Alumni Throng Grid Field after Homecoming Win

RALLY ON VICTORY FIELD: Michigan State alumni flooded onto the football field at Macklin Field following the Spartan's victory over Pittsburgh on Oct. 27. An estimated 12,000 former students gathered at MSC for the weekend of alumni activities highlighted by the afternoon football game, numerous reunions and the Homecoming Ball Saturday evening.

MSC Sends Educational Mission to Colombia

Michigan State College's second international "educational mission" will go to Colombia in South America this winter to aid in training agricultural technicians if a long-term "Point Four" agreement is completed between MSC and federal officials.

Foreign Deans Visit MSC

Deans of two branch agricultural colleges of the University of Colombia visited the MSC campus in October to confer on the program. They were Dean Carlos Madrid of the Facultad Nacional de Agronomia at Medellin and Dean Guillermo Ramirez of the Facultad de Agronomia del Valle at Palmira. MSC's Pres. John A. Hannah and Agriculture Dean E. L. Anthony visited Colombia recently to survey the needs and discuss the proposal.

This new program follows by three months the selection of Michigan State College to adopt the University of the Ryukyus on Okinawa in a long-range program of educational cooperation between the two institutions. Five MSC professors have been on Okinawa since September working toward the establishment of a land-grant educational system on the occupied Japanese islands.

Purpose of the new project is to help the two Colombia colleges improve agricultural methods, particularly those relating to teaching, research and extension methods.

MSC to Send 16 Technicians

Seven full-time professors and eight half-time graduate assistants are scheduled to go to Colombia for one-year periods. In addition, another professor will be sent for a three-month period to establish a forestry department. Each of the two Colombian agricultural colleges will send two staff members to MSC for graduate training.

College officials report that although the initial agreement calls only for agricultural technicians, the program may expand into other fields such as home economics and engineering.

Full expense for the program will be paid under the "Point Four" program but staff members selected for the mission will continue as MSC employees.

Spartan Alumni—12,000 Strong Return For Homecoming Festivities

By JOHN C. LEONARD, '48

A crisp autumn day, bedecked fraternity, dormitory and sorority houses, 12,000 returning alumni, football, reunions, parties and dances—these were the ingredients.

And for more than 16 hours on Oct. 27, they were well mixed to produce one of Michigan State's biggest and most successful Homecoming celebrations.

Mary Trapp Is Queen

Reigning over the festivities was Queen Mary Lonn Trapp, 19, Beulah, who earlier this year was National Cherry Queen. Decked with a 50-rose bouquet, she and 45,000 other fans watched Biggie Munn's Spartans down the University of Pittsburgh, 53-26.

Game's end brought on the traditional class placards and alums gathered around them on the gridiron to renew old acquaintances and talk over events of the day.

Homecoming was preceded on Friday afternoon with registration in the Union, and meetings of alumni club presidents, and the Alumni Advisory Council. Warm up for the big day came Friday evening in the Hotel Olds where the Central Michigan Alumni Club held its annual stag smoker, and the Spartan Alumnae Club of Greater Lansing held its first annual gathering.

Throughout the weekend, alumni found themselves "catching up" on news of their Alma Mater. There were new buildings to see, a number of campus alterations, and, of course, many landmarks to revisit.

Among these points of interest was Giltner Hall for Veterinary Medicine, fast nearing completion—and a number of alums stayed the weekend at the newest campus addition, Kellogg Center for Continuing Education.

Commercial TV License Asked by Michigan State

Formal application for the allocation of a commercial television channel to East Lansing for the use of Michigan State College has been made to the Federal Communications Commission. If the channel is assigned, MSC proposes to apply immediately for a construction permit and operation license.

The request was made before the FCC by President John A. Hannah, Dr. Armand L. Hunter, director of television development at MSC, and Robert J. Coleman, director of WKAR.

The college request was an amendment to an original petition filed two years ago for a very high frequency educational channel. This has never been awarded, although MSC was allocated an ultra high frequency channel March 22, 1951.

Three Big Reasons Cited

MSC officials told the FCC:

(1) The proposed station actually would function as an educational station, fulfilling the FCC requirements to operate in the "public convenience, interest and necessity," but

(2) The station could provide more balanced programming and higher overall quality to its program through selection of the best commercially sponsored network shows;

(3) The station would be available for use by government agencies, public schools, other colleges and universities, and many other civic, governmental and educational agencies.

Will Help MSC Do Better Job

President Hannah said:

"We maintain that a better job could be done for education, and the educational mission of MSC be more fully accomplished, if we were to have access to certain program material available only from commercial and network sources. . . . We are convinced that without access to certain commercial program material, we could never do a fully-effective job of television programming. On the other hand, we are confident that having access to such material, MSC could and would present certain programs of such quality as to justify the highest expectations of both the public and the FCC."

Dr. Hunter gave a proposed general program structure which would include educational programs in agriculture, home economics, veterinary medicine and consumer interest; adult education programs in many areas; cultural programs; general interest programs in the fields of sports, special events and campus and community activities; and special educational interest programs in many areas.

Museum Officials Examine Rare Religious Documents

Michigan State College Given Famous Henry Chamberlain Memorial Museum

One of the largest and finest pioneer museums in the Midwest, the Henry Chamberlain Memorial Museum now located at Three Oaks, has been given to Michigan State College.

Transfer of ownership was made by Fred P. Warren, president of the Edward K. Warren Foundation, which has operated the museum in Three Oaks since 1916.

Contains Priceless Items

Nearly 80,000 articles are in the collection. Many of the exhibits are internationally famous and include priceless items which could not be duplicated.

Among the outstanding collections and items are a vast array of pioneer farm and home implements and utensils; a 292-piece watch collection dating from 1700; the Warren Calculating Engine, which in the 1870s added, subtracted, multiplied and divided as a marvel of that age; a 1903 copy of the scroll of the Samaritan Pentateuch (first five books of the Bible); and a rare hymn book used in the 14th century Roman Catholic church.

The museum was founded by the late Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Warren, in honor of Mrs. Warren's father, former legislator and member of the State Board of Agriculture. E. K. Warren, founder of the Warren Featherbone Company at Three Oaks, with the help of Mrs. Warren, gathered thousands of the items prior to his death in 1919.

"Three Oaks and its citizens now have the privilege to contribute this historical collection to one of the outstanding colleges in the United States," Fred P. Warren stated.

Thousands to View Museum Annually

"Moving the exhibit to Michigan State College will permit a far greater number of Michigan residents to receive benefit from this outstanding collection of American history and heritage. An estimated 70,000 students, educators, Michigan residents and other visitors from throughout the nation will visit the museum in East Lansing each year."

President Hannah said:

"Michigan State College accepts, with a sense of gratitude and responsibility, the generous gift of the collections in the Henry Chamberlain Museum of Three Oaks tendered by the Edward K. Warren Foundation.

"Everyone at Michigan State who is familiar with the conditions of this gift understand that in the final analysis, the gift is to the people of Michigan, and that Michigan State College is in the role of custodian of a valuable heritage."

Packaging and transferring of the collections will begin in April under the direction of Joseph W. Stack, director of the MSC Museum. These exhibits are not expected to be on display at MSC for at least a year, Stack said.

THE AFFAIRS OF STATE

Student Affairs

With the big Homecoming weekend over, students settled back to prepare for the term papers, final exams and hard work usually encountered at term's end.

Beyond the traditional "cram," however, they were looking to the year's big social event—the J-Hop, set for Feb. 8-9 in the college auditorium. Ray Anthony's orchestra has been signed for the event which is under the chairmanship of Jeanne Burlingame, Willmette, Ill., and Duane Vernon, Ithaca.

Students are also at work altering a tradition. Delta Sigma Pi, professional business fraternity, has initiated the idea of changing "Hell Week" to "Help Week." Following a trend adopted unanimously by fraternities at the University of Indiana, the MSC fraternity has promised its pledges to worthy organizations in the Lansing area.

"By carrying bricks to classes or fishing from city bridges, a pledge neither betters himself or his fraternity-to-be," said George Dellis, Manistee senior, chapter headmaster. "What's needed is a program which will be encouraged, not scoffed at by faculty members, independents and townspeople."

Another social fraternity dropped the "social" side for the fall term at least. Phi Delta Theta was placed on social probation for unauthorized parties held during the summer by alumni.

Enrollment Drops

Michigan State's heavy post-war enrollment took another leveling-off drop this fall when a total of 13,594 students signed up for classes.

This figure is 9.4 per cent below the 14,993 recorded last fall, and is substantially lower than the all-time record enrollment of 16,234 reached in the fall term of 1948. It is believed, however, that MSC will hold its rank as the tenth largest college in the U. S. in terms of full-time enrollment.

According to estimates for nationwide college enrollment, however, Michigan State is more than holding its own among the educational giants of the U. S. It has been predicted that the total number of students enrolled in U. S. colleges will be down 12 per cent from the 1950 figure.

The 13,594 figure includes 2,066 veterans, compared with 4,056 last year, and men students outnumber the women by 9,356 to 4,238. In 1950, there were 10,745 men and 4,248 women students.

MET STARS: Two of the Metropolitan Opera Company's brightest stars, Brian Sullivan, tenor, and Patrice Munsel, soprano, led off MSC's lecture concert series in October.

According to Registrar Robert S. Linton, the nationwide decrease in enrollment is brought on largely by the low birth rate of the 1930s and the graduation of large veteran-heavy classes in 1950 and 1951.

He added, however, that the final 1951 enrollment figure is 1,000 more than originally predicted. This is due to a number of factors, chief ones being the stabilization of the international situation, the new draft deferment program, and the fact that Michigan State can defer a large number of students in its Reserve Officers Training Corps program.

"Coed Cop" Graduates

A Spartan coed has been expecting the police to look for her since she graduated at the end of the summer term—at least she hopes they will.

Daisy Kim, Honolulu, Hawaii, became the first woman graduate of Michigan State's Department of Police Administration. Miss Kim graduated in the year-old curriculum in crime prevention. She is one of the first women in the nation to graduate from a college police administration course.

The 22-year-old Hawaiian student combined work in psychology, sociology, social service and police administration to prepare for her career. She also spent six months in field service training with various Michigan police agencies.

Create Extension Centers

Another major step in extending educational services throughout Michigan was taken by Michigan State College this fall when extension centers were established in three cities.

These centers are in operation now in Flint, Grand Rapids and Midland. The trio of centers are the first established by the college to offer courses for credit toward undergraduate and graduate degrees from MSC.

All courses will be taught by MSC resident faculty members. Most classes will be held in the evening or at other hours convenient for working people, according to Edgar L. Harden, director of the Continuing Education Service.

These centers also will serve as headquarters for the numerous in-service and avocational courses which Michigan State has been offering in the past.

Directing the extension centers will be Dr. Harold Dillon, head of the Department of Educational and Community Services in the Continuing Education Service.

Dillon said that additional centers may be added in other Michigan cities if there is sufficient need and demand from these communities. Cities with sufficient concentration of population and adequate library and classroom facilities are eligible to be considered as sites for extension centers, he added.

Wins DuBord Award

Ruth Alice Olson, Wayne, Mich., freshman, is the 1951-52 winner of the Emma DuBord scholarship, sponsored by the Wayne county home demonstration group in honor of Miss DuBord, '24, who has been home demonstration agent in Wayne county for more than 20 years.

The scholarship fund is provided to further the training of women for careers in home economics. Barbara Arnold was similarly honored with a scholarship to Michigan State in 1950.

As agent in the most heavily populated county in Michigan, Miss DuBord has guided the building of the extension program in Wayne county from 13 groups with 250 members in 1928 to 70 groups and more than 1,000 members in 1951.

A sterling plate presented to Miss DuBord by the extension executive board reads: "Emma DuBord Scholarship, 1948—In love and grateful appreciation for 20 years of outstanding leadership, from the extension women of Wayne county."

THE AFFAIRS OF STATE

Faculty Affairs

Dr. Milton M. Muelder has been named by Governor G. Mennen Williams to the Michigan Civil Service Commission. Dr. Muelder, who is head of MSC's Department of Political Science and Public Administration and the Office of Research Development, was appointed to the commission for an eight-year term.

A faculty member since 1935, Dr. Muelder served under Gen. Dwight Eisenhower at Supreme Allied Headquarters in World War II where he became chief of the U. S. military control branch in Germany in 1946. Two years later he served as director of the Education and Cultural Relations Division, Office of U. S. Military Government in Germany.

Muelder

New president of the American Dietetics Association is Dr. Margaret Ohlson, head of MSC's Department of Foods and Nutrition. She was elected to the post at the association's meeting held in October.

The Vaughan Award in Floriculture was awarded to Dr. Sam Asen, of the MSC horticulture department, at a recent meeting of the American Society for Horticultural Science held in Minneapolis, Minn. Dr. Asen and Dr. O. W. Davidson of Rutgers University received the award for their paper entitled "The Boron Distribution on Greenhouse Rose Plants."

Milton Baron, of the Department of Landscape Architecture and Urban Planning, was elected Michigan chapter president of the American Society of Landscape Architects at a chapter meeting held this summer in Ann Arbor.

Dr. Walter Adams, associate professor of economics at MSC, spent this summer in Washington where he served as economic consultant to the small business committee of the U. S. Senate.

"Randolph of Roanoke," is the title of a new book by Russell Kirk, of MSC's Department of History of Civilization. The book, published in September by the University of Chicago Press, is the story of John Randolph, wealthy land owner and colonial congressman.

J. Donald Phillips and Laurence J. Taylor, of MSC's Continuing Education Service, left the college to head up the program of human relations at Hillsdale College. Phillips, former head of MSC's adult education department, was named vice-president of Hillsdale College and director of the human relations program. Taylor will serve as an executive assistant to Phillips.

New Research Launched

Michigan State College scientists are launching new programs of research in old and new areas on the basis of more than $88,489.70 received from companies and agencies all over the U. S. this fall.

Largest single grant was $13,800 from the Social Science Research Council, Washington, D.C., for an extensive three-year research project on narrow mindedness and political and religious dogmatism in the U. S. and possibly Europe. The project will be directed by Dr. Milton Rokeach, associate professor of psychology.

As a basic part of his work, Dr. Rokeach will seek to develop scientific methods and instruments which can be used to measure accurately these attitudes and thought processes.

Dr. Rokeach said that the instruments could be used in selecting people for highly-trained intellectual work where the need for non-prejudiced thinking is of vital importance. Such instruments could be used to screen persons with such strong political, religious or other ideological beliefs, either pro or con, that they would be incapable of making rational decisions.

Other grants came to MSC for research on the artificial production of ergot; the modification of hormonal actions by vitamins and hormones; the nutritive value of milk by-products in swine feeding; and public health hazards of plastic and china dishes.

"Alumni News" Expands

"Alumni News," MSC's 15-minute radio show for alumni, burned one candle on its birthday last month. During its first year, stations carrying this program increased from one to 17, according to John McGoff, '50, the show's writer and producer.

First aired by the college station, WKAR, in October, 1950, the program log now boasts a network which includes WABJ, Adrian; WLEW, Bad Axe; WHFB, Benton Harbor; WTVB, Coldwater; WKMh, Dearborn; WMIQ, Iron Mountain; WJMS, Ironwood; WJPD, Ishpeming; WMTE, Manistee; WMLN-FM, Mt. Clemens; WCEN, Mt. Pleasant; WATZ, Alpena; WATT, Cadillac; WATC, Gaylord; WMBM, Petoskey; and WTCM, Traverse City.

The new series marks the second time MSC's alumni relations office has sponsored radio shows to alumni. In the late '40s, the alumni office had a series under the direction of the late Glen O. Stewart.

Variety keynotes the new program which has had 75 different guest speakers and interviewees. Programs feature prominent alumni, interviews with alums and former students now in the armed forces, campus events such as Alumni Day and Commencement activities, and recitals by leading campus musical organizations.

"Mikes" have been taken into campus buildings now under construction to give listeners up-to-the-minute accounts of building progress at MSC.

McGoff, who is also assistant director of alumni relations, pointed out that news items for the program are always welcome and that alumni may address them to him care of the MSC alumni office in the Union building.

On The Cover . . .

Is a picture of natural beauty and serenity as summer turns into autumn in the Beaumont Oval at MSC. This is a familiar scene to Spartan alumni who have for years made the Union their center of activities on return visits. The changing colors of hundreds of trees in the oval present a finished canvas of art beyond the talents of the greatest of men. William Watson, Sixteenth century English poet, said it well: "O be less beautiful or be less brief!" The photograph, third in a series of covers portraying the beautiful MSC campus, is by John C. Randall, '52.

Calling All History Grads

Calling all former Spartan history department majors!

Dr. Walter R. Fee, head of the Department of History, has issued a call for all former history majors to report their whereabouts and other information.

Purpose of the request is to maintain better communication between former history graduates and the department, Dr. Fee said. Plans are in the offing for the department to issue a general newsletter concerning Spartan alums of the department.

Dr. Fee requests that alumni of his department drop him a line giving present addresses, occupations and other items of general interest.

MSC Scientists Develop New Diet Using Fat, Hunger Pangs Eliminated

By JOHN FITZGERALD, '47

A new weight-control program, developed in Michigan State's foods and nutrition department, is proving that weight reduction diets need not result in hunger pangs or disturbances to the dieter's system.

Results of the research were announced during October before the American Dietetics association, meeting in Cleveland. The study began in 1949, under the direction of Dr. Margaret Ohlson, department head, assisted by Dr. Wilma D. Brewer and Dr. Dena C. Cederquist.

More Fat Included

The diet avoids many of the disadvantages of common weight reduction routines. Larger breakfasts, as well as more fat in each meal, are features. Weight loss is gradual—averaging nearly two pounds a week. The dieter maintains a high degree of work capacity while on the diet.

Dr. Ohlson

The diet can be prepared from foods included in everyday family meals or foods available in restaurants. A typical breakfast is made up of citrus juice, two eggs, toast and butter and milk. This substantial breakfast each day helps to fortify the body and prevent hunger.

Lunch and dinner include adequate servings of a protein food which may be meat, fish, cheese or poultry or a combination of these foods. Dairy foods and a wide choice of vegetables help to vary the meals.

Physician Should Direct

"This diet—like any reducing diet—should be administered under the direction of a physician," Dr. Ohlson points out. "Michigan State College recommends that no one attempt to lose weight through diet without consulting a physician."

MSC coeds, referred to the foods and nutrition department by the college health service, ate at a diet table in the School of Home Economics. Others were permitted to go "on their own" in their homes. By weighing portions early in the diet program, individuals soon became able to determine amounts that would allow weight losses. The diet is based on an average food intake of from 1,400 to 1,600 calories a day. One participant, a housewife referred to Dr. Ohlson by her physician, lost 70 pounds in about 10 months.

Because the diet should be undertaken only with a physician's counsel, Michigan State College does not plan distribution of diet details to the general public.

Alumni Play Important Roles In Korean Action

A history-making experience on Heartbreak Ridge and a Bronze Star for meritorious service have come to two Spartan alumni fighting with United States forces in Korea.

Pfc. Bruce H. Warner, w'53, U. S. Marine Corps, tells of his experience in the first tactical helicopter landing in history. Bruce and his marine buddies were landed on Heartbreak Ridge by helicopter, remained there three days and then were evacuated by helicopter.

Capt. Fred B. Schoomaker, '43, has won the Bronze Star for meritorious service with the 96th field artillery battalion of the Tenth Corps in Korea. A native of Three Rivers and Lawton, Okla., Capt. Schoomaker is liaison officer for the 96th. He has fought in Korea since August, 1950, on both sides of the 38th parallel.

MSC "Record Girl"

SPARTAN FAVORITES: Betty Donahue, Saginaw senior, is one of MSC's best-known campus beauties. Here, she models a collection of the new Spartan record albums expected to become favorites of Michigan State alumni the world over. The new eight-song album includes old favorites such as "The Fight Song," "MSC Shadows" and a new march, all done by the college's musical organizations and recorded under an RCA label. The albums may be ordered from the MSC Book Store in the Union.

MSC Scientists Probe Effects of Radioactivity

Three years of research by Michigan State College physiologists have shown that bodily damage from radioactive materials is apt to be less severe in certain abnormal animals than in those which are normal.

These results have been obtained in a three-year study, financed by grants from the Atomic Energy Commission, under the direction of Dr. L. F. Wolterink, professor of physiology and pharmacology at MSC.

MSC Is One of Six Labs

Dr. Wolterink said the primary purpose of the study, for which the AEC gave $11,000 for the final year's work, is to determine the length of time that radioactive calcium taken internally remains in the bones. The longer radioactive material remains in the bones, the more damage is done.

Dr. Wolterink's research shows that radioactive material remained in the bone for a lesser period of time in rats which had rickets, high thyroidism or low thyroidism, than it did in normal rats.

Michigan State is one of six laboratories in the nation concerned with the problem of bodily damage from radioactive calcium. Other scientists around the country are examining the effects of such radioactive elements as iron, cobalt and potassium.

The importance of all this radioactive isotope research is a result of atomic bomb experiments. Here scientists learned that effects of external atomic radiation may be small compared to the effects of taking radioactive materials internally through food or water, according to Dr. Wolterink.

AVMA Establishes Medal Honoring Late Dean Bryan

The late Dr. Claude S. Bryan, former dean of the School of Veterinary Medicine, has been honored by the American Board of Veterinary Public Health for his work in the promotion of veterinary public health.

The honor was bestowed in the form of a medal to be given annually to an outstanding MSC veterinary medical student.

Resolution to award the medal was voted at the annual convention of the AVMA held during the summer in Milwaukee, Wis. The American Board of Veterinary Public Health is a branch of the AVMA. Dean Bryan died July 30, 1951.

Turner Honored for Long Career in 4-H Club Work

OUTSTANDING 4-H LEADER RETIRES: Ray A. Turner, '09, left, one of Michigan State's most loyal and energetic alumni, has retired after a distinguished career with the 4-H Club program of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Above, A. G. Kettunen, '17, Michigan's state 4-H Club leader, hands over two of the many gifts presented to Turner on his official retirement at the National 4-H Club Congress in October. Turner served from 1915 to 1924 with the Michigan 4-H Club program and added 27 more years in helping direct the national program from Washington, D. C. (See also club notes page 11.)

Facilities of MSC Placement Bureau Are Available to MSC Graduates

An important phase of the work of the Michigan State College Placement Bureau is helping alumni advance professionally, according to John Schlueter, '42, bureau director.

The young bureau, begun in 1943 under the direction of Dean of Students Tom King, received more than 4,500 requests in 1950 for alumni in all vocations with varying degrees of experience.

Being a young organization, the placement Bureau has not maintained records of all former graduates. It is not able, therefore, to recommend qualified persons for many of the positions. Most requests call for people with more than three years' experience.

Service Free to Alumni

Placement service is free to alumni of Michigan State College who are dissatisfied with present positions, wish to change their areas of employment, want to improve professionally or have other such reasons. At the present time, job possibilities are particularly excellent for technical graduates with from four to 10 years' experience.

Schlueter cautioned that the bureau is interested mainly in helping alumni who actually are in need of assistance and are well-qualified for the various positions. Though Schlueter would like to have alumni register with the bureau, he asks that alumni not register purely out of curiosity.

He asked that alumni write, stating their qualifications, to the MSC Placement Bureau, 101 Morrill Hall, MSC.

Death Takes W. K. Kellogg, Long-Time Friend of MSC

W. K. Kellogg, 91, who gained as much national favor with his countless philanthropies as with his breakfast foods, died Oct. 6 in Battle Creek, Mich.

Michigan State College has been the recipient of several large grants from the Kellogg Foundation which he established in 1930 as an instrument for giving away most of his $50,000,000 fortune. The funds were to be spent "on behalf of the health, the happiness and the well-being of the people of Michigan and all mankind."

The Kellogg Foundation gave MSC $1,400,000 with which to construct the recently completed Kellogg Center for Continuing Education on the campus. Other major gifts to the college included the Kellogg Bird Sanctuary, the 700-acre Hickory Corners experiment farm and a large forest near Gull Lake.

Here's How Michigan State Defeated Ohio State, Marquette

Michigan State's "Come from Behind" Team Runs Football Win String to 12

High pre-season rankings were causing Michigan State's football team no end of trouble as they faced each Saturday against opponents bent on knocking the Green and White off its lofty pedestal.

"Go the limit" became the standing order, and "coming from behind" the pattern as Spartan gridders continued to range between first and third in national standings.

Beavers Make Opener Tough

Oregon State gave "Biggie" Munn's charges a taste of what was to come in a rugged opener which saw the Spartans held to a hard won 6-0 score. Halfback Don McAuliffe scored the touchdown in the second quarter.

A week later, showing a polish not seen in their first game, the Spartans downed the University of Michigan 25-0, the worst defeat a Michigan team has suffered in six years. After a tough first half which saw MSC leading 6-0, the Spartans overpowered the Wolverines with a ground and aerial attack which rolled up three more tallies.

Stage "Hollywood" Finish

On Oct. 6, Ohio State was behind 6-0, but MSC suddenly saw the tables turned and a strong, versatile Buckeye team held the long end of a 20 to 10 score with only 10 minutes left to play. Then somebody pulled the stops. The Spartans roared back with one touchdown, then got the "break" they needed. Recovering a fumble on the Ohio State 45, they drove over the winning TD with two minutes, 34 seconds left in the game.

The winning touchdown came on a 28-yard pass from sophomore Tom Yewcic to quarterback Al Dorow. It was the first pass Yewcic had ever thrown in college football, and he had not previously rehearsed his part in the play. Final score: MSC 24, Ohio State 20.

Marquette Another Comeback

The Spartans ran into another upset-hungry eleven in Marquette, and again had to come from behind in the final quarter to whip the inspired Hilltoppers 20-14. For the second week in a row, a Spartan "pony backfield" of speedy newcomers broke the game wide open. Wingback Bill Wells, Menominee sophomore, galloped 69 yards in the second quarter, then caught a 46-yard pass for a second touchdown. This set the stage for Leroy Bolden's 13-yard end sweep for the third and winning tally.

Pitt, Penn State Are Beaten

At State College, Pa., the Spartans again staged a comeback against the fired-up Nittany Lions of Penn State. Behind, 13-7 at halftime, the Lions roared back early in the third quarter to go ahead 14 to 13. Then it was the Spartans' turn. Jim Ellis returned a Penn State punt 57 yards for a touchdown, to set the stage for another in the third and one in the fourth quarter. Final score was Spartans, 32—Lions 21.

MSC's Homecoming victory over an "also tough" Pitt team, 53-26, brought little rest as the Spartans got ready for the big one with Notre Dame.

Regardless of the outcomes of subsequent games, MSC was living up to early predictions and could well be heading for its best season in the college's history.

Eight MSC Swimmers Win All-American Honors

Eight Michigan State swimmers have earned places on the 1951 All-American swim team selected by the College Swimming Coaches Association. Spartan tankers were named in 11 individual and two relay events.

Coach Newell Prepares Basketball Squad for Tough 22-Game Schedule

By BUD ERICKSON, '48

Basketball moves into the sports spotlight at Michigan State on Dec. 1 when "Pete" Newell's youthful Spartans open their home season against Wayne.

Newell has been working with a squad of 22 players since the second week in October—a squad which includes six seniors, five juniors and 11 sophomores. One key performer, center Bob Carey, rejoins the team after football season, but probably won't be set for full-time action for several weeks.

Six Lettermen Return

Going into his second year of Big Ten competition, Newell has six returning lettermen around which to build his team. They include forwards Leif Carlson, East Lansing senior; Bill Bower, Ft.

Newell

Wayne, Ind., senior; Erik Furseth, Cleveland, O., junior; Bill Eckstrom, Grant senior; and guards Gordon Stauffer, Ft. Wayne, Ind., senior; and "Sonny" Means, Saginaw senior. The lone sophomore rated a chance for a starting berth is 6' 6" center Hugh McMaster, Hazel Park.

Early season observations indicate a slightly better balanced team than last season's which won 10 and lost 11.

Hopes Rest on Sophomores

Hopes of the Spartans improving on their seventh place finish in Western Conference standings last year rest squarely on the shoulders of a group of up-and-coming sophomores. Besides McMaster, they include forwards Keith Stackhouse, Bourbon, Ind.; Paul Hinkin, Saginaw; center Deneal Hartman, Ft. Wayne, Ind.; and guards Jim Schlatter, Ft. Wayne, Ind.; Rickie Ayala, Brooklyn, N.Y.; and Dick Wesling, Milwaukee, Wis.

Roberts Wins 21 in '51

Robin Roberts, '49, former Spartan baseball and basketball star, proved for the second straight year his mettle as one of baseball's top pitchers.

Roberts, this year won 21 games and lost 15 for the fifth place Philadelphia Phillies, placing fourth in the National League strikeout department with 130. Last year "Robbie" won 20 and lost 11 as the Phillies won their first pennant since 1915.
