MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY

Michigan State University, one of the leading land-grant universities and the first agricultural college in America, strives for excellence in affording liberal and practical education for its students in a broad range of human endeavors.

MSU also serves people of the state, nation and world through its numerous research, extension and international programs.

Now in its 116th year, Michigan State has grown from three buildings and six faculty members to one of the ten largest universities in the nation. It has approximately 3,000 staff members engaged in teaching, research and public service, 439 buildings, and approximately 5,000 acres of land of which 2,010 acres are in existing or planned campus development.

Founded in 1855 to educate youth for the major occupation of that day — farming — MSU has broadened its offerings to meet the educational needs of today. Michigan State now has the School for Advanced Graduate Studies and 15 colleges — Agriculture and Natural Resources, Arts and Letters, Business, Communication Arts, Education, Engineering, Home Economics, Human Medicine, James Madison, Justin S. Morrill, Lyman J. Briggs, Natural Science, Social Science, Veterinary Medicine and the University College. Nearly 200 areas of specialization are available to undergraduates; approximately 300 are offered for graduate students.

The Honors College, which enables superior students to waive normal graduation requirements and undertake individual programs, attracts many of the nation's finest young scholars. The Merit Scholarship Program, of which Michigan State University is a prominent sponsor, enrolled 200 Merit Scholars in this year's freshman class. This figure represents approximately seven percent of the nation's total of this unusually select group.

One of the newest of many innovations in higher education made by Michigan State University is its coeducational academic-residence halls. Incorporation of classrooms and faculty offices with living, dining and recreational facilities has given these giant dormitories, now nine in number, a stimulating academic environment. Each of these halls is the center of curricular and noncurricular activities, creating a "college within a college" atmosphere.

The "small college within the larger university" concept was introduced recently at MSU by the establishment of the Justin S. Morrill College, which offers a limited enrollment liberal education program with an international emphasis. The concept was expanded by the establishment and opening of the James Madison College and the Lyman J. Briggs College. James Madison offers a curriculum for the study of public policy problems within the framework of the social sciences and related disciplines. Lyman Briggs makes available a liberal curriculum for students especially interested in science and mathematics.

Today, nearly 41,000 students attend the University at East Lansing. About 80 percent are from Michigan, representing every section of the state. Students also come from every state in the nation and 85 foreign countries.

In the land-grant tradition it pioneered, Michigan State University is concerned with research and service as well as teaching.

All colleges and the Agricultural Experiment Station are engaged in a wide range of research. Approximately 2,000 individual projects are in progress. The University's research tools include the Control Data 3600 and 6500 Computers and a 50-million-volt cyclotron. Modern facilities include the following new buildings: chemistry, biochemistry, psychology research, veterinary medicine, plant science research, and natural resources.

Through an agreement with the Atomic Energy Commission, MSU has become a national center for basic research on plants and their reactions to radiation; involved is construction of a $2 million building, a staff of approximately 90 persons and an annual budget of approximately $1 million.

Benefits of the University are brought to every county in Michigan by the Cooperative Extension Service and the Continuing Education Service. Their programs, on and off campus, provide a wide range of technical information and formal course work for hundreds of thousands of Michigan citizens. The Kellogg Center for Continuing Education, one of the finest conference centers in the nation, annually hosts nearly 50,000 adults who come to the campus for some 600 conferences and other educational meetings.

Michigan State University's land-grant concept of service is international. Supported by grants from the federal government and private foundations, Michigan State University maintains research and technical assistance projects in Asia, Africa and Latin America. International projects have given many faculty members overseas experience, adding a new dimension to their teaching.

With more than a century of educational achievement behind it, Michigan State University continues to apply its academic and physical resources to the problems of today and the challenges of the future.

HONORARY DEGREES

MARIAN ANDERSON

Your incomparable career as an artist is one of the most remarkable in the annals of America's cultural life. You have demonstrated the achievements which are possible for men and women of vision, courage and faith. Your fellow citizens and, indeed, people in all parts of the world have honored you in many ways for the rich singing voice which has aroused so much emotional experience in the hearts of listeners everywhere. In an era long before the current massive stirrings of your race, you took the courageous step of standing alone to protest injustice and discrimination using the only weapon at your command, your voice. You gave your race a sense of accomplishment and dignity which should never be forgotten. But beyond that, you have displayed an admirable devotion to your fellowmen of whatever race or nationality. You have, through the fulfillment of your own humanity, brought a radiant hope and a larger dream to people of all ages and in all places. Because of your unusual accomplishments and because you have shown, by the example of your own life, the great prospects of our humanity when it is nurtured by compassion, faith and an indomitable spirit, Michigan State University is pleased to grant you the Degree of Doctor of Music.

WILLIAM HABER

As a scholar, academic administrator and government official, you have given abundant evidence of your sustained faith in the best traditions of American education and the advancement of human values in the modern world. Because of your energy and integrity you have succeeded in a broad range of responsibilities: As a professor of economics at Michigan State University, professor and department chairman at the University of Michigan, and later Dean of the University's College of Literature, Science and Arts. Your governmental activities include assignments with the National Refugee Service and the War Manpower Commission. Your dedication to humanitarian service includes the presidency of an international association dealing with problems of Jewish refugees throughout the world. In all these endeavors, and in your career as a scholar and specialist, particularly in the area of social security and unemployment compensation, you have demonstrated a gifted capacity for understanding and interpreting the educational and social process. As a writer and teacher you have enlarged the lives of countless students with your friendly spirit and penetrating insights into thought and experience. Because of your intellectual integrity, your strong sense of social responsibility, and the valuable contributions which you have made to higher education in Michigan and the nation, Michigan State University confers upon you the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters.

HONORARY DEGREES

HAROLD M. MCCLURE, JR.

Since your attendance at Michigan State University, your achievements as an industrialist and business executive have earned for you a distinguished reputation. As a specialist in the petroleum industry, you have contributed outstandingly to its technological progress and operational efficiency. During your tenure as president of the McClure Oil Company in Alma, Michigan, and as presiding officer in other industry-related organizations, including the Independent Petroleum Association of America, your administrative leadership has been marked by intelligence and vision. In addition to these activities, you have devoted much time and enthusiasm to civic projects and have faithfully served the cause of higher education as a trustee of Albion College and Chairman of Michigan State University's Development Board. Because of your concern for good government, you were recently named to a key responsibility by the leaders of your political party and a vice-chairman of the National Center for Voluntary Action by President Nixon. In recognition of your contributions to the economic strength of your state and county, your participation in the political process, and your commitment to the progress of your university, Michigan State University confers upon you the degree of Doctor of Laws.

ESTHER PETERSON

Through your long and faithful devotion to the welfare of the common men and women of America, you have written an exemplary chapter in the history of our social progress. That history has taken its direction from the unselfish energies and clear vision provided by you and other leaders in the labor movement. Your intellectual integrity, competence and idealism have been recognized by organized labor and by the American government, both of which have entrusted you with important responsibilities. Among your many activities, you have served as educational director of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America and as a Washington legislative representative of the AFL-CIO. Your services to the national government include your tenure as Director of the Women's Bureau in the Department of Labor, as Assistant Secretary of Labor, and Chairman of the President's Committee on Consumer Interests. All of these difficult enterprises have been performed with uncommon distinction. Because of the valuable contributions which you have made to the economic and social advancement of women in America and to the progress of the relationship between our government and our working people, Michigan State University is pleased to grant you the degree of Doctor of Laws.

DISTINGUISHED ALUMNI AWARDS

Physical Chemist
Class of 1957 (B.S.) and 1963 (Ph.D.)

During the early years of orbital space flights, a young Michigan State University alumna, Dr. Sara-Jo Bolte, was on hand to help solve some of the many problems involved. As a summer employee of the Collins Radio Corporation, she designed and constructed a spot cooling device for the National Space Agency. She later became a member of the Space Medicine Team of Martin-Marietta Co. where she studied the cumulative effects of inhaled poisons and pollutants. It was during this time that Mrs. Bolte earned the doctorate in physical chemistry at MSU. As a member of this vital space team, she designed a gas monitoring system and consulted on construction of a system for testing problems of waste disposal and atmospheric contamination. Mrs. Bolte and her husband, Robert P. (MSU '60), now reside in Holland, Mich. with their two children. She hopes to enter college teaching. As an undergraduate at MSU, Mrs. Bolte was a member of Tower Guard and Mortar Board, Phi Kappa Phi, scholastic honorary, and Tau Sigma, science honorary.
