 will see a fuller Michigan State College campus, as old grads from all parts of the nation return to East Lansing to take part in the college's traditional Homecoming festivities.

More than 10,000 alums are expected to be on hand for the celebration which will be climaxed this year by the Spartan-William and Mary football game. A capacity or near capacity crowd is expected for the game. Last year the Spartans beat their arch-rivals, Penn State 24-0.

Alumni Will Register Friday

Alumni registration will begin Friday, Oct. 13 at 2 p.m. in the MSC Union, and continue through the week-end. On Friday evening, alums and students will gather in front of the Union for the traditional Homecoming pep rally.

As a pre-Homecoming special, the Central Michigan Alumni Association will again hold its annual stag smoker at the Hotel Olds from 9 to 12 p.m., Oct. 13. The smoker will be open to all returning men graduates, according to Hugh E. Zweering, '46, president of the association.

The Association will also sponsor a "Cabaret Party" Saturday evening after the game at 8:30 in the Lansing Armory. Tickets will cost $2.50, and will be sold at the door. No advanced sale will be made, according to Charles Baryames, '42, party chairman. Prizes will be awarded to the oldest alumnus attending the affair, and to the alum who traveled the farthest distance to Homecoming.

Plan a Full Day's Activity

Pre-game activity on Saturday will include alumni visits to sorority and fraternity houses for a look at colorful Homecoming decorations; Saturday breakfasts and lunches to be sponsored by various departments and schools for returning alumni; and the traditional entry of the Homecoming Queen and her court just previous to kick-off time at Macklin Stadium.

Following the game, alumni will return to fraternity and sorority houses, dormitories, cooperatives and the Union to get in on a full evening of potlucks, dinners, banquets and dancing.

Two Dances Scheduled

Two all-college dances are scheduled for Homecoming evening—the annual Homecoming Ball, to be held in the college auditorium, and a record dance, sponsored by Union Board in the MSC Union Ballroom.

Highpoint of the Homecoming Ball, which begins at 9 p.m., will be the coronation of the Homecoming Queen.

Tickets for this dance may be ordered through the Alumni Office, according to Starr Keesler, director of alumni relations. Tickets may also be purchased at the Union Desk and door the evening of the dance. Price will be $2.50. Tickets for the football game are still available at $2.50, and may be ordered from the MSC Athletic Ticket Office in Jenison Fieldhouse.

Field for Chapel Name Is Narrowed to Three

Only three names appeared in the running, according to an early count of name suggestions for Michigan State College's proposed alumni memorial chapel.

In a tabulation of the first 100 votes, Alumni Memorial Chapel had 27 votes, Memorial Chapel 30, and World Peace Chapel, 11. A dozen other suggestions received scattered votes.

Voting was scheduled to end Sept. 1, and the final decision on the name will be made at an Alumni Advisory Council meeting Oct. 14.

Construction of the $170,000 chapel, honoring 500 Spartan alumni killed in all wars in which the U. S. has engaged, will begin in October. It is expected to be completed in early spring. Financed by contributions of Michigan State alumni all over the world, the chapel will be located on the North bank of the Red Cedar River, directly across from Shaw Hall.

Lyman and Giltner, Former Deans Of Veterinary Medicine, Succumb

Death came this summer to Michigan State College's first two deans of veterinary medicine.

Dr. Ward Giltner, 68, dean-emeritus of the School of Veterinary Medicine, died July 14 following a heart attack, and Dr. Richard P. Lyman, 79, founder of the vet school in 1909, died Aug. 25, after an extended illness.

Both Leaders in Field

Both men were recognized as top pioneer leaders in the field of veterinary medicine. Responsible for building of one of the foremost veterinary schools in the U. S., they directed the college's program for a total of 39 years, dating from the founding of the school by Dr. Lyman in 1909 until Dr. Giltner's retirement in 1948.

Dr. Lyman graduated from Massachusetts Agricultural College, received his D.V.M. degree from Harvard University and practiced in Hartford, Conn. He performed outstanding work for the U. S. Department of Animal Husbandry, organizing state and national programs for eradication of tuberculosis in cattle and cholera in hogs.

Secretary of the American Veterinary Medical Association for eight years, Dr. Lyman organized the veterinary medicine curriculum at MSC in 1909. He left the college in 1923 to become manager of E. A. Pierce and Co., Lansing, a position he held until his retirement in 1937. Dr. Lyman was active in civic affairs of Lansing until his death.

Giltner Succeeded Lyman

Dean Giltner succeeded Dr. Lyman in 1923 and served as dean until 1948, when he retired after 40 years of service at Michigan State, being succeeded by the present dean, Dr. Claude S. Bryan.

Dr. Giltner received his D.V.M. degree from Cornell University, his M.S. from Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn, and his doctor of public health degree from the University of Michigan. He was also active in civic affairs, serving for 20 years as a director of the East Lansing State Bank and the East Lansing Building and Loan Association, and six years on the East Lansing Board of Education.

Home Ec Invitation

Spartan alumnae have a special invitation for a get-together after the Homecoming game Oct. 14. Dr. Irma H. Gross has invited "alumnae friends to drop into the Ethel Webb Home Management House, (Unit I of the Home Management Building) to see the new residences and visit with old friends."

THE AFFAIRS OF STATE

THE PAST YEAR

A grand total of 20,499 persons was enrolled in campus classes and extension courses offered by Michigan State College during the 1949-50 year, according to the annual report of Robert S. Linton, registrar.

Included in this total are 17,627 regular students, 783 additional persons who took short courses, and 548 enrolled in the college's extension courses throughout the state. This exceeds, by nearly 500, last year's cumulative total of 20,005, Linton said.

High point in enrollment was reached in the fall quarter, when a total of 16,243 students registered. This was enough to give Michigan State rating as 11th largest among the nation's colleges and universities in full-time enrollment.

Represented in regular campus enrollment were 15,304 students (87 percent) from every Michigan county but Keweenaw; 3,378 from 47 other states and five possessions; and 349 students from 49 foreign countries.

Total degrees awarded by Michigan State came to 4,074, more than 900 over the 1948-49 total of 3,158.

A New Year

Michigan State College will open for its 96th year Sept. 18, when approximately 15,000 are expected to register for fall classes.

New and returning students will find better housing facilities, new courses, a full social calendar and other extracurricular activities to get them into the swing of things on the Spartan campus.

Registration will be held Sept. 18-22, and classes will begin Sept. 25, according to Robert S. Linton, registrar.

Most notable change in the campus population will be the anticipated sharp decline in veteran enrollment from the 44 percent average recorded in the 1949-50 year. Men will still out-number co-eds by a three-to-one ratio, Linton said. New students and transfers from other colleges are expected to make up about 26 percent of the fall term enrollment.

For the first time since the war, there will be no critical shortage of housing, either for single or married students. With the completion of Shaw Hall, largest and most modern college dormitory in the U. S., approximately 8,000 students will be housed on campus. Shaw Hall houses nearly 1,550 men students.

MSC will inaugurate a new four-year course for the training of professional nurses, in addition to a few television courses, in the fall term.

SHAW HALL FOR MEN: Michigan State's imposing men's dormitory, reputedly the largest college dormitory in the nation, will be put into full use for the first time this fall. Located on the south bank of the Red Cedar River across from the Auditorium, the building houses approximately 1,550 male students. The structure, built on a self-liquidating basis at no expense to the public, was completed in early summer.

The nursing curriculum will be a round-the-calendar combination of classroom work and clinical experience at central Michigan hospitals. Following extensive purchases of the latest television equipment this summer, several courses relating to electrical engineering, radio and dramatics will be offered in the field.

Three newly-created divisions, representing expansion and revision of existing curricula, will be in operation for the first time Sept. 25. The new units are the Division of Conservation, Division of Business, and the Division of Hotel, Restaurant, and General Institution Management. College officials believe that the new divisions rank Michigan State with the best in the nation in respect to course offerings in these fields.

On the Cultural Side

Some of the nation's foremost concert artists, opera stars, symphony orchestras and lecturers have been programmed for Michigan State College's forthcoming fall, winter and spring Lecture-Concert Series.

A total of 46 programs has been scheduled thus far, according to Dean Stanley E. Crowe, series director, and a few more probably will be added before the entertainment calendar opens Sept. 30.

Top attractions on the regular series will include: the Chicago Symphony, Oct. 6; Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, Oct. 10 and 11; the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, Feb. 2; the Robert Shaw Chorale, Feb. 27; and the New York City Opera Company.

Special numbers for the season (those programs not covered by the series ticket) will include: Burl Ives, ballad singer, Nov. 7; Hildegard, Nov. 20; and pianist Oscar Levant. Dates for both the Levant concert and performances of the New York City Opera Company have not yet been decided, Dean Crowe said.

Four of the Metropolitan Opera Company's best known stars will present recitals during the year. They are James Melton, tenor, Oct. 19; Ferruccio Tagliavini, tenor, Oct. 31; and two sopranos, Ljuba Welitch, Feb. 26; and Kirsten Flagstad, April 3.

Vladimir Horowitz, Robert Casadesu and Artur Schnabel, three of the world's top piano recitalists, will present concerts Jan. 24, March 2 and March 7, respectively.

Series lecturers will include: Edward R. Murrow, news analyst, Oct. 17; Hodding Carter, editor, Nov. 1; Senators Paul Douglas and Wayne Morse, Nov. 9 and 28; Edward Everett Horton, Dec. 6; Quentin Reynolds, Jan. 16; Elsa Maxwell, Feb. 15; and novelist Nora Waln, April 17.

To date 23 prominent travel lecturers have been scheduled for MSC's World Adventure series, and before the regular college year has ended, MSC students will have seen approximately 30 of the best foreign films released in the United States as another part of the total campus entertainment program.

THE AFFAIRS OF STATE

Faculty Affairs

L. Dale Faunce resigned in September as counselor for men to become dean of students at the State University of Iowa, Iowa City.

Faunce, a native of Harbor Springs, joined the Michigan State staff in 1946 as field consultant in adult education. He became counselor for men when Tom King was named alumni director in April, 1948.

After receiving his B. S. from Western Michigan College and M. A. degree from the University of Michigan, Faunce was football coach at Sturgis and East Lansing high schools from 1935 to 1946. In addition to his many campus duties, he was a prominent civic leader in East Lansing, having served as a member of the East Lansing City Council for the past two years.

Faunce is scheduled to take over his new post Sept. 15. College officials have named no successor.

Two MSC professors received awards of recognition in their respective fields during August, and another's book was published.

Dr. Alfred Novak, assistant professor of biology, was awarded a special research fellowship of $4,500 for cancer study at the Kerckhoff Laboratories of Biology at the California Institute of Technology, Pasadena.

The fellowship, awarded by the National Cancer Institute of the U. S. Public Health Service, provides for a year's research, starting Sept. 1, under Dr. G. W. Beadle, international authority on heredity and growth factors of the human body.

Dr. Novak, who received his Ph.D. degree at MSC this spring, already has a major scientific discovery to his credit, being the first to develop a technique for preventing mump sterility in the human male.

J. Kenneth Richards, production manager of WKAR, received an award for excellence in performance and scholarship while attending the National Broadcasting System's summer institute for radio personnel in Chicago. He was named the outstanding member of the Music for Television and Radio section at the institute, and was presented a plaque by NBC music director Donald Marcotte.

Faunce

James M. Apple, associate professor of industrial engineering, has published a book entitled, "Plant Layout and Materials Handling." It is designed for use as a textbook for both colleges of engineering and schools of business administration.

Research Projects

Gifts and grants totaling $50,758 were accepted for Michigan State College by the State Board of Agriculture at its July meeting on the campus.

Largest single grant was $28,328 from the U. S. Department of State, to be used for continuing the German police officer training program at the college. The four-month project, under supervision of the Department of Police Administration, is designed to train the dozen German officials in American law enforcement and judiciary systems.

The National Cancer Institute gave $9,400, to be used by Dr. Walter N. Mack of the Department of Bacteriology and Public Health, for serological studies of fowl tumors.

A grant of $5,000 was received from the Caulkins Foundation of Detroit, for a continuation of scholarship aid to worthy students in the School of Agriculture, particularly in short courses.

An 80-volume collection of historical documents was accepted from Perry G. Holden, '89, one of the nation's best-known corn authorities. The works, considered of great value to agricultural history, have been placed in the MSC Library and will be known as the "Perry Greely Holden Collection."

A grant of $1,000 was received from the Michigan Department of Public Instruction, to be used under the direction of Dr. C. P. Loomis in the Social Research Service for studies of the Grand Traverse area community school service program.

On The Cover . . .

Are the Michigan State Spartans in action. MSC opens Western Conference competition this fall, and during the year will be giving member teams a tough fight for all titles except football. The Spartans will have their first crack at the Big Ten gridiron crown in 1953. First official Western Conference action will come Nov. 17 when MSC will take part in the Big Ten cross country meet in Chicago.

The MSC Press

Rapid expansion of the Michigan State College Press will be highpointed this fall with the publication of eight new books, most of which were written by Michigan State faculty members.

Publications by MSC professors will include "Homogenized Milk: A Review and Guide," by Dr. G. Malcolm Trout, Department of Dairy; "The Characterization of Pilate in the Towneley Plays," by Dr. Arnold Williams, Department of English; "The Teaching of Science in Elementary and Secondary Schools," by Dr. Victor H. Noll, Division of Education; "Studies in Applied and Theoretical Social Science," by Dr. Charles P. Loomis, head of the Department of Sociology and Anthropology; "Planning the Countryside," by Charles W. Barr of the Department of Landscape Architecture; and "An Introduction to Literature and the Fine Arts," a collaborative study of literature, music, architecture, sculpture and painting of the Western tradition by members of the Department of Literature and Fine Arts.

Other books will be "The Struggle for Sovereignty in England," by Dr. George L. Mosse, associate professor of history at the University of Iowa; and "Jacobus Vaet and his Motets," by Milton Stinhardt, associate professor of musicology at Ohio State University.

This fall book list brings to 80 the total number of publications by the Press since it was created in July, 1947. These publications range all the way from textbooks and syllabi, to laboratory manuals to course outlines; from the titles of "Aquatic Insects" and "China's Cultural Development," to "Clod and Tap Dancing Manual" and "Comparative Social History."

The Press was created to relieve the College Book Store of the responsibility for publishing books, syllabi, course outlines and other material for sale or distribution to students. A non-profit organization, it is administered by an 11-man committee headed by Chairman and Director James H. Denison.

First located in the Administration Building, it was moved this summer to larger offices in Berkey Hall, and in April William Rutter was named first managing editor of the Press.

Dean Ralph C. Huston, of the School of Graduate Studies, presented his monograph, "A Correlation of Some Physical Properties of Alkanes and Alkenes" to the Press. This gift was the first non-text to carry the name of the Press.

New Home Demonstration Leader Named by MSC

Michigan's home demonstration program, with its membership of more than 40,000 homemakers, has a new home demonstration leader.

At MSC Since 1934

Mrs. Leona MacLeod, '23, was appointed to the MSC Cooperative Extension Service post by the State Board of Agriculture at its July meeting.

MacLeod

Mrs. MacLeod transferred from the Department of Textiles, Clothing and Related Arts to fill the vacancy created by the previous resignation of Rachel Markwell.

Since her first appointment at MSC in 1934, Mrs. MacLeod has worked with the home demonstration program for 11 years. She was Oakland County Home demonstration agent for four years and extension clothing specialist for seven years.

Previous to her MSC career, she had taught in the Monroe high school for two years, and had been assistant personnel manager at the J. L. Hudson Company of Detroit.

Mrs. MacLeod holds a B. S. degree from MSC, and a master's degree from Simmons College, Boston. She is also member of numerous professional and honorary organizations.

Continuing Education Service Reaches 106,000 in 1949-50

More than 106,000 Michigan citizens received assistance through the resources of the Continuing Education Service at Michigan State College during the 1949-50 year.

The Department of Special Courses and Conferences offered 44 special courses, held 191 conferences, meetings and institutes, in addition to other activities, reaching a total of 49,977 persons.

More than 88,000 persons, including 62,000 in Michigan, received services from the Department of Adult Education.

Another 5,670 persons, particularly those in the fields of industrial management, vocational training, insurance, retailing and public school work, received assistance through the Department of Business and Industry.

MSC Horticulture Lecture Series Will Honor Harry J. Eustace, '01

"Susie" Bares Stomach For Scientific Research

Susie is a goat who has bared her soul—rather, her stomach—to the world in the interest of science.

For Susie has a window in stomach No. 1 (she has plenty, three others) and Mrs. Clara Dodge Refson, graduate student in chemistry at Michigan State College, is on the outside looking in.

Seek Vitamin Source

Mrs. Refson is studying whether vitamin B-12 is synthesized in the stomach of goats. The vitamin, used with some success in treating pernicious anemia in humans, is being studied for further possible uses.

Samples of digested food are taken out the window and tested for the presence of vitamin B-12 by Mrs. Refson.

The tests will determine if goats may become a valuable source of supply of the recently-discovered vitamin to be used in various types of research, Mrs. Refson said.

"Susie doesn't suffer any pain from the window," said one veterinarian. "She just doesn't have the privacy other goats have."

New Ag Board Member

FRESHMAN MEMBER: Newest member of the State Board of Agriculture is Connor D. Smith, '30, who was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Ellsworth B. More, '16, who died April 28. A prominent civic leader and practicing veterinarian from Standish, Mich., Dr. Smith will serve under his current appointment until Jan. 1, 1954.

Stimulation of active student interest in the marketing and handling of fruits and vegetables is the purpose of a new lecture series sponsored by the MSC Department of Horticulture.

The series will be called the "Harry J. Eustace Lecture Series," and will be held in the fall of each year.

National Experts to Speak

Successful operators in the field will be the guest lecturers on the series, according to Dr. H. B. Tukey, head of the horticulture department.

The series is named for Dr. Eustace, '01, who was once head of the MSC horticulture department, and later vice-president of Farm Market Relations, Inc., San Francisco, before his recent retirement.

Eustace

Begun on a temporary basis two years ago, the series has become so successful that "admirers and well-wishers" of Dr. Eustace have contributed over $400 to establish it on a permanent basis.

"By training more men in this field and allowing the public to attend the series, it is believed that Michigan fruit growers will be aided substantially in their marketing problems," according to Dr. Tukey.

A committee of three horticultural alumni worked out the series plan: Norton W. Mogge, '14, president of Mogge-Privett, Inc., who acted as chairman; Paul Armstrong, '15, of the California Fruit Exchange; and Irving Woodin, '13, general manager of the California Fruit Exchange.

MSC Students Approve Television of Sports

Although telecasting of football games was recently banned by the Western Conference, more than 70 percent of the students at Michigan State believe that college sports should be televised.

In a listening survey conducted this summer by the MSC Department of Speech, Dramatics and Radio Education, 73 percent of the 977 students interviewed favored carrying sports on video. Seventy-seven percent of the students, however, said they would not stay away from a game to watch it on television.

R. E. Olds, Auto Pioneer, Friend Of Michigan State, Dies Aug. 26

Ransom E. Olds, 86, last of the automobile pioneers and longtime friend and benefactor of Michigan State College, died in Lansing, Aug. 26, following a short illness.

Mr. Olds, father of mass production and the first builder of motor cars, died four weeks after being stricken at his summer home in Charlevoix.

Close Association with MSC

The auto pioneer had been closely associated with Michigan State College during most of his distinguished career.

When MSC celebrated its 50th birthday in 1907, Mr. Olds was given the honor of transporting President "Teddy" Roosevelt in an Oldsmobile "Runabout" to the campus for his keynote speech.

The morning after Michigan State's old Engineering Building had burned down in 1916, Mr. Olds gave $100,000 with which to replace the structure.

Mr. Olds was given an honorary degree of doctor of engineering by Michigan State College in 1939, and has been an honorary member of the Patriarchs Club for many years.

Hannah Pays Tribute

Pres. John A. Hannah expressed the sentiments of the campus when he said:

"In the death of R. E. Olds, Michigan State College loses a benefactor and a good friend. Olds Hall of Engineering stands as permanent testimonial to his generosity, but Mr. Olds will long be remembered for the personal participation in events here on the campus as well.

"Only a few months ago, he participated in ceremonies at which one of his gifts, an early model curved-dash Oldsmobile, was placed in the MSC Museum.

"To have known and associated with him has been a rare privilege for me personally, and I am sure that he will be greatly missed here on the campus for which he had so much affection."

Degrees Awarded 900

At End of Summer Term

A record total of 900 degrees was awarded Michigan State College summer school graduates at the end of classes Sept. 2, according to Registrar Robert S. Linton.

This was a 58 percent increase over the previous high of 574 who completed work for degrees last summer.

Included in the total were 216 advanced students and 684 who received bachelor's degrees, Linton said. Michigan graduates constituted 79 percent with a 712 total.

Kenneth M. Dunn, '42 Dies in Auto Accident

Kenneth M. Dunn, '42, assistant professor of dairy nutrition at Michigan State College, died July 30 of injuries sustained in an automobile accident near Millett.

Dr. Dunn was returning from the annual Farm House picnic. He was president of the Michigan Farm House Fraternity Alumni Association.

Following graduation, he served as a fighter pilot from 1942-46 with the U. S. Air Forces, and saw combat duty in the Pacific theater. After the war he returned to MSC, where he received his master's degree in 1947, and had just completed course work for his doctorate.

Dunn, although still a young man, was considered a national authority in the field of nutritive value of corn silage.

He was a member of the American Society of Animal Production and the American Dairy Science Association. He was born and reared on a farm near Hastings. Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dunn; his wife, Thelma Loudonbeck Dunn, '43; children, Ann Marie, 3, and Marvin Otis, 1; two sisters and a brother.

Three Generations of MacKinnons Return to Campus for Alumni Day

Returning to Michigan State College for Alumni Day were three members of a 100-percent Spartan family. They are from the MacKinnon family tree and represent three generations of Michigan State graduates.

First of the Spartans was A. C. MacKinnon, who hasn't missed an Alumni Day or reunion of his Class of '95 for many years. An engineering student at MSC, he was a Spartan baseballer par excellence and later played semi-pro ball. After graduation, he served as vice-president and president of the MSC Alumni Association. A member of the Michigan Legislature from 1923 to 1948, MacKinnon served on the MSC committee of the House of Representatives, and the bill which changed MAC to MSC bears his name.

MacKinnon has four children, all who followed in their father's footsteps for their college educations. His eldest daughter, Jessie, wife of Hugo Swanson, '23, was a member of the Class of '25. An Alpha Phi, she was vice-president of the sophomore class, a member of the Student Council and the Sphinx.

Representing the third generation in this MSC family is Arthur N. Swanson, who received his forestry degree at Michigan State in June, 1950.

MSC Opens 1950 Football Season With Sept. 23 Oregon State Tilt

By FRED STABLEY

Probably the busiest football camp in all the land is the one on the Michigan State campus, presided over by Clarence "Biggie" Munn and his assistants.

There is a double-barreled reason for this unusually fast tempo: The greenest squad in years, and a week's less time than usual for pre-season drills.

Fourteen Lettermen Return

With 24 veteran players—including Lynn Chandnois, Ed Bagdon, Don Mason, Gene Glick, Frank Waters, Pete Fusi and Red Gilman—gone through graduation, the emphasis necessarily has been on developing new talent.

Only 14 lettermen were among the 66 invited back for fall practice. Nearly half the group, 30, were untried sophomores. But four first stringers from the fine 1949 team answered the call. The latter were tackle Don Coleman, from Flint; end Hank Minarik, also from Flint; Sonny Grandelius, from Muskegon Heights, and Bob Carey, Charlevoix.

The tremendous job of building a team from this quartet, 11 other lettermen and a raft of untried sophomores has been further complicated by the necessity of executing the task in two and one half weeks rather than the usual three and one half weeks. This is due to the early Sept. 23 opening date against Oregon State, whereas all the rest of the Western Conference teams don't open until Sept. 30. Oregon State, meantime, started its practice Sept. 4 and will meet MSC with a week's practice bulge.

Coach Munn has not been caught entirely unprepared and the intensive fall work now underway was made possible in part through advance personnel decisions made during spring training.

Among these decisions were those to transfer Grandelius from left halfback to fullback; to move Bill Carey from end to quarterback; and to remake quarterback Al Dorow into a left halfback.

Two Sophs Make First Team

Barring injuries or reversals of form in practice, here is the offensive lineup likely to take the field against Oregon State: Ends, Minarik and Bob Carey; tackles, Coleman and Bill Horrell; guards, John Yocca and John Tobin; center, Dick Tamburo; right halfback, Vince Pisano, and Grandelius, Carey and Dorow.

The schedule is a tough one. It includes home games against Oregon State, Sept. 23; Maryland, Oct. 7; William and Mary, Oct. 14; Marquette, Oct. 21; Indiana, Nov. 4; Minnesota, Nov. 11;

DIRECTS SPARTANS: Bill Carey, smaller and so far less prominent of the Carey twins from Charlevoix, Mich., is expected to come into his own this fall. Carey, who played end like brother Bob last year, was shifted to quarterback in spring training and is expected to become the first string operative this fall.

and games away from home with Michigan, Sept. 30; Notre Dame, Oct. 28; and Pittsburgh, Nov. 18.

Season's prospects? Everything depends on how the talented sophomores rise to the occasion. It is known what the veterans can do, but there aren't enough of them. Newcomers like Tamburo, Pisano, guards Frank Kush and Dick Kuh, tackles William Hughes and Edward Manne, and backs Raymond Vogt, James Ellis, Willie Thrower, Don McAuliffe and Dick Panin will have to produce to give the Spartans a chance for a good season.

Homecoming Oct. 14

Heading the list of events for the old grads who return to the campus for the annual Homecoming Day Oct. 14 will be the Michigan State - William and Mary football game.

Graced with 18 lettermen and led by their ace pass-catching end, Vito Ragazzo, the aerial-minded Indians show every indication of staging an excellent show.

In the first meeting of the two schools last year, the Spartans scored heavily in the first and final quarters to win 42-13.

Cross Country Opens Big Ten Competition

Michigan State will inaugurate Western Conference athletic competition this fall in cross country, and in their very first effort the Spartans are given a fair chance of taking a championship.

Druetzler Heads Team

The Spartans will be led by Capt. Warren Druetzler, one of the country's great distance stars, and will have a strong second man in Don Makielski, another veteran performer. Both were members of the two-mile relay team which set a world's record last spring and of the cross country team last fall which captured the NCAA championship.

Other strong runners should be Francis Carey,

Druetzler

Ekin Graber and Maurice Maloney, juniors who saw some service in track and cross country as sophomores, and a quartet of promising sophomores, Walter Schoenegge, Wayne Scutt, John Walter and Jerry Zerbe.

The pity of it is that last year's team, and the one from the year before, would have made a shambles of the Big Ten hill and dale run. But with Jack Dianetti, Bill Mack and Dave Peppard gone through graduation, the Spartans rate no better than a "fair" chance of coming through this fall.

The cross country schedule is as follows: Oct. 28, Penn State, away; Nov. 17, Big Ten meet at Chicago; Nov. 20, IC4A championships at New York; Nov. 27, NCAA championships at East Lansing.

Two Spartan Athletes Represent U. S. Abroad

Two of Michigan State's top athletes, track star Warren Druetzler and swimmer Clarke Scholes, were abroad representing the United States in international competition last month.

Druetzler, a long-striding distance ace from LaGrange, Ill., was with a NAAU American track squad that competed against the best runners in England, Ireland, and the Scandinavian countries.

Scholes, a Detroit product, was in Japan with a NAAU team of the United States' best swimmers. A 19-year-old sophomore, he holds NCAA and NAAU titles in the 100-yard freestyle. While in Japan, he swam the sprints in dual meets and exhibitions in Tokyo, Osaka, and six other Japanese cities.

Coach "Pete" Newell Faces Tough First Year in Big Ten Basketball

It will be a real "baptism by fire" for Pete Newell, the slender, likeable new Michigan State basketball coach, in his first season at the Spartan helm.

He will take a squad of players which last season won but four of 22 games, add a few promising sophomores and attempt the brutal schedule that goes with the Spartans' first participation in a Western Conference cage race.

Schedule Includes 21 Games

On the agenda are 21 games, including 14 Western Conference tests. Northwestern, Wisconsin, Iowa, Michigan and Minnesota will be met twice each, while single games will be played with Indiana, Ohio State, Purdue and Illinois. The non-conference games will be as follows: Two with Notre Dame, singles with Wayne, Detroit, Marquette, Princeton and Penn State. The latter two will be played in the Second annual Spartan Basketball Classic during the Christmas holidays.

If hard work on the part of coaches makes for a winning team, this winter's club should do all right. All summer long, the most industrious workers in Jenison Fieldhouse were Newell and his assistant, John Benington.

Busy Summer for Coaches

They spent an average of eight to ten hours a day on the job, interviewing prospective athletes, studying game movies from last year to get acquainted with their own and opponents' personnel, and analyzing past team and individual records.

Snodgrass

Only two important members of last year's squad will be missing through graduation. They are forward Bill Rapchak and Capt. Robert Robbins, guard. That means lettermen like Bob Carey and John Moore, center; Danny Smith and Billy Bower, forwards, and captain-elect Jim Snodgrass and Bob Nagel, guards, will be available again.

Sophomore candidates who should help include guard Tom McAuliffe, brother of football-playing Don, forwards Lee Bouchet and Eric Furseth, and center Bob Wright.

The biggest handicap Newell and Benington will have to overcome will be the lack of height. Only one player, John Moore, goes better than 6-6. He is 6-7, not too tall as big time centers go.

The complete schedule:

At home—Dec. 5, Detroit; Dec. 19, Marquette; Dec. 29, Spartan Basketball Classic, with Ohio State meeting Princeton and Michigan State opposing Penn State; Dec. 30, Spartan Basketball Classic, with Ohio State meeting Penn State, and Michigan State playing Princeton. Jan. 8, Wisconsin; Jan. 13, Indiana; Jan. 25, Notre Dame; Feb. 5, Minnesota; Feb. 12, Northwestern; Feb. 17, Michigan; March 3, Iowa; March 5, Illinois.

Away—Dec. 2, Wayne; Jan. 6, Northwestern; Jan. 15, Iowa; Jan. 20, Michigan; Jan. 27, Ohio State; Jan. 29, Purdue; Feb. 19, Notre Dame; Feb. 24, Wisconsin; Feb. 26, Minnesota.

MSC's Weinacker Is Nation's Top Walker

One of the great unsung athletes in America today is a Michigan State college senior.

His name is Adolph Weinacker, a Detroiter, king of all he surveys in the fine competitive but poor spectator sport of walking.

This summer he hit his peak in winning the senior National A. A. U. championship over the 30-kilometer (18½ miles) route at Philadelphia. He defeated his nearest rival by more than four minutes in the time of 2 hours, 48 minutes.

Made 1948 Olympic Team

Weinacker does most of his training right on the Spartan campus, using the varsity track near the stadium and the fieldhouse course for most of his work.

In 1948 he surprised everyone by making the U. S. Olympic team and finished first among all American entries at London. He was then 18. Since then he's moved along fast, winning championship after championship until today he is top man in the American field.

Weinacker also is a crack veterinary medicine student, boasting an all college average of better than B.

Winning Record

"Biggie" Munn has a life-time winning percentage as assistant and head football coach of .758, built from 113 wins, 33 losses and 11 ties. To maintain that pace this fall he'll have to guide his Spartans to seven victories in nine games, a mighty feat against the likes of MSC's 1950 foes.

Spartan Athletes Take Professional Positions

Eight athletes who carried the colors of Michigan State on the gridiron last year have "made their way" in the sports profession. Two have joined the professional ranks and six others have been named to coaching jobs.

Two Play Pro Ball

Halfback Lynn Chandnois and guard Ed Bagdon, the Spartans' All-Americans who performed for the College All-Stars last month, have agreed to terms with professional football clubs. Chandnois is with the Pittsburgh Steelers and Bagdon with the Chicago Cardinals.

The list of ex-Spartans who have accepted coaching jobs includes Gene Glick, the husky quarterback who was given the "Governor of Michigan Award" last season as the team's most valuable player. Glick will coach all sports at St. Andrew's high school in Saginaw, Mich.

Vogler on MSC Staff

Jim Blenkhorn, speedy former Spartan fullback, will handle a similar position at Davidson high school. Ex-tackle and four letter winner Carl Cappaert will be line coach in football at Aurora, Ill., high school.

Fullback Frank Waters, another four year veteran, will be head coach at Walled Lake high school, while John Gilman, first string end last season, will direct football at Otsego.

Hal Vogler, lightweight tackle who captained the 1949 Michigan State eleven, returns to his alma mater as an assistant frosh coach.

Spartan-Notre Dame Game Sells Out Aug. 3

The annual Michigan State-Notre Dame football game has become one of the country's top grid classics. Ask any of the capacity 56,000 people who by August 3 had shelled out their cash to see the Spartans and Irish clash at South Bend, Ind., Oct. 28.

The Aug. 3 sell-out, Notre Dame authorities said, was the earliest in its history for a meeting with a Mid-West opponent. And among Mid-West opponents of the Irish have been Michigan, Minnesota, Northwestern, Purdue, Iowa, and Illinois.

Last year, when the game was played at East Lansing, the sell-out came June 8, just eight days after tickets went on sale.

Only the top athletic attractions rate sell-outs months in advance, and on this sure basis the Michigan State-Notre Dame series takes its place with the greatest spectacles in any sport.

FOLLOWING ALUMNI CLUBS

By Starr Keesler

The parks, playgrounds, golf courses and lakes were major gathering places for Michigan State College alumni during the mid-summer months. Most club activity was limited to picnics, outings and those activities which offered relief from "Old Sol." Another club was formed for the Detroit area.

MICHIGAN CLUBS

Mecosta-Osceola Picnic

Michigan State graduates and their families met July 16 at the Paris Fish Hatchery grounds for the annual summer picnic of the MSC Alumni Club of Mecosta and Osceola counties.

The meeting, which started at 2 p.m., featured a big dinner followed by a full schedule of recreation. Chairman of the affair was Joseph C. Lynch, '40.

Northville Club Organizes

"Northwestern Suburban" was the title chosen for the Michigan State College alumni club in the Northville area. The name was selected by club members June 9 at a potluck supper held at the Northville Presbyterian church.

The organization will include membership from the towns of Livonia, Plymouth, Northville, Farmington and South Lyon. Elected president of the club was Nelson Schrader, '38. His officers include Dr. Edwin Cavell, '39, vice-president; and Mrs. Duane Parks, '46, secretary-treasurer. A by-law committee, consisting of Mrs. Edmund Yerkes, '38, and Mrs. Arthur Jenkins, '37, was also appointed.

Tentative plans were made for a picnic to be held later in the summer.

Picnic at Manistee

Members of the Michigan State College Alumni Club of Manistee County and their families held a picnic July 15 at Chittenden Nursery, Wellston.

A "Dutch" affair, each family brought its own food, and joined in a full afternoon of eating, playing group games and talking with friends. Tom Stege, '49, president, was chairman of the picnic.

Muskegon Club Holds Stag

Lincoln Golf Club outside Muskegon was the headquarters for a stag party, July 28, of the Michigan State College Alumni Club of Muskegon County. After two hours of "joint creaking" on the golf course, they returned to the club house for a good old fashioned fish fry. Chairman of the outing was Charles Hendricks, '47.

Annual Ann Arbor Rally

Dr. Floyd Owen's estate in Ann Arbor was again the meeting place for the second annual alumni family picnic of the Michigan State College Alumni Club of Washtenaw County. The picnic, held Aug. 1, featured special games and entertainment for the children. Dr. Owen conducted his guests through the beautiful grounds of his estate, and further entertainment was provided by the club's male quartet.

Mrs. Helen Waldenmyer, '33, was chairman of the picnic.

Other Clubs Picnic

Other picnics held around the state included Gratiot, Kent and St. Clair counties.

An afternoon of games and races for adults and children and a six o'clock picnic dinner were the highlights of an outing held July 26 by members of the Michigan State College Alumni Club of Kent County. Attended by some 50 members, the affair was held at Townsend Park, Grand Rapids.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Zuidema, '36, were chairmen of the annual alumni family picnic of the Michigan State College Alumni Club of St. Clair County. The picnic was held at Marysville Park, Aug. 1.

OUT-OF-STATE CLUBS

Toledo Alums Meet

Approximately 100 Michigan State College alumni living in the Toledo, Ohio, area met at Anderson park in Toledo for their annual family picnic. Members and their families enjoyed a full day of swimming, games and recreation on the park playground. This was followed by a big dinner at 4 p.m. Ed Jepson, '35, president of the club, was picnic chairman.

BACK TO NATURE: More than 60 members of the Michigan State College Alumni Club of Huron County gathered at Caseville for their annual summer outing held July 25. A pot-luck dinner, group games and entertainment for the kids featured the day's activity. Chairman of the meeting was Gleason D. Rohlf, '43, (second row, fourth from right) who is also president of the group.

A black and white photograph showing a large group of men in military uniforms standing in formation in front of a large monument. The monument is a tall, ornate structure with a statue on top, surrounded by a low wall. The setting is a park-like area with trees and a path in the background. The men are arranged in several rows, facing the camera. The monument is the central focus of the image.

THE BUBBLE.

Hosokiah E. Solomonstyle, Editor

These merry lasses will cause no harm;
They merry lasses, they merry lasses,
Warmth from old morn'g rise bringin'.

A large group of students and faculty, approximately 50-60 people, are posed on the wide steps of a grand, classical building. The building features prominent columns and a dark, recessed entrance. The group is arranged in several rows, with some individuals standing on the upper steps and others sitting or kneeling on the lower ones. The attire is a mix of formal and semi-formal clothing typical of the early 20th century. The photograph is in black and white, capturing a formal group portrait.

ABOUT THESE ALUMNI

By Gladys M. Franks, '27

1914

"Loafing and fishing" writes Chester Gifford from R. 4, Smiths Neck rd., New Bedford, Mass. . . . Lewis A. Smith manages the D. M. Ferry estate in Detroit, and lives in Grosse Pointe at 621 Middlesex.

1915

Charles H. Hatch writes from Rock Hall, Md.: "Have been down on Decoy Farm for the past five years except for the summer and fall of 1946 and spring of 1947 when I acted as managing director of U.S.A. participation in the Eighth International Congress which was held in Stockholm, Sweden, in June 1947. Am sticking pretty close to home now and spend most of my time as president of 'Protected Homes Inc,' a sales agency for lightning rods, fire extinguishers, and combination storm sash and screens."

1919

Wilbur H. Thies is spending three months in Germany on an agricultural assignment with the State department. As consultant in the field of agricultural extension, his mission will include a stay of about three weeks in the state of Hesse and a tour of the French zone of occupation.

1920

R. E. Trippensee, who has been on the staff at the University of Massachusetts since 1936, has completed his second book on wildlife management. (McGraw-Hill).
