Dean Howard Rather Succumbs Dec. 28, After Extended Illness

Dean Howard C. Rather, '17, whose direction of the Basic College at Michigan State brought him national educational recognition, died Dec. 28, at the age of 55.

Dean Rather, a 30-year veteran of the college, was instrumental in the establishment of the Basic College as a two-year program of general education in 1944. He had directed the school since that time.

Fee Named Acting Head

His death came after an extended illness. Dean Rather had been granted a leave of absence for the fall term, with Dr. Walter Fee, head of the MSC Department of History, serving as acting dean. No announcement of a permanent successor has been made.

Dean Rather first joined the MSC staff in 1920 as extension specialist in farm crops. In 1928, he became head of the Department of Farm Crops, a position he held until he was appointed dean of the Basic College.

Receives Alumni Award

He was one of five Michigan State alumni honored last year when he received the 1950 Alumni Award for Distinguished Service.

A member of the American Expeditionary Forces in France during World War I, Dean Rather was active in many civic and professional groups.

Immediate survivors include his wife, Mrs. Hazel Cobb Rather, w'26, and a son, Henry Lee Rather.

Praised by Hannah

MSC Pres. John A. Hannah said:

"In the death of Dean Rather, Michigan State College has sustained a loss it can ill afford, for he had rare qualities of intelligence, leadership, and human understanding.

"While he had served the college in many capacities, he will be best remembered as the man who contributed more than any other to the establishment of the Basic College and its development into a significant factor in American higher education.

"I know I speak for faculty, students and alumni alike when I say that he will be long remembered at the college he loved so much and served so well."

DEAN RATHER: His death ended 30 years of service to Michigan State College. He gained national recognition for his efforts in organizing and directing the MSC Basic College.

Spartan Alumni Magazine Mailed Around the World

From Indiana to Ingwavuma, from Malaya to Manitoba—51 nations in all—the Spartan RECORD travels seven times a year.

As you read your copy of THE RECORD, issues have arrived, or will arrive, at every state in the nation, Asia, Africa, Europe, South America, Central America and Canada.

Circulation of the magazine is nearly 38,000, according to Gladys Franks, '27, alumni recorder. Miss Franks has the tremendous job of trying to maintain up-to-date mailing addresses of all alumni, and to supervise the seven mailings each year.

Of the total circulation, 380 issues go to foreign countries. Ingham county accounts for 4,080 issues; the rest of Michigan, 21,167; Illinois, 1,151; New York, 1,134, and Ohio, 970.

In addition to foreign countries, 79 issues go each publication date to Army Post Office numbers.

State Police Training Project Starts at MSC

Charles F. Rhodes, former chief of police at Pontiac, has been appointed coordinator of law enforcement training at Michigan State College.

Rhodes, a veteran of 39 years police experience, will head a new statewide recruit and in-service training program for law enforcement personnel.

Third State in Nation

The program is a cooperative project of Michigan State College, the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police, the Michigan State Police, the Michigan Sheriffs Association, State Department of Public Instruction, Federal Bureau of Investigation, and the Michigan Municipal League.

Rhodes

With the organization of the new program, Michigan becomes the third state in the nation to have a coordinated, statewide law enforcement training program.

Work will begin with a four-week recruit training program at the East Lansing Campus in the near future.

The new coordinator began his career as patrolman on the Detroit Police force in 1911. He retired in 1938 with the rank of inspector to become Pontiac's chief of police, a post he held until 1950.

Michigan State Returns To Year-Round Program

Michigan State will return this summer to a year-round accelerated educational program designed to provide college graduates for the national defense program in three years instead of four. The plan was adopted in response to urgent requests by officials of the U. S. Department of Defense.

The speed-up program gets under way this summer, when a full quarter will be offered for the first time since 1948. It is expected that at least one other six-week term will also be held concurrently with the full quarter.

Breslin, McGoff Given New Alumni Positions

Two Michigan State alumni have assumed new positions in the Spartan Office of Alumni Relations, according to Alumni Director Starr H. Keesler, '41.

They are Jack Breslin, '46, who has been promoted to field secretary and assistant director of alumni relations, and John McGoff, '50, new assistant director of alumni relations.

McGoff

Breslin

Breslin has been assistant director of alumni relations since last July. His new post will involve working much more closely with MSC alumni clubs, particularly in Michigan. He will largely be concerned with organizing and strengthening of the alumni clubs.

McGoff, a foreign language graduate of last June, has been employed in the alumni office on a temporary basis since September. A World War II infantry veteran, he was president of the Men's Glee Club in 1950 and worked at WKAR for four years.

High School Visitation—Parents' Day Expected to Attract 10,000 Persons

An estimated 10,000 persons will be on hand for the 1951 High School Visitation-Parents' Day celebration to be held at Michigan State College May 11-12.

The Spartan campus will display its best features for thousands of prospective students and parents of students expected for the two-day affair. Dr. Guy H. Hill, director of high school co-operation, will be in charge.

Combines Many Events

In addition to combining the previously separate High School Visitation Day and Parents' Day, the week-end will include open houses by all MSC schools, a football clinic, the annual intra-squad tussle and other entertainment. A complete schedule of events is being planned, and the program will get under way at noon Friday.

Most of the displays will be located in the Engineering buildings, Home Economics building, Macklin Field Stadium and Jenison Fieldhouse.

Home Ec and Engineering Shows

Highlights of the two-day affair will be the Engineering Exposition and the Home Economics Exhibition, which have been held annually since the end of World War II. The other six major schools are expected to go "all out" in an attempt to match the home economics and engineering exhibits.

Faculty members will be on hand at all times to advise or confer with prospective students or parents, Dr. Hill said.

Clinic, Game on Saturday

The annual football clinic will be held on Saturday morning. Michigan State's head football coach, "Biggie" Munn, and his staff will conduct the grid workshop for Michigan high school coaches and players.

In the intra-squad football game, Spartan fans will get their initial look at the players who will carry the first MSC banner into the Big Ten gridiron race in 1953. The game is scheduled for 2 p. m. in Macklin Field Stadium. The varsity team has won the past two games, 21-7 in 1949, and 14-7 in 1950.

Michigan State Is Tenth Largest College in U.S.

Michigan State College has risen another notch in the standings of the nation's educational giants.

Although experiencing a drop from the record 16,243 students in attendance in the fall of 1949, MSC rose from 11th to 10th place in full-time enrollment, and from 22nd to 18th place in grand total enrollment. This year's fall enrollment reached a total of 14,993, including 13,692 classified as full-time degree students.

Steady Rise Since 1946

These figures were revealed by Dr. Raymond Walters, president of the University of Cincinnati.

Michigan State's rise to 10th largest university in the U. S. has been steady since 1946, when it ranked 13th with 12,412 full-time students. MSC remained 13th largest in 1947 with 14,045, rose to 12th in 1948 with 15,092, and 11th in 1949 with 15,062.

Sees Financial Worries

Dr. Walters said that the Korean War had apparently not been a factor in the decrease in enrollment. He said the drop was caused by graduation of 1949's record breaking classes, laden with veterans of World War II.

The University of Cincinnati President foresees increasingly difficult financial times ahead for many institutions, "assuming adoption of a military draft which will take many or all able-bodied students."

The top schools in terms of full-time enrollment are:

University of California, 39,392; Columbia, 21,938; Minnesota, 21,680; Illinois, 20,498; New York University, 19,773; Ohio State, 18,946; University of Michigan, 18,912; Wisconsin, 18,357; Syracuse, 16,007; Michigan State College, 13,692.

Completion of Three Michigan State Buildings Expected by Fall Term

Michigan State College's uncompleted building projects are all scheduled to be in full operation by the fall term of 1951.

The three structures are the Kellogg Center for Continuing Education, Giltner Hall, and the Alumni Memorial Chapel.

Kellogg Center Rated Tops

The Kellogg Center, scheduled for completion June 1, is rated the number one building of its type in the U. S. by Edgar L. Harden, director of the Continuing Education Service.

The Kellogg Center will contain seven floors of the latest facilities for accommodating more than 125,000 who come to the campus annually for conferences, workshops and special courses. Last year, more than 125 special programs were held for teachers, businessmen, farmers, bankers, engineers, homemakers, radio personnel, insurance agents, engineers and many other groups. The building will also serve as a laboratory for hotel management students.

The Alumni Memorial Chapel, being built to honor 500 Spartan alumni killed in U. S. wars, will be finished during the summer. The foundation was completed and the basement nearly done in February.

The beginning of the fall term is the date set for completion of Giltner Hall, the college's new structure for veterinary medicine and bacteriology and public health. The Legislature is expected to appropriate the remaining $909,200 for the building in March, according to Karl H. McDonel, secretary of the State Board of Agriculture.

MSC's request for an appropriation of $4,250,000 for a new library has top priority before the Michigan Legislature, McDonel said, and if approved, would be started immediately. Under normal conditions, construction would take about 15 months, he said.

THE AFFAIRS OF STATE

MSC and Mobilization

When Michigan State College officials finished their nose count for the winter term, the total read 13,791 students.

Included in this figure were 13,523 regular and 268 eight-week short course students. Men numbered 9,825 and veterans 3,400.

Although the total represented a drop of 1,202 from the fall term enrollment of 14,993, officials obviously were well pleased. It had been predicted that the college would experience a "substantial decrease in enrollment" mainly caused by students enlisting or taking industrial jobs.

College leaders were not trying to fool anyone, either. There was no doubt but that the nation's mobilization chiefs would ask America's colleges and universities to make sacrifices equal to those of World War II. The only question was how and when.

But the picture was not so black as some wished to paint it.

Although spring passage of a universal military service seemed assured, more than half of the 450,000 18-year-olds probably would be allowed to enter college next fall if they desired. Defense plans also indicated that 370,000 of the 570,000 upperclass students in college would be deferred until they received degrees. Some servicemen will be allowed to return to colleges, postponing military service, and men in advanced R. O. T. C. training will no doubt be deferred.

It is also expected that the Reserve Officers Training Corps at the nation's land-grant colleges and universities will be substantially expanded to become the chief source of officers for the armed forces. MSC leaders also have applied for a Naval R. O. T. C. unit to be established at East Lansing.

Everyone seemed sure of one thing—that there would always be plenty of students around who wanted college educations.

Although the world situation has presented many new problems for the nation's educational institutions, there seemed no great reason for despair. Michigan State officials, like most Americans, prepared to tighten their belts for another duration plus six months.

Married Students Excel

For the second year in a row, married students have stolen the show at MSC for earning perfect scholastic records in the fall term.

This year, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Roberts became the first married couple to be named to the "All-A" honor roll in the college's history. The pair, both psychology seniors, have maintained better than a "B" all-college average.

Last year, Mrs. Alice Henshaw, mother of five, returned to school after 17 years of homemaking to make a perfect scholastic average her first term.

How did the Roberts' do it?

"Well, we don't study much because we don't have time," Roberts said. "In fact, we don't have much time to think about how we make good grades." Roberts works part time at the MSC cooperative store, and his wife, Dorothy, works at the college library.

When asked about social life, Roberts said they attended most Spartan social events, lectures and concerts, and athletic contests. The couple also participates in several extra-curricular activities.

New Bells for Beaumont

Chiming each day with added zest, Beaumont Tower carillon is now sporting 14 new soprano bells.

The new bells were manufactured by the Netherlands bell foundry of Petit and Fristen. The Dutch firm has been making bells since 1665. Addition of the 14 bells brings the carillon's total to 37.

The carillon began in 1929 with 10 bells; three were added in 1930, and 10 more in 1936.

Regularly scheduled concerts are presented on the Spartan campus by Wendell J. Westcott, MSC carillonneur and instructor in the music department.

Diet Movie at MSC

Work on a documentary film showing research in the MSC Department of Foods and Nutrition at Michigan State is slated for completion in May, according to Dr. Margaret A. Ohlson, department head.

The 15-minute film will show "before and after" views of a special project in weight control through diet, Dr. Ohlson said. The film is being made by the Jam Handy Organization, Detroit, for the National Dairy Council. It was started in February.

Dr. Ohlson, who received the Borden award for nutrition in 1950, said Michigan State is one of the few colleges in the nation doing extensive research into problems affecting weight control.

More than 40 MSC students, physicians and Lansing area citizens will participate in the film. Dietetics, medical and educational personnel will use the film for teaching purposes when it is completed.

A Cold Bet

Charles Crownover, Jackson freshman on the swim team, won a $10 bet recently by braving 18-degree temperature to swim the Red Cedar River.

Crownover collected $5 each from two of his Snyder Hall chums who dared him to take the icy plunge. A large delegation of students cheered as he picked his way through chunks of ice in the stream.

THE AFFAIRS OF STATE

Faculty Affairs

Prof. Roy L. Underwood, head of the MSC Department of Music, has been elected for a second term as president of the Music Teachers National Association.

Prof. Underwood, whose term of office will extend for another year, was elected at the annual association meeting held in Washington, D.C. Membership of the group includes music teachers from colleges, universities, conservatories and private studios throughout the nation.

Prof. Charles Irvin, Department of Written and Spoken English, has been appointed chairman of a committee for the National Society for the Study of Communications. He will head the committee on listening, which conducts research for the society.

"Case Inventory for the Study of Child Development" is the title of a new book by Dr. Cecil V. Millard, director of the Division of Education.

Dr. William H. Form, associate professor of sociology, has co-authored a new book, "Industrial Sociology," with Dr. Delbert Miller, associate professor of sociology at the University of Washington. The book is one of the Harper social science series, and has been named the first comprehensive volume in a rapidly developing field of sociology.

"Elementary Structural Design," is the name of a new book by Dr. Charles O. Harris, head of the Department of Civil Engineering. The work is designed mainly for vocational study and home study courses in civil engineering. The book was published by the American Technical Society.

MSC Retires Nine

Nine Michigan State College staff members, including three alumni, will retire July 1 after serving a combined total of 251 years.

Leading the alumni retirements is Prof. C. Marshall Cade, '07, who this year completes 37 years of service in the School of Engineering. In addition to his bachelor's degree, he received a professional degree in civil engineering in 1913 and a M.A. degree in 1932.

Other alumni include James Robertson, '09, assistant professor of engineering drawing, 33 years, and Harold Osler, '13, Washtenaw County agricultural agent, 32 years.

Other retiring staff members and their lengths of service are: Earl Simmons, buildings and utilities, 36 years; Leon Burhans, assistant professor of physical education, health, and recreation for men, 28 years; Glenn Sleight, buildings and utilities, 26 years; Charles W. Miller, associate professor of physical science, who took advanced work at MSC, 22 years; Bruce Fineout, college farm, 19 years, and Fred Perkins, Kellogg Bird Sanctuary, 18 years.

Study Mental Health

Michigan State College social scientists are going to take a new approach to mental health by studying the healthy instead of the sick.

The Social Research Service of MSC has been awarded a grant-in-aid of $14,985 by the National Institute of Mental Health of the U. S. Public Health Service for the study.

The grant provides for a pilot study of "social strengths in mental health," according to Dr. C. R. Hoffer, acting director of the Social Research Service.

"This project differs from most mental health studies in that it will examine normal people to find out what it takes in human resources to make successful adjustments to modern living. The objective is to discover the sources of strength that ordinary, substantial citizens use to meet and overcome life's strains and stresses," Dr. Hoffer said.

This is one of the first studies undertaken in the United States to focus on the mental health of average people.

Is Michigan State's new Kellogg Center for Continuing Education, scheduled for completion this summer. It is being built to serve all the people of Michigan. The structure will give MSC the best facilities in the U. S. for its extensive program of institutes, conferences and special courses. Its seven floors of modern facilities will contain housing, meeting and eating accommodations for more than 125,000 Michigan urban and rural residents who come to the campus each year for a variety of educational programs. "JOE" RETIRES: Master Sergeant Ralph G. "Joe" Porter, a member of the college R. O. T. C. staff for 30 years, has hung up his hash marks. He was mustered out by Col. Charles E. Dissinger, military commandant.

Sgt. "Joe" Porter Retires

Master Sgt. Ralph G. "Joe" Porter has called it quits after 35 years, three months and 13 days in the United States Army.

Sgt. Porter officially retired from his Michigan State College R. O. T. C. post Jan. 31, but he was back at 9 a.m. the next day, pending civil service appointment to his same job.

The 55-year-old army veteran is considered an "institution" at Michigan State College. He has taught MSC military students for more than three decades, first coming to the campus in 1919. His term of service is the longest ever put in by a military man on the Spartan campus.

Sgt. Porter served with the Michigan National Guard under General Pershing in the 1916-17 campaign against Pancho Villa on the Mexican border, and spent two years in the U. S. Navy before re-enlisting in the army.

Marshall Honored

Recognition for 30 years of service to the nursery industry of Michigan was given to Dr. Roy E. Marshall, assistant director of the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station, during January.

The Michigan Association of Nurserymen, meeting at Grand Rapids, paid tribute to Marshall by conferring honorary membership on him during their annual meeting.

Only three other horticulturists have been awarded such memberships in the history of the organization.

'Doctors' Will Retire Pair of Trees, Landmarks for Two Generations

Two famous Spartan landmarks—the Christmas tree in front of the Union building and the Theodore Roosevelt Elm—will be retired from active duty by spring.

The 50-year-old Norway Spruce, which has long served as MSC's Christmas decoration, has been in declining health for some time. Though everything has been done to save the tree, college landscape officials have given up hope for survival.

To Plant Another Tree

Before the ground thaws, the Spruce will be removed and another tree—probably a Douglas Fir or another Spruce—will be planted in its place.

The Roosevelt Elm, planted by Pres. Theodore Roosevelt in 1907 at the 50th anniversary celebration of the college, has already been retired. The tree was planted by Roosevelt in old Faculty Row, and later transplanted to near Gilchrist Hall. The old elm, 24 inches in diameter, never recovered from transplanting.

Plans call for the planting of another American Elm near the same spot where the Roosevelt Elm stood.

Spartan alumni returning to campus in the spring may find many other of their favorite trees occupying new spots—thanks to the ingenuity and sentimentality of Michigan State landscape architects.

On most campuses, new buildings mean "the axe" for trees that happen to stand on the construction site. But not so at MSC. Whenever humanly possible, the trees are picked up and transplanted on another section of campus.

Must Work in Winter

An unusual process—the frozen ball method—is used to replace trees and beautify the campus, according to Milton Baron, assistant campus landscape architect.

Because of the sandy nature of the soil, it is necessary to transplant trees when the ground is frozen to keep soil and roots in one piece. Trees up to 10 inches in diameter can be moved by this method, Baron said.

So, if you carved your initials on a tree and seem to have lost it somewhere, don't be alarmed. It's probably now standing in front of Shaw Hall instead of Wells Hall.

Lerner, Bunche Appear On MSC Symposium

Drs. Ralph J. Bunche, director of United Nations Trusteeships, and Max Lerner, widely-known author and editor, participated in a special symposium with MSC faculty members in February.

The topic of discussion was "The American Way."

Faculty members participating were from the Departments of Economics, Psychology, Agricultural Economics, English, Political Science, and the School of Graduate Studies.

Commenting on the symposium, Pres. John A. Hannah said:

"It is our feeling that a real responsibility rests with publicly-supported colleges . . . to exercise some leadership in awakening a greater appreciation . . . of why the American system provides not only the highest standard of living but the greatest opportunity for individual development of any system yet devised."

Farmers' Week Program Attracts More Than 35,000 People to MSC

More than 35,000 Michigan farmers and their families made the annual trip to East Lansing for the 1951 Farmers' Week, held Jan. 29-Feb. 2.

High spot of the exhibits this year was a pen-type barn layout, erected in a large tent near the livestock judging pavilion. A 14-cow dairy herd, belonging to a Laingsburg farmer was brought to the campus for the week.

Calf Born in Zero Weather

The exhibit was designed to show recent advancements in dairy housing with lounging, feeding, and milking areas. College staff members were on hand to explain all the features of the barn.

Human interest event of the pen-barn was the birth of a heifer calf at midnight with the temperature hovering at the zero mark. Pronounced "a fine specimen" by college veterinarians, the calf was soon on its feet and warming its back on an electric heat lamp.

Feature Labor-Saving Devices

Macklin Stadium did its part for the Farmers' Week program when the east concourse was enclosed and heated for the general exhibit area. Large numbers of visitors gathered there each day to look over educational displays featuring grassland farming, forestry practices and machinery. The new agricultural museum was represented by a number of pieces of old farm and home equipment.

Greatest interest centered on work saving devices and ways to cut labor needs on farms. Farm labor, already getting scarce, was the topic of conversation when farmers gathered to discuss their farming programs.

Second German Police Group Trains at MSC

Ten top-ranking West German police officials are taking a four-month training course in democratic administration of justice at Michigan State College.

This is the second group of German police officers to receive the training under the grant from the U.S. Department of State. Last year 12 officials were enrolled in the MSC course.

To Visit Many Cities

While in the U.S. the German policemen will be guided through a program by members of the MSC Department of Police Administration, according to Arthur F. Brandstatter, head of the department.

The officers will spend a month on the campus receiving instruction in the police function and its relation to our governmental set-up. Another portion of the course will take them to various Michigan law enforcement agencies for field training. The remainder of the program will be spent visiting major police departments and courts in the East and Midwest, Brandstatter said.

Direct Activities of Michigan State College Fund

First Annual MSC Alumni Roll Call Launches Many College Projects

Nearly 4,000 Spartan alumni have contributed $22,846 to the 1950 MSC Alumni Roll Call, according to William L. Davidson, '17, director of the Michigan State College Fund.

Of all MSC classes, it was the "old timers" and the "new timers" who responded best to the Roll Call.

Class of 1902 Leads

Leading the pack was the class of 1902. Twenty-one of the 66 class members contributed to the Roll Call for a percentage of 31.8.

The Patriarchs were second, and the class of 1901 was third. Following in the next three spots were the most recent classes of Michigan State, 1947, 1948, and 1949.

Most of the amount received has been set aside for research projects, fellowships, and new equipment for the college, Davidson said.

Establish 25 Study Grants

This money has provided for eight scholarships, seven fellowships, two professorships, eight research projects, and several pieces of equipment. Additional scholarships will be awarded next year, Davidson said.

Research projects include a study of basic chemistry and a study to maintain complete historical data concerning Michigan State College. Valuable documents will be microfilmed and filed in the library.

In the way of equipment, an electrocardiograph machine has been purchased by the Department of Physical Education for men. The department will conduct a study to determine whether high school basketball is injurious to teen-age boys.

KEY TO CLASS SYMBOLS:

In this modern era, everything and everybody, it seems, must be classified. Alumni are no exception.

That is the reason for the strange symbols behind names in this issue of THE RECORD. To minimize confusion, here is what the symbols mean:

Graduates with bachelors' degrees are listed John Doe, '48; holders of advanced degrees appear Martha Jones, MA '48. If the persons hold two degrees, only the original class is used.

Former students are listed, Joe Doakes, w'51, and short course graduates appear as James Smith, sc'47.

Low Birth Rate of College Graduates Causes Alarm

Michigan State alumni are replacing their college ranks with children at a rate higher than the national average, but it still isn't enough.

These are the findings of the Population Reference Bureau, Washington, D. C., in a survey taken of more than 150,000 college graduates, including those of Michigan State.

Not Replacing Ranks

The report revealed that families are too small to replenish college ranks in future generations. There must be 2.1 children per college graduate in order to replace the parents. In the 25th reunion classes, however, men fail to replace themselves by 16 per cent and women by 38 per cent on a national basis.

The PRB works on the theory that children of college graduates, benefiting from their parents' training and intelligence, will produce a larger number of better citizens in the future. It terms this declining birth rate "erosion of this country's best hereditary qualities."

Men Rank High

Spartan men in the 1925 class reported 2.06 children each, compared to the national average of 1.77. In the 1940 class, men have 1.71 children, compared to the national figure of 1.29.

Former coeds of Michigan State haven't done so well. Women in the 25th reunion class have 1.64 children each, compared with the national average of 1.29. Women graduates of 1940 have 1.46 children, compared to the national average of 1.09.

Two Michigan State Alumni Decorated in Korean War

Two Michigan State alumni have been decorated for gallantry by the U.S. Army while fighting in Korea.

Maj. Charles E. Harris, w'38, Monterey, Calif., received the Silver Star medal for "gallantry in action against the enemy Sept. 19, 1950, near Waegwan, Korea."

Was Company Commander

Maj. Harris, a captain at the time, was commanding officer of a company in the First Cavalry Division. He has had three jeeps shot out from under him in the past three months.

Second Lieut. Robert J. Levitt, '50, Detroit, received the Bronze Star award for meritorious service. He was given the medal in an informal ceremony on the Wonju, Korea, airstrip. An ROTC cadet lieutenant colonel at MSC, he received the Hearst medal for distinguished military cadet service.

Early Meets Indicate MSC Track Team May Be in for Difficult Year

Returns from the Michigan AAU meet and the Michigan State Relays, first track and field events of the indoor season, indicate that this is likely to be a difficult "in-between" year for Spartan thin-clads.

For the past several years Michigan State athletes had dominated these meets. This time the performances were good enough, but suffered greatly from comparison with past ones.

Eleven Places to Spartans

In the AAU meet at Ann Arbor, the Spartans won the two-mile relay, with Capt. Warren Druetzler doing the anchor mile, and the one mile walk, the latter thanks to another brilliant performance by vet medicine senior Adolph Weinacker, holder of numerous AAU titles. All together, the Spartans polled two firsts, three seconds, four thirds and two fourths in senior class events for perhaps the best showing by any team.

Several freshmen, competing unattached, did excellently, a prediction of fine teams to come. Don Schiesswohl, of Saginaw, threw the shot 48 ft. 3 ins. for fourth place and Dick Jarrett, of Oak Lawn, Ill., won the novice mile and placed fifth in the open mile.

Thomas Stars in Relays

In the Michigan State Relays, the Spartans had somewhat less luck. They could garner not a single first place while showing good strength in collecting five seconds, two thirds, three fourths and one fifth.

Top Spartan performer was Jesse Thomas, who was a close second in the high hurdles and fourth in both the low hurdles and broad jump.

He showed great promise of later on in the season becoming a real contender for conference honors.

Kepford Is Promising Soph

A team of Paul Shek, Jim Kepford, Don Makielski and Druetzler won the two mile relay in the AAU meet, but a Spartan combine composed of the latter three and Lee Jones running in place of Shek came off second to Michigan in the same event at the Relays. Development of a fourth half miler to work well with Makielski, Kepford and Druetzler is all that is needed to give Michigan State a fitting successor to the team which last year set a world's record of 7:31.8 in the two mile relay.

Most promising among Spartan sophomores appeared to be Kepford, Muskegon distance runner, who looked good in both his relay efforts and might develop into a really great galloper.

New MSC Swim Star

TANK ACE AND COACH: Newest sensation of the Michigan State swimming team is distance free styler Bert McLachlan, shown here with tank coach Charles McCaffree. A sophomore from Denver, Colo., McLachlan established new dual meet records for the free style 440 the first four times he swam the event for the Michigan State swimmers.

Spartan Baseball Team Launches 1951 Season with Southern Tour

John H. Kobs has directed 25 Michigan State baseball campaigns, but the 1951 season holds special attraction. It marks the first year that his Spartans have been eligible for the Big Ten crown.

The MSC squad has been working out indoors for the past two months, awaiting the arrival of spring weather.

Eleven Veterans Return

Eleven veterans from last year's fine team are still around, and several promising sophomores have come forward to replace departed stars. Among the graduates who will be sorely missed are Capt. Jack Kinney, outfielder; Al Cummins, All-American second baseman; Joe Barta, shortstop, and ace hurler Lou Bloch.

Despite the loss of such established stars, Kobs is confident that the team will better the 19-9 mark made last year.

Heading the list of returning veterans is Capt. Vince Magi, a hard-hitting outfielder, who compiled a .348 average last season and was second in runs-batted-in. Magi is an excellent outfielder with one of the best throwing arms in college ball.

Other lettermen are outfielders Dan

Hovanesian and Art Ronan, first baseman Bob Ciolek, shortstop Joe Rivich, and third baseman Dick Blanchard. Kobs has two veteran catchers, Charlie Joblonski and Bill Bower. Three pitchers with considerable experience are Bob Carlson, Tom Lawson, and Herb Schroetter, all right handers.

Spring Tour in March

With the annual southern training tour in the offing, Coach Kobs will have a chance to look at his sophomore prospects in competition before beginning the conference schedule. Top candidates among the newcomers are infielders Wayne Lawrie and Jack Hofstetter, outfielder Darrell Lindley, and catchers Dick Edin and Ken Stanick. Real pitching help for the rugged schedule should come from a quintet of sophs, right-handers Chuck Gorman, Roger Howard and Bob Dangel, and lefthanders Don LaPointe and Don Quayle.

The southern training schedule, an annual feature of the Spartan season, is not complete. Coach Kobs has tentative dates with Duke, Clemson, South Carolina, North Carolina, and possibly Washington and Lee. The team will leave March 20 for the tour.

Defeating Michigan Teams Becoming a Spartan Habit

When Coach Pete Newell's Michigan State basketball team defeated Michigan 49-36 last January it marked the third successive time this year that a Spartan athletic team faced the Wolverines and finished on the long end of the score.

"Biggie" Munn's football team started the ball rolling last fall when they dumped the eventual conference and Rose Bowl champs 14-7. It was the first time since 1937 that the Spartan gridmen had won from Michigan.

Charles McCaffree's swimmers then took their turn and swamped Matt Mann's squad 55-29. The Wolverine tankers could manage only two firsts in the meet as Spartan free-stylers Clarke Scholes and Bert McLachlan set dual meet records in the 50 and 440-yard events.

The basketball victory was the first since Bob Brannum and his mates turned the trick 43-38 in 1947. Played in Yost Fieldhouse, it also ended an 18-year Spartan famine in Ann Arbor.

Fencing Team Aiming For Undefeated Season

To the fencers fell the honor of being the only Michigan State athletic squad holding an undefeated record at the end of January.

Under the tutelage of Coach Charles R. Schmitter, they took their first three meets of the season in stride, defeating Detroit, 16-11; Buffalo, 17-10, and Ohio State, 15-12.

Leading the swordsmen to this record was John Van Dagens, a senior sabre specialist from Grosse Pointe, Mich., who swept his first six bouts against Detroit and Buffalo and took two of three from Ohio State.

Pierson, Patton Also Star

Sharing number two honors were Bill Pierson, Grand Rapids, Mich., junior, and Dwight Patton, Lakewood, Ohio, senior, with seven victories and two losses each. Pierson fences with the epee while Patton is number two sabreman.

Michigan State's 1951 fencing team shapes up as one of the best that Coach Schmitter has assembled in the last few years. The Spartans are hopeful of bettering the 1950 record of seven wins, a loss and a tie. Top teams standing in their way as of Feb. 1 were Illinois, Wayne and Notre Dame.

Newell Brings Aggressive Play to MSC Basketball

SPARTAN SPIRIT: The high spirit and fire of the 1950-51 Michigan State basketball team is exemplified vividly in this game photo of Billy Bower, peppery Spartan forward, plunging after a ball clearly in the opposing player's possession. Bower got it, too, one of innumerable times State players practiced such important thievery. They lacked height and had limited shooting and play-making ability, but they were never out-fought, a real compliment of the work of first-year coach Pete Newell.

Michigan State Plays Host for 1951 NCAA Boxing Tournament Apr. 5-7

Michigan State's Jenison Fieldhouse will be the scene of collegiate boxing's "World Series" April 5, 6, 7, when the Spartans host the 14th annual NCAA fistie tournament.

The tourney, being held here for the second time in three years, will match about 75 of the country's finest college boxers. The John J. Walsh trophy will be at stake for the team title and the John S. LaRowe trophy will be awarded to the tourney's outstanding individual boxer.

Three Spartans Certain

Although final selection of the contenders has not been made, it appears that three Spartans—Hank Amos, Jed Black, and Chuck Spieser—will be certain choices. All three scored impressive wins in Michigan State's first two dual meets.

Michigan State lost two title contenders when Heavyweight Gabby Marek was ruled ineligible by NCAA officials and Rae Johnston, 165-pound regular, quit the squad in order to devote full-time to his pre-medical studies.

Marek Ruled Ineligible

Marek, runner-up in last year's finals, was considered one of the nation's top college heavyweights. He was ruled ineligible because of an NCAA rule which says that military personnel over 18 years of age cannot fight civilians in regularly scheduled bouts.

Amos, a scrappy 125-pounder who is the captain of the squad, has two clean decisions to his credit. Black, an aggressive 145-pound sophomore with tremendous punching power, owns a decision and a first-round TKO.

Spieser Shows Class

Light heavyweight Spieser is a burly-shouldered former Olympic team member who also has a decision and a TKO. Spieser's knockout was scored over Elridge Thompson, a member of the Quantico Marine squad who is the current AAU 175-pound champ.

Last year the Spartans lost the team title to co-champs Idaho and Gonzaga on the last night of the tourney when three finalists were decided.

State of Minnesota Names Kobs One of Top Athletes

John H. Kobs, Michigan State's veteran baseball coach, was selected recently by a committee of Minnesota sports experts as one of the Gopher state's top athletes for the first half of the twentieth century.

Coach Kobs, who came to Michigan State College in 1924, ranked fifth in the list of all-around sports performers to write their names indelibly on Minnesota sports pages. He was the only "small" college athlete named.

Kobs starred in baseball, basketball, football and track at Hamline University in St. Paul, winning 13 varsity letters before graduation.

FOLLOWING ALUMNI CLUBS

By Starr Keesler, '41

"What shall we have for a program?" That question has become passe for MSC alumni clubs this winter, at least. Three new entertainment features, all emanating from the Spartan campus, are "on the road" and available to alumni club program chairmen.

"Postmark East Lansing"

A number of groups around the state and nation have already seen MSC's newest movie, "Postmark East Lansing," which was produced by the Jam Handy Organization of Detroit.

A companion piece of "Waves of Green"—a film which depicts the development and contributions of the land-grant college movement in America—"Postmark East Lansing" focuses on Michigan State, the nation's oldest land-grant college. The 20-minute movie, which outlines on-campus facilities of the college, stars Barbara Tanner Bailey, '49, and James W. Hale, MSC senior.

New Ag Research Movie

The Michigan farmer and scientist co-star in a new 30-minute film just released by the Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station. The movie titled, "Science Serves the Farmer," tells the story of research accomplishments of MSC scientists in agriculture and related fields. The movie was produced by Don Doane, '47, of Doane Productions, Inc.

Both "Postmark East Lansing" and "Science Serves the Farmer" were produced under the direction of the MSC Department of Information Services.

Glee Club on Second Tour

Highly successful last year in its first try of a tour of Spartan alumni clubs and Michigan high schools, the MSC Men's Glee Club is on a repeat trip this month.

Under the conductorship of Dr. David F. Machtel, the 60-member glee club will bus to nine Michigan communities beginning March 6 in Ionia. This first concert will be an evening program sponsored by the Ionia County Alumni Club, and will be open to the public.

WILL SING AT ALUMNI MEETS: Michigan State College's 60-voice Men's Glee Club will launch its second tour of Michigan alumni clubs and high schools in early March. Above, Director David Machtel leads the group in a vocal selection.

Other appearances will include: Big Rapids, March 20; Ludington, March 21; Manistee, March 21; Glen Arbor, March 22; Traverse City, March 22; Boyne City, March 23; Charlevoix, March 23; and Alpena, March 24. Nearly all of the concerts will be sponsored by the local alumni clubs.

Climax of the tour will be a half-hour radio program by the glee club over the Mutual Broadcasting System on Easter Sunday. Transcribed, the performance will mark the club's fifth radio appearance on a major network.

Program for the tour will include: "You'll Never Walk Alone" from Carousel; selections from South Pacific; an Armed Services medley, and several selections in keeping with the Easter season. Solo numbers, comedy skits and barber shop melodies by various glee club members also will be interspersed in the program.

Alumni Hold Key Jobs With State Department

Two Michigan State College graduates are seeing a lot of the world these days. Both hold top positions in foreign offices of the U.S. Department of State.

They are Harlan B. Clark, '35, in charge of U.S. dealings in the Far East; and Louis A. Wisner, '37, who heads up the State Department's exchange program of visitation for American and German labor experts to production centers of the U.S. and Germany.

Work Began in 1944

Wisner began with the State Department in 1944 as vice-consul in Berlin and served with the OSS during the war. After assignments in Germany, he was appointed second secretary at the U.S. Embassy in Havana, Cuba.

Five months later he was back in Germany on special assignment as the State Department's expert on the problems of German labor. More than 700 German labor officials have visited American industries under the program Wisner directs, and many top U.S. officials have toured Germany's factories.

Clark Widely Traveled

Clark went with the State Department almost immediately after graduation from Michigan State. Since then, his posts have taken him to Africa, Aden, Yemen, Saudi Arabia, Siam, Thailand, Switzerland and Britain.

When America entered World War II, he was in Bangkok, Siam. The Japanese took that city soon after this, and Clark was interned. He sweat out seven months of imprisonment until his government traded a Japanese diplomat for Clark and several others.

He then went to Capetown, South Africa, where he and other officials handled war materials and supplies for the British armies fighting Rommel in the African sands.

In Arabia, his next assignment, he met and wed an RAF nurse. Now the Clarks are back in America with their two children, ages three years and three months. And though they've traveled the world over, they're still definite about where their kids are going to college when they grow up—of course, it's Michigan State.
