MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY

COMMENCEMENT 1966

ACADEMIC COSTUME

The pageantry and color at commencement exercises reveal a record of academic achievement of the various individuals taking part in the exercises. The following brief description is given that the audience might more readily interpret such achievement.

In 1895, the Intercollegiate Commission, a group of leading American educators, met at Columbia University to draft a code which would serve to regulate the design of gowns and hoods indicating the various degrees as well as the colors to indicate the various faculties. This code has been adopted by most of the colleges and universities in America and its use has made identification of scholastic honors an immediate activity.

Three types of gowns are indicated by the code. Those worn by the bachelors are made of black worsted material and have long, pointed sleeves. Those worn by masters may be made either of black silk or black wool and have long, closed sleeves with the arc of a circle near the bottom. The arm goes through a slit, giving the appearance of short sleeves for the master's gown. Doctor's gowns are made of black silk and are faced with velvet. The sleeves are full, round and open with three bars of velvet on each sleeve. The velvet facing of bars on the sleeves may be black or the same color as the binding of the hood.

Hoods are made of material identical with the gown and are lined in the official academic color of the institution conferring the degree. If the institution has more than one color, the chevron is used to introduce the second color. Colored velvet or velveteen binds the hoods and indicates the department or faculty to which the degree pertains.

Historical associations of color have been continued to signify the various faculties. Art and letters can be recognized by the white, taken from the traditional white fur trimming of the Oxford and Cambridge Bachelor of Arts hoods. Red, long traditional of the church, indicates theology. The royal purple of the King's court signifies law. The green of medicinal herbs immediately identifies a medical degree. Philosophy is signified by the color of wisdom and truth, blue. Because through research untold wealth has been released to the world, science is identified by golden yellow. Oxford pink indicates music and russet brown, the color of dress worn by ancient English foresters, indicates forestry.

The color of the velvet of the hood is distinctive of the subject to which the degree pertains. For example, the trimming for the degree of Master of Science in Agriculture should be maize, representing agriculture, rather than golden yellow, representing science.

At Michigan State University, it is customary to identify the bachelors graduating from the different departments of study by tassels of the official department color as established by the Intercollegiate Code.

Michigan State University, one of the leading land-grant universities and the first agricultural college in America, strives for excellence in affording liberal and practical education for its students in a broad range of human endeavors.

MSU also serves people of the state, nation and world through its numerous research, extension and international programs.

Now in its 112th year, Michigan State has grown from three buildings and six faculty members to one of the ten largest universities in the nation. It has approximately 2,500 staff members engaged in teaching, research and public service, 409 buildings, and 4,900 acres of land, including 1,515 acres in the campus and housing area and 490 more in planned development.

Founded in 1855 to educate youth for the major occupation of that day — farming — MSU has broadened its offerings to meet the educational needs of young people today. Michigan State now has the School for Advanced Graduate Studies and 13 colleges — Agriculture, Arts and Letters, Business, Communication Arts, Education, Engineering, Home Economics, Human Medicine, Justin S. Morrill, Natural Science, Social Science, Veterinary Medicine and the University College — which offer basic courses for all freshmen and sophomores. Nearly 200 areas of specialization are available to undergraduates; approximately 300 are offered for graduate students.

The Honors College, which enables superior students to waive normal graduation requirements and undertake individual programs, attracts many of the nation's finest young scholars. The Merit Scholarship Program, of which Michigan State University is a prominent sponsor, enrolled 212 Merit Scholars in this year's freshman class. This figure represents more than ten percent of the nation's total of this unusually select group.

One of the newest of many innovations in higher education made by Michigan State University is its coeducational-academic residence halls. Incorporation of classrooms and faculty offices with living, dining and recreational facilities has given these giant new dormitories a stimulating academic environment. Seven of these residence halls are now occupied and two more are under construction. Each of these halls will be the center of curricular and noncurricular activities for a college, creating a "college within a college" atmosphere.

The concept of "the small college within the larger university" was realized recently by the establishment of the Justin S. Morrill College, which offers a limited enrollment liberal education program with an international emphasis. The college does not have departments as such, and attention is centered on quality teaching within small groups. In addition to an intensive program in foreign languages, the college requires sequences of study in the humanities, social science, natural science, a field of concentration, senior independent study, and electives.

Today, more than 35,000 students attend the University at East Lansing. About 80 percent are from Michigan, representing every section of the state. Students also come from every state in the nation and 80 foreign countries.

Looking to the future, Michigan State University is preparing for increasingly larger enrollments as the great number of children born after World War II reach college age. To meet this challenge MSU is revising curriculums and developing new teaching techniques through its Educational Development Project.

In the land-grant tradition it pioneered, Michigan State University is concerned with research and service as well as teaching.

All colleges and the Agricultural Experiment Station are engaged in a wide range of research. Some 1,700 individual projects are in progress. The University's research tools include the giant Control Data 3600 Computer and a 50-million-volt cyclotron. Facilities completed recently include a $6 million chemistry building, a $5.2 million biochemistry laboratory, an $862,000 psychology research building and a $4.7 million veterinary medicine building.

Through an agreement with the Atomic Energy Commission, MSU will become a national center for basic research on plants and their reactions to radiation. Involved is construction of a $2 million building, a staff of about 90 persons and an annual budget of about $1 million when the program is fully underway.

Benefits of the University are brought to every county in Michigan by the Cooperative Extension Service and the Continuing Education Service. Their programs, on and off campus, provide a wide range of technical information and formal course work for hundreds of thousands of Michigan citizens. The Kellogg Center for Continuing Education, one of the finest conference centers in the nation, annually hosts nearly 50,000 adults who come to the campus for some 600 conferences and other educational meetings.

Michigan State University's land-grant concept of service is international. Supported by grants from the federal government and private foundations, Michigan State University maintains research and technical assistance projects at 21 educational institutions in Asia, Africa and Latin America. International projects have given many faculty members overseas experience, adding a new dimension to their teaching.

With more than a century of educational achievement behind it, Michigan State University continues to apply its academic and physical resources to the problems of today and the challenge of the future.

You have steadfastly held a deep loyalty to the principle of human rights. In your dedication to that principle you have defined the struggle of humanity with breadth and clarity. In pursuing its ideals you have kept faith with the finest qualities of statesmanship. Your contributions to America have been so deeply meaningful that only the broadest generalization can encompass them. For your continuing dedication to the expanding significance of the Vice Presidency in all areas of government, and for the spirit of hope and determination which have marked your championship of human rights, Michigan State University confers upon you the degree of Doctor of Laws.

MARK V. BURLINGAME

Since your graduation from Michigan State University four decades ago, you have fashioned a distinguished career as a scientist, engineer and executive to attain your present position of leadership in the natural gas industry. Your vision, energy and willingness to accept ever-widening responsibility have enabled you to make a lasting contribution not only to your company and your profession, but also to the economic welfare of your country. For these reasons and for the gift of your time and wisdom as Trustee and Chairman of the Michigan State University Development Fund, you have already been honored by the Distinguished Alumni Award. Today, in recognition of your continuing professional achievements and your responsible leadership in civic affairs, Michigan State University confers upon you the degree of Doctor of Science.

ALDEN B. DOW

As one of America's most distinguished architects you have displayed not only the fine integrity of the genuine artist, but also the energy of a man dedicated to purposeful action. Your creativeness and your sensitive response to man and his environment have enabled you to combine beauty and utility in architectural design. You have brought to your work an uncompromising sense of truth and inner harmony which are also the mark of your own artistic mind. The importance of your achievements has been recognized in your profession through the many awards bestowed upon you both in this country and in Europe. Because of the contributions which you have made in enriching the lives of your fellow men, and because of the honor which your unusual career has brought to your native Michigan and the nation, Michigan State University confers upon you the degree of Doctor of Laws.

HONORARY DEGREES

ENI NJOKU

As a recognized leader in West African higher education, you have displayed great energy and idealism, as well as a venturesome spirit in bringing new ideas to the solution of difficult problems. Your devotion to scientific research has enabled you to make notable discoveries in the field of botany. Some of these labors, especially those dealing with tropical plant growth, have contributed importantly to the welfare of your fellow Nigerians. Despite the many demands of your scholarly life, you have found time to serve with distinction in the Parliament of Nigeria. You have consistently demonstrated your deep concern for liberty and human dignity. You have achieved a notable record as a professor and administrator at the Universities of Ibadan and Lagos, and Michigan State University is looking forward to the opportunity to work in cooperation with you as you assume your new responsibility as the principal executive officer and Vice Chancellor of the University of Nigeria. Because of your distinguished career and the honor which you have brought to yourself and to your country, Michigan State University confers upon you the degree of Doctor of Laws.

GLENN T. SEABORG

Your achievements as a scientist, educator, and humane scholar are among the most notable in this nation's recent history. Your energy and intelligence have enabled you to make extraordinary contributions to scientific knowledge and have brought you deserved acclaim from professional societies both at home and abroad. These honors are fittingly symbolized by the Nobel Prize in Chemistry, which you received in 1951. In this decade you have continued to acquit yourself as an exceptional American, especially through your distinguished leadership as Chairman of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission, where you have been entrusted with heavy responsibility in one of the most sensitive areas of our national life. Because of your intellectual integrity, your vision and skill in the exercise of authority, and your successful advancement of human knowledge, Michigan State University confers upon you the degree of Doctor of Laws.

DISTINGUISHED ALUMNI AWARDS

Nominations for the award are submitted by the Alumni Advisory Council and local alumni clubs representing alumni throughout the United States. The awards committee of the Alumni Advisory Council recommends no more than five alumni to the Board of Trustees of the University for final action. The awards are presented each spring at Commencement. The chairman of the Alumni Advisory Council is John T. Hayes, Class of 1949.

Recipients of the awards for 1966 are:

DR. CHRISTIAN ELNATHAN W. BAKER

D.V.M. Class of 1955. College president and Veterinarian. At present, Dr. Baker is serving as president of Cuttington College and Divinity School in Liberia. After formal education in his own country, Dr. Baker came to the U.S. and studied agricultural education at South Carolina State College. His B.S. degree was awarded in 1951 and he came to MSU the same year. Upon completion of his D.V.M. studies, he joined the Chas. Pfizer & Company, Inc. in Terre Haute, Indiana, as a research veterinarian. In 1957 he returned to his home in Monrovia, Liberia, where he was named Director of Agricultural Research and Director of Veterinarian Services in the Department of Agriculture. He also served as Director of Agricultural Extension Services. Under his leadership, many notable advances were made in these programs. In 1961 he became president of Cuttington and has influenced that institution to a position of envy among other colleges of West Africa. The student body has doubled, the teaching force has grown from 20 to 42, the operations budget has tripled and the capital expenditure has increased fourfold. Cuttington graduates hold positions of authority throughout the world, but Dr. Baker's greatest pride is in those who return to their native villages to help the people toward a better life. As a result of his work, he has been honored many times and is eagerly sought internationally as a speaker on higher education and veterinary medicine.

ALVIN LEWIS BURRIDGE, JR.

Class of 1942. Businessman. As general manager in Tokyo for Winthrop Laboratories, an affiliate of the Sterling Drug Company, Mr. Burridge is in charge of all operations in the Pacific and North Asia for Sterling Drug. In 1964 he was named president of the American Chamber of Commerce in Japan and currently holds offices in a number of organizations who are interested in better Japanese-American relations. Mr. Burridge has been in business in the Far East for many years. After serving as a Marine Corps pilot in the Pacific during World War II, he stayed, joined the "Flying Tigers," which had been converted to a civil transport airline serving China. He was both pilot and executive under the famed Gen. Clare Chennault, and became special assistant to the president in 1953. In 1956 he joined Sterling Drug and worked in Manila four years before being transferred to Japan to establish a new headquarters.

DISTINGUISHED ALUMNI AWARDS

JOHN JOSEPH KORNEY

Mr. Korney, who holds an LLB from the University of Detroit Law School, has spent his life in the financial world of banking. His first job after graduation from Michigan State was with the Bankers Trust Company in Detroit where he became a vice-president and trust officer. He served the Bankers Equitable Trust Company in Detroit before he joined the Bank of the Commonwealth in 1951. Since 1965, he has served this bank as a vice-president. He is a member of numerous financial, civic and local governmental organizations and has been recognized with awards for many of these efforts. He is the author of the book, Suggested Aids for Drawing Wills and Trusts. He is presently a member of the MSU Development Fund Board of Trustees.

Upon graduation from MSU in 1950, Mr. McCurry joined the Dodge Division as a district sales manager. In his rapid rise to the top he has held positions as assistant general sales manager of the Dodge Division, director of the Dealer Enterprise department, Plymouth general sales manager, Dodge general sales manager, assistant division general manager of Dodge and director of marketing services for the automotive sales group. He was named group executive and general manager of marine and industrial products in 1965.

WILLIAM A. McDONALD
